DR. QUAIN'S

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, and the success of the Proprietors in their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and at a short time their demand came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them, some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that I Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have close no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last April I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but without high hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I was like a new man, and now I can report as self cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several sick friends, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can say they have done my readers for me. I have given away a few and those I give say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. I have tried almost everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have spent hundreds of dollars in great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally considered the rest of my life a lost one. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and procured a box of Dr. Quain's Package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will save me a lot of Mrs. Lydia Pinkham's combination of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money could buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Healer made her at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, one in Salem, and two in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.50 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Cordial he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

PULMOCINE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the War. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fall to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great reforms to be carried out, promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke sharp discussion, and enter largely into politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently expects to fill and to retain the present performance, as constituting its claim for the confidence and support of all intelligent, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan prejudice or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will not abandon the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American contest, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; to secure honest money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and in earnestly striving to hold the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In this work it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; hard

The Beautiful Ballad of Waska Wee.

BY M. M. D.

Her voice was sweet as a ban-go-lin;
Her mouth was small as head of a pin;
Her eyes ran up, her chin ran down,—
Oh, she was the belle of Yeddo town.

Now lovely Waska Singty Wee,
So good to hear, and sweet to see,
The fairest maiden in all Japan,
Fell dead in love with a Turkish man.

This Turkish man a turban had,
This Turkish man was sly and bad;
He whispered unto Miss Waska Wee:
"O fly with me to my own Turkee!

"O fly with me to my own Turkee!
And robes of gold I'll give to thee—
A girdle of pearl and love for life,
If thou will be my eightieth wife."

Now simple Waska Singty Wee,
So good to hear, so fair to see,
Resolved behind her bashful fan
To be eightieth wife to this Turkish man;

But though her heart was full of glee,
She hung her head and said to he:
"If thou shouldst die, my Turkish beau,
Where would poor Waska Singty go?"

Then this horrid, sly old Turkish man
Declared he die on the English plan.
"And so," said he, "my bright-winged bird,
Thou'lt have for thy fortune the widow's third."

Then flew the maid to the Mi-ka-do,
And told the plan of her Turkish beau
"And now," said she, "the whole shou'st hear,
How much will it be, this widow's third?"

Now the Mi-ka-do was wondrous wise,
He opened his mouth and shut his eyes:
"The widow's third, O daughter, will be Whatever the law will allow to thee."

Then flew the maid to the Court of Lords,
Where every man wore a brace of swords,
And bade them name what sum would be hers
When her Turk should go to his fore-fa-thers.

They sat in council from dawn till night,
And sat again till morning light,—
Figured and counted and weighed to see
What an eightieth widow's third would be;

And the end of it all, as you well might know,
Was nought but grief to the Turkish beau;
For lovely Waska Singty Wee
Said: "Go back alone to your old Turkee!"

An Interesting Sight.

The wonderful little spider which captured the mouse, and is elevating it in its parlor at Mr. Michael Gross' carpenter shop on Greatmeu, between Elysian Fields and Marigny streets, of which we gave an account yesterday morning, is still busily engaged in its herculean task, and filling the numerous persons who visit it with amazement. This astonishing little insect is of the black species, and very small, a fact that renders the feat which it now performs the more marvellous. The mouse was accustomed, when on a predatory excursion, to emerge from a hole under the bench where the spider dwells, and pass into the carpenter shop, where the bench stands. The enterprising spider, who had no doubt watched for a long time the movements, laid a trap for the unsuspecting young mouse, and Monday morning, when it started out on its daily rounds, the little spider, who was on the lookout, tightened the threads which she had prepared for her victim, whose hind legs had been entangled in them as it passed out of its hole, and soon secured it. Immediately after the legs had been caught, the spider fastened another thread to the mouse's tail, and after several hours' constant work succeeded in raising the prey's hind-quarters, and continued so doing until the tip of the mouse's nose only touched the floor. Having thus rendered it helpless, the little spider industriously set to work multiplying its fastenings. After a few more hours' labor, the mouse was raised one inch from the floor, the spider working as if with a pulley. In its terrible contortions to release itself, the mouse managed to sever the fastenings around its hind legs, but so strong were the threads which suspended it in the air and so securely were they attached to its tail that all efforts to break them proved fruitless. Mr. Gross, taking great interest in the proceedings, left the spider undisturbed, and during almost the whole of Monday night, with several friends, watched its working attentively. The little insect, after taking her position on her victim's tail, commenced manipulating the threads and working. Gradually could the astonished witnesses of this wonderful feat see the mouse creep up, and the threads, descending from their fastenings under the corner of the bench to the mouse's tail, increased in number, and during the twenty-four hours ending yesterday evening the threads had so increased that it became impossible to count them, and the mouse, which was still alive though quite weakened, had been raised from one to three and a half inches from the floor. The spider during the whole time of its work sat on the mouse's tail, only leaving its position at long intervals, when it would cautiously creep down the tail to its root, and there feed upon the blood of the mouse. Then resuming its position on the end of the tail, it would again begin its work. This unheard of capture of a mouse by so small an insect and its ingenious manner of elevating it has excited the wonder and admiration of thousands of visitors, among whom may be mentioned several scientific men and physicians, who assembled in large crowds at Mr. Gross' carpenter shop to witness the progress of the gigantic task which the little spider has undertaken and is so successfully bringing to an issue. Mr. Gross will leave them undisturbed and carefully watch the result, as everyone is anxious to see what the spider will do with its captive after it dies, and how far it will elevate it.—New Orleans Pic.

Our Next U. S. Senator.

On of the most important duties that is to develve upon our next legislature, is the election of an United States Senator to fill the vacancy which will be caused by the expiration of Senator Cragin's term on the 4th of March next. With a wisdom that none can now fail to appreciate, the matter of who the candidate should be was kept out of sight entirely by the republicans during the recent campaign; but now that the legislature is so soon to assemble, and as it is doubtless the honest desire of the majority upon whom devolves the duty of giving expression to the sentiment of the party, to select the man whom a majority of their constituents favor, and who, in a word, best meets the requirements for that position,—it seems fitting that the press of the State, which seldom errs in reflecting accurately public opinion, should speak out in this matter, as it has in several cases done within the last week or two, and, it would seem, with much unanimity.

We have no hesitation in expressing our preference for Hon. Edward H. Rollins, among those who can come before the Senatorial caucus with any prospect of being selected, as the man for the position. And in thus expressing our views, we believe we have the endorsement of a very large majority of the republicans of this section. Farmers' Cabinet, Amherst.

News and Notes.

"It is a case of ambition overleaping itself."—Nashua Telegraph. Clearly!

The British government has finally and decidedly declined to surrender Winslow, the Boston forger.

Captain Jones and twenty-five seamen and a pilot were drowned by the loss of the ship Victoria, from Shields for San Francisco.

Another of the democratic officials of the House has fallen. This time it was a doorkeeper who was removed on charge of drunkenness and other improper practices.

President Grant has very properly vetoed the bill reducing the salary of President from $50,000 to $25,000 after the 4th of March next. It is understood that the salary of $25,000 was fixed when the population of the United States was but 3,000,000 and the salary of Congressmen about $750. Now the population is 40,000,000 and the salary of a Congressman is $5000. Sensible Ulysses!

The regular annual destruction of the peach crop of Maryland is announced.

The Gloucester fishing schooner Kearsage, which has not been heard from since the day before the heavy gale of the 4th inst., is now given up for lost. She had a crew of eleven men, was valued at $4500, and insured for $1500.

Nine thousand natives of New Hampshire are living in Maine and eleven thousand natives of Maine live in New Hampshire.

A Great Speech.

It was two o'clock, Tuesday morning, when the business of electing delegates at large was reached. At this time Chamberlain's stock was at its lowest, and it was an open secret that he intended to leave the Convention, and, claiming that it did not represent the honest republican element in South Carolina, call an independent meeting, and send a contesting delegation to the National Convention. Elliott was the first delegate at large elected. Then United States Senator Patterson was nominated, and against him was named Gov. Chamberlain. His nomination was greeted with shouts of derisive laughter, and if the call had then been made he would not have received twenty-five votes. The scene at this point was an exceedingly interesting one. It was past three o'clock in the morning, yet the grand old Assembly Chamber, intended for the use of the Southern Confederacy, was filled to the doors with black and white spectators who had been present and attentive through the night. On the floor the delegates—they had been in session fourteen hours—were reclining upon their desks or upon the steps of the Speaker's platform, completely worn out in mind and body. As the name of D. H. Chamberlain was put in nomination, however, many of them started to their feet, and all gave the closest attention to the proceedings. Then, amid a breathless silence, Judge Carpenter, one of the most effective speakers in the country, rose and said: "Gentlemen of the Convention, I rise to oppose the nomination of Governor Chamberlain, and I am sure that I will convince you that my opposition is just." Then for nearly an hour the Judge heaped reproach after reproach upon the head of Chamberlain. He was not true to his party, he was playing into the hands of the democrats; he had betrayed his official trusts; he cried reform, but gave none; he had been Attorney General under Scott and Moses; he must have been aware of their crimes, and, in short, he was in every way adqualified to represent the State of South Carolina in a National Convention of republicans. It was just five minutes after four o'clock, and daylight was coming in through the window, as Governor Daniel H. Chamberlain, "the most eloquent man in the South," rose to defend himself against his accusers. His slight frame trembled, and great drops of perspiration hung on his forehead as he commenced the speech which would bring to him political life or death in South Carolina. Then for an hour and a half he spoke, delivering one of the grandest orations ever listened to in America. He not only denied, but clearly disproved, every charge which Carpenter had brought against him, and then turning to attack the man by whom he had been so terribly assailed, he accused him of complicity with the Ku-Klux, and proved that all through the bitter campaign of 1870 he had worked for and with the democrats. As the speech progressed, the colored delegates gathered around the speaker; then they stood on chairs and desks to get a better view of him. Those who were nearest to him sat on the floor, looking up into his face with open-mouthed wonder at his terrible denunciation of his foes and his grand vindication of himself. Some of the negroes were entirely carried away by his oration; they shouted with delight at the conclusion of some of the most effective passages, and as the Governor took his seat, pale and exhausted from over-exertion, all the enthusiasm of their fiery nature broke into one long-continued cry, and the name of "Chamberlain, Chamberlain, our Chamberlain" was echoed from every part of the Capitol. Carpenter tried to reply, but they would not listen to him. The roll was then called, and Chamberlain was elected over Patterson by a vote of 89 to 32. He had won by his eloquence.

Political.

Several republican county conventions in Kentucky have adopted resolutions favorable to Morton for the Presidency.

Both of the New Hampshire United States Senators prefer Bristow for the Presidency, according to the Nashua Telegraph.

The democratic journals are very sweet toward Senator Conkling. They would be so glad to have the republicans nominate him for the Presidency.

Thurman expresses the opinion that Hayes is the coming man, and will be the hardest republican candidate to beat. Thurman is a sagacious politician, and knows by experience what it is to run against Hayes.

Blaine and Bristow would be gladly taken as candidates for President and Vice President, and there is no great preference, in the arrangement of these names, which shall be first. Whichever may be thought by the convention most likely to strengthen the ticket throughout the country, we are confident will be not only heartily accepted by the republicans of New England, but will be elected by the people.—Salem Gazette.

The strength of the Morton men in Kentucky is becoming more evident every day. It may be set down as positive that three-fourths of the intelligent negroes are in favor of his claims, and these constitute most of the strength of the party in the State. Desperate attempts are being made to crush out Morton's friends among the white republicans, but thus far they have not been very successful. The State convention bids fair to be an interesting gathering, and the Mortonites and Bristowites will have a warm struggle for the supremacy. The result may be that the delegation will go to Cincinnati uninstructed, although there is a possibility that the Morton men will be bully-ragged into silence.—Louisville Ledger.

Judge Hilton, to whom Mr. Stewart willed $1,000,000, and who is to act for him in managing, closing and winding up his partnership business, has been his confidential friend and adviser for nearly thirty years. Mr. Hilton is a lawyer, and has served in many public positions with great credit—Supreme Court Judge and Park Commissioner. His law business of late years has been almost exclusively confined to Mr. Stewart's affairs. He is a gentleman of polished manners and fine personal appearance. Mr. Libby, who has for many years had the largest interest, next to Mr. Stewart, in the establishment, and upon whom will now fall the principal management of the business, is a thorough-bred merchant.

The room became so crowded that it became necessary to procure more seats. There were chairs stowed carefully away in the attic; one of the members went up to hand them down; the leader gave out the hymn, "Hold the fort." The attic floor consisted of the plastering, which constituted the ceiling of the room below, of which circumstance the chair-seeker was not aware. So, just as the choir began the first stanza, down came one leg of the unfortunate chair-hunter. The choir, however, did not notice the circumstance, and went on singing, "Ho! my comrades, see the signal waving in the air, reinforcements now are coming," etc. Just at this instant the other leg appeared, and the singing was drowned by the roaring laughter of the congregation.—Hartington, (Pa.,) Local.

Mr. Blaine is seeking election to the office of President, and he ought to be able to to show a clean pair of hands. We will only add that our confidence in his integrity is so great that we believe he will be able to put his accusers to shame, and we earnestly hope that he may do so; but this matter of the Arkansas railroad bonds has been floating in the air for a good while, and it is high time the cloud was dispelled, once for all.—Hartford Post.

It is a great relief to hear from a Southern paper that "the Nashville Banner's scandalous story about Blaine's seducing a school girl in Kentucky thirty years ago turns out to have been all poppy-cock."

As a Presidential candidate Charles Francis Adams seems to have died of irritation of the Bowles.—Worcester Press.

The Boston Post is so completely disgusted because Mr. Blaine uses up the democratic leaders of the House so completely in debate that it says: If there were any choice of the republicans electing the next President, one might almost wish Mr. Blaine to succeed in his schemes for the nomination, if only to rid the House of his obstructive presence.

There is a strong movement on foot for the election of Ben. Perley Poore to Congress from the Newburyport district.

Mr. Randolph Tucker of Virginia doesn't surrender any of his little notions simply because there has been a war in this country. He believed twenty years ago that every cross-roads postmaster had the right to stop the circulation of newspapers at pleasure; and he thinks so still. It is not strange that when a democratic leader made this extraordinary avowal of his adherence to this State Rights doctrine, Mr. Blaine was at a loss for a retort. With the upraised hands it was very dramatic and effective; yes, and very foolish. A man ought to learn something in twenty years. New York Tribune.

No one of the candidates can hold a candle to Mr. Blaine in the matter of talent for organization. To his genius for this essential thing for success in political effort he adds a remarkable personal magnetism, which attaches men to him, and makes them follow him as Highland clansmen do their chief.—Minneapolis Mail.

If New Hampshire should present a "favorite son" for the Presidency it would be Governor Cheney.—Nashua Telegraph. You are right, there, neighbor:

It seems necessary for the continued success of the republican party that neither Senator Morton nor Senator Conkling should be the nominee for President.

The democratic editorial brethren still refuse to shout for Judge Davis.

Speaker Kerr has decided not to be a candidate for reelection to Congress on account of his poor health.

Kilpatrick takes advantage of his position on the lecture stage to tell the people that Sherman is going to be the next President.

Senator Thurman's views on questions Presidential have been given to the public at second hand. A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette has been informed by two of the Senator's friends that he thinks Hayes is most likely to be the republican nominee, and that he would be the hardest man in the party to beat. He thought that Morton, Conkling, and Blaine would favor Hayes before they would each other, and would be likely to transfer their strength to him. As for the democratic nomination, the Senator is of opinion that he himself will have only two competitors worth worrying about—Senator Bayard and Gen. Hancock. He apprehends no difficulty in outstripping the former, but is a little anxious about the latter.

—"Bout dis hyar 'lection bizness. I'ze done laid down a new flatform!" said Pete to some other darkies. "What sort of a flatform is dat?" was asked by another darkey. "Well, dey ain't gwine to fool me no more 'bout who I'se votin' for, dat's how!" said Pete. "What you gwine to kno' 'bout it? You ain't bin ter skool seuce de las' 'lection, an' can't read no how!" returned a third darkey. "Nebber you mind 'bout me readin' nigger; dat don't 'splaine de pint. But I'm tellin' of yer dat when I goes to a 'publican and gits my ticket, I'se gwine ter make him read it strait down from de top to de bottom—" "Well," they said. "Den I'se gwine to a dimicrat and ax him ter read it back'ards from the bottom up, an' ef dat ticket don't dove-tail at bof ends like a buro-draw," she don't go inter de box, dat's all!"

—The Cardiff Giant appears again, only to disappear. The Globe-Democrat, published at St. Louis, reports that at a sale of Cooper & Bailey's "Great International Circus" property in that city last week, the original "Cardiff Giant," together with the wagon upon which it was hauled, was sold for $37. The wagon was worth a good deal more money.

—"John Paul" in a letter concerning Westminster Abbey, says he found there, in connection with the statue of Andre, a head of Washington, which has been three times broken off and carried away by visitors, and each time returned, and he thinks it is therefore easier for the boys of the British nation to get ahead of Washington now than the men did in 1776.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

IF DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

Young People's Union.

Mrs. C. A. Cutter and some friends, belonging to an amateur dramatic club of Cambridge, have offered to give an entertainment, consisting of a comedy and a farce, at Franklin Hall, for the benefit of the Young People's Union Rooms, on the evening of Thursday next, if sufficient encouragement is given to the undertaking. Tickets (50 and 35 cts.) will be for sale at W. R. Preston's store on Saturday of this week, but unless enough are sold before Tuesday to guarantee the payment of expenses the entertainment will not be given. Friends of the cause are requested to exert themselves.

Jottings.

The committee on rules of the House of Representatives have unanimously agreed to recommend the discharge of Charles H. Smith, Journal Clerk and private secretary to Hon. Frank Jones, for gross impropriety in sending out circulars seeking business as a claim agent while an officer of the House. Smith resigns.

The Circuit Court commenced a session at Exeter on Tuesday. James Wood of Candia was found guilty of forging names to a subscription contract with certain citizens of Salem. He was sentenced to the State prison for three years. Henry Beckman was convicted, Wednesday, of placing certain obstructions on the Eastern Railroad track at Seabrook on the 24th of October, 1875.

P. T. Barnum will bring his new and greatest of all shows to Portsmouth this year, and his programme of entertainment is unique and novel. He will have a menagerie, a museum, a portrait gallery, a circus; will employ 1100 persons and 600 horses and ponies; will transport his mammoth exhibition in a hundred solid-steel railroad cars; will bring with him a park of cannon, with which he will have a salute of thirteen guns fired every morning; will have a large church bell drawn in the procession and have the city bells rung; will among other exercises have a musical jubilee on a grand scale by celebrated singers and an immense chorus; and will display every evening in the largest tent fireworks of patriotic design. Vive la Barnum.

M. T. Betton & Co. will sell at public auction to day, valuable real estate in Newington. See advertisement.

The name of Dr. H. W. Briant should appear in the list of vestrymen chosen at the parish meeting of the St. John's church on Monday.

William Hennessey was on Wednesday put under $1000 bonds to appear at the Circuit Court to answer to a charge of stealing a team from Mr. T. J. Parsons.

Burned by a Pirate.

To the Ed. of the Buffalo Com. Advertiser.—Sir: I clipped the following condensed statement from a newspaper not long ago:

"Washington, March 4, 1876. Alabama Claims Court, No. 217. E. Atkins et al., Truro, Mass. For the loss of vessel, outfit, and supplies by the destruction of ship Brilliant by the Alabama, Oct. 3, 1862, $63,000. No. 168. George Hager, master, for the loss on same, $11,750."

Behind this dry announcement there lies a story full of interest, which I will try to relate. In the Fall of 1862 the ship Emily Farnum, of Portsmouth, N. H., loaded a general cargo in New York for Liverpool. At about the same time the ship Brilliant, Capt. Hager, loaded in New York for London. The two ships sailed within a few days of each other. The Emily Farnum, having considerable cargo on English account, her bills of lading were taken to the British Consul, and the fact was certified to. On the morning of Oct. 3, 1862, the Confederate (British) steamer Alabama fell in with both ships when very near each other. It was a beautiful morning, and with a fair wind they were sailing along, all unconscious of danger, or of the fate that awaited at least one of them.

The Alabama quietly awaited their approach, when suddenly she yawed, fired a gun, and hoisted the Confederate flag—showing her true character. There was nothing that could be done, except to heave to and surrender. Both captains were ordered on board the Alabama with their papers. They went into the presence of Capt. Semmes in his cabin. The papers of the Emily Farnum were found correct. Her cargo was owned in England, and the pirate did not dare destroy her. So he determined to put his prisoners (from other ships which he had burned) some sixty in number, besides the crews of the two ships then under the guns of the Alabama, on board the Emily Farnum, and burn the Brilliant. Going on deck, Semmes announced his determination.

Capt. Hager, of the Brilliant, had been anxiously awaiting, on the deck of the Alabama, the decision of his captor. When he heard the announcement Hager stepped forward and said: "Capt. Semmes, down in a little town on Cape Cod, in Massachusetts, I have a wife and family dependent on me for a living. All I have in the world is in that ship. I am part owner. If she is destroyed I am a ruined man. At my age I can never repair the loss, and myself and family will be beggers. It will do you no good to burn her. To me and mine she is all. I beg you not to destroy her."

To this manly and touching appeal Semmes returned an insulting refusal, and Capt. Hager had to submit to see his beautiful ship, his all, wantonly destroyed before his eyes. The several crews, nearly a hundred men, were huddled on board the Emily Farnum, to see the Brilliant burn down to the water's edge. Capt. Semmes coolly says, in his Book of Memoirs:

I was much moved by the entreaties of the master of the Brilliant to spare his ship. He was a hard-working seaman, who owned a third interest in her. He had built her, and was attached to her, and she represented all his worldly goods. But I was forced to steel my heart. He was like the other masters who had remonstrated with me, in same boat with the political rascals who had egged on the war—and I told him he must look to those rascals for redress. The ship made a brilliant bonfire, lighting up the Gulf stream for many miles around, having set fire to her near night, and the wind falling to nearly a calm. We remained in sight of the burning wreck nearly all night.

Semmes says further:

The owners of the Brilliant have since put in a claim in that little bill, which Mr. Seward has pressed with so little effect hitherto against the British Government for indemnity for the "depredations of the Alabama," for the ship alone and the freight and moneys which they lost by her destruction to the amount of $93,000. The cargo was even more valuable than the ship.

And now after sixteen years have passed away, Capt. Hager receives from the American Government, as trustee, through her constituted Court of Claims, the money paid on that very account by the British Government, as his moiety (clipped somewhat of its original amount) of the "depredations of the Alabama."

Prof. Proctor's Western Experiences.

Mr. Richard A. Proctor says in a recent letter to the English Mechanic:

A person in the garb of a gentleman, save for display of rings and breastpin, was waiting till his tea should be brought. Growing weary, or perhaps stimulated by the presence of "a stranger," he began to while away time by sucking the blade of his breakfast knife, preparing, as it were, for action. Presently he plunged the blade into the sugar basin, and licked off the sugar thus secured. He next tried with the same knife some cream which stood in a goblet for general use. After this he alternated between the cream and the sugar, using his knife blade steadily, some five inches disappearing within his lips at each effort. There was a combination of horrors about the entire process, enhanced by a peculiar elbow play which seems characteristic of Western feeding. In fact most Americans out here seem all elbows and wrist when eating, just as when sitting they seem all boots. To-day I observed at the railway breakfast that the polygonal outline of an originally round piece of butter was more abundantly adorned with gravy, yolk of egg, fragments of vegetable, and so forth, than is customary in civilized regions, suggesting the frequent use of knives other than the butter knife; but after that first look I avoided further research. I am, therefore, unable to describe the actual knife practice which took place on this occasion. On the whole, I shall not be sorry to find myself at St. Louis and Chicago again, where any tendency toward bestiality is restrained by the good sense of the majority. At any rate, nothing like what I have described is ever to be seen in those parts of either city where men "most do congregate." I would not have it supposed that such offences are common here in the West, but I hold that a community of civilized beings should so treat such offences as to make them impossible. The fault is not a result of mere ignorance—it is a willful offense against decency.

A Family Pyramid.

A party of colored individuals took the Southwestern Railroad to visit some relatives near Bakersport, Ky. Upon arriving at the depot the aforesaid parties stepped out upon the platform of the car preparatory to getting off of the train, which was passing the platform at the depot.

The conductor, seeing the danger they were in, halloed to them not to jump out yet.

The old negro said:

"I is going to git off here, white man; you can't fool me; I is rid on these here things before to-day."

So saying he leaped from the car upon the platform, and it being covered with sleet, he skated off, and fell upon the ground beyond, which lay at least ten feet below.

The old woman followed his illustrious example, and over she went upon top of the old man.

The girl, who weighed about three hundred pounds, followed her mother and became the capping stone, so to speak, of the perch, though if an artisan could have seen the pyramid he would have thought the base of it had been turned up.

By the time the train stopped the old African presented himself at the end of the platform, much flatter in appearance than when he made his exit.

The last we saw of him he was railing out at the top of his voice:

"Jist like a woman! always wants to visit in bad weather! And now I will have to sue de white folks of this train in the Federal Court for my damages and rights. I is going to do the very thing, if God spares me and I can git a lawyer!"—Louisville Commercial.

Removing Life's Heaviest Burden.

To remove the burden of disease, the heaviest that poor humanity is compelled to bear, is certainly a grand object, a glorious mission. Assuredly the discoverer of a remedy which accomplishes this result is entitled to the gratitude and respect of mankind. Such a remedy is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, whose great success is attributable to the fact that its restorative action upon the debilitated and disordered system is in accordance with the principles of common sense. It invigorates the sick, and as their strength increases, the burden of disease grows lighter. It reforms those physical irregularities which render weakness chronic, and thus eradicates the evil at its very source. Liver complaint, malarious fevers, constipation, urinary troubles, uterine weakness, and many other causes of general debility and ill health, are completely removed by the combined tonic and alterative operation of the Bitters.

The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

—New Mexico is to be admitted into the Union under the name of "Montezuma." A more appropriate name, considering the prevailing weakness of the inhabitants, would be "Threecardmontezuma."—Chicago Times.

—Two sons of Erin, shoveling sand on a hot day, stopped to rest, and exchanged views on the labor question. "Pat; this is mighty hard work we're at." "It is, Judade, Jimmy, but what kind of work is it you'd like if ye could get it?" "Well," said the other, leaning reflectively on his shovel and wiping the perspiration with the back of his hand, "for a nice, aisy, clane business, I think I would like to be a bishop."

—John P. Hale, for so many years a leading member of the United States Senate, did not especially distinguish himself as a scholar, but his genial wit made him a general favorite. His jokes had vitality enough to survive the many college generations that have succeeded him. In his Latin not infrequently the author's meaning escaped him, but it was strangely clear to him when he edified the class by rendering Horace's saying: "Dimidium facti, qui coepit, habet" ("Well begun, half done"). "He that is well lathered is half shaved."—"Boudoin College;" Scribner for May.

—The Cohoes Eagle tells a very curious accident happening to a son of James O'Helen, residing on Saratoga street. It seems that Willie, the youngest child, a bright boy of twelve or thirteen years of age, laid down in a corner of the kitchen, Monday night, and being tired out from play, was soon fast asleep. The father was reading at a table placed in the centre of the room, the rest of the family were all in bed, and consequently the house was perfectly still. Suddenly, a startling cry came from the child, which aroused the father, who made a rush for the boy and asked him what was the matter. The boy clasped his father in his arms, and with startling eyes, exclaimed, "Father, father, I have swallowed a mouse, and I feel him biting me inside!" In an instant the father had the house aroused, and a messenger was sent for a doctor, who soon arrived and administered an emetic, which had the desired effect, and the boy after some terrible retching, threw up the mouse, and strange to relate, the creature was alive and active, and made his escape to a hole in the floor. It appears that while the child slept he had his mouth open, and the mouse, which was a very small one, got frightened by a muscular action of the child, jumped into his mouth, and down his throat, but how he remained alive in the boy's stomach is a mystery.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1875, but from the sale of the first week all their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and it is signs that the reputation came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, and in Bad Health for Years almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past it has been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged when I took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report no sickness. One package of the has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find pay for five packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they are worth ten dollars for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but could find no relief. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the past twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing me to be at times so lame I was quite unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal of medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken one entire box I was a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and constipation; she is now to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they are a blessing to humanity, and I shall will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute entirely to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roxbinale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs,

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The Year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fall to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke sharp discussion, and enter largely into politics. In trade, commerce, manufacture and industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting the best claim for continued regard of all old readers, and the access. sion of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, authorized by party ties or necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can see little or no virtue in caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and proposals of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country may believe and can trust; to secure hard money, Administrative reform, and economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it proposes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater influence.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst abuses and most corrupt schemes to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; it will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe every intelligent and thoughtful visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the year 1875 and 1875 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest application and the most lavish expenditure to procure the fresh and intelligent, the most complete report, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and its list of outside contributors is numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift.

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 models colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments—stories, &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMUTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for beauty. They will be superbly colored. Also, Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

JIM.

What-at-Jim?
Jim Blaine?
Got him?
Great Cain!
Jim Blaine
Of the State of Maine,
Smartest cuss in out of the rain—
Our Jim,
Cheeky Jim,
Full to the brim
Of brass and sass, and pluck and vim—
Got Jim?
Why he's the festive little pill
That went through catawampus Hill
And made the chivalry so ill;
He stole Ulysses's little squirt,
And put on Morton's bloody shirt;
Hammered Conkling's bump of gumption,
Walloped Hayes out of resumption,
Whitened Butler's gory locks,
And put a black eye on Sam Cox.
Our Jim—
Jim Blaine
Of the State of Maine;
Will somebody please explain?

LOOKING BACK.

"I heard a voice, long years ago,
A voice so wondrous sweet and low;
So sweet that tears unbidden rose
From the depths of love's repose.
But ere that summer pass'd away
That gentle voice was hush'd for aye.

Then silent, but with blinding tears,
I gathered all the love of years,
And laid it with my dream of old,
Where all I loved slept white and cold.
O my love, I loved her so—
My love that loved me years ago."

A sleepy summer evening; the air heavily laden with perfume, not wafting a breath of the sea, that lay blue and calm in the distance, not stirring a leaf of the trees on the lawn, where hard-working bees were murmuring; Walter Brandon and I, lazily reclining in two arm-chairs at the open window, smoking; and a voice in the next garden calling "Miss Amy!"

"What a pretty girl!" said Walter, in a low voice.

All girls being lovely in Walter's eyes at first sight, and having been so often disappointed when implored by him to "look at that pretty girl," I carelessly lifted my eyes to look down into the next garden, quite expecting the usual disappointment, as his ideas of beauty and mine were by no means identical.

Heigho! the picture comes before me now as vividly as then. She stood leaning against a small marble fountain, more like a statue than a living girl in her motionless attitude. She had an oval face, rather flushed just now—sweet blue eyes with long lashes. Her hair, which was a light brown, was loosely gathered up at the back of her head and twisted round. Her head was leaning on her hand as she stood there, with her eyes looking out to sea—calm and beautiful. I looked, and my heart in that look went out to her, and I felt a void and a longing in that heart which, up to now, had laughed at woman. There she stood—my Amy—my fate! The voice calling her grew more impatient, and an elderly woman, coming down the path, touched her mistress on the arm, and they slowly walked back into the house. Then my eyes were loosed from the spell which had bound them, and, turning them back to Walter's face, I read there a look of astonishment and amusement which made me blush like a girl.

"Why, Charlie, I never saw you look so long at a female face before," he laughed. "Now after this specimen you need not swear again at my idea of perfect beauty, old boy. I mean to find out who she is," and he rang the bell.

The maid who entered told him, with much glibness, that "the young lady was a Miss Sutherland, and lived there mostly alone with her old nurse (which Irish piece of news we received with solemn faces), for Captain Sutherland, the father, was much given to drink and roving, and seldom at home; so the young lady had no companions, and it was dismal to see her wandering up and down the little garden, or on the beach," and so on ad libitum; but I left the room, not caring to hear any more, and went down to the beach to enjoy alone the new feeling which had entered into my life, and gave all things such a rosy tint. What was it? What? I analyzed my feelings, and I knew I loved. I had never loved before; but I knew it now it had come. Oh, love! love! what a magician you are; turning sad hearts to glad ones, and darkness to light! I loved her, and I gloried in my new-found love.

"I say, Charlie, where have you been?" shouted Walter, in rather an aggrieved tone when I got back. "I want to consult you about getting an introduction to that young lady, for I must and will get to know her somehow. I wonder if her father is here? If so, we might make his acquaintance, and so hers. If I can get an introduction to her, this wretched place will not be so dull as it looked at first sight this afternoon, saving your presence, my boy (this with a mock bow to me). No wonder your father recommended this as a good place to read in, for I never was in such a dull looking hole before. We have been here only four hours, and I was already beginning to get tired of it. I am all right though now, except that I must get an introduction."

"I don't see how you are to manage it," said I, very shortly and sharply, for his tone jarred on me. "I'm afraid you'll have to content yourself with looking at her over the garden railings."

"I'll be hanged if I do," he replied. "Come, I bet you an even 'fiver' that I speak to her and she replies, before sunset to-morrow."

"You know I think it wrong to make a woman the subject of a bet," I said; "besides, you can't possibly get introduced to her by that time, and even you, with all your impudence, would hardly dare to speak to her without that." I was getting angry.

"Even I, most grave and reverend Carolus, will dare, and do it." She seems just that sweet, innocent sort of a girl who would see no harm in such a thing, especially as she has most probably lived here at Stagnarton all her dear little life, and doesn't know much of the world."

"All the better for her," said I quickly; "don't be the first to teach her;" saying which I tried to turn the conversation, but no go. Walter raved on about her till I could stand it no longer, so I bade him good night, and went to soothe my ruffled feelings by a stroll on the beach and a cigar. Next morning, whilst waiting for Walter and breakfast, I heard his voice in the garden, and going to the window to see what had brought him down so early, I saw what took my breath away for a moment—Walter leaning over the garden railings coolly talking to Miss Sutherland. Had it been any other girl, I should have been amused at the fellow's consummate impudence; but now my breath came short and quick, a dull pain came at my heart, and a mist hung over my eyes. For a moment I almost cursed the careless boy with his bright laughing eyes and smooth face, who had come between me and my love (for she was my love even then); but the feeling was only for a moment. The mist cleared from before my eyes, and instead I saw a vision of a lovely, dying face, with large earnest eyes fixed on me imploringly, and I heard her voice,—the voice of Walter's mother and my aunt, saying, "Guard my poor orphan boy, Charlie, he is so wild and careless; but he looks up to you—you can train him. Keep him from harm, and I will bless you from the land to which I am going now. Good-bye, Charlie, take care of him. God bless you both;" and so she died. And I thought of the promise I had given, and how I had kept it, though I was only his elder by some two months; helping him out of his boyish scrapes, and keeping him on good terms with my father who was his guardian, loving him all the while as a brother; and there and then I vowed a solemn vow to myself, that, even should he crush the sweet hopes that had arisen in me the evening before, he should still be the same Walter Brandon to me, my cousin, brother, friend. Just then he looked up, and, seeing me, he shouted to come down. In a minute I was standing close to her.

"Miss Sutherland, my cousin Charlie Stuart; Charlie, Miss Sutherland. I've been admiring Miss Sutherland's garden, and asking her to be kind enough to tell me the name of that little blue flower yonder. It would look so well in the garden at Sandhills."

Now the blue flower in question was a forget-me-not, and was growing in a wet trench at the side of the garden; and our garden at Sandhills was very dry soil. He knew well what the flower was, and that it would not live a day in our garden, so I could not help thinking he had chosen a somewhat lame excuse, and glanced at Miss Sutherland to see if the thought had struck her. She had a plain light morning dress on and looked, if possible, more lovely and saintlike than she had done the evening before. Those beautiful blue eyes did not seem capable of harboring suspicion of any kind. I listened eagerly for her to speak.

"Have you never seen it before?" she said; "it is a common flower."

"And do you attend to the garden yourself?" I asked, feeling obliged to say something yet hardly knowing what I was saying.

"Yes, I have little else to do; it is almost my only pleasure."

She said this sadly, not complaining nor yet as if asking for sympathy, but as though that half-melancholy tone were habitual to her.

"Do you do nothing but walk here or on the shore?" asked Walter.

"No; my father does not wish me to know many people, and, indeed, there are none here to know; but I am not unhappy," she added quickly, seeing the expression in his open eyes.

"No: unhappy, but you ought to be very happy," said Walter; so young, so ——" beautiful, he would have said, but I interrupted him—it seemed discretion to pay the semblance of a compliment to her.

"Negative happiness is no bad thing either, Walter. Is it, Miss Sutherland?" said I.

"No, indeed," she returned with a faint half smile; "but your cousin has only felt the positive kind as yet, I am sure."

"New this is too bad," laughed Walter; "there must be a strong expression of imbecility on my face, for no one imagines me capable of being unhappy, or feeling anything."

"I did not mean that," she replied, gently; "we should judge no one quickly. Did what I say vex you?"

"Very much," he smiled; "and for atonement you must let me come here and talk to you sometimes, and make my happiness positive, not negative," he added in a lower tone. So the charm had begun already. She promised without the slightest shyness or embarrassment, and then she was called in to breakfast.

"Is she not lovely?" said Walter, when we were back in the breakfast-room; but contrary to his usual habit in such cases, he raved no more about her then. She appeared no more in the garden that day, but in the evening, as we strolled along the shore, we came upon her suddenly, sitting on a rock close up to the sea with one hand on the head of a large grayhound, her constant attendant. She was looking very grave and sad; but her smile when she saw us encouraged us, and we lay down near her, and talked till the shadows of the rocks began to grow longer, and the sun went down into the sea in a flood of golden light. Then she rose and said she must go home. When we reached the gate we discovered that the dog was missing, and Walter started off to search for him. I lingered near her, dreading his return, for then we would have to part, and she knew not how I loved her. I only cared to have her near me. The light faded slowly, and darkness came down on the sea. There seemed a hush over all things; her face began to grow indistinct even at the little distance which separated us. I felt as if she was passing slowly away from me, and a wild fancy urged me to tell her, there and then, of all my love for her, so deep, so true. Wild! do I call it? No; had I done so then, all might have been changed. Ah! what a world of sadness there is in those few words, "what might have been." Well, to go on, I thought it would be too sudden. I had not known her long enough —and I hesitated—and in hesitating, lost her,—and Walter came back. The next few days I was very happy because I could see and speak to her; and, though Walter was there, I did not feel his presence in the consciousness of hers. She was so sweet, so gentle to us both, that I could never tell which she preferred, or if she cared about us enough to have any preference. I was generally the chief speaker of the three, for Walter had become very silent of late, simply looking from some place where he would not be noticed at her sweet face. At last the crisis came.

Bristowistics.

The worthy Secretary Bristow is the best nominated man for the Presidency in the State of New Hampshire. The Nashua Telegraph does it about three times a week. Bro. Moore is getting decidedly unanimous. —Portsmouth Chronicle.

That shows the sterling character and growing popularity of our candidate. By and by we expect to nominate Bristow six times a week, and the clergy have already begun to nominate him on Sunday. There is no other candidate that has friends enough among either the people or the newspapers of New Hampshire to be nominated oftener than once a week.—Nashua Telegraph.

Our contemporary forgot to mention in addition to the clergy, that most influential element of reform in New England, the Boston Herald! We know of but one paper in this State that is disposed to surfeit its readers with its editor's private opinion that there is only one man among forty million people fit to be President. Most persons are willing to abide by the natural common sense conclusions of the Nation and support that man who shall when the time arrives best represent the views of a majority of voters, irrespective of "our candidate," or any other.

Whether Mr. Jefferson Davis really proposes to write a history of the war or not is uncertain. If he does the comments of the Southern press will not cheer him in the work. One journal predicts that the book will be out just in time to defeat the democracy at the next election, and Colonel Forsyth suggests that Mr. Davis would be wiser to keep out of print and let some of his descendants publish his views, since a publication by himself could do no good and might do much harm.

The President's Veto.

President's Grant's message to the Senate, vetoing the bill reducing the President's salary after the 4th of March next, is a well-written and dignified document, and will meet the approval of all who do not think office should be made so expensive that only the rich could afford to hold it. The message is as follows:

To the Senate of the United States.

Herewith I return to the Senate bill No. 172, entitled "An act fixing the salary of the President of the United States," without my approval. I am constrained to this course from a sense of duty to my successors in office, to myself and to what is due to the dignity of the position of the Chief Magistrate of a nation of more than 40,000,000 of people. When the salary of the President of the United States was fixed by the Constitution at $25,000 per annum, we were but a nation of three millions of people, poor from a long and exhaustive war, without commerce or manufactures, with but few wants, and those cheaply supplied. The salary must then have been deemed small for the responsibilities and dignity of the position, but justifiably so from the impoverished condition of the treasury and the simplicity it was desired to cultivate in the republic.

The salary of Congressmen, under the Constitution, was first fixed at $6 per day for the time actually in session, or $720 per year, or less than one-thirtieth of the salary of the President. Congressmen have legislated upon their own salaries from time to time since, until finally it has reached $6000 per annum, or one-fifth that of the President before the salary of the latter was increased. No one having a knowledge of the cost of living at the National Capital will contend that the present salary of Congressmen is too high, unless it be to make the office entirely one of honor, when the salary should be abolished, a proposition repugnant to our republican ideas and institutions. I do not believe that the citizens of this republic desire their public servants to serve them without a fair compensation for their services. Twenty-five thousand dollars does not defray the expenses of the Executive for one year, or has not in my experience. It is now one-fifth in value to what it was when fixed by the Constitution, in supplying the demands and wants. Having no personal interest in this matter, I have felt myself free to return this bill to the House in which it originated, with my objections, believing that in doing so I meet the wishes and judgment of a great majority of those who indirectly pay all the salaries and other expenses of the Government. (Signed) U. S. GRANT.

Executive Mansion, April 18, 1876.

A Warning.

The Women's Christian Association of Philadelphia has issued the following circular:

The Women's Christian Association of Philadelphia desire to call your attention to a base letter addressed to young girls, which has been circulated broadcast through the country. It purports to come from a firm professing to be "Agents for the Centennial Committee," and offers remunerative situations in the Centennial exhibition, besides expenses paid, and wages in advance. Girls are advised not to consult their parents, but to come without their knowledge.

We are assured that there is no such firm connected with the Centennial commission, and the circular is in reality only a vile scheme to entrap the innocent into ruin. We appeal to you, then, by all your sacred responsibilities as parents, guardians or editors, to do your utmost to counteract this nefarious plan, by exposure and warning. We entreat you to disseminate a knowledge of the facts as extensively as possible, that the unwary may have their minds opened to this impending evil, and, by God's grace be preserved from the net spread to entrap them.

—A man was very angry on going home recently to find his wife had lent the only Bible in the house. He said it was a disgrace that in this period of Christian enlightenment a family should have only one copy of the Bible. It seems he wanted to decide a bet as to whether it was Paul or Cephas who said:—"Consistency, thou art a jewel."

Thanks "From the Depths of the Heart."

WELLINGTON, Corain Co., O., Aug. 24, 1874.

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sir—Your medicines, Golden Medical Discovery, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, have proved of the greatest service to me. Six months ago no one thought that I could possibly live long. I had a complication of diseases,—scrofula, manifesting itself in eruptions and great blotches on my head that made such sores that I could not have my hair combed without causing me much suffering; also causing swollen glands, tonsils enlarged or "thick neck," and large and numerous boils. I also suffered from a terrible Chronic Catarrh, and in fact I was so diseased that life was a burden to me. I had tried many doctors with no benefit. I finally procured one-half dozen bottles of your Golden Medical Discovery and one dozen Sage's Catarrh Remedy and commenced their use. At first I was badly discouraged, but after taking four bottles of the Discovery I began to improve, and when I had taken the remaining I was well. In addition to the use of Discovery I applied a solution of Iodine to the Goitre or thick neck, as you advise in pamphlet wrapping, and it entirely disappeared. Your Discovery is certainly the most wonderful blood medicine ever invented. I thank God and you, from the depths of my heart, for the great good it has done me.

Very gratefully,
MRS. L. CHAFFEE.

Most medicines which are advertised as blood purifiers and liver medicines contain either mercury, in some form, or potassium and iodine variously combined. All of these agents have strong tendency to break down the blood corpuscles, and debilitate and otherwise permanently injure the human system, and should therefore be discarded. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, on the other hand, being composed of the fluid extracts of native plants, barks and roots, will in no case produce injury, its effects being strengthening and curative only. Sarsaparilla, which used to enjoy quite a reputation as a blood purifier, is a remedy of thirty years ago, and may well give place as it is doing, to the more positive and valuable vegetable alteratives which later medical investigation and discovery has brought to light. In Scrofula or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammation, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin and Sore Eyes as in all other blood diseases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has shown its great remedial powers, curing the most obstinate and intractable cases. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

The NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE will be sent free to any address until after the PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION on the receipt of one dollar in advance.

Bring in Your Votes.

Following the example of the Keene Sentinel, we invite our republican readers in New Hampshire to send in to this office their votes of preference for a Presidential candidate, and the voters' names. On the 1st day of May we will announce the result.

Jottings.

P. M. L. A. election, etc., this (Friday) evening.

The demand for apartments at the Appledore House, Isles of Shoals, for the coming summer, have poured in so fast at this early time that every room in the spacious hotel is now engaged, and the proprietors are preparing to erect a large lodging house to accommodate the extra rush. It is noticeable that many of the expected guests are Europeans, who come to this country to see the Exposition.

P. T. Barnum's show will open with its accustomed morality and punctuality in New York, April 27, at the American Institute building on Third avenue. There is one wild Brazilian who rides seven wild horses simultaneously.

The Berger Family and Sol Smith Russell concert troupe,—a remarkably fine organization of talent, as all who attended the entertainment at the Temple last Friday evening will admit,—make their second and last appearance here this evening. All who would witness a refined, artistic and highly satisfactory entertainment in every particular, should not fail to avail themselves of this opportunity.

The Portsmouth Artillery has been assigned to the First Regiment, as Company K.

Buffalo Bill, Texas Jack and Mlle. Morlacchi will appear at the Temple on Wednesday evening next, and Bryant's Minstrels on Thursday evening.

Master George W. Bartlett, of this city, a member of the scientific class of Dartmouth College, has been elected by the members as a contestant for the prize speaking.

The grand jury, on the question of indicting the owners of the South Millpond for the maintenance of a public nuisance,—on complaint of the city, which created the nuisance, and is now daily aggravating it by running city sewerage into the pond and allowing privies to exist along the edge of it,—voted one for and eighteen against doing it. On the question of indicting a man for negligently storing gunpowder the vote was reversed—eighteen for and one against it. There was evidently one man on that grand jury who would be invaluable as a member of a petit jury in a case in which a disagreement was desired. Some people are so independent that they fancy the majority always in the wrong, because themselves always hopelessly in the minority; several such have been heard of in the political world, at different times.

The Journal presents the name of Samuel Adams, Esq., for a candidate for delegate to the Cincinnati convention, a most worthy and estimable citizen and republican.

News and Notes.

It is said that if Winslow returns to Boston there will be two mysterious disappearances from State street.

Thomas W. Piper, convicted of the murder of Mabel Young, and Frost, convicted of the murder of his brother-in-law, Towle, at Petersham, Mass., are to be hanged on the 26th of May, the former in Boston, and the latter at Worcester.

The first game of base ball between the Athletics and Philadelphias was won by the Athletics by a score of 11 to 6.

Professor Watson, of Ann Arbor, has discovered a new planet of the eleventh magnitute in the constellation Virgo.

Affairs in Turkey look bad for that bird. A Vienna telegram to the London News reports that half the garrison of Nicsic is sick. It is said that Mukhtar Pasha's losses during his retreat were enormous. The mountain passes were so narrow as only to admit of five men marching abreast. Rocks were continually hurled down the precipices upon the Turkish forces as they struggled through. The Paris correspondence of the News states that 7000 Montenegrins have joined the insurgents. The three northern European powers have intimated to the Porte that if a massacre should follow the arming of the Mohammedan population a military expedition, composed of Austrian and Russian troops, into the Turkish territory will certainly be undertaken.

Suicide is getting to be quite a popular amusement. On Monday, the 17th, a young lady in Haverhill, Mass., took arsenic to kill herself, but her friends took a stomach pump and saved her life. On the 19th, in Fitchburg, Mass., Charles Sawtelle, 65 years old, of the firm of Sawtelle & Litch, dealers in stoves and hardware, hanged himself. On the same day, in Philadelphia, a man named Shuck shot himself dead, and immediately afterward his wife took prussic acid and died in a few moments.

The proposition of Senator Hamlin, that postage on third-class matter be gauged according to distance, would require that each one of the fifty-six thousand post offices keep a table of distances. The preparation of these tables would require the work of a hundred men for seventy-three years, and the volumes of distance tables, when prepared, would number 2,150,000, of three hundred pages each.—New York News.

Hon. Auris M. Chase died at Whitefield, on Monday the 17th. He was a member of the State Council in 1858, and was prominently known among the business and political men of the State.

Capt. Samuel Samuels, of yacht Dauntless, has obtained a verdict for $2000 against the New York Evening Mail, for libel.

E. D. Whitcomb, who was imprisoned for contempt by the Boston Common Council and released by the Supreme Court, has accepted $500 from the city for damages.

Flagship Hartford and three other men-of-war have been ordered to the Mexican coast for the protection of American interests.

George McNickle, and Frank Burnap, young clerks, of respectable families, have been arrested in Norwich, Conn., for wantonly setting fire to buildings in that city. They have made partial confessions.

The "independent" Donn Piatt, of the Washington Capital, is under investigation. One Mr. Drega, who was interested in the famous moth preventive, has testified before Clymer's committee that he paid Piatt $12,000 for his services in procuring contracts.

Dom Pedro, of Brazil, seems to think he knows what he wants to see and how he wants to see it, better than any one else can tell him. He has gone to California.

Several serious breaks are reported in the Mississippi levees, and a material reduction of the cotton crop is suggested.

Political.

Ex-Senator Trumbull of Illinois is credited with a desire to be reckoned as a regular republican once more.

So the gentleman from Virginia thinks Mr. Blaine's a Pharisee, does he? Well, before the campaign's over, Mr. Blaine will make the gentleman from Virginia Sad-ussee if he don't.—N. Y. Com. Adv.

Speaking of the Presidency, the West Point (Va.) Star says: "If we consider only fitness and ability, Jeff Davis is our first choice; but then he can hardly be regarded as available just now."

An exchange more forcibly than elegantly says: "If the miserable sneaks who are vainly endeavoring to blacken Mr. Blaine's character desire to wake up a tiger who will camp on their track, let them continue their vile and groundless slanders."

The Montana republican territorial convention instructed its delegates to vote for Blaine.

If any man mentioned for the republican nominee for the Presidency cannot stand the present storm of detraction and slander without weakening, he would be a fatal candidate to have on our hands in the hurricane of a presidential contest. Tell the worst now, so that the man who may get the nomination at Cincinnati will have been tried as by fire.—Nashua Telegraph.

There is much talk over Secretary Bristow's letter to Caulfield regarding the false testimony Caulfield's committee took against him a week ago without notifying him of its character, the first definite intimation he had being in the public prints. The rebuke he administered to the committee is greatly relished by the republicans. He also asks to be heard promptly in refutation of the charges, and to have all witnesses called who claim knowledge concerning the alleged corruption.

The coming man for President, according to Massachusetts gospel, is not Blaine, nor Bristow, nor Butler, but the great and good statesman, George S. Boutwell. He is a noncommittal, neutral, "safe" candidate, and I don't see why he shouldn't carry the republican nomination. He is a man of Titantic intellect and fertile resources. He would appoint Butler Minister to England, perhaps in exchange for Winslow, and he would run the Government finances on the sound principles derived from his early grocery-keeping days—unlimited sand on a sugar basis.—Boston Cor. Detroit Free Press.

Newport, R. I., has elected a republican Mayor, Hon. Henry Bodlow, the first one for eight years. He had 375 majority.

There was a lively scene in the House upon the occasion of the swearing in of Finlay, democrat, who was given the seat of Walls, colored, of Florida. He advanced and raised his hand when the Speaker began to read the iron-clad oath. Finlay, when he reached the passage about never having borne arms against the United States, took down his hand, when a friendly member informed the Speaker that he was reading the wrong oath. The House and galleries broke into a roar and as soon as the Speaker could summon gravity enough he administered the modified oath.

Blaine is a politician rather pure than a statesman. He is a pure one; far more and unexceptionable than Cameron or Conkling, and much more gifted. Nor is he unprincipled; and lacking principle could not have so effectually followed the right and kept as untainted as he has. Yet there is something about his advocacy of the right side of leading issues which conveys the impression that his tact, intellect, energy and other powers are directed, not by absolute devotion to principle, but by ambition, by policy. The principle involved in a measure, taken in the abstract, seems to be a secondary consideration, which possesses value only as it is a chord in the popular heart which he can strike, to promote his own interest.—Norwich Bulletin.

—There was once an awful little girl, who had an awful way of saying "awful" to everything. She lived in an awful house, in an awful street, in an awful village, which was an awful distance from every other awful place. She went to an awful school, where she had an awful teacher, who gave her awful lessons, out of awful books. Every day she was so awful hungry that she ate an awful amount of food, so that she looked awful healthy. Her hat was awful small, and her feet were awful large. She went to an awful church, and her minister was an awful preacher. When she took an awful walk, she climbed awful hills, and when she got awful tired, she sat down under an awful tree to rest herself. In Summer she found the weather awful hot, and in Winter awful cold. When it didn't rain there was an awful drought, and when an awful drought was over there was an awful rain. So that this awful girl was all the time in an awful state, and if she does not get over saying "awful" about everything, she will, by-and-by, come to an awful end. And this awful little girl lives in this awful city.

—There is probably nothing that so obstinately stands in the way of all sorts of progress as pride of opinion, while there is nothing so foolish and so baseless as that same pride. If men will look up the history of their opinions, learn where they came from, why they were adopted, and why they are maintained and defended, they will find, nine times in ten, that their opinions are not theirs at all,—that they have no property in them, save as gifts of parents, education and circumstances. In short, they will learn that they did not form their own opinions,—that they were formed for them, and in them, by a series of influences, unmodified by their own reason and knowledge. A young man grows up to adult age in a republican or democratic family, and he becomes republican or democrat in accordance with the ruling influences of the household. Ninety-nine times in a hundred the rule holds.—Dr. J. G. Holland; Scribner for May.

—A gentleman visiting Quebec was riding on the Plains of Abraham when he was accosted by a small urchin, who asked in a very professional tone if he wanted to buy the bullet that killed Wolfe. "The bullet that killed General Wolfe? a great curiosity. How much do you ask for it, sonny?" "Only ten cents, sir." "And very cheap, too, even at half the price; but, my boy, such relics are so much sought after, by those more interested in such matters than myself, that I rather think I won't take it. Some one may come along and give you a dollar or two for it yet, as it's a great curiosity, my boy, a great curiosity." "Oh, well, sir, but you'd better take it. I've got a whole quart more at home, sir."

—Dean Swift has found an imitator. An advocate of Colmar has left 100,000 francs to the local madhouse. "I got this money," said the candid lawyer in his will, "out of those who pass their lives in litigation; in bequeathing it for the use of lunatics I only make restitution."

—Mrs. Sheridan thought a parrot might amuse the baby, and said so, but when she saw aneighteen-pounder Parrott gun come trundling up to the house, on a dray, she saw that Philip had misunderstood her.—Richmond Enquirer.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and its Cash Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for insurance as this.

LITTLE GIANT PILL.

Daily Chronicle.

A Cheap Way to Make Presents.

The dispute between the Smith and Carman families of Merrick, L. I., over the ownership of a fifty-cent knife, has progressed from the county court of Queens county to the general term. Three years ago Mr. Joseph Smith, a wealthy farmer, bought for his daughter Marietta a fifty-cent knife. She carried it until, one evening about a year and a half ago, a young man who was visiting her, borrowed it and took it with him. Miss Smith missed it, and thought she had lost it. A few days after that she called on Miss Mary E. Carman, the daughter of another wealthy Long Island farmer, and saw the knife on the mantelpiece, and claimed it. Miss Carman said that the young man who had taken it from Miss Smith had made her a present of it. Miss Smith took the knife and went home. The two families took up the dispute, and the trouble threw the church into a ferment. At a church meeting it was agreed to submit the case to Lott Carman, Abel Smith and George C. Andrews. They decided that they could not adjust the difference. If the knife was Miss Smith's, she had no right to take it out of Miss Carman's house, and she ought to sue for it if she wished it back. Accordingly they gave the knife back to Miss Carman. Miss Smith's father decided to sue. A search warrant was obtained, and before Justice Bennet an examination was had. The knife was awarded to Miss Smith, but the justice handed it to Miss Carman by mistake, and she would not give it up. A replevin suit was then instituted before Judge Mott, which ended in Miss Smith's favor again, but Miss Carman's father appealed to the county court and the knife did not go out of the family. Judge Armstrong decided the case in favor of Miss Carman, and now Miss Smith's father has paid Mr. Mott, his lawyer, another fee to take it before the general term, and to have his points printed. Both families attend the same church in Merrick. Meantime, why does not somebody look up the young man who stole a trinket from one young lady to present to another?

—A Milwaukee observer of banks says, "Seven-eighths of those who obtain money by crouching and cringing to the bank as though they were asking a boon almost unequalled. The same men will march up to a wholesale merchant and ask for credit to ten times the amount without flinching a hair."

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a burden, Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much and got rid of a part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have taken but one box, and have I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, one dollar a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LROOKS.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered almost constantly with Neuralgia, Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stand up straight, and entirely free from the power. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, and no good was done. I finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Comprehensive. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. I commenced taking them, and like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My kidneys are perfectly well, and I think the Pills will do it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I tell everyone of the Pills, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they are a blessing to humanity, and those who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the luxury trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fall to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be done away; and many pressures to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to make a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke sharp discussion, and enter deeply into politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued support of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan rancor, or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with zeal the old Republican principles of which it was the champion and leader through the American conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are carried out under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of success, or consistently with its duty approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to ascertain the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; in secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. THE TRIBUNE finds itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and is earnestly striving to lighten the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it has had the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties have found themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the accumulated strength of its eleven years of its popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wrangling, and waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor in their homes, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest watchfulness and the most lavish expenditure to procure the freshest intelligence, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes many of the accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift. ☜

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to place before its readers embellishments stories, &c., &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for beauty of design and execution. Also, Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

LOOKING BACK.

Concluded from yesterday.

One evening we had all been walking on the beach, and were standing at the gate, when a man came out of Amy's house, and walked unsteadily toward us. Amy started, and murmured "Father" in a pained tone of voice, shook hands quickly, and moved away; but, as we turned to go, we could not help hearing the volley of curses with which the fellow greeted her. I turned, and should have gone back, but Walter held me.

"He is her father," he said, hoarsely; "by degrading him you degrade her;" and I felt he was right.

I hurried into the house, not to hear more; but I could not help catching the words, "gadding about at this hour of night with anybody you chance to meet;" and the words struck home to me. We had done wrong, though unintentionally. I had never thought of her as one to be judged by the conventionalities of the world, but rather as being above all suspicion, holy and saint-like, and the thought of having done this harm to her made my heart ache. When I looked out of my window in the morning, I saw Walter in the garden, pacing up and down the gravel walk by her side. My anger was aroused. It was too bad of him to draw more reproaches on her, for his own selfish pleasure. It was a mean, cowardly act. He should not do it again. Suddenly he bent down, pressed her hands to his lips, vaulted lightly over the railings, and came into the house singing and beaming with joy, while I felt all the life and happiness of my being drawn from me in that minute. I knew all, and nerved myself to hear his tale.

"Oh, Charlie," he cried bursting into the room. "I am the happiest fellow in existence. I can hardly speak for joy;" and he sat down quite overcome, and positively sobbed (he was sincere at all events); then, looking up, he said enthusiastically, "Isn't she an angel?"

"And she loves you?" asked I, in the most matter-of-fact-tone.

"Didn't ask her—I only know I love her; to hear she loved me would drive me quite wild, and I'm quite mad enough as it is, ain't I?"

"You are," said I solemnly.

"Oh, Carolus, she is the best girl that ever lived."

"Of course" said I, naturally; "and her father?"

"Only too glad to get rid of her, the brute; but I forgot, she is waiting to speak to you, she said she must see you before she could consent, to ask if you thought that would be good for me—ye gods! too good for me."

"Stop, for Heaven's sake," said I, as my heart-strings tightened in agony. I hurried from the room down to her, hardly knowing what I did. She was standing where I had first seen her, looking seawards, dressed in white, and very, very pale. She turned to me, and lifted her earnest eyes up to my face. I feared lest she might read the agony there; but no, no change came over her face, which would have looked like the angel of Pity had she guessed the strife which was going on within.

"Your cousin wishes me to be his wife," she said very quietly; "do you think it would be for his good?"

For a moment I faltered, but then my good resolution came back to me stronger than ever, and I determined to sacrifice my love on the altar of friendship; my will grew strong, and then I answered in a clear, steady voice, though within me my heart was indeed desolate. "It could not be but for his good, and with all my heart I wish you both every happiness."

She turned away, very pale, without a word, and I went back wondering if martyrdom were more bitter than the feelings I endured then. My love, my life, gone from me—gone! Oh, God! no hope, no brightness in the world now, all dull, dark misery and despair. Walter went off that very day to see my father about it, and before going asked me to see to Amy and take care of her. Her father had departed as suddenly as he came. I tried to get myself into a proper fatalistic and "che sara sara" state of mind; but no use. She was mine for the three precious days which would elapse before Walter came back. "Be happy, for to-morrow we die," was my feeling. The last day before he was expected we started for our usual walk along the shore. The tide was out very far, allowing us to pass a point we had never before reached. There was a little bay on the other side, with flat small rocks in it half buried in the sand, the cliffs hung high above us, yellow with well-flowers, a lark sung overhead, and the waves washed on the beach with a melodious soothing murmur. The sea lay blue and calm, dotted, here and there, with the white sails of the fisher boats. All around was peaceful and bright, and I was at Amy's side, happy.

"How lovely it is," she murmured; "how sad to think that the sea, which looks so calm now, has been, and will be again, so cruel and relentless to so many poor victims. To-morrow, even, it may be dark and stormy."

"Yes, to-morrow," I said; "to-morrow you may bring Walter here."

She looked up at me. I suppose my tone was unconsciously bitter; a verse of Tennyson's came to my mind as particularly appropriate, for after te-morrow

"The tender grace of a day that is dead
Will never come back to me," and a wild wish arose in me that the sea would come up and kill us there together as we sat. There was a long silence. I dare not look at her, my brain was all in a whirl. Suddenly she rose.

"The tide is coming in fast," she said; "we must turn that point quickly, or we shall be shut in!"

I sprang to my feet and we hurried down to the point. It seemed as though the sea had only just reached it, and that by a little wading through we could get to the other side; but as I climbed on to the farthest rock I saw a mass of tumbling waves—the sea was quite deep and rough there, and it would be a hard task for a good swimmer to get to the shore. There was no getting round. My terrible wish seemed near its fulfillment. Was it Satan's handiwork? It seemed like it. I looked at Amy; she understood the danger. "You have a father who cares for you," she said, quietly, "or I would not ask you to leave me."

For reply I took her in my arms and climbed the rocks as high as I could. I could just reach below high-water mark, and no more. There was very slight foothold, and we might be easily swept off—nay, if the tide were at all high, we could not help being washed away. I leant against the rock, keeping my arm around Amy. She was very quiet.

"We shall die together," I said presently.

"I am sorry for you," she murmured; "it does not matter for me."

Yet I was losing all I cared for in the world; and she—could it be that she was not happy? Meanwhile the tide came on, creeping slowly, silently, cruelly on, to rob us of life. I measured its progress. "A boat may pass," I whispered; but she shook her head, and now for the first time I looked at her. There was a calm, holy light in her eyes, as if she saw Paradise near. Still the sea came slowly on—higher—it reached our feet. I felt Amy shiver as the first wave touched her, and I drew her closer to me. She lowered her eyes from the sky, and, leaning her head on my shoulders, said very slowly:

"Charlie, I may say it now, for we are about to die. Kiss me once, Charlie, before I die; for I love you."

I bent down—I could not speak. She did not look of the earth. The waves rose higher, and as they reached her waist I kissed her, and said, "Amy, I have loved you from the first." She shivered again, and I kissed her for the last time, as we had not long to live, and then——a shout from above, and a rope dangled before us. We were saved! In a dream I fastened it round us, and we were drawn up together. It appeared that two men had seen us go to the point, and had gone to the town to get ropes. Ten minutes more, and our dead bodies would have floated out to sea. After rewarding and thanking our preservers, I looked at Amy. She was very pale, and I thought she would faint. "Are we far from the town?" I asked a man. "Only three fields away over that stile, and along the path," was the answer.

"Can you walk?" I asked Amy. She bent her head, and we walked on. At the next stile she stopped, and turned round and faced me. I stood with my head bowed down before her—the man who had betrayed his cousin and friend. But the temptation—and I thought it was my last hour.

"Charlie," said the low, sad, sweet voice, "we must see each other no more."

"I know it," I groaned. "I know you must despise me, Amy, though Heaven knows I have done my best to bide my love for you; but it was drawn from me by a mightier power than I could control."

"Ah! you bid it too well. Oh, had I only known! It is I who am despicable, but I thought death was near, and I felt then that you did love me. But that morning in the garden?"

"I thought you loved Walter," said I. "and I crushed my own love, and I would not stand between you."

At this she turned paler than before.

"He was good and kind, and I thought he was the only one who cared for me, and would take me from my father. If you only knew what misery and cruelty I have had to endure, you would pity me."

"But I was the one you loved, my darling," I said.

"Hush," was the quiet reply of the pale lips, "you must not speak like that; you must never say that again. I am bound to Walter, and you are his friend. Perhaps we may meet again when I am his wife; and, if not, life is not so very long. Good-bye, Charlie, God bless you wherever you go in this world," and she held out her hand to me. I knelt before her, and kissed her hand, and when I looked up she, my love of long ago, was going into the mist, and it shut her out for ever from me in this world.

I made some excuse to Walter for not staying to his wedding, and I wandered about, trying not to forget her, but to love her with a love which would let me see her again—a higher, holier, unselfish love—and I went abroad. When I came back after some months, Walter called on me, looking the very ghost of his former self, and told me how she had told him it was impossible for her to fulfil her engagement. She did not love him, and would not make him miserable without love, and she had retired into an Anglican Sisterhood, where she devoted herself to works of mercy. I met her once in a low court near St. Giles'. She looked at me for a moment, bent her head, and passed on; yet I could see the little hands grasp the black dress, and the sad sweet face grow paler, and I felt I was not quite forgotten even in the cloister. Two months afterward I heard from Walter that she was dead. She had been nursing some children ill with a contagious disease, and she had caught the infection herself, and it had killed her. On hearing this news, I think my reason left me for a time, and all was a blank. I was punished for my idolatry of her. When I recovered, they gave me a letter she had written to me shortly before her death—a few sisterly words, and a lock of her hair. I wander over the world seeking rest, but finding none, longing only for death to release me. Till that time shall come, my love of long ago—farewell.—Whitaker's Journal.

The Presidency.

We believe the Concord Monitor represents the true state of the case in the following article:

The Cincinnati convention does not meet until the 14th of June. Before that time, what may not occur? In view of recent events, it is not impossible, though highly improbable, that both Mr. Blaine and Mr. Bristow may be practically out of the field. It is easy to conceive of conditions which would effect this change on the political chess-board and yet leave the two gentlemen as firmly fixed in the confidence and affection of the republican masses as they are to-day. Assuming that something of this kind, if not worse, may result, what then? Who does not see that it would be extremely awkward for New Hampshire to be bound by a pledge to continue a hopeless struggle?

The true course to be pursued seems to us perfectly plain, viz: to send a delegation to Cincinnati uncommitted to any candidate, but having patriotism enough, sagacity enough, character and strength enough to command not only the unlimited respect and confidence of the republican masses of the State, but to act in any emergency that may arise either at or during any time preceeding the convention so as to best conserve the interests of New Hampshire and of the nation.

It is possible that every candidate now prominently named may by the force of circumstances be found unavailable in June. The suspicions of corruption in high circles will lead the people more and more to sternly insist on the selection of candidates for President and Vice President who are beyond reproach. Of the three men now seeking a nomination with some prospect of success, (Messrs. Blaine, Conkling and Morton,) there is no question that the Ex-Speaker is by all odds the strongest before the people. The jealousies existing between these three candidates may result in the extinguishment of their political hopes at this time. The conduct of certain advocates of Bristow's nomination, the "holier than thou" sort of people, if persisted in will not tend to conciliate the friends of Blaine, Morton and Conkling, who may unite on some compromise candidate whose reform instincts are as keen and true as those of any candidate now mentioned, and who will have the benefit of being less exposed to the antipathy of rivals. The fact should not be lost sight of that it is as difficult to elect a good candidate without work as to elect a poor one with work. No man with a true appreciation of the condition of things could with justice complain of Elisha B. Washburne, Rutherford B. Hayes, or William A. Wheeler as candidates fully and staunchly committed to reform. With the possibility that the Cincinnati convention may indicate that the only safety for the continuation of republican ascendency lies in the nomination of such a ticket as Washburne and Wheeler, Blaine and Bristow, Bristow and Blaine, or Hayes and Curtis, there can be no question that an attempt to instruct delegates from this State to vote for any one candidate now prominent would, if successful, be ill-advised and a direct impeachment of the judgment and good sense of the men who are to attend the Cincinnati convention as delegates from New Hampshire.

News and Notes.

Hon. James Williams, of Indiana, "Uncle Jimmy, the Granger," is nominated as democratic candidate for Governor of Indiana on a hard-money platform.

Malignant scarlet fever is causing considerable excitement in Manchester, and it is proposed to close the public schools to stay its ravages.

Secretary Taft is hard at work revising the estimates made by Belknap for the army. From present indications it is safe to assume that his estimates will be five or six millions less than Belknap's.

The San Francisco Chronicle continues the publication of charges alleging fraud and mismanagement at the Mare Island navy yard. It now declares that the proceeds of each year's crop of grain harvested on the island, which is more than sufficient for the wants of the Government establishment, are appropriated by the officers as pin money, and the grain required for use there is purchased in the market.

L. L. Creed, the keeper at Minot's Ledge Lighthouse, in reply to an inquiry by Commander Dewey, U. S. N., as to what effect the recent gale had upon that structure, says: "I have the honor to report that during the gale of the 4th and 5th insts. the sea for hours dashed over the tower to the height of 30 feet above the dome. Everything above the oil room was on the move, the lens itself trembling violently. The sea broke on the ledge with such tremendous force as to displace a section of the rock, weighing in my opinion some four or five hundred weight. Altogether it was the most terrible gale I have seen during my residence in this Light, some nine years. The sea continued to dash clean over the lighthouse for ten hours after the gale abated."

As fast as fractional currency is received in exchange for silver the paper money will be destroyed, but it is the purpose of the Department to hold for reissue, in case of future necessity, such fractional currency as may be presented by banks and other parties for redemption in greenbacks, of which there is now on hand about $150,000. The Director of the Mint has ordered the Mints to do extra work in order to coin silver as rapidly as possible. About $2,000,000 per month can be coined when worked to their fullest capacity. Should the bill now under consideration in the Senate pass, which provides a new silver dollar to be a legal-tender except for customs duties and interest on the public debt to the extent of twenty dollars and with which greenbacks may be redeemed dollar for dollar, it will make necessary the establishment of an additional Mint.

The Appropriation Committee of Congress have completed their appropriation for the navy, making it $14,000,000, reducing the seamen in the navy from 8500 to 7500 men. The appropriation for the Post Office is $33,500,000. The committee are in consultation with the Naval Committee concerning charges in the navy yards. They think of temporarily closing the Kittery yard; abolishing that at New London entirely, and surrendering the site to those who gave it; abandoning also the Pensacola Navy Yard, and selling that at Boston. I they can agree upon these moves they will probably establish a naval station, but no yard, at Port Royal.

John Dolan, who murdered Mr. James W. Noe in New York, was hanged on Friday.

Whitewashing.

The committee on rules of the House of Representatives, in the case of Charles H. Smith of Newmarket, who went to Washington as Congressman Jones' private secretary and was speedily rotated into the position of journal clerk of the House, which his predecessor had acceptably filled for thirty years under both parties, reported that "they find that the statements in Smith's explanatory letter were entirely true; that he had no intention to violate the law, and did violate no law, but was guilty of a gross indiscretion, which cannot be too sternly reprehended. His action had placed him in a situation where he was required to decide between duty and interest." No specific resolution accompanied the report. Mr. Cox, who made the report, said the whole report was in the nature of a condemnation, in consequence of which the clerk had resigned. If Smith had been a republican official, and a republican investigating committee had made such a report as that, what a howl of "whitewash" and "partisan partiality" the democratic orators and editors would have set up! Smith "violated no law,"—oh, no! In a "situation where he was required to decide between duty and interest" he was merely "guilty of the gross indiscretion" of acting as his "interest" dictated instead of his "duty." That's all. Thereupon a committee representing the salt of the earth, i. e., the democratic "reformers" of the House, makes a report which, being "in the nature of a condemnation," requires no specific recommendation of censure.—so no censure is given, the democratic official gracefully resigns, and all is lovely. Cannot our democratic brethren favor us with just one of their old-time howls about whitewashing, on this occasion? It would be quite refreshing, just now, when so many democratic committees are engaged in recklessly squirting mud drawn from the gutters at every reputation bright enough to show a mud-stain,—provided only that the owner of the reputation is a republican.

TO MY PATIENTS!
DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,
Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skilful and conscientious
Dental Practitioner.
DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.
I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, now, rather to give it than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.
If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence exercised to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.
N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in preventing Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

The Glorious Fourth.

The following circular, signed by Messrs. William H. Sise, T. E. O. Marvin and Joseph P. Morse, has been sent to the selectmen of the towns in Rockingham county:

Gentlemen:—It has been suggested in the public Press, that the coming Centennial Fourth of July be commemorated by an historic and patriotic celebration, by counties; and at a meeting of the Portsmouth Board of Trade, the undersigned were appointed a committee to take preliminary steps to organize a County committee to carry to a successful issue the celebration of our one hundredth birth day as a Nation, by old Rockingham county. To this end, you are invited to meet at the City rooms, Portsmouth, on Monday, May 1st, at eleven o'clock, A. M., to confer together, and take such action as may appear expedient and proper in the matter. It is earnestly hoped you will attend in person, and aid the enterprise with your counsel, or send some person to represent your town.

A Serenade.

Col. John J. Dillon, of Manchester, commander of the First Regiment, State Militia, met the Portsmouth Artillery Company in this city on Thursday evening, and formally announced that the company had been attached to his regiment as Company K. One purpose of his visit was to inspect the arms of the company sent them by the State. Finding that Capt. Marvin had on the same day secured a personal lease of the room heretofore used as the Armory, and wherein the guns were stored, for the period of one year, Col. Dillon was unable to accomplish the full purpose of his visit, and a company meeting was held at the Common Council room. The members of the company are very much pleased at being assigned to Col. Dillon's regiment, and testified their esteem by tendering him a serenade by the Naval Band about eleven o'clock at the Rockingham House, which although an impromptu affair brought out a large number of friends of the company, who listened for an hour to a rich musical treat such as is seldom offered in out-of-door concerts, the finest selection being a medley in which among a score of other melodies "Way Down on the Swanee River" was deliciously performed. Col. Dillon was called out and made a brief speech of acknowledgment to the company for the courtesy extended him and congratulating himself that such a public spirited organization had come under his command. The company responded with three cheers and a "tiger," and are evidently warm friends of their new commander.

Aldermanic.

Adjourned.

Keep to the Right.

A gentleman who resides at the West End and with his wife attends church on Sundays, desires to enter a remonstrance against the manner in which the worshippers at St. Mary's Church monopolize the sidewalks after service. He says two streams of church attendants — from St. Mary's and the down-town churches—meet on Islington or Congress streets every Sunday, going in opposite directions, and the St. Mary's people stick to the middle of the walk and compel all others either to take the street for it or be bounced up against the fences and houses. He does not consider this the result of intentional rudeness, but of heedlessness only, and thinks a suggestion that all annoyance would be obviated simply by each person keeping to the right according to custom, may be all that is needed; so we hereby make that suggestion.

The Historical Exhibition

From the old thirteen States, and from England, will doubtless result in one of the most successful and interesting features of the whole great Exhibition at Philadelphia; and it certainly is one of the most important and valuable, and in which the old States are without competitors in the new and larger Commonwealths; and New Hampshire can hardly be excelled in the historic line among them all, if proper effort be made by all concerned.

We understand from Hon. F. W. Miller, the Centennial Historian for the State, that he is meeting with encouragement, and nothing but encouragement, on all hands; and already has the promise of a large number of historic portraits and other pictures and articles of State and National interest, for exhibition. Among these, are pictures of the first meeting-house in the State, built at Dover Point, and the first church in the State, built at Portsmouth; also, the whole gallery of old portraits at the State House will be sent, and doubtless many from cities and towns all over the State. And if "the Sword of Bunker Hill" has not yet appeared, at least one of the old flint-lock muskets which did service in that battle is expected, and a powder-horn from the battle of Lake George.

Parties willing to contribute articles for exhibition, are requested to inform Mr. Miller, or Mr. J. H. Foster, at his bookstore in this city. The National Centennial Committee will pay for transportation of articles to Philadelphia and return; and the State Committee will assume the cost of boxing pictures, etc., to be sent. Immediate action on the part of all interested is desired.

Jottings.

The ladies and gentlemen of the Club are requested to assemble at Mechanic's Hall at 2:15 o'clock, and proceed to the Church, where seats will be reserved for them.

The Board of Aldermen struck from the appropriation bill, before passing it, the amount devoted to purchasing the South Millpond.

The new Oceanic Hotel at Star Island has been raised and will be ready early in June for its furnishings. There will be 178 sleeping-rooms.

It having been currently reported about town that Mr. Joseph Pettigrew is sick with small-pox, we are authorized to pronounce the story absolutely false. Mr. Pettigrew has been ill for a few days with inflamation of the bowels, but is convalescing and will be out in a short time.

Removing Life's Heaviest Burden.

To remove the burden of disease, the heaviest that poor humanity is compelled to bear, is certainly a grand object, a glorious mission. Assuredly the discoverer of a remedy which accomplishes this result is entitled to the gratitude and respect of mankind. Such a remedy is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, whose great success is attributable to the fact that its restorative action upon the debilitated and disordered system is in accordance with the principles of common sense. It invigorates the sick, and, as their strength increases, the burden of disease grows lighter. It reforms those physical irregularities which render weakness chronic, and thus eradicates the evil at its very source. Liver complaint, malarious fevers, constipation, urinary troubles, uterine weakness, and many other causes of general debility and ill heath, are completely removed by the combined tonic and alterative operation of the Bitters.

"Don't you forget" to call for Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam when troubled with a cough or cold. For sale by all druggists.

Valuable and Reliable. — "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES" are invaluable to those exposed to sudden changes, affording prompt relief in Coughs, Colds, etc.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $35,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for insurance as this.

A Recipe for Cake.

Fifty years old if a day, and her name was Eliza Fox. She lives on National avenue, and she made a trip to the eastern portion of the city to get a recipe for making cake. She got the recipe, got some beer and got into the station, and she wasn't half as anxious about her case as some of the audience. She slowly followed Bijah out, musing:

"Use about a pint of flour, put in a chunk of butter about as large as a walnut, and break in—"

"Now, then," interrupt His Honor, "this looks bad to see a woman of your age here."

"Well, I had some beer," she softly replied, "and break in four eggs, grate in your lemon-peel, stir well, and bake in a hot oven."

"What have you to say about this case?" asked the Court.

"Nothing. You can do all the talking—quart of flour—four eggs—lemon peel—outmeg—hot oven."

"You were never here before?"

"I don't remember that I was. Will you take a recipe down for me before I forget it?"

"I've got a recipe for ending drunkenness," replied His Honor.

"I don't want it; and after the cake has baked for fifteen minutes remove from the oven and put on your frosting."

"Do you want to go to the House of Correction?" queried the Court.

"No, sir, I don't. What do I want to go cramping way up there for?"

"But you were so sadly intoxicated that the officer had to hire an express wagon to bring you down here."

"Is that so? Then I came here by express, did I? Was I packed in a box?"

"You must be very careful in the future. It's a very bad thing for a woman to get drunk."

"No wonder 'tis for the man, and after the frosting has set the cake back in the oven for three or four minutes."

"Will you promise me?" asked the Court.

"Yes, I'll promise!" she angrily exclaimed, "but I wish you wouldn't talk so much—you put me all out!"

She stood off and glared at His Honor and then, tapping her finger on the railing, continued:

"You take about a quart of flour—about a quart. You put in a hunk of butter about as big as a walnut and you break in three or four—"

"You may bark out," said the Court.

"Well, I will. I want to get somewhere where I can write down the recipe before I forget it."

She pushed her way through the crowd to the door, and as she stepped out she was heard muttering:

"Quart of flour—four eggs—five minutes!"—M. Quad.

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, and from that time to the present their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and the testimonials from families came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, and Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay for several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report that one more such package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I will forward one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I was troubled with Liver Complaint. I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I was bent only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly from Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in my back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, and received little or no help, concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Comprehensive Medical Guide, was induced to try what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Commenced taking them right, like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My kidneys are acceptable at any time in one and three, it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wished to try your medicine. I lained and let her have them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they are a blessing to humanity and the world will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Better at 64 than 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.50 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the choice of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Cronp,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
—USE—
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

PULMOCINE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fail in pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke sharp discussion, and enter largely into politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or wishes.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles for which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money; diminish taxation; reform the abuses in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy filling the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be as clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere party ties, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system, to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have their within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already contributed it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the qualities which give it judicial fairness; it will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as a rule editorial will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal is desirable in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1872 and 1873 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by its closely condensed news and the most lavish expenditure to procure the freshest intelligence, the most complete reports, the most trustworthy and exact information on the leading topics in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

Explosion in Salt Lake.

A few minutes before five o'clock last evening a deafening noise was heard, and the whole city and country for miles around shook and trembled. The fearful sound had not died away before a second and louder one followed, and a moment afterward a third and still louder came. The first had created a panic in the upper part of the town, which was succeeded by dire consternation. People rushed madly in every direction, scarcely knowing whither they were going. Many women fainted and fell in the streets. Men were prostrated. The heedless panic lasted but a minute, when it was succeeded by another wild rushing of humanity, this time with a definite object in view. Huge clouds of smoke arose from Arsenal Hill, which explained all. The magazines had exploded, and there was a general stampede for the scene. There were four magazines on the hill, about one mile north and east of the Temple block. The magazines were substantially built of stone and concrete. The doors were iron and the roofs metal, and they were considered absolutely safe houses for the purpose.

At the time there were some forty tons of powder—sporting, blasting, giant, and Hercules—in the four magazines. It is not known, and will probably remain a mystery which magazine first exploded. Two explosions occurred so nearly at the same instant that the double report could barely be distinguished. There are many theories as to the cause. The one most likely to be correct is the following:—Yesterday a couple of young men—Charles Richardson and Frank Hill—went up City Creek canon to drive some cattle. They were returning by way of the magazines, and while near the latter were seen to fire, it is thought at some cranes that were flying over. The discharge of the gun was instantly followed by the explosions. It may have been that the boys shot at one of the magazine doors, causing a concussion sufficient to explode the Hercules and giant powder. It has been the careless and most reprehensible and dangerous practice ever since the magazines were built, to make rifle and pistol targets of the doors, some of which bore the indentations of scores of bullets. The magazines were completely demolished, and the material of which they were constructed scattered for miles in all directions. Not one stone lay on top of another, and where the buildings stood deep holes were torn in the earth.

It is definitely known that four persons were killed, and it is believed that others have perished. Hundreds of men, women, boys and girls were on the ground within twenty minutes after the explosions. A search was instituted and soon a mangled foot was found. * * Portions of the clothing and bodies picked up have been recognized as those of the young men Richardson and Hill. The former was eighteen years of age. Hill was sixteen years old. Mary Jane Van Natta was pumping water at the well of Mr. Winberg, opposite her own residence, when a boulder struck her in the back killing her instantly. The rock passed through her body, horribly crushing and mangling it. The boulder had been thrown at least three-quarters of a mile from the magazines. Master James H. Radden, a lad three years and a half old, was struck by a rock and instantly killed. At this time it would be impossible to detail all of the injuries resulting to persons. Numbers were knocked against walls, others were thrown to the ground unconscious, many were bruised and hurt, and not a few were hit by falling stones. Charles Johnson was struck on the hip by a cobble, and considerably bruised. Mrs. Peter Thomasson was hit with a piece of iron which severely lacerated the flesh of her arm. A piece of rock cut off the tip of an ear of a little son of Mr. D. P. Kimball. A partition in Mr. Collett's house was thrown down on the little son of the gentleman, bruising the boy; not serious. Mrs. Dahlquist had her arm severely torn by a piece of falling plaster. Besides the above several persons were hit by cobbles and more or less injured.

Any estimate at this time of the amount of damage done to property would be merely a guess. The greatest loss is probably in glass. Main street presented a scene of destruction in that respect. Scores of huge plate windows, valued at from fifty to five hundred dollars each, were crumbled into fine bits. Hundreds of residences were left with scarcely a whole pane of glass in them. There are very few houses within a mile and a half of the explosion but suffered in this respect, while many were greatly damaged otherwise.

There was a furious and destructive storm of rocks in the upper part of the city, and many narrow escapes from death occurred. A huge boulder fell through the roof and upper floor of H. P. Kimball's house. Another weighing about twenty pounds crushed through the roof and ceiling of Col. Page's residence, falling on a bedroom floor, where it lodged. One struck a plank walk at the Deseret University, went through the boards, and buried itself in the earth. A rock weighing 115 pounds fell through the roof, ceiling and floor of Shingleton's saloon, opposite the theatre, and sank four feet in the ground beneath. This rock had been hurled more than a mile through the air. Another boulder weighing forty pounds went through the roof and two floors of Major Little's new residence; another through the barn of Mr. George Dunford, Seventeenth Ward. A rock weighing thirty-six pounds went over the museum and buried itself in the lot behind. These are but a few instances where rocks were hurled from a half mile to a mile and a half and did damage.

At the time of the explosion, Mr. Marcenna Cannon, in the Seventeenth Ward, was working by a lighted lamp, which was overturned by the shock. The oil ignited and set fire to his house. Water being at hand, the flames were extinguished. A little silver bar was thrown through the window of Mr. George Lufkin's residence, two blocks west of the Townsend House. It is thought that one of the young men who were killed had the bar in his pocket when the explosion occurred.

Much of the black powder did not burn at the time of the explosion, and lies scattered all over the hill. Strange as it may appear some of the kegs were not bursted, while the demolition and destruction of everything else was so complete. The metal roofs were torn into bits and scattered to the four winds, and whole kegs of powder were picked up a short distance from where the houses stood. This powder is as dangerous now as ever, and people should avoid going on the hill, unless they court destruction. There is enough power in a stick of Hercules powder to literally tear in pieces an army, and a slight concussion might cause it to explode. The terrible disaster did not seem to have the effect of imparting caution to some yesterday. Parties picked up and carelessly handled the sticks of powder, and some of it was carried to the city by men and boys.—Salt Lake Herald, April 6.

Blaine on Conkling.

Ten years ago Mr. Blaine and Mr. Conkling had a lively controversy in the House and expressed their opinions of each other quite freely. In the progress of the discussion Conkling said: "If the gentleman from Maine had the least idea how profoundly indifferent I am to his opinion upon the subject he has been discussing, or upon any other subject pertinent to me, I think that he would hardly take the trouble to rise here and express his opinion, and, as it is a matter of entire indifference to me what that opinion may be, I certainly will not detain the House by discussing the question whether it is well or ill-founded, or by noticing what he says." He concluded by calling Blaine's conduct "ungentlemanly, impertinent, and having nothing whatever to do with the question." Blaine closed the discussion as follows: "As to the gentleman's cruel sarcasm, I hope he will not not be too severe. The contempt of that large-minded gentleman is so wilting; his haughty disdain, his grandiloquent swell, his majestic, supereminent, overpowering turkey-gobbler strut has been so crushing to myself and all the members of this House that I know that it was an act of the greatest temerity for me to venture upon a controversy with him. But, sir, I know who is responsible for all this. I know that within the last five weeks, as members of the House will recollect, an extra strut has characterized the gentleman's bearing. It is not his fault. It is the fault of another. That gifted and satirical writer, Theodore Tilton, of the New York Independent, spent some weeks recently in this city. His letters published in that paper embraced, with many serious statements, a little jocose satire, a part of which was the statement that the mantle of the late Winter Davis had fallen upon the member from New York. The gentleman took it seriously, and it has given his strut additional pomposity. The resemblance is great. It is striking. Hyperion to a Satyr, Thersites to Hercules, mud to marble, dung-hill to diamond, a singed cat to a Bengal tiger, a whining puppy to a roaring lion. Shade of the mighty Davis, forgive the almost profanation of that jocose satire!"

The Belfry Tragedy.

Thomas W. Piper, of Boston, now under sentence to be hanged May 26th for the murder of Mabel H. Young, gives the following account, claiming that she was killed by accident and that he dared not acknowledge that he knew anything about it. He says: Something having been said about its being warm, and also some complaint about the heat of the church, he went into the tower, opened the trap door, and propped it up with the bat stick for the purpose of letting the air off from the tower. He left the door propped up with the bat stick, and returned down stairs, and when he went out of the tower door upon the gallery floor Mabel Young was coming out of the organ loft, and she spoke to him and wanted to know what there was up in the tower, and asked him if she could run up there, and he declined to let her go up. Finally he let her go up while he was doing something on the gallery floor. After she had been gone about a minute it occurred to him that there might be some danger of her going up and getting hurt by the trap door unless he went and cautioned her; and so he went, and when he got to the floor below the bell deck she was nearly up to the top of the ladder, and when he spoke to her and told her to be careful she pressed right on to see the pigeons, and he said by the time he got to the foot of the stair, the first thing that attracted his attention was the bat stick, which came down on the floor, and he looked up and saw she had fallen and the trap-door was on her. Her legs and body were on the top of the stairs, her head and arm were caught between the trap door and the coping. He rushed as rapidly as he could and lifted up the trap door and took her in his arms, and tried to stand her up, but she could not stand and was screaming very violently all the time. As he could not stand her up on the bell deck he laid her down, and then started down with the intention of giving an alarm. When he got down he met two or three ladies in the lower vestibule, and among them Miss Hinman, but he was so frightened he did not say anything, and the result was his personal fear induced him subsequently to be wholly silent concerning what he had seen. Then as he reflected he was still more afraid because he knew that the detectives at City Hall had an enmity and hostility to him. He felt, "Indeed, that the officers might take advantage of his serious position to directly connect him with the crime in view of the previous record they had attached to him. He positively denied having ever jumped from the window.

It is stated on excellent authority that Piper never mentioned to either of his counsel this story of his connection with the case, but simply insisted throughout that he was innocent. It is a little remarkable therefore, that Mr. Avery, in the first trial, should have argued that the girl's death was caused by the fall of the door.

The selectmen of Laconia ask to be relieved from enforcing the prohibitory law. The Reform Club has voted for enforcement and many members are leaving for the reason.

The friends of a woman who apparently died near Bangor, not long ago, noticed changes in the color of the face, indicating life after the body was laid out, and have been keeping the body for about ten days, though it has remained motionless all the time.

After a man has been drilled through an apprenticeship of many years to the art of editing a newspaper, he feels that he has mistaken his calling when some ignorant cuss, who never patronized a newspaper a dollar's worth in his life, travels through wind and weather to point out defects which he alone could tell the editor how to remedy. Why he continues to drudge along through this vale of tears, earning at some humble calling a paltry dollar a day, when he might be directing the great minds of the world, is past all human comprehension.—Turner's Falls Reporter.

Dr. H. V. Redfield, a correspondent of the New York Herald, who has traveled extensively in the South for the last few years, draws a gloomy picture of the future of the negro in this country. He says: "America has proved the tomb of every race but the white race. That the negroes in America will fade away within the next two centuries as have the Indians I have no doubt. There decrease in freedom will be as rapid as was their increase in slavery. The mortuary reports of every Southern city show this. There is not a city in the Southern States where the blacks are not dying year after year at a rate of from sixty to three hundred per cent. faster than the whites, and the rate keeps up year after year, as the mortuary reports show."

The National executive republican committee has received from Cincinnati a plan of the manner in which it is proposed to fit up the Exposition Hall there for the republican convention. There will be 500 chairs on the stage, desks for 200 reporters in the orchestra, seats for 2,000 delegates in the parquette, and space for 2000 spectators in the galleries, in all accommodations for 4700.

Short items are the oftenest clipped, and that is why they keep short.

Gen. Hancock has been invited to command the Centennial Legion at the Centennial. Gen. Burnside will command the New England Battalion, and Gen. Fitz Hugh Lee the Southern Battalion.

Abbott, the Osgipee wife murderer, has pleaded guilty of murder in the second degree, and been sentenced to State Prison for thirty years.

Political.

No man need take alarm, after reading the life of Mr. Bristow and his brave words, that he is in danger of apostatizing like Tyler or Johnson, if elected to the Presidency. Both of these were originally democrats, the former a political changeling through life, and the latter a man whose manhood and courage had been sapped by strong drink. Mr. Bristow never was a democrat; there were no democratic associations around his hearthstone, and the institution of slavery was always repugnant to himself and every member of his family. And after he has braved the dangers of the battlefield, has endured social and political ostracism and the destruction of his home, after he has seen his parents fleeing for their lives before the mad adherents of the rebellion, it is hardly to be supposed that he would now go back and join hands with his old enemies who were never his friends, for the advancement of a cause which has thus far provoked only his relentless opposition and abhorrence. This is not human nature; it is impossible. It is a noble thing to be a true republican, as tried by the party standard; but it is nobler and grander to have been tried in the furnace of rebel hate, to have been the subject of its ingenious and remorseless malignity, and never once found wanting.—Exeter News-Letter.

Five democratic Representatives from Ward Four and eight from Ward Five in Manchester, have been notified that their seats will be contested, on the ground that they did not receive a majority of the legal votes at the last election, and that there are not ratable polls enough to entitle said Wards to the number of Representatives elected. Three republican representatives elected in Ward Three have also been notified for similar reasons.

Newburyport has chosen an unpledged delegation to the Massachusetts State convention. A motion to instruct them for Bristow was defeated.

Governor Chamberlain's late victory at the Columbia convention is said to have given him the inside track for a regular republican renomination for the Governorship.

We wish our democratic friends would, temporarily at least, heal their differences, for we want to see Gov. Tilden nominated for the Presidency. We do not know of a single prominent candidate for that office on his side of the house whom it would be easier to defeat.—Albany Express.

There is a contest in Louisiana in republican circles between Warmoth and Packard for the control of the party. Warmoth is for Conkling for President. His opponents are for Blaine or Morton.

The Connecticut delegation of twelve to the Cincinnati convention have had a meeting and voted to present the name of Postmaster General Jewell a candidate for President.

The recent charges of the whiskey ring that Secretary Bristow was guilty of improper conduct with reference to certain actions against S. T. Suit have fallen to the ground, because no one has been found to vouch for them.

The democratic party has been tried and found wanting—office.—N. O. Republican.

Mr. Blaine will probably be the first choice of all the New Hampshire delegation. Mr. Bristow's friends are numerous, but we are sure the sentiment of this section of the State is strongly in favor of Mr. Blaine.—Coos Republican.

The Keene Sentinel invited its subscribers to send to the Sentinel office their preferences for President and Vice President, and the result thus far is as follows: Blaine and Bristow, 168; Bristow and Blaine, 54; Bristow and Cragin, 1; Conkling and Hayes, 1; Conkling and Bristow, 1; Adams and Bristow, 1. The Conkling votes came from residents of New York State; all the others are cast by New Hampshire men.

The democratic House turned out the venerable journal clerk who has served both parties faithfully for thirty years, and now it is compelled to eject his democratic successor after four months' trial. At this rate it would require ninety democrats to equal one republican.—Boston Journal.

It required the intervention of a brass band to silence the tumult at the Indiana democratic State convention.

—Macaulay had such a memory that when he was a boy he used to go about remembering things for the fun of it instead of playing with other boys. He remembered anything he saw and heard and read, and a great deal besides. It is perfectly awful to be so unfortunate. But there were no investigations in those days.—Graphic.

—Now they say the report of that shower of flies in Canada is true enough if you knock the "f" off of flies. They often have such showers in Washington.—Vicksburg Herald.

—An exchange speaks of a woman so crosseyed that when she weeps tears from her left eye they drop on her right cheek.

TO MY PATIENTS!
DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,
Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious
Dental Practitioner.
DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.
I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.
If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.
N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

The NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE will be sent free to any address until after the PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION on the receipt of one dollar in advance.

Bring in Your Votes.

Following the example of the Keene Sentinel, we invite our Republican readers in New Hampshire to send in to this office their votes of preference for a Presidential candidate, and the voters' names. On the 1st day of May we will announce the result.

Elwyn Park.

We learn that a movement is really being made for the building of a footbridge across the South Millpond, from the Court House to the Park grounds, and it is hoped that this centennial year will witness the completion of said bridge at least.

It is also designed to plant not only a centennial tree in the Park, but a hundred of them, and Rev. Mr. Elwyn will give the evergreen and deciduous trees for the purpose. The arbor day, for this planting, is not yet decided upon, but the 23d of May, the anniversary of the landing of the first settlers of New Hampshire at Odiorne's Point, is suggested. There will be suitable services—an address, music, speeches, etc., and it is safe to say that the occasion will be one of the events of this eventful year.

To all who are interested in the building of the Park, we would state that Mr. Henry M. Clark is treasurer of the trustees, and will receive any contributions for this object.

P. M. L. A.

The Mercantile Library Association held one of the most interesting meetings for years on Friday evening. Several new members were voted in—just the sort needed: young, active men, who ought to renew and resume the old time discussions and debates; and as ladies also are now eligible to full membership, they should avail themselves of the opportunity to practice in discussions—public speaking, we mean, of course—and the science of government.

The following officers were elected for the year:

President, William H. Sise;
Vice President, Clarence O. Walker;
Secretary, Albert H. Sides;
Treasurer, Howard N. Danyon;
Librarian, Wm. C. Robinson;
Directors, Wm. A. Hodgdon, Thomas H. Odion, James C. Brown, Floron Barri, C. A. Hazlett, C. Morris Tredick;
Trustees,—For three years, Charles H. Mendom; for two years, Frank W. Miller; for one year, Daniel J. Vaughan.

Another meeting for business and discussion will be held on Friday evening next, when all members, and ladies and gentlemen desiring to become such, are invited to attend. The admission fee is only $1, and the annual assessment $2.50, with the privilege of the excellent library of 1600 volumes, and an opportunity of learning how to become a public discussionist, if only you want to and are adapted thereto.

Democratic Economy.

The appropriation and naval committees of the democratic House of Representatives propose to give the site of the navy yard at New London back to its donors, to sell the Boston yard, and close the yard here. As an offset a naval station (not a navy yard) will be established at Port Royal, South Carolina. How well the proposition to close this navy yard for two years will suit the democrats of this vicinity, and those republicans who assisted the democrats to gain a majority in the House by voting for Frank Jones, we cannot say; but as far as we are concerned we should like to see plenty of work on the yard, no matter what ticket the workmen might vote or what party might rule in National affairs. This action of the committees in abolishing—or aiming to abolish—all the New England navy yards, and to make a big naval station in the South to eventually take their place, is of a piece with the previous action of the House in appropriating a few thousand dollars for the improvement of rivers and harbors at the North, while millions were devoted to the South, where every insignificant trout-brook was considered worthy the expenditure of a large sum,—and with the appropriation of $400,000 to build a custom-house at Memphis, Tenn., where a moderate sized wood-shed would amply accommodate the custom-house business, while needed repairs on public buildings at the North were suspended from lack of funds. Verily, a democratic "reform" House of Representatives is a fearful and wonderful thing,—and none the less so when ruled by a detacement of rebel brigadiers.

Jottings.

Rev. Mr. Stetson, pastor of the Baptist Church at Cape Neddick, having offered to present a new bell for the church, if the society would build a belfry,—said belfry is nearly finished, and in this centennial year the clangor of the church-going bell will for the first time wake the echoes of old Ogunquit and Agamenticus. There be pastors, shepherds indeed—such as this Cape man above and Mr. Rand of Seabrook, who provide bells for their churches, and the churches also if need be.

We have received the May number of the Folio, which contains, beside the usual amount of miscellaneous reading matter and selections of music, a fine portrait of Mr. Charles Barron, the popular Boston actor.

A third candidate, William H. Rollins, Esq., is mentioned as a suitable man for delegate to the Cincinnati convention, by an esteemed contributor.

The Eclectic for May contains the conclusion of Rev. James Martineau's paper on "Modern Materialism; Its Attitude toward Theology," which is attracting so much attention both in this country and in England. Another extremely important and suggestive paper is that on "The Catholic Peril in America," by Mr. Francis E. Abbott. The remaining contents of the number are as usual, interesting and varied. The number also contains a portrait of President Andrew D. White, of Cornell University, and a brief editorial sketch of his life. Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond street, New York, Terms, $5 per year; Single number, 45 cents.

This office claims to have discovered the "Great Unknown," but whether it be in malice prepense or mistaken zeal, it is difficult to decide. We had written: "No man with a true appreciation of the condition of things could with justice complain of Elihu B. Washburne" as a candidate fully and staunchly committed to reform. The compositor deliberately moved that the word "Elihu" be changed to "Elisha;" the wicked proof-reader seconded the motion; and the two passed it unanimously! Now it is not exceedingly probable (though very possible) that Eli will succeed Uly as President of the United States; yet his name should be a little more familiarly known to the world in which compositors and proof-readers move and have a being. There are some things which they are capable of, and mystery then finds its match. Propound a question and an answer of some kind will surely come. Mention that James Gillespie Blaine fears only the "Great Unknown," and up rises ye humble compos with "Elisha B. Washburne." Oh! Death, where is thy sting? Oh, Grave, where is thy victory?"

The Highland Park Hotel, at Aiken, South Carolina, is one of the most popular and famous hostelries in the South, and is largely patronized by northern people. By a circular received from a friend boarding there, we learn the order of exercises at the planting of a centennial tree in the hotel grounds on April 15. There was a procession, with band, marshals, president of the day, poet and speakers, etc., and a tremendous time generally. Mr. and Mrs. P. Dow represent New Hampshire on the numerous committee, but we Dow not know who they are. The tree was planted to the music of "Red, White and Blue," "Yankee Doodle," and "Hail Columbia." Good, so—let us hope it will flourish well in South Carolina soil.

A lodge of the Knights of Honor was instituted at Rochester recently by Dictator Joseph H. Gardiner, of Sagamore Lodge of this city.

A favorite Newfoundland dog, belonging to Capt. Charles H. Salter of Greenland, was run over by the cars on the C. & P. Railroad recently, and had one of his hind legs crushed. The poor fellow was found in the woods the next day, after a long search, carried home, ether administered, the leg properly amputated, and he turns out as good a three-legged dog as there is hereabouts.—Journal.

The Howard Benevolent Society finds itself short of funds to meet the many calls which "hard times" makes upon its treasury. Any donation to the Treasurer, (John Stavers, Esq.,) will be well applied.

Bryant's Minstrels, from Bryant's Opera House, New York, will appear at the Temple on Thursday evening. The company is spoken of in terms which seem to border very closely on the extravagant, by the press of the large cities, and if but half as good an entertainment is given here as the troupe has given in other places, all attending will be satisfied. The Washington Chronicle says "the jokes are not the usual old 'Joe Millerisms' of such companies, but are full of genuine wit and quiet humor, and that several members of the troupe are fine ballad singers, while the chorus is a grand one." The Baltimore Sun says "their fun is too funny to be described, but it is very much laughed at." Lew Benedict and T. M. Hengler are in the company.

A large crowd gathered in front of Hotchinson & Connell's store on Saturday evening, to witness the working of Mr. Alberto C. Fernald's miniature steamboat, in the window. The "trip" was entirely satisfactory to all concerned.

See advertisement of the blind man who repairs cane-seat chairs. He does his work faithfully and at reasonable rates, and is emphatically one of the deserving poor.

Mr. Joseph R. Holmes has been awarded the contract of setting the edge stones on Richards Avenue.

Capt. Nathan White, of Greenland, fell dead in that town on Saturday.

Runaway Accidents.

On Saturday afternoon a span of horses, belonging to the Farragut House at Rye Beach, were left standing unhitched on Congress street, and becoming frightened ran away with the carriage to which they were attached, going at a rapid rate in the direction of the Creek. When just past the Academy the runaway team overtook the wagon of Mr. Levi Brackett of Greenland, in which that gentleman was proceeding toward his home, and attempted apparently to jump over it, both of the Farragut House horses alighting in the wagon and the pole of the carriage striking Mr. Brackett on the back of the head and throwing him to the ground. The runaway ended there, the two teams being piled in a confused heap, from which they were extricated, however, with less damage to either than might have been expected. Mr. Brackett was taken up unconscious, and bleeding profusely, and at a late hour at night was taken to his home, not having fully recovered his senses at that time. He is badly bruised about the head, and has several cuts, but no bones are broken.

Not long after the above occurrence, as Capt. Thomas Hoyt, of Kittery Point, was starting for home in his wagon, one of the reins became entangled either with the step of the wagon or some part of the harness, causing the old gentleman to lose control of the horse, which was going at a good gait (though not running away) across Market Square toward Market street. When near the corner Capt. Hoyt (who was leaning forward endeavoring to clear the rein, but at the same time keeping a good lookout ahead,) shouted to two persons who were just stepping off the sidewalk to take care, thereby saving them from injury, as they barely cleared the team as it was. A moment later the wagon struck a post and threw Capt. Hoyt out headlong, the horse afterward running as far down Market street as J. Rider & Son's store, where he stopped, the wagon being badly broken up. Capt. Hoyt was taken into Hill's drug store, where it was found that a large part of his left ear was torn or crushed off, his head badly cut and bruised, one arm badly bruised, and other slighter injuries occasioned by the fall; but no bones were broken. After his wounds were dressed he was taken home in a hack, his mind seeming somewhat confused, though he was more rational than Mr. Brackett.

Both the injured men are elderly—about 65 years old, each; and serious results are feared in each case, as the shock to their nervous system must be very great. Mr. Brackett is a well-known farmer of Greenland. Capt. Hoyt was for years a master mariner, and later drove a stage between this city and Kittery Point; he is highly spoken of by those who know him.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9542 policies, insuring nearly $25,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, or the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

Daily Chronicle.

—When a loafer enters the sanctum of a busy editor, and the editor says, "Glad to see you're back," what does he mean?

—It is feared the last cold snap damaged the buds on the Keely motor, and it will not bear fruit this year. All it has accomplished thus far has been to go on a "bust," and kick out the partition of the room in which it is kept. A twenty-seven dollar mule would have done as well.—Vicksburg Herald.

—Nearly half a century ago pretty Peggy O'Neil, the daughter of a country tavern keeper at Bladensburg, won the heart of a purser in the navy, Mr. Timberlake, and after his death married Gen. James Eaton. When Eaton became Gen. Jackson's Secretary of War, she ruled "society" with an iron hand, and finally by her exactions jealousies were aroused, and squabbles led to the formation of the famous "kitchen cabinet," in which Amos Kendall, Frank Blair, Sr., and other politicians holding minor positions or none at all, wielded an authority superior to that of the members of the cabinet themselves. When Jackson's term was over, their reign ended. After her husband's death, she devoted her large income to charities and the education of her grandchildren. Subsequently, when past sixty, she married a handsome young French dancing master, who in a few years squandered all her property, robbed her of all her jewels and personal property of which he could gain possession, and eloped with her granddaughter. Mrs. Eaton is still a sprightly woman, with traces of former beauty in the face framed by silver hair.

Thanks "From the Depths of the Heart."

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sir—Your medicines, Golden Medical Discovery, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, have proved of the greatest service to me. Six months ago no one thought that I could possibly live long. I had a complication of diseases,—scrofula, manifesting itself in eruptions and great blotches on my head that made such sores that I could not have my hair combed without causing me much suffering; also causing swollen glands, tonsils enlarged or "thick neck," and large and numerous boils. I also suffered from a terrible Chronic Catarrh, and in fact I was so diseased that life was a burden to me; I had tried many doctors with no benefit. I finally procured one-half dozen bottles of your Golden Medical Discovery and one dozen Sage's Catarrh Remedy and commenced their use. At first I was badly discouraged, but after taking four bottles of the Discovery I began to improve, and when I had taken the remaining four was well. In addition to the use of Discovery I applied a solution of Iodine to the Goitre or thick neck, as you advise in pamphlet wrapping, and it entirely disappeared. Your Discovery is certainly the most wonderful blood medicine ever invented. I thank God and you, from the depths of my heart, for the great good it has done me.

Very gratefully,
MRS. L. CHAFFEE.

Most medicines which are advertised as blood purifiers and liver medicines contain either mercury, in some form, or potassium and iodine variously combined. All of these agents have strong tendency to break down the blood corpuscles, and debilitate and otherwise permanently injure the human system, and should therefore be discarded. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, on the other hand, being composed of the fluid extracts of native plants, barks and roots, will in no case produce injury, its effects being strengthening and curative only. Sarsaparilla, which used to enjoy quite a reputation as a blood purifier, is a remedy of thirty years ago, and may well give place as it is doing, to the more positive and valuable vegetable alteratives which later medical investigation and discovery has brought to light. In Scrofula or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammation, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin and Sore Eyes so in all other blood diseases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery shows its great remedial powers, curing the most obstinate and intractable cases. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package thousands have been thrown into the hands of those who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and decided to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any benefit from them. I commenced to improve from the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills as and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

DANVERS, MASS., July 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must go through life in misery. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Comet, thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well now, can walk out of doors, Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. I feel like a new person. The inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wished to try some medicine. I hope this letter will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health as Good as Ever—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most memorable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time during the term of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. In the course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the section of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fall to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year will witness the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and voluntaryism to the State school, will provoke sharp discussion, and enter largely into politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopeful signs that we shall witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued support of all who readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan prejudice or personal malice or ambition.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banner. But it will never be the servant of caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; to publish its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money, a dishonest currency, and such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Our success in this, and in rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its political judgment through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much concerned by mere majorities, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that unprejudiced and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost energy and vigor with judicial fairness; its columns free from personal wranglings; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from its rival, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the year 1874 its position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest attention to the wants and the most lavish expenditure to procure the fresh and intelligence, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors its numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

PULMONICE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing to its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

— USE —

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Lincoln's Economy and Simplicity.

Lincoln's economy was as natural to him as his simplicity of character. His dress was of plain and cheap material, and he seemed to have no consciousness as to whether his clothes fitted him or not. His mind was never on that subject. The horse he used to drive on the circuit, an honest old fellow, was about like him, and his buggy always held together, but there was nothing to spare. Both were institutions of the circuit, and all the lawyers knew "Old Tom" as well as his owner. One time at the De Witt Court, only a few years before he became President, in the absence of the judge Mr. Lincoln sat upon the bench and tried a case by agreement. The suit was against one of the best farmers in the county, and was by a merchant, for a suit of clothes sold to the farmer's minor son, which the old gentleman refused to pay for, because bought without authority. The law question was as to whether the suit of clothes, which cost all together twenty-eight dollars, was a species of extravagance, or was suited to the young man's condition in life. After hearing the evidence, Lincoln, as judge, hearing the case, as he was without a jury, decided that the bill was extravagant, adding, "I have very rarely in my life had a suit of clothes that cost twenty-eight dollars." When he went to Washington he dressed as carefully as any man in that position. He was always neat in his person, his clothes fitted him well, he shaved every morning and was always presentable. But all this was to the credit of a faithful old servant at the White House, who shaved him every morning, and who always saw to it that the President was in order, and never would let him go out unless in proper shape. Once I was in his room at the White House, when he was just going to the capitol, to remain there during the last hours of the session in the President's official room, to sign bills at the last moment. He was about to start, when the servant said, "Mr. President, you must change your clothes before going." "What's the reason," said Lincoln, rather cross and impatient, "what's the reason these clothes are not good enough?" looking down at his suit. "Why," said the servant, "you must wear your dress suit and coat, for your appearance in the President's room of the capitol is official." Lincoln protested and ridiculed the idea, but the colored gentleman stuck to him and captured him. Don't understand me that Mr. Lincoln was ever shabby or slovenly in his appearance; he was not. He was simply indifferent to the style and quality of his clothing. He was just as well pleased with good clothing as poor, and seemingly after he got to Washington took to it kindly; but he was also just as well satisfied with poor as with good, and the question of which he had on depended upon whether in this regard somebody looked after him. Prior to his going to Washington, he had saved up from his practice about $20,000. This was simply savings, as I don't think he ever made a trade for the purpose of gain in his life. While in Washington the same economy followed him, and, while his mode of living at the White House was always genteel and good enough, he saved during his four years' term more than half of his salary.—Leonard Swett.

The Vice of Kentucky Women.

Talk about the opium eater or the whiskey drinker, how much more are they to be pitied than the lady who is addicted to dipping snuff? We believe there is more snuff used in Hopkinsville than in any other place of its size in Kentucky, and its use is steadily on the increase. Hopkinsville has a reputation for beautiful women, but how long that reputation will last 'tis hard to tell. Some of the prettiest women we knew ten or twelve years ago are now nothing but faded flowers. Lips that once looked like ripe cherries, and for one kiss from which a man would almost give his right arm, now look more like dried apples than anything else we can think of. The cheek once full and rosy is now sunken and colorless. The chin, which looks longer, now glories in a bronze-colored stripe, which reaches down to the throat. We were going down the street one day and noticed a lady coming up. It was a windy March day, and the lady's skirts were lifted a little above her boot tops. We know the aristocratically arched foot, but hang it! what has become of the nicely rounded ankle? It wasn't there. When we got near enough to look into the lady's face we knew that snuff had done its work. Snuff is robbing women of their beauty. It is more harmful than smoking, and more repulsive than chewing, and its use by ladies is almost as much to be condemned as the drinking of whiskey by men; and if the ladies have grounds to talk about men drinking and smoking, they are assured that snuff dipping in the eyes of men is about as repulsive as the smell of a two-cent-and-a-half cigar, or a sniff of "rifle" whiskey to the olfactories of the fair sex. We indulge the hope that soon there will be an anti-snuff society formed, which will be a twin sister of our temperance society. We have no idea how many ladies in our city will take exception to this article. If all that use snuff were to get after us, we would call their name legion, but we are upheld in our action by some of the most sensible mothers in town, in entering a protest against a habit, the adoption of which by a girl is al-

Almost as much to be dreaded by a parent as is the first taste of liquor by his boy.—Hopkinsville (Ky.) Democrat.

Poor Smithy.

Smith, the New Hampshire democratic journal clerk of the House at Washington, who has rattled round the place so long filled by the veteran and accomplished Barclay, has turned out to be only a very mean sort of a black-Smith.—Lowell Courier.

Hold on there, brother. Don't kick a man that's down. "Rattle around," indeed. Why, you don't know what you are talking about. New Hampshire may have sent bigger and stronger men to Washington than Smith, but such "style" as he had you don't see every day. "Rattle around!" Well, that is impudence. Why, Charley wouldn't rattle round in any place, bowever large. He was like hop yeast and filled the jug regardless of its size, and now he has been spilled, New Hampshire mourns over him as over a bubble that has burst.

Gone to meet John Wilkes Booth Hambleton.—Manch. Mirror.

Vicious Tactics.

It is altogether desirable that the investigations which have been set on foot in Washington should be thorough and complete, and that official corruption and rascality should be exposed and punished wherever it exists; but it is not desirable that reputations should be destroyed and characters blackened unjustly, and for the sole purpose of furnishing political capital for the democratic party. One would suppose by the conduct of the committees that that was not only the actual, but even the ostensible and recognized purpose of the investigations, and there is a reckless disregard of the ordinary rights of accused persons, which in a court of justice would be deemed a shameful outrage. It seems to be quite the usual course of things for leading democrats on the committee to ascertain what a witness will have to say and then have him called or not as may best serve the party purpose. Many of the meetings are private, often the republican members are not notified, and generally they have little or nothing to do in directing the examinations. Witnesses having been called to bring out certain points, questions are asked directly for that purpose, there is no proper cross-examination, no adequate opportunity for rebutting testimony, and the ex parte statements are diligently published abroad as if they fully established the charges made. Sensational stories and rumors are circulated directly from the committees calculated to put accused persons in the worst possible light, before they have had an opportunity for denial or explanation. Investigation in any honest or decent sense there has not been, and no ground for a fair judgment has been furnished in any single case. We doubt if the democrats of the committees or of the House intend to furnish any ground for fair judgment; they show a disposition to prejudice the case of every republican as much as possible, and to cover up that of every democrat. They are working for party effect, with their accustomed disregard of the principles of honesty and fair dealing. Let no offender be shielded; but let there be fairness and common decency in the investigations. We hope the people will be too sensible to allow any party advantage from the tactics pursued by these committees.—Boston Globe.

News and Notes.

The latest from the Black Hills region is to the effect that a family of emigrants named Baker, consisting of four persons, were murdered by Indians a few days since.

The American fishing schooner Daniel Webster arrived at Halifax recently from the Western Banks. The captain reported the crew mutinous, and after he went a shore they took to the boats, and abandoned the vessel. They charge the captain with being tyrannical and cruel. The vessel went to sea, with a new crew.

The President's veto of the salary reduction bill meets with general approval.

A young woman was murdered in a Providence house of ill fame on Saturday night by her lover.

The President and Mrs. Grant, Saturday, visited the Centennial grounds and were shown through the buildings by Gen. Hawley and members of the Board of finance.

While five persons were descending a coal shaft at Brown's station, on the Columbia branch of the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern Railroad on Friday last, the rope broke and all fell to the bottom, over 100 feet. Two men and a boy were killed and the other two were fatally injured.

The Boston Base Ball Club won their first game on Saturday for the championship at Philadelphia with the Athletics. Score 6 to 5.

Charles Cooke, a farmer, 23 years of age, and living with his father in Hyde Park, Vt., while at work in the sugar place with him, Sunday, was murdered by his father, who attacked him with an ax, and beat out his brains. The elder Cooke has for some time been considered harmlessly insane. He was lodged in jail, and laughs with diabolical delight at his crime.

Hattie Locke, aged nine years, daughter of Mr. Frank Locke, was drowned at East Concord Sunday afternoon between five and six o'clock. She and a sister eleven years old were riding with Mr. Frank Adams and his two little daughters. In passing off a bridge across Mill brook, near Federal bridge, where the high water from the Merrimack river had set back, the earth in the centre of the road had fallen in. The earth appeared firm at the side to which the horse was turned to pass. It proved to be undermined. The horse, sinking, sprung violently and overturned the wagon and all its occupants into the water at the side. Mr. Adams as soon as possible caught and placed three of the children in safety, but not until they had sunk several times. His two daughters and the older Locke girl were rescued, but the younger one could not be found. The body was not recovered until about nine o'clock. She was drawn under the bridge by the current. The horse was drowned, being checked.

Mexican affairs are presenting rather a troubled look. The Secretary of the Navy has ordered his available force there, and four steam men-of-war left Hampton Roads a few days since with orders to rendezvous off Tampico. They are the Hartford, 18 guns, Captain Luce; the Swatara, 3 guns, Commander Cooke; the Marion, 8 guns, Commander Bradford; and the Shawmut, 3 guns, Commander Wiltse. These vessels, with the steamer on the Rio Grande and the troops on the Texas bank of that river, will protect American citizens against forced imposts by the revolutionists.

A fact very creditable to the President's sense of honor is the fact that he sold a considerable amount of Big Bonanza silver mining stock previous to signing the silver currency bill, the result of which was to increase the value of the stock.

Mr. George Wilder, the once famous catcher of the Lowell Base Ball Club of Boston, died in that city about six weeks ago.

Of the murderer, John Dolan, who was hanged last week, the New York Sun says: From the moment of his arrest down to the beginning of his march to the gallows, Dolan solemnly declared himself innocent of the murder, and many persons who have studiously followed the legal proceedings in his case, still think that he was wrongfully convicted. But that he killed Mr. Noe is a fact that Dolan himself inadvertently established a few days ago. He was reading in one of the morning newspapers what purported to be a true story of the murder. He repeatedly read the article, and then in a moment of abstraction said in the hearing of several of the keepers, "That's not true. I did not strike Noe before he came down the steps." Then he shuddered, and appealingly glanced at the prison officers. "For God's sake," he continued, "don't repeat what I said."

The editor of the Hartford Times, writing from Florida to his paper, says: Having occasion to go on board the Ocklawaha boat, to-day, I noticed a pale, elderly woman, with very white hair, who kept herself aloof from the excursionists; and by accident I learned it was the wife of Henry Ward Beecher. She was going up the river twenty-six miles to a settlement on the St. John's called Beecher, in honor of her famous husband. She came up to Palatka on Saturday—possibly from the residence of Mrs. Stowe, at Mandarin; though I wouldn't like to vouch for this—for "the Beechers are peculiar." This member of the family is said to have her own peculiarities. She is an old woman, now—probably not less than 70—(for she is considerable older than her husband)—and her aspect is that of a woman who suffers from an inward pain that reaches deeper than the physical body. Some observers, seeing her sitting there alone on the steamer, might say she was borne down by grief and trouble—and surely she has had her share; but there is something in that pale, determined face which spoke of more than grief. A bystander said, "She looks like three whole tragedies boiled down into one act;" and this did better express that unhappy face. A strange, secret, inner history is hidden in its cold marble.

Political.

According to the Boston Globe, Secretary Bristow remarked to a Government official well known in Boston, recently: "If they will only let me stay where I am I shall be satisfied. I have never sought the Presidency."

It was claim agent Bartley that started the distillery story about Bristow. It is said the examination of his official record shows that he has had one hundred and nine cotton cases before Secretary Bristow, and that one hundred and eight and part of the remaining one were rejected by Bristow. His total collection on all cases was about $1300.

Indiana republicans are as happy a set of men as any politicians on the face of the globe. Over in the Hoosier State every man is born a statesman, and his native faculties have been fostered by constant and persevering training. Their views as to the strength of nominations are about as correct as can be expected from beings whose judgement is not infallible. The universal opinion is, that the democratic nominations were the best that could have been made—for the republicans. Orth will make metaphorical mince-meat of the venerable old gentleman.

Important if true from the Springfield Union: "Notwithstanding the persistent efforts to get up a following for Secretary Bristow, he has, so far, only a few scattering delegates, and probably at least three-fourths of the Massachusetts convention will favor the candidacy of Mr. Blaine."

Mr. Halstead of the Cincinnati Commercial thinks he sees how it is to be, as follows: "We are of opinion that, when the Blaine, Morton and Conkling triangular fight is over, the nomination of Bristow will follow with a rush"—and this notwithstanding the fact that "there are half a dozen candidates ready to be wafted to glory with a yell."

And they further announce that at the solicitation of many of their friends, they will, on and after MONDAY, the 1st of June, deliver to all who may favor them with their patronage, milk morning and evening (Sundays excepted) in order that families who wish an early breakfast and sweet cream for their coffee, will be enabled to do so, and at the popular price of FIVE CENTS PER QUART. And to meet the requirements of their summer trade, they have made arrangements for the purchase of a number of new milch cows especially for the quality rather than the quantity of their milk.

Please remember that there is no need of sending to the stores for milk, but have it left at your door at the extremely low price of two dimes per gallon. Do not forget that we are offering you A FRESH, RELIABLE ARTICLE EVERY DAY, and not mixed milk once or twice a week.

And in order that we may carry out this new departure, all bills will be rendered promptly on the first of each month.

TO MY PATIENTS!
DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,
Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious
Dental Practitioner.
DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.
I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.
If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.
N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Billiousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can only say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this phrase find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, making severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, and spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. A happy thought one day led me to your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent for you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sickness made me very much interested in the Boards, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if they could but know it; I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages. Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now gnawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fail to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be exposed and many promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances there may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State and subjects of the State schools will provoke sharp discussion, and enter largely into politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or animosities.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall calling the Voters for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, scoping leaks in the revenue, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its editorial course throughout all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much overawed by mere name, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that consistency and steadfastness of purpose have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost attractiveness with sound literary, and its columns free from personal wranglings; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From these wide views of its journal a desirable visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has not been without cause that its closest watchfulness and the most lavish expenditure to procure the fresh and intelligence, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished and trusted correspondents, and its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

PULMOCINE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

s no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Bridge Building in '76.

The following report of a committee appointed by the New Hampshire Legislature in 1776, to advise as to the best method of building a bridge at Newcastle, and the House resolution to carry into effect the recommendations of the committee are of interest now. Persons who regard the present age as degenerate on all points when compared with the past, may find some consolation in reflecting upon what a storm of indignation would overwhelm a New Hampshire Legislature which should now vote "one jill of rum each per day" to men engaged on public works—a proof that popular opinion has improved in at least one respect within the century. The extracts,—from an old volume of Legislative Reports, are as follows:

The committee appointed to consider of a method to carry into execution the vote of the house for building a bridge at Newcastle, Recommend

That a committee be chosen to purchase materials suitable for the purpose to build said Bridge or Bridges in the places recommended by the committee of fourteen feet wide in the clear, in a substantial manner according to their best skill and judgment and with all the expedition that may be. Also that it be recommended to the commanding officer of the troops in the district of Portsmouth to furnish forty able and suitable men to assist in this business—the men to be allowed one Pistareen pr day more than common wages, and excusable from other duty. (Signed)

J. HURD, for the committee.

Exeter 25th June 1776.

The above report being read & considered,

Voted, That Capt. Werthen together with one to be appointed by the Hon'ble Council be a committee to purchase materials suitable to build a Bridge of fourteen feet width (in the clear) in the place mentioned in the report of a committee sent to view the best place for building a Bridge from the main land to Newcastle, in a substantial manner, according to their best skill and judgment & with all the expedition that may be, and also to oversee the said work while building said bridge, and that they employ four good carpenters on said work, and as many of the Troops at Newcastle as occasion may require which Troops shall receive one jill of rum each per day whilst on the said work, besides their wages and rations as soldiers.

Across the River.

KITTERY POINT, ME., April 21.

Messrs. Editors: As is well known, Kittery Point is a sort of out-lying borough for its more pretentious neighbor, the navy yard village, three miles above. The time was, though the "oldest inhabitant" cannot remember that epoch, that the Point was an exceedingly busy place, where an extensive West India and fishing business was done. It was noted for sending the earliest fleet to the fishing grounds, and on all the coast no flakes were heavier in the Fall—for all business purposes no place was more fortunately situated—but many causes occurred to deprive the place of its early supremacy, and for years it has been gradually diminishing until to-day only a few dories remain to attest to its former prosperity. In its prosperous days there were but few business men,—that is men of sufficient capital and sagacity to give employment to the many—and when these few died, or became too old to engage in navigation or commerce, there were none to take their places, their sons not choosing to do so, and their former employees being unable from want of capital or energy to engage in any extensive business pursuit.

From the Congregational church to the summit of Tenny's hill, a distance of nearly two miles, and bordering directly on the ocean, is presented, perhaps, as fine a marine view as can be found on the coast. The spacious harbor, the light-houses and forts, the Isles of Shoals in the distance, the dark green woods of Gerrish's island to the eastward almost reaching down to the shore of the sea, the flitting to and fro of numberless vessels seeking a safe haven in the harbors' arms, the curious shaped roofs at the navy yard glistening in the sunbeams, the spires of Portsmouth, the hills of New Hampshire and Maine in the far distance, blue and mysterious in the shifting clouds—all of these and manifold other scenes, make one of the most attractive and pleasing panoramas that nature in her varied moods can form.

Notwithstanding the dearth of local business, there is no village within our knowledge where greater improvement has been made in the erection of houses. Not expensive, nor capacious—no ornate villas or architectural monstrosities—but plain, neat, tasty cottages—of that good old-fashioned color, white, with cool green blinds, and well-kept grounds, bespeaking thrift and taste.

If I were a student of political economy I should assert that a business in the midst of this pleasant hamlet, that would produce a revenue sufficient to build all these pleasant houses, and supply all the wants of these thrifty people, would be of more real benefit to them, than for them to be compelled to leave their homes, and gain a livelihood in other localities—and it seems strange that so many young and middle-aged men, competent to navigate as well as build vessels, to erect houses, and do a hundred other useful things, should be content to let their opportunities waste, and make no effort to build up a business that would be of permanent utility to all concerned. Aside from the few stores, and a partial interest in a few coasting vessels, there are but two or three of the citizens engaged in a purely local business. E. F. Safford of the Pepperell Hotel, Capt. Thomas O. Hoyt in the ice business, L. P. Call, Esq., dealer in lumber, (and also engaged in steam planing and sawing of the same,) and Theo. Keen's stage line to Portsmouth, are all that I can recall who are personally interested in an independent business. It is an admitted fact that no better shipwrights can be produced than are found in this region of country. Would it not be well, then, for the young men at Kittery Point, who generally speaking are disengaged during four or five months a year, to unite their interests and build vessels, suitable for the fishing business? Everything in the shape of material can be landed at the "dock," and when the vessel is completed the builders, who are the owners, can man her, thus furnishing themselves a business that they have the entire control of. Acting on this principle, J. L. Marden, Esq., whose perseverance has subdued the ledges and inequalities of Tenny's hill, and made the crooked places straight and the uneven places level about his pleasant house and grounds, in connection with his sons commenced last Fall the building of a vessel of nearly six tons measurement. With the aid of two assistants they have just completed their labors, and on Wednesday, April 19, the "Lizzie Myrtle" was wedded to her bridegroom, old ocean, in the presence of a goodly company of witnesses who came from all the country round. All suitable preparation being seasonably made, at about one o'clock she was taken in charge by divers workmen, and secured in an easy position upon a commodious carriage, that was imported from the westward. Several yoke of oxen were then brought into requisition, and a triumphal march was made to Pepperell Cove, where the immediate nuptial ceremonies were performed, and the dancing waves of the Atlantic were gladdened by the graceful pressure and symmetrical form of the staunch little craft. The business of this vessel will be fishing, under the charge of George F. Marden, though she looks too neat and trim for that odoriferous traffic in her shining dress and perfect model. May royal luck attend the "Lizzie Myrtle" in all her wanderings, and may fortune attend all similar enterprises at Kittery Point, for in all the land there are no staunchr hearts or more willing hands than can be found among the dwellers on the pleasant shores of this haven by the sea. MALACHI.

North Hampton.

The new school house which has been in progress of erection during the last six months is finished; and will be dedicated with appropriate exercises Thursday evening, April 27th; if very stormy, next night. At the close of the exercises a supper with oysters and ice cream will be furnished. The building has been erected in the most substantial manner, containing two rooms for primary and grammar schools on first floor, which are fitted and furnished with elegant school furniture. On the second floor is a splendid hall with ante-rooms. The building is heated throughout by a furnace in the basement. The house is a present to two school districts united, and is a magnificent and lasting monument of the generosity of the donor, Hon. J. W. F. Hobbs. J. W. S.

Jottings.

Thanks to Hon. Frank W. Miller for the first bunch of arbutus that has found its way to our table this season.

In response to an invitation to our republican readers to send in their votes of preference for a Presidential candidate, we have received the following vote from a subscriber: For President—Anybody but a Methodist.

Parties visiting Boston will find the "Merrimac" a convenient hotel at moderate prices. It is near the depots, places of amusements and business. Call and see Friend Frost when you are in Boston.

The mail from Boston, via the Boston & Maine and Concord & Portsmouth railroads, due here at 10:45 Monday morning, was carried by Newmarket Junction by a careless mail agent on the B. & M. road, and did not reach Portsmouth until evening.

The bottom price in milk seems to have been reached. The Messrs. Hayes, who for thirty-five years have had the reputation of supplying their customers with pure milk, announce in our advertising columns that they have reduced the price to five cents a quart, and will deliver it fresh, unwatered and unskimmed, morning or evening, at the houses of customers who order it. There can be little if any profit at so low a price, but Charles Hayes & Son will furnish it to their customers pure.

In sending in his vote of preference for a republican candidate for President, one of our old subscribers writes as follows: I should like to be the nominating committee for both parties. I should nominate representative men for candidates. I would nominate Blaine of Maine as republican candidate, and Ben Hill of Georgia as a representative copperhead democratic candidate. I don't want to see them kill another Horace Greeley next Fall.

A democratic exchange makes same uncomplimentary comments on the growling of a republican paper over "the investigation, by a lot of ex-rebels, of the manner in which loyal men carried on the war which saved the Union." Some people will growl about anything. Now we considered it merely a rich and refreshingly cool piece of "cheek," when an ex-rebel brigadier general, with an Andersonville war-record, headed a Congressional investigation (with closed and guarded doors) at this navy yard to enquire into the cost of the sleep-of-war Kearsarge! The report has not yet been made public, but we presume it will state that the vessel was inefficient and unseaworthy, and cost thousands of dollars more than she would have done had democrats built her; and that there was a scandalous waste of ammunition at the time she sent the pirate Alabama to Davy Jones' locker, and thereby threw that industrious collector of chronometers, Semmes, out of a job.

A meeting preliminary to the formation of a veteran military organization here, is to be held on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the large room in the second story of Frye's block.

The new time-table on the Eastern road takes effect next week, and then there will be a morning accommodation train to Portland leaving Boston at 7:30, followed by the express at 9 o'clock. The afternoon train will arrive in Boston at 6 P. M.

Dolly Bidwell and a good stock company will appear at the Temple next Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Removing Life's Heaviest Burden.

To remove the burden of disease, the heaviest that poor humanity is compelled to bear, is certainly a grand object, a glorious mission. Assuredly the discoverer of a remedy which accomplishes this result is entitled to the gratitude and respect of mankind. Such a remedy is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, whose great success is attributable to the fact that its restorative action upon the debilitated and disordered system is in accordance with the principles of common sense. It invigorates the sick, and, as their strength increases, the burden of disease grows lighter. It reforms those physical irregularities which render weakness chronic, and thus eradicates the evil at its very source. Liver complaint, malarious fevers, constipation, urinary troubles, uterine weakness, and many other causes of general debility and ill health, are completely removed by the combined tonic and alterative operation of the Bitters.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $25,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. NO Preliminary Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 30 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

A Holy Hindoo.

You may have noticed in the papers that Beluchius Jamsuttacheebeebhoy was mortally wounded recently by the Nawab of Dada in Ahmeddnugger. And thus another one of earth's great and noble ones passes away. I knew him well; I refer to Beluchius Jamsuttacheebeebhoy of course. He was in some respects a very remarkable man, even for a Hindoo. I remember that in his earlier years his mind assumed somewhat of a devotional cast; and in the first impulse of his religious fervor he undertook to give his feelings expression by standing upon one leg for sixty-seven years. After he had held that other leg in the air for about thirty-two months, however, his views underwent a change, and he concluded to put it down. It seems but yesterday that he came to me and said that after turning the matter over in his mind it struck him as somewhat absurd for a man to hope to secure eternal felicity by holding up his toes, and that he was now convinced that if he hoped to get into the path of duty he should have to engage in the work of pitching babies to the sacred crocodiles.

I never knew any one to fire his whole soul to a work as Beluchius did to this. To see that saintly Hindoo take a baby and chuck it at a hungry crocodile was to have your respect for mankind increased. He was an unusually conscientious man and he never caused the animals any unnecessary annoyance. When one of them would prop its jaws open Beluchius would take any odd twins that he had in his collection and heave them into the animal's mouth with a precision that was little less than marvellous. He acquired dexterity by practicing with a rag baby on a stuffed alligator, and it was a comfort to see the good man going through his exercise with that scrupulous fidelity which always distinguished him.

But he wearied of it at last. He told me that his soul craved something which would develop his higher powers, and so he joined the Thugs. Here the same lofty devotion to duty characterized his conduct. He had a way of garroting a man which brought all the instincts of his better nature into play, and his friends never could sufficiently admire the artistic manner in which he disposed of the various members of his family. It was not so much that he brained both of his parents with a single fling of the boomerang, although that was spoken of at the time as something a little above the average, and it was not that he choked off his grandmother by slipping the clothes-lines over her head and tightening it by fixing his grandfather to the other end and dropping him out of the window. But when he pinned his aunt to the cellar door with the toasting fork and drove the cook through the roof by putting blasting powder in the stove, people said that the man's services were entitled to some kind of recognition over and above what he deserved for putting his little brothers and sisters in the well and then dropping grindstones on them.

There was something about the man that warmed the heart toward him. After he resigned from the Thugs, he found relief for his yearning after truth by exercising upon the sacred swing. Often have I seen him run the iron hook through the small of his back or through the calf of his leg, and go humming round and round, scolding at the man at the crank for turning so slow; and then he would come down and run the car of Juggernaut over the ribs of 300 or 400 common people and scrunch them up, and go home feeling all the time that he hadn't done anything near his duty, and wasn't half good enough to associate with thoroughly moral people.

But it is all over now. The alligators may go hungry now as far as he is concerned. Who will go prowling around picking up stray babies for them now? Who will butcher superfluous people in the hearty fashion he used to be so fond of? Who will make slip-nooses of clothes-lines and suspend old people out of the windows, and shoot unnecessary cooks out through the shingles and up toward the stars? Nobody about Ahmeddnugger, any way. One town can't very well grow more than one such man as he. And now that his simple, and modest, and unpretending life is ended, I offer him this little testimony of my esteem, and sigh to think what a man he would have been to our little community, where the coroner might have followed him up and held about fifteen inquests a day, and where he would have given the undertaking business an impulse that would have put it right upon its feet, and enabled some of us to get up corners in coffins.—Max Adeler.

Cowper and John Gilpin.

"The Diverting History of John Gilpin," the production of a single night, was written by a man who lived in perpetual dread of eternal punishment; and while it was being read by Henderson, the actor, to large audiences in London, its author was raving mad. Southey, in his fine biography of the poet, says that Henderson read to crowded audiences in London, all through Lent, "John Gilpin," at high prices. "The ballad, which had become the town talk, was reprinted from the newspaper, wherein it had lain three years dormant. Gilpin, passing at full stretch by the Bell at Edmonton, was to be seen at all print shops. One print seller sold six thousand. What had succeeded so well in London was repeated with inferior ability, but with equal success, on provincial stages, and the ballad became in the highest degree popular before the author's name became known." The last reading to which Cowper listened appears to have been that of his own works. Beginning with the first volume, Mr. Johnson went through them, and he listened to them in silence till he came to "John Gilpin," which he begged not to hear. It reminded him of cheerful days, and of those of whom he could not bear to think. "The grinners at John Gilpin," he said, "little dream what the author sometimes suffers. How I hated myself for having ever wrote it!" On his death bed, when the clergyman told him to confide in the love of the Redeemer, who desired to save all men, Cowper gave a passionate cry, begging him not to give him such consolations. To our ignorant eyes it looks strange that the author of our best and most popular hymns should have thought his sins unpardonable; should have believed himself to be already damned.—A. P. Russell's "Library Notes."

Daily Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 26, 1876.

Mr. Blaine Explains.

Ex-Speaker Blaine made his promised explanation on the floor of the National House of Representatives on Monday. The Boston Post's Washington dispatch says that at its conclusion "he received many hearty congratulations, democrats as well as republicans shewing their appreciation by warmly shaking his hands and giving other evidences of satisfaction. His explanation is universally conceded to be conclusive as disproving the allegations of corruption." Another dispatch says he was listened to with great attention and that one of a group of democratic members, who had gone over to the republican side to listen, exclaimed as Mr. Blaine took his seat: "I believe every word of it," and the others responded: "So do I."

Mr. Blaine met the charge plainly and boldly denied it, saying: "The charge reappears in another form, to this effect, viz., that a certain draft was negotiated at the house of Morton, Bliss & Co., in 1871, through Thomas A. Scott, then President of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, for the sum of $64,000, and that $75,000 of the bonds of the Little Rock & Fort Smith Railroad Company were pledged as collateral; that the Union Pacific Company paid the draft and took up the collateral; that the cash proceeds of that went to me, and that I had furnished and sold, or in some way transferred to Thomas A. Scott these Little Rock & Fort Smith bonds, which had been used as collateral, that the bonds in reality had belonged to me or some friend or constituent of mine for whom I was acting. I endeavor to state the charge in its boldest form, and in all its phases. I desire, here and now, to declare that all and every part of this story that connects my name with it is absolutely untrue, without one particle of foundation in fact, and without a title of evidence to substantiate it. I never had any transaction of any kind with Thomas A. Scott concerning bonds of the Little Rock & Fort Smith road or the bonds of any other railroad, or any business in any way connected with railroads, directly or indirectly, immediately or remotely. I never had any business transactions whatever with the Union Pacific Railroad Company, or any of its officers or agents or representatives, and never in any manner received from that company, directly or indirectly, a single dollar in money or stocks or bonds or any other form of value; and as to the particular transaction referred to, I never so much as heard of it until nearly two years after its alleged occurrence, when it was talked of at the time of the Credit Mobilier investigation in 1873; but while my denial ought to be conclusive, I should greatly regret to be compelled to leave the matter there. I am, fortunately, able to sustain my own declaration by the most conclusive evidence that the case admits of, or that human testimony can supply.

He then read letters from Sidney Dillon, President of the Union Pacific Railroad, and Col. Thomas A. Scott, in which both gentlemen denied that he had been benefitted directly or indirectly by any dealings with the Pacific Railroad. Mr. Blaine continued:

"To give a seeming corroboration or foundation to the story which I have disproved, the absurd rumor has lately appeared in certain newspapers that I was the owner of from $150,000 to $250,000 of the Little Rock & Fort Smith Railroad bonds, which I received without consideration, and that it was from these bonds that Thomas A. Scott received his $75,000. The statement is gratuitously and utterly false. No responsible author appears anywhere for this unfounded story, but in dismissing it I desire to make the following explicit statement: More than twenty-three years ago, in the closing days of Mr. Fillmore's administration, the Government granted to the State of Arkansas some public lands within its own limits, to be applied to the construction of railroads in that State. The Legislature of Arkansas incorporated the Little Rock & Fort Smith Railroad Company the same year." Here Mr. Blaine briefly recited the history of the road up to 1868, and continued:

"Finally, toward the close of 1868, a company of Boston gentlemen, representing considerable capital, undertook its construction. In raising the requisite means, they placed the bonds of the road on the New England market in the Summer of 1869, offering them on terms which seemed very favorable to the purchaser, and offering them at a time when investments of this kind were fatally popular. In common with hundreds of other people in New England and other parts of the country, I bought some of these bonds, not a very large amount, paying for them at precisely the same rate that others paid. I never heard, and do not believe, that the Little Rock Company, which I know is controlled by highly honorable men, ever parted with a bond to any person except at the regular price fixed for their sale. The enterprise, though apparently very promising, proved unsuccessful, as did so many similar projects about the same time. I lost a considerable sum of money, over $20,000, by my investment, and I presume New England made a net loss of $2,000,000 in completing that road for Arkansas, as she lost over $100,000,000 by similar ventures West and South within the last twelve years. In addition to my investment in the bonds I united with some others in raising some money for the company when it met its first financial troubles. Proceedings are now pending in the United States Circuit Court in Arkansas, to which I am a party of record, for the reimbursement of the money so advanced. All the bonds I ever purchased I continued to hold, and when the company was reorganized in 1874 I exchanged them for stock and bonds in the new concern, which I still own. My whole connection with the road has been open as the day. If there had been anything to conceal about it I should never have touched it." Mr. Blaine here proceeded to maintain the right of members of Congress to own stocks and bonds of corporations even when such property is made valuable by Congressional legislation." He also detailed the efforts put forth to induce the Atlantic and Pacific roads to aid the Little Rock and Fort Smith enterprise up to the time when the Atlantic and Pacific Company took $100,000 of its bonds and $100,000 of its stock for the gross sum of $79,000, and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas took half the amount at the same rate. He emphatically denied the charge that he engaged to use his influence in Congress for the Atlantic and Pacific road or for the Missouri, Kansas and Texas in consideration of their purchasing these securities, and concluded as follows:

Let me now, Mr. Speaker, briefly summarize what I have presented.

First—That the story of my receiving $64,000, or any other sum of money, or other thing of value from the Union Pacific Railroad Company, directly or indirectly, or in any form, is absolutely disproved by the most conclusive testimony.

Second—That no bond of mine was ever sold to the Atlantic and Pacific or the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad Companies, and that not a single dollar of money from either of these companies ever went to my profit or benefit.

Third—That instead of receiving bonds of the Little Rock and Fort Smith Railroad as a gratuity, I never had one, except at the regular market price, and that instead of making a large fortune out of that company I have incurred a severe pecuniary loss from my investments in its securities, which I still retain, and out of such affairs as this grows the popular gossip of large fortunes amassed in Congress. I can hardly expect, Mr. Speaker, that any statement from me will stop the work of those who have so industriously circulated the calumnies. For months past the effort has been energetic and continuous to spread these stories in private circles. Emissaries of slander have visited the editorial rooms of leading republican papers, from Boston to Omaha, and whispered of revelations to come that were too terrible even to be spoken in loud tones, and at last the revelations have been made.

I am now, Mr. Speaker, in the fourteenth year of a not inactive service in this hall. I have taken and have given blows. I have no doubt said many things in the heat of debate which I would now gladly recall. I have no doubt given votes which in fuller light I would gladly change; but I have never done anything in my public career for which I could be put to the faintest blush in any presence or for which I cannot answer to my constituents, my conscience and the great Searcher of Hearts.

As Mr. Blaine concluded, there was a murmur of applause from both sides of the hall.

Republican State Convention.

A republican State convention, for the choice of ten delegates to the republican National convention, to be held at Cincinnati, June, 14. 1876, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on Wednesday, the 24th day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All republican electors, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences or previous party affiliations, who are opposed to reviving sectional issues, and desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining and enforcing all the constitutional rights of every citizen, including the full and free exercise of the right of suffrage without intimidation and without fraud; who are in favor of the continued prosecution and punishment of all official dishonesty, and of an economical administration of the Government by honest, faithful, and capable officers; who are in favor of making such reforms in government as experience may from time to time suggest; who are opposed to impairing the credit of the nation by depreciating any of its obligations, and in favor of sustaining in every way the national faith and financial honor; who hold that the common-school system is the nursery of American liberty and should be maintained absolutely free from sectarian control; who believe that, for the promotion of these ends, the direction of the Government should continue to be confided to those who adhere to the principles of 1776, and support them as incorporated in the Constitution and the laws; and who are in favor of recognizing and strengthening the fundamental principles of National Unity in this Centennial Anniversary of the birth of the Republic, are invited to participate in the election of delegates to this convention.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 4 o'clock, which all delegates are invited to attend.

DANIEL HALL,
Chairman Republican State committee.
DOVER, April 25, 1876.

It is curious that what has been called "the President's corruption fund" was really the means of giving New York honest elections.

—A case of French goods received at the Centennial grounds bore cautions in two languages. For the straight business English of "Keep dry" was given the translation: "Please beware for it of the humidity."

—A Boston paper tells of a little girl who refused to get up and be washed one cold morning. Her aunt exhausted her eloquence in describing the excellences of purification, and was astonished by the following: "Aunt Mary, you do as you like, and let me do as I like. You like to be clean and cold; I like to be warm and dirty."

TO MY PATIENTS!
DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,
Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious
Dental Practitioner.
DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.
I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.
If Dr. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of the year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.
N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

Memorial Day.

Editors Chronicle: The past few pleasant days once again remind us that the day set apart by the surviving soldiers and sailors of our late civil war for the decoration with the first blossoms of Spring of the graves of their fallen comrades, fast approaches. We think it fitting as in years that are past to again visit with our simple floral tribute the last resting places of our patriotic dead. We, the undersigned, therefore take the initiative in thus inviting all persons interested, especially the ex-soldiers and sailors of the late civil war, to meet at the Common Council chamber in the City Building on Wednesday evening, May 3d, at 7 1-2 o'clock, for the purpose of making arrangements as may be necessary for the proper observance of this sacred duty. That while others throughout the length and breadth of our land, are commemorating in their hearts the brave deeds and sacrifices of their dead, we, in unison with them may be found renewing, with no less patriotic hearts, the sad memories of those of our crumbling dust, who, answering the call of their country in her greatest trial and tribulation, were sacrificed that our Union might live.

The Artillery Disbanded.

The following order was received on Tuesday:

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
CONCORD, N. H., Apr. 24, 1876.

I. Special Order No. 39.

The Portsmouth Artillery, Co. K., First Regiment New Hampshire Volunteer Militia, is hereby disbanded.

II. Capt. T. E. O. Marvin, First Lt. David Urch, and Second Lt. Josiah N. Jones, of said company are hereby honorably discharged the service of the State by reason of such disbandment.

III. Col. John J. Dillon, commanding the First Regiment, N. H. V. M., is hereby authorized to immediately take possession of all the State and company property now in possession of the officers of said company.

(Sgd.) IRA CROSS,
Adjutant General.

The Milipond Appropriation.

At a special meeting of the Common Council, Monday evening, it was voted not to concur in the Aldermanic amendment to the appropriation bill by which the item appropriating $5000 for the purchase of the South Millpond was stricken out, and a committee of conference was asked for. Sumner's advice to Secretary of War Stanton, "stick," is applicable in this case, for after the appropriation bill is once passed the Council has not even the semblance of power in the management of city affairs, and its members might as well as not resign en masse, for all the influence the Council can exert. The Aldermen will probably not be very stubborn in the matter, as they are well aware that the appropriation of money for any purpose does not compel them to spend it for that purpose, and that after the Councils in concurrence appropriate a sum for the purchase of the pond the Aldermen can let it lie idle (the money, not the pond—for that won't lie idle during the hot weather,) until next year and then have it covered into the Treasury as surplus, or by a little fugling get it transferred to cover up a deficiency in some other department. All the Common Council can do is to force the appropriation of the money for the purchase of the pond, which we hope they will do by standing their ground and refusing to pass the appropriation bill without it.

Jottings.

Buffalo Bill and Texas Jack, the original "scout combination," with M'lle Morlacchi, the great danseuse, appear at the Temple this evening in a Western drama entitled "Life on the Border," which will be followed by the comedy of "Thrice Married," in which M'lle Morlacchi will take four characters and be supported by a well selected dramatic company. See advertisement.

The proposed entertainment in aid of the Young People's Union, by Mrs. C. A. Cutter and some friends belonging to an amateur dramatic club of Cambridge, Mass., will be given as advertised on Thursday evening, at Franklin Hall, tickets enough to guarantee the payment of expenses having been sold previous to Tuesday. Franklin Hall has recently been new-seated and rendered more commodious and comfortable for an audience.

Bryant's Minstrels, with twenty-four "star artists," including Billy Bryant, Lew Benedict, T. M. Hengler and others, will give an entertainment to-morrow (Thursday) evening at the Temple. Some of the members of the troupe are well known in this section as being at the head of their specialties in the "variety" line, and the entire show is warmly commended by the press. The Reading (Pa.) Times says of their performance: "It was one of the finest entertainments ever given in this city. The olio was new and sparkled with gems of music and crisp bon mots, and the varieties were all excellently rendered. All proved themselves worthy successors of the old organization, whose reputation they brilliantly maintain."

Messrs. John Hatch and Francis M. Hatch have been admitted to the bar.

Rev. Carlos Martyn will begin his pastorate of the 23d Street Reformed Church in New York on the first Sunday in June.

The Portsmouth ship Anna Decatur, which ran ashore in Independencia Bay some weeks ago, sustaining severe injuries, has been repaired and sailed from Callao, March 26, for Europe with guano.

The Maine Methodist Conference has made the following appointments: Kittery, O. H. Stevens; Kittery navy yard, B. Freeman; York, J. H. Trask; Goodwin's Mills, A. Turner; Eliot and Scotland, S. F. Strout; South Eliot, A. Cook; Ogunquit, D. M. Hughes.

Work has already been commenced on the addition to Miss Morgan's school, in the shape of a two-story wing added to the south side of the building. By this arrangement, the capacity of the school will be largely increased. The addition is expected to be so far completed as to be available at the June commencement.

The meeting of the South Parish adjourned until next Monday without settling on the amount of money to be raised for music. Messrs. Chas. H. Rollins, William H. Sise, Wm. R. Preston, James R. May and William W. Cotton were elected wardens. The sum of $3500 was appropriated for the pastor's salary, and $150 for supplies during his vacation.

There will be a special Council Fire of Newichewannock Tribe, No. 4, kindled at its wigwam on the 26th Sun, Plant Moon, at the seventh run, 30th breath,—which, we are informed, means that a meeting of the Tribe of Improved Red Men will be held on Wednesday evening, April 26, at half-past seven o'clock. Buffalo Bill will not be present, in consequence of an engagement at the Temple.

The Portland Advertiser speaks favorably of Dollie Bidwell's Company, which has been playing an engagement in that city.

The Concord Patriot says that on Sunday evening Col. J. Horace Kent of Portsmouth delivered an excellent address which occupied about an hour's time. His theme was temperance, and his remarks were mainly addressed to the young men. He gave some valuable suggestions as to the methods of conducting the work of reform.

Mr. J. S. Montgomery has just completed a finely executed copy of the charter of the N. H. Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, which wi ll be sent to the Centennial as a fitting representation of the progress of humanity.

The funeral obsequies of the late wife of Capt. William Robinson were solemnized at the Congregational church, Salisbury Point, on Saturday afternoon. Rev. Messrs. J. H. Hartman and N. S. Wright officiated. The church was filled to repletion by hundreds of sympathizing friends. The floral tributes were very rich and numerous, each the gift of some Portsmouth friend. One of the wreaths bore the inscription—"There is a Reaper whose name is Death." The reverend gentleman occupying the desk, spoke very feelingly of the tender relations which the deceased had borne to her loved ones and the community by whom she was universally and deeply esteemed. Music was furnished by a select choir, consisting of Miss Emma J. Flanders, Mrs. Ann Brown, and Messrs. Moses Flanders and John Garland. A delegation of Newburyport Commandery of Knights Templar, Trinity Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, and of Warren Lodge Free and Accepted Masons were present to evince their sympathy for their companion and brother, and occupied reserved seats in the body of the house. No more afflictive and sudden a bereavement has fallen upon the community for years.—Newburyport Herald.

The remains of the late John Elwyn were on Thursday last interred on the Elwyn place. Those who saw the face say that it looked as natural as at the time of the first burial." The coffin was enclosed in a lead box, firmly soldered air-tight. This was placed in a cedar box and the whole in a brick tomb eight inches thick, built under ground. Then a covering of brick of the same thickness was built over the opening and the grave closed up.

News and Notes.

John H. Murray's grand circus, pantomime and tragedy, is to open in Boston on May 8. It is at present in Brooklyn, N. Y., and is said to be one of the best shows of the kind in existence.

Henry John Murray, British Consul at Portland, has been promoted to the position of Consul at Buenas Ayres.

W. F. Cody—"Buffalo Bill"—a few weeks ago went to Texas, and after he had been there a while the sheriff of Young county attempted to arrest him; but he resisted. The sheriff and he drew their weapons at the same moment and fired together. The sheriff's shot took effect, but Buffalo Bill missed his mark. He grasped a rifle, however, and fired, the shot piercing the heart of the sheriff, killing him instantly.

The second championship game between the Bostons and Athletics, at Philadelphia, was won by the Athletics. Score 20 to 3.

Jenny Lind has lost her voice.

The state of affairs in Southern Europe is still drifting slowly toward war. Herzegovina has refused to accept an armistice as proposed by Austria. The moral support of the Russian Government and the substantial aid rendered by the Russian provinces have greatly strengthened the insurrectionary movement.

Political.

A Western correspondent of the New York Times, discussing the Presidency from that point of view, says that the Western delegations to Cincinnati will be mainly unpledged. The general impression is that the candidate will be either Mr. Blaine or Mr. Bristow. He says: "Mr. Blaine has personal elements of popularity that commend him to the Western people, and he has gained great strength from the position he has assumed on the school question and the effective hostility he has shown the Confederate sentiment in Congress. Assuming that he can free himself entirely from the recent charges made against him, he will probably have more lasting strength in the convention among the Western people than any other candidate. If he fails to do this, or if for some other reason his strength shall wane, this Western constituency would probably go over in bulk to Mr. Bristow."

Speaking of Virginia Tucker's old State rights avowals, General Boynton of the Cincinnati Gazette says: "It may be said that all this is wild imagining; that Blaine's probing of the democracy is for political effect, and that Tucker's retorts and his associates' hearty endorsement are only what might be expected in heated debate. But if the rebel democracy was not still the same as in the days before the war in the political arena, and the same as when it stood bravely in battle under the Stars and Bars, no words from Mr. Blaine could cause it to applaud the ideas and the false principles which plunged the country into civil war. To Mr. Blaine, more than to any other man, the loyal people of the country are indebted for causing the States' rights' men on the floor to fully declare themselves."

Removing Life's Heaviest Burden.

To remove the burden of disease, the heaviest that poor humanity is compelled to bear, is certainly a grand object, a glorious mission. Assuredly the discoverer of a remedy which accomplishes this result is entitled to the gratitude and respect of mankind. Such a remedy is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, whose great success is attributable to the fact that its restorative action upon the debilitated and disordered system is in accordance with the principles of common sense. It invigorates the sick, and, as their strength increases, the burden of disease grows lighter. It reforms those physical irregularities which render weakness chronic, and thus eradicates the evil at its very source. Liver complaint, malarious fevers, constipation, urinary troubles, uterine weakness, and many other causes of general debility and ill health, are completely removed by the combined tonic and alterative operation of the Bitters.

Barnett's Flavoring Extracts.—The superiority of these extracts consists in their perfect purity and great strength. They are warranted free from the poisonous oils and acids which enter into the composition of many of the factitious fruit flavors now in the market. They are not only true to their names, but are prepared from fruits of the best quality, and are so highly concentrated that a comparatively small quanity on y need be used.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $15,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $35,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

Daily Chronicle.

A Fact to be Remembered.

At least ninety-nine per cent. of the republicans of New England desire to secure the nomination of a ticket at Cincinnati which shall receive the support of voters who believe in an honest and high-toned administration. There is some difference of opinion as to the nominees. It is certain that neither Conkling nor Morton could secure the united vote of any New England State. New England will be divided between Blaine and Bristow. It is impossible for either of these gentlemen to be nominated without the support on the final ballot of the friends of the other, whether it be Bristow or Blaine. This is a fact which cannot we think be denied. Should the friends of these two candidates enter into an honest rivalry, and accept the inevitable verdict of numbers, one or the other will secure the nomination. Should injudicious counsels prevail and antagonism be created, neither can secure the nomination. The friends of Conkling and Morton will oppose Mr. Bristow and Blaine. The friends of Conkling and Morton will give the nomination to the "Great Unknown" if they can, in preference to Mr. Bristow or Mr. Blaine. It is, therefore, very clear that the friends of Mr. Bristow and Mr. Blaine have at least a common object so far as principles are involved, and it is also certain that they enter upon a cause already lost should they carry their partisanship so far as to open the campaign with a resolve to conquer with Bristow or fall; to win with Blaine or to suffer defeat. The folly of such a course is too apparent, and no partisan victory was yet ever achieved by such political blindness. The politician who in his zeal for Blaine would sacrifice Bristow for Morton possesses no political wisdom, and the man who is so strenuous for Bristow that he would throw Blaine overboard and thus promote Conkling's chances, is neither wise nor patriotic.—Boston Journal.

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sir—Your medicines, Golden Medical Discovery, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, have proved of the greatest service to me. Six months ago no one thought that I could possibly live long. I had a complication of diseases,—scrofula, manifesting itself in eruptions and great blotches on my head that made such sores that I could not have my hair combed without causing me much suffering; also causing swollen glands, tonsils enlarged or "thick neck," and large and numerous boils. I also suffered from a terrible Chronic Catarrh, and in fact I was so diseased that life was a burden to me. I had tried many doctors with no benefit. I finally procured one-half dozen bottles of your Golden Medical Discovery and one dozen Sage's Catarrh Remedy and commenced their use. At first I was badly discouraged, but after taking four bottles of the Discovery I began to improve, and when I had taken the remaining I was well. In addition to the use of Discovery I applied a solution of Iodine to the Goitre or thick neck, as you advise in pamphlet wrapping, and it entirely disappeared. Your Discovery is certainly the most wonderful blood medicine ever invented. I thank God and you, from the depths of my heart, for the great good it has done me.

Very gratefully,
MRS. L. CHAFFEE.

Most medicines which are advertised as blood purifiers and liver medicines contain either mercury, in some form, or potassium and iodine variously combined. All of these agents have strong tendency to break down the blood corpuscles, and debilitate and otherwise permanently injure the human system, and should therefore be discarded. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, on the other hand, being composed of the fluid extracts of native plants, barks and roots, will in no case produce injury, its effects being strengthening and curative only. Sarsaparilla, which used to enjoy quite a reputation as a blood purifier, is a remedy of thirty years ago, and may well give place as it is doing, to the more positive and valuable vegetable alteratives which later medical investigation and discovery has brought to light. In Scrofulous Kings' Evil, White Swellings, Ulcerous Eruptions, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammation, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin and Sore Eyes as in all other blood diseases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has shown its great remedial powers, curing the most obstinate and intractable cases. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and received one by them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking the package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.50 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." They told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials you said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD, Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Comprehensive. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would like another package. Something ought to help you, I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be indebted to you for them. Enclosed you will find $1.50; please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have had Neuralgia or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefitted. I send $1.50 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

Old Time Chronicles, No. 134.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

In my last was an account of the New Hampshire Provincial Congress for 1775. It closed November 16; British rule was now at an end, John Wentworth, the last royal Governor, having left. A new state of things was commencing. July 4, 1776, the Continental Congress signed the Declaration of Independence,—but New Hampshire got the start of it by adopting a constitution and forming a State government early in that year, as will be seen presently.

It has been seen that in one or two of the Congresses of New Hampshire there was not an equal representation, some towns, not very large, choosing two or three representatives. On the day before the close of the Congress of 1775, it adopted a new plan of representation. Portsmouth was allowed three, four other towns two each, many others one each, and quite a number of small towns were classed. A new election took place. The number chosen was 76, being much less than the preceding Congress. From Portsmouth were the following: Samuel Cutts, Samuel Sherburn and Pierce Long. The able, distinguished men then or soon after were: Meshech Weare of Hampton Falls, John Dudley of Raymond, Phillips White of South Hampton, Matthew Thornton of Londonderry, Joseph Badger of Gilmanton and Wiseman Claggett of Litchfield. The last had been General Attorney under British rule.

This body met at Exeter, Dec. 21, 1775. Matthew Thornton was chosen President; Ebenezer Thompson of Durham, Secretary.

A plan of government was the first subject of importance, and on the second day of the session it was "Voted to choose a committee of three to draw up a solemn obligation or engagement, and lay it before this body." Chosen for the committee, Benjamin Giles, Ebenezer Thompson and Wiseman Claggett. The result, after twelve days, was a Constitution, the first for the State,—and the late John Farmer, Esq., said, so far as is known the first for any State. It was to continue during the war. By the people it was continued one year after the war, when a new Constitution was formed.

The Constitution provided that the body then in session be a House of Representatives, and that there be a Council of twelve, five of which were to be in the County of Rockingham; that general and field officers be appointed by the two houses; that there be a Treasurer and Recorder of Deeds in each county. Precepts to the towns for the election of representatives and councillors were to be sent to the towns annually at or before the first day of November, and the election was to be before the third Wednesday of December.

There are some few other provisions in this Constitution, but as a whole, it was simple and only what seemed necessary for the organization and independence of the State. It was adopted Jan. 5, 1776. On the anniversary of that event, one hundred years after, on the 5th of January last, by order of Gov. Cheney, some notice of it was taken in commemoration by a party designated for it, at Portsmouth.

It should be said that there was an Executive, the President of the Council. This was Meshech Weare, who held the office during the war. In effect he was Governor. There was also a Committee of Safety of almost unlimited powers in the recess of the Legislature. The legislative body this year was in session 116 days, but not continuously, as there were several adjournments for days or weeks. It closed October 21st.

The Houses of 1776.

Of architecture, let it be remembered, there was little or none. The house was built simply and substantially, for use and not for display. The timbers were so large and so sound, that even the wear and tear of a hundred years have often left them unimpaired. Bricks were often imported from England. Windows were small, and the panes diminutive; 6 x 8, 7 x 9, and 8 x 10, being the common sizes of French window-glass advertised for sale. The house was generally square, the walls of exceeding thickness; the chimney rose massive and capacious in the centre; the interior walls were panelled; and the great oaken beams crossed the ceiling in plain sight. The centre of the house, and of the family life which it sheltered, was the open wood fire, which blazed cheerfully in the huge fireplace of the living-room. Stoves were unknown; and no furnace sent its currents of over-heated air to hall or chamber. Cooking was done in tin kitchens, or turn-spits placed before the fire, or in pots hung by links and hooks from the swinging crane, or in the great brick oven which the chimney-work included on one side.—Edward Abbott's "Revolutionary Times."

—Dr. Moreno and his wife of San Francisco, had quarreled, and he was anxious to make up. He told her to kiss him in token of reconciliation, and she refused. He knocked her down and commanded her again to kiss him. She still refused, and received another felling blow. He continued to beat her until she could not have kissed him if she would, as her injuries are such that she is not expected to recover. If she does, of course she will be anxious to kiss him right away.

Grant Exposed.

A Post dispatch of Monday from Washington says: The committee on expenditures in the Interior Department struck a "big bonanza" to-day. Sometime ago information was brought them that there was a gentleman in this city who had been most foully wronged by the President. The story was that after committing this wrong the President had first incarcerated his victim in an asylum for the insane and had then sent him abroad at his own (Grant's) expense, under promise that he would remain out of the country till the President's term should expire; that he did remain abroad nine months, but had returned, and was ready to testify. He was accordingly summoned and examined. He told a straight story, and evidently felt deeply the wrong he had suffered, but whenever the examination approached the real point he steadfastly declined to tell what precise act of offence Grant had committed. The committee exhausted almost every expedient, and finally threatened to put him in jail for contempt. The witness replied that he had already suffered persecution by imprisonment on this account and could do so again. At last he made a statement of a conversation that had taken place between him and the President at his (witness') bedside last night. The statement seemed somewhat peculiar, and he was questioned as to how Grant got into the house. He declined to answer, but said that all the doors and windows were locked and that the President was not admitted by his servants nor by any other human being. At this the patience of a member of the committee gave way, and he petulantly remarked that it must have been the President's spirit, and the witness at once answered, "Certainly it was." Seizing the clue another member eagerly asked, "Then all your troubles with Grant were of a purely spiritual nature, between his spirit and yours?" "Of course they were," replied the witness, and then the committee realized that their witness was a raving maniac on Spiritualism.

The Journal de Pharmacie states that if, to a strong solution of gum arabic, measuring 8 1-2 fluid ozs., a solution of 30 grains sulphate of aluminum dissolved in 2-3 oz. water be added, a very strong mucilage is formed, capable of fastening wood together, or of mending porcelain or glass.

The time was 10 P. M. The scene, the corridor outside the gallery doors. Wife of representative quietly seated in the private gallery assigned to the families of members. Approach of the ex-Confederate to the lady in question: "You must get out of the gallery at once." "I am the wife of a member," was the reply of the lady. "What member?" demanded the newly-fledged officer. "Mr. Blair, member from New Hampshire," answered the lady. "There's no such man in the House. You are a fraud, and must get out of here at once." As a fitting finale to the enforcement of his outrageous affront to the lady, this official creature called a policeman. In the meantime the husband of the lady appeared on the scene, and, comprehending the situation, he grabbed that doorkeeper with a mighty grip and applied his boot to the aforesaid doorkeeper most unmercifully, kicking him from the gallery door to the basement of the Capitol until the chief doorkeeper's office was reached, and it is reported that the justly indignant Congressman said to the head doorkeeper that unless the man who offered the affront to the lady was discharged forthwith he should not hesitate to treat his chief in the manner that he had employed toward the unworthy keeper of the ladies' gallery.

The Gubernatorial party from New Hampshire, consisting of Governors Cheney, Stearns, Smyth and Straw, and their families, were handsomely entertained yesterday afternoon by Col. Henshaw Ward, Chief of Governor Smyth's Staff during his administration, at the Colonel's fine residence at Oakland. They were taken by the Colonel's teams and drawn to the State University at Berkeley and introduced to President Le Conte, who conducted them through the several departments, in which they manifested great interest and satisfaction. Mayor Bryant leaves with the party to-morrow for a three days' trip to the Geysers. On their return, after a visit to a few other places of interest, they will leave for New Hampshire.—San Francisco Call, 18th.

Political.

Every day increases the republican determination in favor of making an unexceptional, trustworthy nomination at Cincinnati.—Boston Journal.

Nominate James G. Blaine and the country will witness such a republican uprising as has not stirred the nation since the days of Lincoln.—Bridgeport (N. J.) Pioneer.

As we look now at the assaults upon Ulysses S. Grant, the fifteenth President of the United States, we more than ever believe that he ought to have been permitted to take his own course, and remain as the General of the Army of the United States, instead of consenting to be the candidate of the republican party in 1863.—Philadelphia Press.

Like other prophets, Bristow is without honor in his own country. The delegates from his own country (Jefferson), to the Kentucky State Presidential Convention, are for Morton.

Schuyler Colfax declines to run for Congress, because, as he says: "The happiest years of the past quarter of a century have been the recent ones, in which I have belonged to my family and not to 'the rest of mankind.'"

Foster's Democrat quietly remarks: "That enthusiastic young man of the Nashua Telegraph is as antic as a young colt about Bristow. He goes for him first, last, and all the time. He has Bristow on the brain. We can account for this on no other so good ground as Bro. Moore's hostility to E. H. Rollins and Daniel Hall, who are both for Blaine. Rollins wants and intends to go to the United States Senate, and we have no doubt that he will succeed, although we shall be pardoned for expressing our belief that the editor of the Telegraph has a profound conviction that O. C. Moore is a much better man for that honorable position."

Hon. Elihu B. Washburne, Minister to France, declines to be a candidate for Governor of Illinois.

The Massachusetts republican State convention met at Boston on Wednesday. The Blaine men nominated J. M. Forbes, Esq., Hon. E. R. Hoar, Hon. Edw. Learned and Gen. Wm. Cogswell for delegates at large to the Cincinnati convention. The Bristow men nominated Hon. Richard H. Dana, Jr., Paul Chadbourne, Esq., Ex-Gov. Bullock and Rev. James Freeman Clarke. The whole number of votes cast was 969; necessary for a choice, 485. Hoar had 702, Dana 622, Forbes 524, Chadbourne 407, Bullock 404, Cogswell 376, Learned 363, Clarke 283; all others 209. Messrs. Hoar and Forbes, on the Blaine ticket, and Dana, on the Bristow ticket, were elected, there being no election for a fourth delegate. President Chadbourne was then elected to the vacancy by acclamation.

—It was a Scotch woman who said that a butcher of her town only killed half a beast at a time. It was a Dutchman who said that a pig had no marks on his ears except a short tail. It was a British magistrate who, being told by a vagabond that he was not married, responded, "That's a good thing for your wife." It was an English reporter who stated that at a meeting of the Ethnological Society, "there were casts of the skull of an individual at different periods of adult life, to show the changes produced in ten years," though Dean Swift certainly mentions two skulls preserved in Ireland, one of a person when he was a baby and the other of the same when he grew to be a man. It was a Portuguese mayor who enumerated among the marks by which the body of a drowned man might be identified when found, "a marked impediment in his speech." It was a Frenchman, the famous Carlino, who, contentedly laying his head on a large stone jar for a pillow, replied to one who inquired if it was not rather hard, "Not at all, for I have stuffed it with hay." It was an American lecturer who solemnly said one evening, "Parents, you may have children; or, if not, your daughters may have."

—Two of the oldest houses in the country are in Guilford, Connecticut. One is called Graves' house, and was built in 1675 of heavy oaken timber. It is forty feet by thirty in size. There are twelve rooms in it, the largest being twenty-two feet square. The chimney is twelve feet square. In the attic is a long room reached by a private staircase running up by the chimney. Ten miles west of Guilford, near the centre of the original village, stands the most ancient house in Connecticut, built in 1640, the year after the settlement of the town by farmers from Kent, England. It was erected by Rev. Mr. Whitefield in 1640. The rafters were placed on the wall and the angle of the roof is sixty degrees. The windows have broad recesses, and the stones of which the house is composed are rough. In 1868 the house was carefully repaired so as to leave its character intact. The north wall and part of the south wall were left, but the other walls were replaced, they being weak and showing marks of fire. It is said that the first marriage in Guilford was celebrated in this house and that the marriage feast consisted of pork and beans brought over from England by the settlers.

—Miss Mollie Stockton of Winnemucca, Nevada, has published a card in the local paper of that place explaining why she "whaled" her schoolmaster. "Although I am only fifteen years of age," writes the young woman, "I am old enough to know he deserved it."

—Member of hunt (to farmer:) "I would not ride over those seeds if I were you. They belong to a disagreeable sort of a fellow who might make a fuss about it." Farmer: "Well, sir, as him's me, he won't say nothing about it to-day."—Punch.

—Those who are engaged in gumming labels, etc., have often been annoyed by the curling up of the edges and corners. A simple remedy for this is to add to the mucilage a little salt, sugar, and glycerine, and the paper, if not exposed to too strong a warmth, will not curl. A very small quantity of glycerine must be used, as a large proportion will prolong the process of drying.

—A parcel of wolves recently, near Moscow, ate ten peddlers, three German mechanics, five carpenters and five Russian sled drivers. Much indignation was expressed in Moscow when it was learned that a book agent and a lightning-rod man escaped.

—The Woman's Journal claims that women are equal in endurance to men, but until a woman can work hard all day watching a game of base ball, and then sit up and play billiards till 2 o'clock in the morning, there doesn't seem to be much need of arguing the point.

—Many a father would whip his son severely for playing old sledge for five cents a game, yet would himself gamble with a life insurance company in the hope of beating the company.

TO MY PATIENTS!
DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,
Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious
Dental Practitioner.
DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.
I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.
If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.
N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice rom me. A. P. S.

Jottings.

The mail from Boston on Monday, which arrived here in the evening, eight hours late, was not delayed on the B. & M. train, but was thrown off at Newmarket Junction as usual. So we are informed by Postal Clerk Trickey.

Twenty-seven thirty-seconds of brig Sally Brown, of this port, built in Newburyport in 1865, 426 tons register, has been sold to Moses H. Small of Chelsea, Mass.

Schooner Fairfield, of Eden, Me., now on the railway at Kittery, has been sold to Daniel Littlefield and others of this city.

Bryant's Minstrels at the Temple to-night.

Don't forget the Amateur Dramatic entertainment at Franklin Hall this evening, in aid of the Young People's Union.

Adjutant Aldrich and Quartermaster Hartshorn of the First Regiment, were in this city Wednesday to take possession of all the State and Company property in possession of the officers of the Artillery Company.

Morlacchi, "Texas Jack" and "Buffalo Bill," with a stock company, gave one of their unique entertainments at the Temple on Wednesday evening. Mr. Cody denies that it was he who shot a sheriff in Texas lately. He has been with the Omohundro company since August, appearing nearly every night. Probably some other "Bill" stole the livery of the "Buffalo" to "serve the devil in!"

The minstrel troupe appearing here in charge of Neil Bryant this evening is said to be the best company in existence and travelling. Lew Benedict is with them and will "say a few words." Heugler, an old favorite here, Neil Bryant, Billy Bryant, Goss and Fox, Adams and Lee, and the celebrated California Quartette, are the "stars." The orchestra numbers ten performers.

A large number of tickets has been sold for the entertainment at Franklin Hall tonight. The company is not a professional one, but has a good reputation in the amateur line. The proceeds (less expenses) go to the aid of the Young People's Union.

Steamer Perkiomen arrived at this port Tuesday at 8 o'clock A. M., with 1207 tons of coal for C. E. Walker & Co.; commenced unloading at 8:30, finished at 4 P. M. on the following day, and at 5 o'clock was on her way to Philadelphia.

The bodies of A. H. Hartmyer, the cook of the brig "Hattie Eaton," wrecked on Gerrish's Island in March, and the missing negro seaman from the same vessel, were found on the beach near the scene of the wreck on Wednesday. Hartmyer was interred in the Kittery Point cemetery, on Wednesday afternoon; the other body will be sent to East Boston to-day. Mr. Wm. L. LeBaron, the mate of the brig and only survivor of the wreck, recovered from the injuries he then received sufficiently to go to his home in Massachusetts, some weeks ago.

The meeting to take steps toward the formation of a Veteran Association, on Wednesday evening, organized with Col. Wm. H. Sise in the chair. Committees were appointed to attend to the preliminaries, and there is good prospect that the company of veterans will be formed.

New Hampshire Insurance Company.

The first policy of the New Hampshire Fire Insurance Company was written April 10th, 1870. During the six years, 45,000 policies have been written, and $612,727 received for premiums, and 514 claims for losses promptly, fairly, and squarely paid, and now on the sixth anniversary the cash assets reach near $450,000. These facts and figures can but be a source of local pride and satisfaction to all interested in the "first and only stock insurance company in the State."

We understand that out of forty-four mutual insurance companies chartered in New Hampshire since the year 1800, but six of them still live. The people prefer to seek indemnity in stock companies, and pay so much money for so much insurance. "Pay as you go." With popular management and paid up capital stock of a quarter of a million dollars, the New Hampshire Company has evidently obtained the chosen risks of the State, and the mutual system of insurance is fast dying out.

This company early developed noticeable features which led to healthy growth, success and permanency. Care in the selection of responsible, worthy agents, discrimination in risks, close economy, prudent dividends, sound investments, prompt and fair payment of losses by fire, and fair and generous dealing toward all. This sound conservative policy won confidence, patronage, and strength each successive year. We predict a long future for the New Hampshire Fire Insurance Company. An able board of Directors, with Ex-Gevs. Straw and Weston as President and Vice President, John C. French, Secretary, and Hon. Frank A. McKean, Adjuster, still directs its fortunes.—Manchester Union.

C. A. Hazlett represents the company in this city.

York.

YORK, ME., April 24th.

Messrs. Editors: Bill said "All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players." It is important that each actor should play his part well. Reports from a village like ye antiquated Old York must of course lack the sensation and interest which mark the like in places where poverty, crime and general wretchedness, and their diametric opposites seem to be their inheritance.

That Winter lingers, to a certain degree in the lap of Spring none will deny. Our antediluvian biped, the "oldest inhabitant" declares, "zounds! I never see sich weather? I'gin tu b'leve that the man who said he'd killed a bear in his cornfield, and tried to haul him home on a hand sled, but got stuck in a snow drift where he froze both feet and was sun struck, told the truth."

The church society at Cape Neddick are now putting an addition to their house of worship, in the form of a splendid belfry, in the which a bell, to be presented by their pastor, is to be placed.

The religious services at York through the past Winter have resulted in much good. Eighteen persons have been baptized and received into the Christian Baptist church, and I learn more are to follow. Three were added to the Methodist church on last Sunday. Eight are to be received into the Congregational church on the first Sabbath in May.

Business matters are very quiet here just now. But very little building is being done. We notice that Mr. Wilson M. Walker is building a fine residence near his store. A millinery and fancy goods store has been opened here on the corner of Main and Ash streets, by Misses Hutchins and Smiley, two young ladies of our town. We wish them abundant success, and can see no reason why they should not do a good business, as such a shop has long been needed.

The hen thieves are still vigorously and successfully plying their vocation. On the night of the 19th Mr. Alexander Thompson lost twenty-two imported and high-bred fowls, worth two dollars each, on an average. Warrants of search were issued next day and two houses were searched, but they struck the wrong trail and labored in vain. It seems that some movement should be made to bring to justice these night-raiders, and learn them that—

"A bitter change! severer for severe;
The day too short for their distress; and night
Even in the zenith of her dark domain,
Be sunshine to the color of their fate."

Comfortably yours, P.

Sea-Sickness.

As the time is now at hand when down-river excursions and amateur fishing trips will be in order, reliable information on the subject of preventing sea-sickness may be of value to many, particularly to such as have once experienced the horrors of that distressing malady. One Col. Knox, a great traveller, says: "To those who contemplate going to sea I have a piece of advice to offer that may save them the pangs of the marine malady. The night before you are to sail, take a blue pill—ten grains—just before going to bed, and when you get up in the morning, take, the first thing, a dose of citrate of magnesia. Then eat your breakfast and go on board, and I will wager four to one that you will not be sea-sick a moment, though the water may be as rough as an Arkansas traveler's manners. The above prescription was given to me several years ago, and I have rigidly followed it every time I have gone to sea since I received it. It has saved me from sea-sickness, and it has been of equal value to many others to whom I have given it." We give this as we find it in one of our exchanges, but cannot vouch for the effectiveness of the preventives prescribed, having never tried them; but there is a plan to avoid being sea-sick which we can confidently recommend as being effectual, as any of our readers who may try it will find. This prescription was first made known by a passenger on a steamer running across the straits of Dover one terribly stormy day, when every other passenger but he was sick, while he unconcernedly walked the deck and smoked a cigar of itself enough to sicken any common man. Another passenger staggered up to him and said, "Sir, what have you done to avoid this terrible affliction? Would it prevent me being sea-sick, too?" "I have no doubt it would," was the answer. "Tell me what to do, then, and I'll give you a guinea,"—proffering the coin. "All right," said the hardened cigar-smoker, pocketing the guinea: "go to sea the best thirty years o' your life, as I did."

The Portland Press suggests that if those of its readers who propose to go on boat excursions during the Summer will note down the principal points they desire to have appear in their obituaries, and send the notes into the Press office, it will save the reporters a great deal of trouble and obviate any possibility of embarrassing mistakes. The Press is a sensible paper.

Republican State Convention.

A republican State convention, for the choice of ten delegates to the republican National convention, to be held at Cincinnati, June, 14, 1876, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on Wednesday, the 24th day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All republican electors, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences or previous party affiliations, who are opposed to reviving sectional issues, and desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining and enforcing all the constitutional rights of every citizen, including the full and free exercise of the right of suffrage without intimidation and without fraud; who are in favor of the continued prosecution and punishment of all official dishonesty, and of an economical administration of the Government by honest, faithful, and capable officers; who are in favor of making such reforms in government as experience may from time to time suggest; who are opposed to impairing the credit of the nation by depreciating any of its obligations, and in favor of sustaining in every way the national faith and financial honor; who hold that the common-school system is the nursery of American liberty, and should be maintained absolutely free from sectarian control; who believe that, for the promotion of these ends, the direction of the Government should continue to be confided to those who adhere to the principles of 1776, and support them as incorporated in the Constitution and the laws; and who are in favor of recognizing and strengthening the fundamental principles of National Unity in this Centennial Anniversary of the birth of the Republic, are invited to participate in the election of delegates to this convention.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 4 o'clock, which all delegates are invited to attend.

DANIEL HALL,
Chairman Republican State committee.

The Quality of the Blood.

Upon the quality of the blood depends, in a great measure the vigor and health of the body. If the blood is wanting in nutritious properties, the muscles are sure to be weak and flabby, the flesh deficient in quantity, the skin sallow and dry, the cheeks pallow and the eyes lustreless. To improve the quality of the blood stimulate digestion and assimilation with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Under the influence of this strength-creating cordial the body is efficiently nourished and the flesh grows, in consequence, more abundant, the muscles become more compact, the cheek is tinged with a healthful color, and the eye regains its brightness. The Bitters also free the blood from impurities by stimulating the kidneys and bowels to thoroughly perform their duty of carrying off the refuse of the system, which, if not entirely got rid of, poisons the vital current.

The new Atlas Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa., is conducted upon the European plan, and will accommodate 4000 guests at one dollar ($1.00) per day.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9542 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $50,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 10 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

Daily Chronicle.

Knocked Him Overboard.

Parties from the neighborhood of the occurrence, have put us in possession of the following particulars of a tragedy which was consummated near Birk City on the Green River, some twelve miles below us:

It appears that on the 8th inst., Miss Margret Payne, who resides a mile or two up the river from the village mentioned above, had gone into the place to make some purchases, and spend the day with a young lady acquaintance. In the afternoon she started for home, and when about three-quarters of a mile from the village, and at a point far from any house or help, a burly negro man who was out on the water in a skiff, pulled into shore and sprang up into the road, accosting the young lady, and asking if he could walk with her. Thoroughly frightened, she answered "No!" and increased her pace. He also hurried up, keeping by her side, but between her and the river. There could be no question of the black scoundrel's intentions. Miss Payne's home was the nearest house, and between her and it lay a heavy strip of bush and timber, lonesome, dark and dense, a fitting spot for the perpetration of the dark villainy the black devil no doubt contemplated, and the young lady fully realized her peril. At a point where an encroaching hill crowded the road to the very verge of the river, and where the bank was steep, an inspiring thought flashed upon the brain of the sorely distressed damsel, and mustering her strength for one single effort, when they reached that point, she gave her tormentor a tremendous shove, hurling him over the bank headlong into a bed of quicksand. Then, without stopping to look after the fate of the wretch, she ran home at the top of her speed. The negro, of course, was immediately swallowed up by the voracious sands. His body has not been recovered, though it can be distinctly felt with a long pole. He is supposed to be a tramp who had been loitering about the neighborhood for a few weeks past, and who is now missing. The general belief of the neighborhood is that he had seen Miss Payne going to the village, and laid in wait to intercept her on her return, with the result we have narrated above.—Owensboro (Ind.) Monitor.

"O wad some power the giftie gie us,
To see ourselves as others see us."

Behold that pale, emaciated figure, with downcast eye, like some criminal about to meet her fate! See that nervous, distrustful look, as she walks along with a slow and unsteady step. The pink has left her cheeks and the cherry her lips. The once sparkling, dancing eyes are now dull and expressionless. The once warm, dimpled hands are now thin and cold. Her beauty has fled. What has wrought this wondrous change? What is that which is lurking beneath the surface of that once lovely form? Does she realize her terrible condition? Is she aware of the woeful appearance she makes? Woman, from her very nature, is subject to a catalogue of diseases from which man is entirely exempt. Many of these maladies are induced by her own carelessness, or through ignorance of the laws of her being. Again, many Female Diseases, if properly treated, might be arrested in their course, and thereby prove of short duration. They should not be left to an inexperienced physician who does not understand their nature, and is, therefore, incompetent to treat them. The importance of attending to Female Diseases in their earliest stages cannot be too strongly urged. For if neglected, they frequently lead to Consumption, Chronic Debility, and oftentimes to Insanity. In all classes of Female Diseases, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is without a rival. No medicine has ever surpassed it. In "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," of which R. V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y., is the author and publisher, is an extended treatise on WOMAN AND HER DISEASES. Under this head, the various affections to which woman is incident are carefully considered, accurately portrayed, and a restorative course of treatment suggested. Every woman, as she values her life and health, should possess a copy of this valuable book. If she be diseased, this "Adviser" will show her how she may be restored to health, and also direct her how she may avoid of many maladies to which she is constantly being exposed. Let every suffering woman heed this timely advice and see herself as others see her. Price of Adviser, $1.50 (postpaid) to any address.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased a package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have been worse than my life. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills mentioned in the Manchester Mirror, and concluded to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after the first one package I felt like a new man and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth a dollar a pill in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give $1 before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded to try one bottle of your pills. It happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you the 3d April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last long. My sister has suffered from Constipation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if she would give me twice I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be indicated by your pills. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 16, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

PULMOCINE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the course of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Arithmetic That Was Mistaken.

A farmer in Maine, who had a large cornfield, in which the grain was just sprouting above the soil, was greatly annoyed by the depredations of crows, which used to congregate in great numbers in a clump of trees near the boundary wall, and, after vociferously talking the matter over for a while, swoop down among the spreading rows. This was some years ago, before farmers and others had learned that the crow more than pays his board by destroying the insects, which are much more expensive pensioners upon the agriculturist than crows; and the farmer vowed vengeance upon the corn pullers, and laid in wait for them often and long without success. In the centre of the cornfield was a small board shanty, and the farmer noticed that whenever he was in this building, although he was quite concealed from the crows, they would never come down to be shot. As soon as he left the field, however, they would come down by hundreds. They could evidently count one. The idea occurred to him to test their further skill in mathematics. The next day he took his son into the shanty, and after a long time sent him home, thinking that after the crows had seen one person leave the field they would suppose the danger past, and come down. But they wisely kept aloof, and not till after he had himself started for home did they venture to alight in the corn.

The next day he took two persons with him, with the same result; first one person left the field, then another, the crows cawing their approval, but remaining in their safe position, and not until a third person had been seen to depart from the field would the cunning creatures trust themselves within gunshot of the little building.

The next day half a dozen persons entered it. Presently one of them went back across the field. The crows mentioned the fact among themselves, but kept their distance among the trees. Another person went away, with the same result. Directly a third emerged from the building and disappeared. The unhappy crows, having reached the end of their mathematical rope, came down in platoons to their deferred breakfast, unaware of the three armed enemies still remaining in the building, who at once opened fire upon the poor birds, whose great misfortune was that they were unable to count more than three.

This experiment was tried repeatedly, with six, seven, and eight persons; but the crows never failed to take the position that there could be no more than three, and when three departed they invariably descended to their doom.—Portland Adv.

Last Chapter of the Spider Story.

Who is it that has no enemies? The industrious little spider, too, which had been for the last forty-eight hours so successful in the gigantic work which it has undertaken, had, it appears, its enemies, who took pleasure in destroying its work and depriving it of the mouse, to the detriment of scientific discovery, for which it had so industriously and tenaciously labored since Monday morning. Tuesday night at nine o'clock Mr. Gross, in whose carpenter shop the wonderful feat was being performed, left the key of his shop to one of his friends, while he went to supper, in order that those who desired to see the spider at work might be admitted. Before leaving, however, Mr. Gross measured the distance between the floor and the mouse and found that it had been increased to four inches, that is to say, half an inch in three hours. During Mr. Gross' absence a mischievous visitor deliberately broke the threads by which the mouse was being hoisted, and down to the floor it went. Upon discovering this, Mr. Gross attempted to fasten it to the threads again, but the little spider refused to notice it any more, and leaving the bench to which her webs were fastened, disappeared. The mouse being examined, was almost dried up, the greater portion of its blood having been absorbed by the spider. Thus, by one stroke of a wicked hand, in an instant the herculean task which the spider had undertaken, and which it had almost completed, was destroyed. Such is life.—N. O. Picayune.

To Clean a Rusty Plow.

Take a quart of water and pour slowly into it half a pint of sulphuric acid. The mixture will become quite warm from chemical action, and this is the reason why the acid should be poured slowly into the water, rather than the water into the acid; wet the plow with the mixture, and let it remain on the iron till it evaporates. Then wash it again. The object is to give the acid time to dissolve the rust. Then wash with water and you will perceive where the worst spots are. Apply some more acid, and rub on those spots with a brick. The acid and the scouring will remove most of the rust. Then wash the mould board thoroughly with water to remove all the acid, and rub it dry. Brush it over with petroleum, or other oil, and let it be till Spring. When you go to plowing, take a bottle of the acid water to the field with you and apply it every bout to any spot of rust that may remain. The acid and the scouring of the earth will soon make it perfectly bright and smooth. If all iron work be washed off with petroleum as soon as we put our tools, implements and machines aside for the Winter, it will keep them from rusting; and save a great deal of trouble and annoyance to say nothing of depreciation and loss.—Rural Home.

FRIDAY, APRIL 28, 1876.

News and Notes.

The House of Representatives has voted to print the testimony taken by the naval investigating committee.

At a meeting of the City Government of Manchester, ex-Mayor John P. Newell was elected City Clerk vice Albert Jackson; and James Mitchell, Jr., Collector of Taxes in place of ex-Mayor John Hosley. The report of the Committee of the board of aldermen was adopted, unseating John L. Kennedy, in Ward Four, and his contestant, Noah S. Clark, was sworn in. This gives a republican majority of two in the board of aldermen. Three councilmen will probably be unseated.

A terrible explosion took place at "German Mine," on the Highfield road, Newburyport, Wednesday afternoon, April 26th, severely if not fatally injuring three men, besides demolishing the building connected with the mine. The miners were in the blacksmith shop preparing some dualin by heating it in the ashes, when one of them, thinking it about to explode, seized it and attempted to throw it out the building, but it exploded before he could drop it, blowing off both his hands, penetrating his bowels and lungs, and tearing him fearfully. His name is James McGill, and he belongs in Oswego, N. Y. He is twenty-one years old and single. Thomas Caxton, a man about forty-five years of age, and having a family was standing near the mouth of the shaft, and was precipitated to the bottom, a distance of thirty feet, having his arms and ribs fractured, but he will possibly escape with his life. James Williams, belonging in Harrisburg, Penn., was also badly torn about the head, hands and body, but not fatally injured. Others were slightly hurt. Mr. McGill has since died.

Francis D. Moulton, in an open letter to Henry Ward Beecher, submits the following propositions: "I will so amend my complaint that the issue shall be, if it is not so offered now, that by your perjury you caused me to be indicted for libel for saying that you were an adulterer, you then well knowing that what I said was true. Waiving all formalities, I will go to trial upon this issue alone, and I will agree that all witnesses shall be heard, without technical objection, who know anything of any fact tending to prove that issue, either of their own knowledge or by statements of either concerned in the double crime, or any other testimony the tribunal before which the trial is had shall choose to hear. As I do not desire to get any money from you by my suit, which would, perhaps, be paid from the funds of the church, which ought to be devoted to a better use than indemnifying you against the consequences of your crimes, I will ask no damages whatever, save the nominal sum of one dollar, if the issue is found in my favor." Mr. Moulton offers to submit this issue to a jury summoned in the ordinary mode, or by ex-President Woolsey, of Yale College; or by Deacon George C. Robinson, of Plymouth Church; or by a jury half selected by Thos. G. Shearman and Edward Beecher, and the other by himself, the verdict of the majority to be accepted as the final decision.

The Republic Magazine for May is one of the strongest numbers yet issued. The opening paper, "Crippling the National Government," is a trenchant review of the retrenchment policy of the democratic majority in the House of Representatives. An interesting paper on General Jackson will command attention. One of the most useful articles in the number relates to the civil service force, its extent and character of employment. It is the first complete analysis we have seen given. There are a number of able articles, each bearing on some live political topic. Economists will be interested in the paper, on "Labor in the United States"—in its relations to free trade and protection, as also in a well stated historical review of the currency, and of banks and banking in our own country. This magazine, while vigorously republican in tone, succeeds admirably in its efforts to present political issues in an impersonal and pleasing manner.

So far eight corpses have been removed from the ruins of the Theatre des Arts, which was burned at Rouen. About seventy-five persons were in the theatre when the fire broke out. The fire broke out while the actors were dressing for a performance of the opera of Hamlet, and was discovered before the public was admitted. The flames spread rapidly. The outlets to the building were so narrow that the exits of the members of the chorus and supernumeraries were cut off, and the poor people crowded the windows, many leaping upon the bedding piled below by the inhabitants. One chorus singer was visible for an hour in an upper window, beyond the reach of help. Four soldiers were killed and fifteen wounded in endeavoring to save lives. About fifty persons were badly injured and taken to the hospital. A leading singer, Mme. Pzys, entered the burning building in search of her husband, and perished.

Grace Greenwood repudiated her husband, Leander Lippincott, who has just been repudiated at Washington, many years ago. She found out he was bad before the democratic investigators did.

Mr. T. J. Horton, formerly a member of the police force in Boston, and who has had experience in Black Hills, writes from Georgetown, Colorado, that to his certain knowledge there has not been gold enough taken out "to pay for a hemlock funeral out-fit for one-quarter of the men out there."

The testimony taken in secret session by the Naval Committee will make about twenty thousand printed pages, which will cost $100,000 at the rate of $5 a page for printing and binding. It consists for the most part of elaborate answers to pointless questions.

Ida Lewis, the heroine of Newport, who has saved the lives of so many drowning men, has saved another poor wretch, herself, from her shiftless husband, who has held to her skirts for a living ever since she married him, and from whom she is at last divorced.

Parties who engage more space than they can occupy at the Centennial Exposition, with a view of underletting a portion to other parties at an advance, have been informed that no such disgraceful proceeding will be allowed. Such a decision is right, and it is hoped that it will be adhered to strictly. There are people in the world who would if they were permitted dig up the bones of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and sell them to curiosity-hunters at so much an ounce.

The alliance between the daughter of the Czar Russia and Queen Victoria's son has not answered the good intentions of its promoters. A matrimonial quarrel has occurred between the Duke of Edinburgh and his royal bride, and a separation has taken place. The Czar has got his daughter back again, and the Duke has returned to England. So it appears that there are matrimonial infelicities even among princes and potentates.

The Portsmouth (Eng.) Times publishes an account of the operations of Her Majesty's ship "Briton" on the East Coast of Africa in the suppression of the slave trade. Some of the boats with their crews were, the writer says, detached at various times from thirty to eighty days. Twelve slave dhows were captured by her boats, and nearly 220 slaves rescued from bondage. One dhow contained 122 men, women, and children of all ages, the majority being children from four to fourteen years of age. They were in a terrible condition, their bones protruding, and were in a most famished and disgusting state, rendering it incredible to think they were human beings endowed with reason at all. Two hundred had started ten days before the boats captured her, but seventy-eight had died from starvation on the passage, and had been thrown overboard like dogs. The "Briton's" men gave the captain of the dhow four dozen with a good rope's end for striking a slave after they had captured the vessel, and on sighting the ship he jumped overboard and was drowned. During the cruise of the "Briton" on the coast of Africa, the boat attacked and destroyed the slave trading village of Kionga, where the inhabitants had murdered a sub-lieutenant of the Daphne in a most treacherous manner, coming behind him while seated in a chief's hut, driving a steel-headed spear through his back, and hacking him with swords till dead.

Political.

The Buffalo Blaine Club now has over one thousand members. At their last meeting they voted to send one hundred delegates to Cincinnati to work for Mr. Blaine's nomination, but the trouble was, three hundred volunteered to go.

The California republicans in State convention passed a resolution of preference for James G. Blaine for President, but refrained from instructing the delegates. It is said that ten are for Blaine and two for Bristow.

One of the conspicuities of Massachusetts politics is Rev. James Freeman Clarke, who is in the habit of ventilating his ideas of political wisdom by declaring that on certain considerations he will bolt nominations. James was a candidate for delegate to the Cincinnati convention on the Bristow ticket and aired his views with his usual egotism; and when the voting closed was not within 200 votes of an election, although another on the same ticket had about 300 majority and a third was afterward chosen. When clergymen enter into active political management as wire-pullers they are liable to injure the cause they advocate and make of themselves laughing-stock. James drops out of sight every time he endeavors to make himself too prominent.

The Nashua Telegraph remarks that a chief characteristic of Secretary Bristow is that he minds his own business. A rare virtue in Nashua, no doubt, unless blowing one's own trumpet is minding one's business. But that is where Nashua and Kentucky essentially differ, nevertheless.

That report that Morton delegates had been chosen at Bristow's home in Kentucky proves to have been a canard.

Boring a ship's bottom in mid-ocean to discover a rotten plank is wisdom compared to the democratic policy of investigating everything, at enormous expense, while the workingmen of the country are starving for want of needed legislation to set them to work.

The fact cannot be disguised that, though Bristow is strong here and his strength is increasing throughout the country, Blaine is also strong, and that three at least of the delegates chosen yesterday are not unfriendly to him. It was suggested by some of the "moderates," so called, and the suggestion found favor with many, that should Bristow be found to be the first choice at Cincinnati and Blaine second, the idea of making the ticket Bristow and Blaine, or Blaine and Bristow, if it should prove the other way, might well be urged.—Boston Globe.

The Indiana financiers have just embraced a new idea which was evolved from the towering intellect of Morton C. Hunter a few days ago. Hunter has been painfully reflecting on the financial situation and has discovered a remedy for all the ills the country is suffering, to be accomplished by paying our bonds in silver dollars. He says "the debt by law is payable in coin; at the time of the enactment that the silver dollar was a legal tender, therefore it is practicable to pay the debt in silver dollars. Let us proceed to coin the money and pay the debt, and make 17 per cent. by the operation." Senator Morton is seriously impressed with the idea, and is giving it ponderous consideration.—Post Dispatch.

Blaine like Bristow has an effective way of trampling out slanders; and they both grow stronger by every assault upon them.—Utica Herald.

Thoughtful republicans are calling attention to the fact that the real problem for the Cincinnati convention is not, "Who can be nominated?" but who can be elected.—Buffalo Express.

The Great Unknown will have no chance at Cincinnati. The republicans will nominate not only a representative man but a man of national reputation. They do not propose to fight from behind cover. Besides, there are so many Great Unknowns that it is impossible for all of them to be accommodated.—Indianapolis Journal.

The Cleveland (Ohio) Leader expresses its opinion thus: "Mr. Conkling is the weakest man in the republican list. His best showing will be on the first ballot. After that he will be nowhere."

A post trader from Camp Apache was recently before the Clymer committee. He testified to the simple fact that he was appointed on the recommendation of the officers of the post; that he never paid a cent to anybody for his position, and has not been asked for or paid any political assessments. He figures his expenses from Tucson at $2500, while his fees as a witness will amount to $350, mileage and per diem.

The first resolution of the platform adopted by the Indiana democratic convention, declares: "That the civil service of the Government has become corrupt, and is made the object of personal gain, and that it is the first duty which the people owe to themselves and the Government to restore the tests of honesty, capacity and fidelity in the selection of persons to fill all public positions." In view of the fact that six of the newly appointed democratic officers of the National House of Representatives are already under a cloud, and that, as a rule, none of the new incumbents are equal in ability to the republicans who were turned out of office to make room for them, this resolution is decidedly rich. If these things are possible in the green tree, what will there be in the dry? If in three months time the democratic House finds that six of its own officers have been concerned in disreputable transactions, what would be the result if they should control the patronage of the nation?—Pittsburg Commercial.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice rom me. A. P. S.

The Late James Freeman.

The Portland Press says: The deceased has been engaged in the wholesale oyster business in Portland for about twenty-five years. He was born in Wellfleet, Cape Cod, and when quite young moved to Portsmouth, where he commenced the oyster business. He had but a small capital, which he had borrowed from a relative, but by strict attention to business he was soon able to repay the borrowed money and conduct the business on his own money. About twenty-five years ago he went to Portland and opened an oyster house in a brick block on Federal street. The fire of '66 destroyed the block and Mr. Freeman was a heavy loser thereby. After the fire he opened a large wholesale oyster house on Union wharf, where he has conducted a large business ever since. He can justly be called the originator of the wholesale oyster business in Portland, and since he has done more business than all the other firms combined. He was a wide-awake business man and was always prompt in the payment of his bills. He employed a large number of men, and always insisted on paying them off every Saturday night. Those who have had business with Mr. Freeman pronounce him an honest, straightforward business man.

Mr. Freeman joined Piscataqua Lodge of Odd Fellows while residing in Portsmouth, and always retained his membership. He was also a member of one of the Encampments, and a member of the Relief Association. He was a member of Portland Lodge and Blanquefort Commandery of Masons. He has been unwell for about a year, and for several weeks has been confined to his house with Bright's disease of the kidneys, from which disease he died. At the funeral there was a large attendance of business men and former employes of the deceased. The floral decorations were very fine. A large cross from the Masons was placed on the casket, also a smaller one from the oystermen of the city. A beautiful garland of flowers bearing the initials "J. F." was placed at the head of the casket. The officers of the Portland Lodge and Blanquefort Commandery of Masons and officers from the Odd Fellows were in attendance. Rev. Mr. Fenn of High street church officiated. The remains were taken to Evergreen Cemetery for interment. Many of the vessels in the harbor hoisted their flags at half-mast. Mr. Freeman's life was insured for $10,000, and he was one of 1500 members of an Odd Fellows Relief Association.

How It Was Built.

Messrs. Editor:—In an item recently published in your paper, wherein you advised the Common Council to "stick" to their determination to appropriate $5000 for the purhase of the South Millpond, you said the appropriation of money for any purpose does not compel the expenditure of it for such purpose, and that after the appropriation bill is once passed the Common Councilmen might as well as not all resign, for all the influence they can exercise in municipal affairs. To illustrate (and enforce) your statements I will tell a little story—about how the Hanover street reservoir came to be built.

For a long time the need of a reservoir in that vicinity, and one on Union street, had been urged, but neither had been built; a joint vote authorizing the building of a reservoir on Hanover street had been passed by the Councils, but there was no indication that anything would come of it. So one day two republican Councilmen had a confab concerning the putting in of a large pipe to convey water from the North Millpond to the junction of Hanover and Bridge streets, for the use of the Fire Department, one of the two (who was a civil engineer) having previously collected data to show that the plan was feasible and would be of great benefit if carried out. A public-spirited democratic Councilman was consulted with and approved the scheme, and it was decided to work for the insertion in the annual appropriation bill of a clause appropriating $8000 for laying the pipe. "It will be a good thing if we can get it done," said the originator of the plan, "but that I don't imagine we can do; the Aldermen will fight it, as it comes from this Board; but we can carry the appropriation anyway, by just sticking to it until the Aldermen want the money to spend, and then they'll hurry up and build a reservoir somewhere around there, just to choke our scheme off! They'll never build the reservoir in the world, the way they are going on,—but you'll see they will commence on it quick enough, as soon as the appropriation for this pipe is made." The appropriation bill was passed by the Common Council and sent to the Aldermen, containing an item of $8000 for the salt-water pipe; the Aldermen struck out the $8000 and sent the amended bill back; a committee of conference met and discussed the matter, the Council's committee unanimously advised the Council to "stick,"—the Council unanimously resolved they would stick—and at last the bill passed both Boards with the obnoxious (to the Aldermen) $8000 item included.

So far so good; but the pipe isn't laid yet. At the very next meeting (I think—very soon, at any rate) after the bill passed, the upper Board took active measures to have the long-talked-of - but - never - commenced reservoir located and built, under the supervision of the Mayor and an Aldermanic committee, and very soon it was built—and a splendid reservoir it is, and well worth all it cost, though it cost heavily and no money was ever properly appropriated for it. Where the $8000 appropriated for the pipe went to is more than I know; I only know it didn't go to the purpose for which it was appropriated. Some of the Councilmen were indignant at the cool contempt shown by the Aldermen for the Council's action, but the three conspirators laughed gleefully among themselves when the Aldermen so hastened to build the reservoir to "choke off" the pipe-laying scheme, the chief conspirator exultingly asking your correspondent, "Didn't I tell you how it would work? I knew well enough those fellows would build a reservoir in a hurry, as soon as they found we were after something else; but for Heaven's sake don't chuckle until it's done, for they'd knock off work on it to-morrow, if they thought we wanted them to keep on at it!"

In the same way the present Common Council can force the other Board to concur in an appropriation for the purchase of the South Millpond; but the Aldermen can afterward do just as they like about putting the money to the use specified, for if they choose to expend it for putting a steeple on the City Building the Common Council cannot prevent it. However, the appropriation will be something, and I hope the Council will insist on doing it, wherever the money may afterward go.

Probably nothing will be done to abate the South Millpond nuisance until legal proceedings have been had — the lawyers must live, you know. The city recently tried to secure the indictment of the pond's owner, and ludicrously failed; but had the grand jury done their whole duty they would have promptly indicted the city, on its own showing. This is probably what it will come to at some time, and not far in the future; and then something will really be done. P.

Jottings.

The new military organization is to be called the "Portsmouth Veteran Artillery Company," the admission fee one dollar, and the age of members twenty-five or upwards. Capt. William O. Sides, Lieut. Mr. Moses Lord, a well known steel worker, died of pneumonia at his residence in this city on Thursday. He was a man of strict integrity, quiet demeanor and generally respected. Mr. Lord was born at South Berwick, Me., in 1810, and had resided in this city about thirty-eight years. Under the administration of President Johnson he occupied the position of foreman of blacksmiths at the navy yard.

—A very pretty amusement, especially for those who have just completed the stud of botany, is the taking of leaf photographs. One very simple process is this: At any druggist's get a dime's worth of bichromate of potash. Put this is in a two-ounce bottle of soft water. When the solution becomes saturated—that is, when the water has dissolved as much as it will—pour off some of the clear liquid into a shallow dish; on this float a piece of ordinary writing paper till it is thoroughly moistened. Let it become nearly dry in the dark. It should be of a bright yellow. On this put the leaf, and under it a piece of soft black cloth and several sheets of newspaper. Put these between two pieces of glass (all the pieces should be of the same size) and with spring clothes pins fasten them together. Expose to a bright sun, placing the leaf so that the rays will fall upon it as near perpendicularly as possible. In a few minutes it will begin to turn brown, but it requires from half an hour to several hours to produce a perfect print. When it has become dark enough, take it from the frame and put it in clear water, which must be changed every few minutes, till the yellow part becomes perfectly white.—American Stationer.

—We should practice temperance, if it were for nothing else but the very pleasure of it; it is the glory of a man that hath abundance, to live as reason, not as appetite directs.

—The "awful thweet" young gentlemen who give tone to Harvard University are striving to introduce dress reform. The traditional costume of long ulster, heavy cane, saucer hat and terrier pup, which used to be the distinguished ear-marks of our golden youth, are passing away, and a taste for the picturesque is coming in. The Knickerbocker Club wear a kind of Zouave costume, with pantaloons cut on the bias, lovely little frilled undergarments, handsomely embroidered jacket and vest. The Highland Fling, another college club, are trying to introduce the traditional Scotch costume, a suggestion very favorably received by those who have (or are) the most striking calves.

—Bad luck followed Frank Gerrity of Detroit. He was sick for three months. His first employment afterward was running a locomotive, and on the very first day he fell off, receiving injuries that kept him abed for several weeks. Three days after resuming work his train ran off the track and he was badly injured. This time he was a month recovering. The railroad company, holding him responsible for the accident, would not hire him again. "This is a tough world," he said, and shot himself into the next.

—A lady of rank, complaining that her husband was dead to all fashionable amusements, he replied, "But then, my dear, you make me alive to the expense."

Republican State Convention.

A republican State convention, for the choice of ten delegates to the republican National convention, to be held at Cincinnati, June, 14. 1876, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on Wednesday, the 24th day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All republican electors, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences or previous party affiliations, who are opposed to reviving sectional issues, and desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining and enforcing all the constitutional rights of every citizen, including the full and free exercise of the right of suffrage without intimidation and without fraud; who are in favor of the continued prosecution and punishment of all official dishonesty, and of an economical administration of the Government by honest, faithful, and capable officers; who are in favor of making such reforms in government as experience may from time to time suggest; who are opposed to impairing the credit of the nation by depreciating any of its obligations, and in favor of sustaining in every way the national faith and financial honor; who hold that the common-school system is the nursery of American liberty, and should be maintained absolutely free from sectarian control; who believe that, for the promotion of these ends, the direction of the Government should continue to be confided to those who adhere to the principles of 1776, and support them as incorporated in the Constitution and the laws; and who are in favor of recognizing and strengthening the fundamental principles of National Unity in this Centennial Anniversary of the birth of the Republic, are invited to participate in the election of delegates to this convention.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 4 o'clock, which all delegates are invited to attend.

The Quality of the Blood.

Upon the quality of the blood depends, in a great measure the vigor and health of the body. If the blood is wanting in nutritious properties, the muscles are sure to be weak and flabby, the flesh deficient in quantity, the skin sallow and dry, the cheeks hollow and the eyes lustreless. To improve the quality of the blood stimulate digestion and assimilation with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Under the influence of this strength-creating cordial the body is efficiently nourished and the flesh grows, in consequence, more abundant, the muscles become more compact, the cheek is tinged with a healthful color, and the eye regains its brightness. The Bitters also free the blood from impurities by stimulating the kidneys and bowels to thoroughly perform their duty of carrying off the refuse of the system, which, if not entirely got rid of, poisons the vital current.

The new Atlas Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa., is conducted upon the European plan, and will accommodate 4000 guests at one dollar ($1.00) per day.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life was accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for insurance as this.

OPENING OF NEW GOODS FROM NEW YORK

NEXT WEEK.

Daily Chronicle.

—A couple of members of Parliament were walking along the terrace at the river in front of the House of Commons a few nights ago, trying to inhale a little fresh air during the continuance of some of the dreary discussions on the Merchant Shipping Bill. A smart breeze of wind was blowing at the time. An intelligent but not very deferential policeman came up to them and said he would advise them to keep a little further away from the wall, and nearer to the river, as some of "those d—— old kings" up aloft were rotten, and very apt to fall upon people beneath. He recounted instances where the heads of some of the distinguished monarchs, of whom he spoke so contemptuously, had fallen off, and nearly extinguished some of his brother officers. I could not help being struck with the singular bluntness, but, at the same time, correctness, of the policeman's remark. The exterior of the Parliament House is stuck all over with small statues of kings, warriors and statesmen. The stone of which the place is built is very soft and friable, and the weather is affecting it in all directions. After every gale of wind there is quite a sprinkling of broken heads, arms, and legs, which have been detached from the odd-looking effigies above, strewn about the pathway.—London Letter.

—The Popular Science Monthly describes experiments recently made at Trieste. Half a dozen lanterns with carefully selected glass, and all furnished with oil and wicks of the same quality were lighted on the beach, and then observations were made by a party in a boat. At the distance of half a league, the dark blue lantern was invisible, and the deep-blue one nearly so; hence it appears that blue lights are not adapted for use in lighthouses or as signals. Of all the colors the green was visible for the longest distance, which ranked next to the white in power of penetration, red coming next after green. The conclusion is that only the green and the red are suitable for signals; and the green light the Trieste observers only recommend for use in conjunction with white and red lights, inasmuch as, when viewed from a short distance, an isolated green light begins to look like a white one.

—The Chinese have a method of waterproofing pasteboard, by mixing four parts of slacked lime into three parts of fresh blood, with a little alum added. As soon as mixed, the pasteboard is brushed over with two successive coatings of this preparation, and thus becomes impervious to water.

—A good word is an easy obligation, but not to speak ill requires only our silence, which costs nothing.

"O wad some power the gittie gie us,
To see oursel's as ithers see us."

Behold that pale, emaciated figure, with downcast eye, like some criminal about to meet her fate! See that nervous, distrustful look, as she walks along with a slow and unsteady step. The pink has left her cheeks and the cherry her lips. The once sparkling, dancing eyes are now dull and expressionless. The once warm, dimpled hands are now thin and cold. Her beauty has fled. What has wrought this wondrous change? What is that which is lurking beneath the surface of that once lovely form? Does she realize her terrible condition? Is she aware of the woeful appearance she makes? Woman, from her very nature, is subject to a catalogue of diseases from which man is entirely exempt. Many of these maladies are induced by her own carelessness, or through ignorance of the laws of her being. Again, many Female Diseases, if properly treated, might be arrested in their course, and thereby prove of short duration. They should not be left to an inexperienced physician who does not understand their nature, and is, therefore, incompetent to treat them. The importance of attending to Female Diseases in their earliest stages cannot be too strongly urged. For if neglected, they frequently lead to Consumption, Chronic Debility, and oftentimes to Insanity. In all classes of Female Diseases, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is without a rival. No medicine has ever surpassed it. In "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," of which R. V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y., is the author and publisher, is an extended treatise on WOMAN AND HER DISEASES. Under this head, the various affections to which woman is incident are carefully considered, accurately analyzed, and a restorative course of treatment suggested. Every woman, as she values her life and health, should possess a copy of this valuable work. If she be diseased, this "Adviser" will show her how she may be restored to health, and also direct her how she may ward off many maladies to which she is constantly being exposed. Let every suffering woman heed this timely advice and see herself as others see her. Price of Adviser, $1.50 (postpaid) to any address.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but were not offered for sale until their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and received to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and they all gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, and nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this place find $1.30 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and thinks she would like to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think the medicine is blessing to thousands yet, and will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute solely to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rockdale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

PULMOCINE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Cordial he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the cause of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocating by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
USE
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

With a Large Assortment of Display Type.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

ONLY A VOICE.

It was only a voice that swept through the hall,
In accents responsive to somebody's call,
From a form that I did not see;
But the door stood ajar, and the sound made way,
As its musical rhythm asserted its sway,
And intensely floated to me.

At rest it was only a thrilling surprise,
Inviting the soul from its slumber to rise
After toil of a tedious day;
And the paper and pencil seemed tired too,
And suggested the artist's labor was through,
Till lit by the morning's ray.

But the spell of that voice was a potent spell,
And its musical cadences rose and fell
In dreams and in day's ecstasy;
Till the brain gave heed to no other tone,
And the soul was in bondage to this alone.
Nor mourned for its lost liberty.

We have never yet met—but that voice so clear
With its marvellous melody smote my ear,
As Love's own reveille;
And till heart-throbs are silenced by Death's tattoo
That voice I shall hear, and the long sleep through,
Be the call to eternity.

FIRST ESCAPE FROM THE LIBBY.

The New York Times of Sunday, January 23, 1876, contained a brief account of a thrilling incident narrated to a correspondent by Captain B. F. Porter, of the New Jersey Volunteer Cavalry—the drawing for two captains of the Union army, prisoners in the Libby, to be held as hostages for two rebel spies, condemned to death by General Burnside in Ohio. Captain Porter has always claimed to have been the first Union captive who escaped from the Libby, but whether this claim can be sustained by facts or not, his experience is of the most interesting description, and we cheerfully give it a place. It is a curious, but by no means remarkable fact, that the reading public appreciate and relish truthful narratives of war experience and adventure as keenly to-day as they did at the close of the war, and it is to supply this demand that we are publishing from time to time these "Stories of the War." Aside from the inherent evidence of truth and experience which they bear, we can certify that their author was a soldier of almost four years' service in the war of the rebellion, and therefore "knows whereof he speaks."

Captain Porter's narrative is put in his own words, as nearly as possible.

From the first moment it became certain that the subject of exchange was to be indefinitely postponed, I resolved with the others that I would escape; but I soon discovered that their plan could not be mine. Long before I saw the Libby the famous underground tunnel had been commenced; in fact I worked at it frequently by night, willing to give my companions in captivity the benefit of my hands while I stayed, though the tunnel could not help me. At the time of my capture—outside Port Hudson, June 14, 1863—I received a wound in the leg from a carbine ball, which gave me no trouble until my confinement. But after I had been lodged in the Libby it became sore and inflamed, either from bad air or water, or perhaps the confinement itself. It grew better after a time; but as the tunnel approached completion and Colonel Streight and the others* were making their final preparations for escape, I realized that I was not vigorous enough to take my chances with them in the wild flight which they meditated, and that if I attempted it I should certainly lag behind and be picked up by the rebel cavalry that would scour the country. My only hope, I thought, was to get outside long enough before the alarm was given to obtain a good start, and reach our lines near Yorktown. And if this was to be done at all, it must be done at once. The tunnel had been constructed in the daily dread of discovery, and every day increased the chance that it would be discovered. I consulted with some of my companions, and resolved to try my luck alone, several days before they would be ready for their great attempt.

I was favored by the promise of assistance from an unexpected source, which came to me in a very strange way. I was standing by the grated window one day, looking out into the yard, when a lady passed on the other side of the way, followed by a negro. She saw me at the window, and, with a quick motion of her hand, she put aside her shawl, showing me a small Union flag in the bosom of her dress, and instantly covered it again. I regarded it as a pleasant and unusual incident, but never dreamed of hearing of it again. In less than a week, however, I saw the same negro who followed the lady. He was allowed to come in among us to sell fruit; and, passing near me, he tossed me a large sweet potato, with a knowing look, which I did not fail to comprehend. After the guard left the room I examined the potato, and took from the centre of it a small folded paper. The paper bore the name of the lady whom I had seen from the window; and contained minute directions for finding her home. Addressing me as the "unknown Union officer," she promised that if I could get out of prison and come to her, she would conceal me faithfully until I could make good my escape.

This was a ray of hope that lent encouragement to me. Considering the condition of my leg, it seemed really providential; and I went to work, systematically and with energy, and yet with the caution that was then a second nature to us, to devise ways and means for an escape. The plan that I adopted, and in which I succeeded, was simply to collect together articles enough to make the uniform of a rebel soldier, to put them on, and to quietly wear them out of the prison. Nor was it so difficult to obtain this kind of clothing as might be supposed. Most of our officers had one or two gray garments which they had purchased, as their own wore out, or obtained in some way, from the negroes and soldiers to whom they had access, and as cold weather came on they could do so, and wear that kind of clothing without suspicion. I made my plan known to a number of the officers, and speedily had the coveted disguise bestowed away behind some movable bricks in the wall. I was troubled for some time to get a gray cap, but that I obtained of one of the guard with the help of one of several gold pieces which I had concealed in the lining of my blouse after my capture, before I was searched. Then I borrowed a razor and a pair of scissors which had been jealously concealed by some of my comrades, and with my preparations as nearly made as they could be, I waited for the morning that I had selected for attempted escape.

This is a simple narrative of facts; therefore I will omit any statement of how I felt at this critical time. It was very early in the morning, and not a soul was stirring in the Libby, save the guards who tramped back and forth heavily in the halls, above and below, when I went to the window and with the help of a little water that was left in my can, and trusting a great deal to the sense of feeling, I shaved off the long, drooping moustache and luxuriant beard which my seven months' confinement had given me. Next I shaved my hair almost as close as a convict's, and with the help of a little ink that we had among us I dyed my naturally light eyebrows. After this I put on my gray suit, buttoning the coat up tight to the chin, that I might look something like an orderly without sidearms, and then I waited patiently near the door. In about an hour the morning allowance of food was brought in; and this was my time. I walked straight out of the door and passed the guard in the hall. I passed him with a firm step and an erect bearing. He looked carelessly at me and said not a word. Descending the stairs I passed another guard in the lower hall in the same way. Acting in exact pursuance of the plan I had formed, I went into the prison office at the end of hall and asked the clerk the time.

"Pretty near seven," he said, looking at his watch, and then indifferently at me. I saw he did not know me, but it was with some difficulty that I succeeded in keeping the discovery of my face when I recognized in this same clerk an old friend, whose acquaintance with me dated back before the war, and who left a situation in a wholesale house in New York to enter the civil service of the Confederacy. But I was cool, and, as I saw the perfection of my disguise, I grew confident. From the office I walked to the door, and here I met Major Turner, the commandant, just entering. I saluted him promptly, and boldly walked out between the muskets that guarded the door. In two minutes more I was out of sight of the hateful Libby.

Exulting in my freedom, I did the most natural thing under the circumstances; I tried to get away from the city. I reached the outskirts, and saw at a distance a rebel patrol. I turned back unobserved, and tried another road, and still another. The result was the same; the roads out of Richmond were all guarded. These patrols I did not dare to face, because I had reason to believe that there was a sergeant or an officer with each of them, and that I would have to undergo a scrutiny from them which would probably reveal my real character. My leg was growing painful, and I knew that I had not the strength, after my long imprisonment, to lurk in the woods and to travel by night to evade the rebel pickets and patrols. There was nothing left for me but to return to Richmond and seek the protection of my unknown friend. I did it; but I never yet took such unwilling steps as these which carried me back to the capital of my enemies.

News and Notes.

Florida magnolias are in bloom.

Thirty-nine countries exhibit at Philadelphia.

Editor Billy McKee goes to jail for two years and pays a fine of $10,000.

The Governor of Massachusetts has been and vetoed the Parton marriage bill.

The annual Masonic convocations of New Hampshire will occur in Masonic Hall, Concord, as follows: Grand Council, Monday evening, May 15; the M. E. Grand Royal Arch Chapter, Tuesday, May 16, at 11 A. M.; the M. W. Grand Lodge at Masonic Temple, Wednesday, May 17, at 11 o'clock A. M.

The real name of the late Barney Williams, was Bernard Flaherty, and he was born in Cork, Ireland, in 1823. He began as a "super," and his fortune dates from the day he married Mrs. Charles Mestayer, a sister of Mrs. W. J. Florence. Together, they starred the country as the Irish boy and Yankee girl and made an immense success.

The temperance reform has made pretty thorough work in Augusta, Me., as we judge from the following paragraph in the Kennebec Journal: "A wholesale liquor dealer from Boston was here last week. After interviewing the various places where liquor is supposed to be sold, he left the town without taking an order. He looked a good deal like a democratic rooster after the New Hampshire election."

Judge Carter has released Hallet Kilbourne on bail.

Political.

I am one of many who believe that the less the Priesthood of any denomination have to do with education the better for the citizen. These sentiments will find utterance in the Cincinnati convention, and the nominee will be Alphonse Taft, of Ohio, the present Secretary of War, and in that State known and respected by her liberty-loving citizens as her ablest champion of free schools, as was Abraham Lincoln in Illinois, when elevated to the Presidency, the ablest champion of republicanism, which was then non-extension of slavery; to-day it is non-extension of priestcraft power. Judge Taft is not unlike Lincoln physically, mentally and morally, and in a long, active life there has never been a breath of suspicion against his purity and integrity. Mark the prediction: Alphonso Taft, of Ohio, will be the Republican nominee.—Detroit News.

Dana is on the Massachusetts delegation. Don't Morton and Conkling wish he was Minister to England now?

While a large proportion of the clerks and employees of the office under the late Clerk of the House of Representatives, who were turned out unceremoniously on account of politics, are still without employment, and some of them in a condition of suffering, it must console them to know that the chairman of one of the democratic committees of the House has already secured about a dozen appointments in the Treasury Department.—Washington Republican.

Congressman Barnum is evidently making a lively fight for the Connecticut Senatorship. The appeals of Senator English's friends are becoming pathetic. Barnum's friends claim now that he has 105 votes out of the 155 which compose the caucus.

The democratic leaders in Congress seem to be satisfied with Mr. Blaine's defense. Mr. Randall is represented by the Washington Star to have said: "Blaine has not left his enemies a single peg to stand on." The same paper says Speaker Kerr and other democrats are of the opinion that the explanation is ample and conclusive.

Georgia's democratic delegates-at-large are for Tilden.

The Arkansas republicans have instructed their delegates to Cincinnati to vote for Morton.

There is a large element in the republican party composed of those stern, sincere men who believed the war was a dispensation of God's providence for the abolition of slavery; who pressed forward the impeachment of Andrew Johnson. The republicans, at least the radical wing of them, have had enough of Johnsonism to last for a generation or two. Without this wing the republicans will be as helpless as the democratic party would be without its rebel wing. There are two classes that must not be left out of political calculations—the abolitionists and the rebels. The republican party depends upon the one, the democrats upon the other. Each of these classes is composed of men of courage, principle and ability. One side fought to save slavery, the other to destroy it. They would fight the battle again to-morrow if the same conditions existed. To expect to run either party without them would be to expect a man to live without his spinal column. The "reformers," the saints, the truffle hogs, the old maids, the dandies, and all the modern brood of politicians, may plane and chip and sandpaper the platform as much as they please; but unless they make a platform and a candidate that will satisfy these two vast, sincere and preponderating elements, neither will get on.—N. Y. Herald.

An examination of the books of L. H. Chandler, Pension Agent at Norfolk, Virginia, who committed suicide, recently, during temporary insanity, produced by a charge in the democratic newspapers of being a defaulter, has been completed, and the result shows that the Government was indebted to him, at the time of his death, over two thousand dollars. Chandler's friends charge that there was a systematic scheme on the part of the democratic leaders of the Norfolk district to ruin him and destroy his popularity because of his announced intention to accept the republican nomination for Congress, next Fall. Chandler was formerly United States District Attorney for Virginia, and drew the indictment found against Jeff. Davis for treason.

Barnum Ubon Us.

To-day Barnum's triumphal procession, numbering in its gorgeous ranks a chariot more costly and superb "than that upon which the conquering Cæsar entered Rome," will pass through the streets, and take up its abode at the Rink, in Sixty-third street. Already the several parts that go to make up the "greatest show on earth" have arrived or are arriving. The hippopotamus-behemoth is now domiciled in the transformed machinery-room of the Institute building, and the roar of himself and neighbors, gathered from all sections of the globe, shame the recollection of buzz-saws and grist-mills. Yesterday the scene of this mammoth showhouse was exhilarating in the extreme. Wagon-loads of wild animals were being hauled in and stowed away; a small army of carpenters hammered upon pine boards, erecting seats for 3,000 people; another army of laborers bore in fine soil for the ring; members of the troupe whooped around the building as if the performance had begun, and confusion prevailed generally. In the afternoon a rehearsal of the chorus took place. The ladies and gentlemen of the chorus, who were on time, looked aghast at the thought of attempting anything musical under the circumstances, and were fain to put their fingers in their ears and rush forth into the streets again, but an imperious order from the leader sent them to their perches. Next the band climbed up beside them, the bass drum performer smiling sardonically, and all being in readiness for the concert to begin, the leader, who is a young gentleman with black, curly, musical hair, announced that the grand old air, "America," would be first tried. A huge and highly-colored picture of Barnum looked down from the wall opposite, and seemed mutely appealing to the patriotism of the singers to give the song with a will. Doubtless the appeal was not lost, but the soprani, of whom the chief is a young lady recently from the Parisian Varieties, were at this instant thrown into a state of dire consternation by the voice of a neighboring hyena in altercation with an elephant calf. Just as confidence had been re-established in the choir one of the altos, a middle-aged female, became possessed of the belief that an anaconda was playing with her shoestrings, which occasioned another panic. The chorus was, however, finally reassured and persuaded to raise its voice in song. And then there rolled out over the scene the imposing notes of the hymn, "My country, 'tis of thee." Laborers and carpenters suspended work, and a patriotic billposter rang the great bell, which, for the purpose of affording all the towns in America a proper Centennial celebration, is to be taken around with the show this summer and faithfully rung wherever through the length and breadth of the land a paying number of American citizens can be found. One verse of the song was sufficient to show that the chorus was properly imbued with the spirit of the occasion—with Barnum's spirit—to guarantee success in their portion of the entertainment, and the singing-master contented himself with the assurance (given with some indignation by the chorus) that they rather thought they just could sing "Yankee Doodle" and the "Star-Spangled Banner"—what did he take them for, heathens?—and, smiling approvingly, discharged them with a warning to come early on Thursday evening with lungs prepared to rival the roaring lion and make the elephant stop his two ears with his trunk and his tail.—New York World, Apr. 26th.

—According to Dr. Hall, if you find yourself inclined to wake up at a regular hour in the night, and remain awake, you can break up the habit in three days by getting up as soon as you wake, and not going to sleep again until your usual hour for retiring; or retire two hours later and rise two hours earlier for three days in succession, not sleeping a moment in the daytime.

That accounts for her high bred ease, her aristocratic simplicity of manner, her natural and straightforward——" "By the bye, pardon me! I have unintentionally misinformed you; it's Mrs. Judkins. She's the widow of an alderman, and her father was a cheesemonger." "Dear me! ah!—hum—er—hum!—ha? That quite alters the case! She is very vulger, I must say—awful." N. TO MY PATIENTS!
DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCEED ME MARCH 13th,
Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious
Dental Practitioner.
DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.
I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.
If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. F. STEVENS.
N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. F. S.

More South Millpond.

Eds. Chronicle: As nearly every one appears to think the time has come to do something with the South Millpond, and the only question which is puzzling the minds of many, is which is the cheapest and most feasible mode of attack, let us look at the elephant.

First, what is to be attacked? The water gives off no odor; it is only the mud or sand,—consequently the mud must be removed; then if the city wishes to remove the mud, they must first obtain the ownership. The owners of the land bordering on the pond also own all the land under the water, as the owner of the water has no title to the land—only the flowage,—the owners of the land adjoining holding the full right to do just what they please so long as they do not curtail the flowage; consequently it does seem as if the only sensible way is for the city to obtain possession of the shore where the malarious nuisance lies. This can be accomplished in the easiest and cheapest manner by the laying out of the street from Pleasant or Edward street to Richards Avenue, following the gentle and beautiful curvatures of the shore of the pond at high water mark; by doing this the city will gain an undisputed right to go and remove the mud, so far as to allow all remaining to be covered by water,—a splendid non-conductor of malarious gases.

A few years ago the farmers around Portsmouth did remove this valuable deposit at their own expense, (until the city stepped in to prevent,) and undoubtedly would do so again; at least I have been informed that farmers have stated that they would be glad to do so, and some would even be willing to deposit a load of gravel on the newly-laid-out street for each load of the deposit removed. Let the city scavengers dump the coal ashes, etc., on this proposed street, and soon a beautiful avenue would be completed, without cost.

The present Board of Aldermen are now considering (so I have heard it stated) the proposition of building a new reservoir on Richards Avenue; the building of this new street would allow the maneuvering of the engines down to the edge of the pond, and obviate the necessity of this great expense. The proposed improvement of "Elwyn Park" also necessitates the laying out of this new street, and it does seem to us as if common sense recommends the perfecting of this plan. Neglect of action of some kind is suicidal; and those whose business it is to act are assuming a responsibility which, if not criminal, ought to be,—and they ought to be held responsible.

If the tax-payers will only look at and act on this subject, undoubtedly the City government can be induced to realize that they have duties to perform for the public.

TOWN TALK.

Circuit Court.

In the case of Wm. Quinn of Portsmouth, indicted for an assault on David Welsh, with intent to kill, the jury failed to agree.

The trial of John T. Philbrick of Seabrook, under indictment for the crime of arson in setting fire to the barn of George A. Philbrick in that town, on the 9th of December last, lasted three days. Mr. George A. Philbrick was an active leader in the temperance movement in Seabrook at that time and it was believed that some person in the interest of the prosecuted liquor sellers sought revenge by thus destroying his property. On the 23d of December John T. Philbrick was arrested by Sheriff Rowe on complaint of Geo. A. Philbrick, charging him with the incendiarism. He was arraigned before Judge Page, and held in $3000 bail for his appearance at the April term of court. The trial elicited much interest, attracting many visitors from Seabrook, Hampton Falls and neighboring towns. The jury promply returned a verdict of "not guilty."

The following divorces were decreed by Judge Foster: Joseph Witham from Louisa Witham of Epping; Albert T. Severance from Sarah E. Severance of Newmarket.

Jottings.

We shall on Monday declare the votes for President received at this office. Send them in lively. Thus far but fifty-six persons have indicated their preferences.

The Eastern Railroad bill has passed both branches of the Massachusetts legislature.

Among the most interesting of Portsmouth's contributions to the centennial will be five ancient plates now on exhibition at J. H. Foster's bookstore, on which have been painted in permanent colors and with artistic skill, by Miss Sarah Foster, some of the most ancient and historic houses still standing in this vicinity, viz.: the Garrison house at York, built in 1648, the Jackson house, in 1664, at York, the Underwood house, in 1700, in this city, Pepperell house, 1720, at Kittery, and Tobias Lear's house, in 1750, in this city.

The Direct Cable Company has granted an extension of its contract with the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company, for twenty years. The latter will commence work immediately on their new line to Rye Beach, the New England section having been contracted for.

The Reform Club will hold their meeting at the Temple Sunday evening as usual, when W. H. E. Fentress and others will address the assembly. It is expected that the children of the Band of Hope will sing several of their new temperance songs. The usual fee of five cents will be taken at the door.

Mr. Smith of Newmarket, who was to run Congressman Jones, seems to have run himself through in a brief period of Congressional office holding. Mr Jones, who is generally credited with possessing a good knowledge of men, seems to have been unfortunate in the selection of his secretary, who as a lawyer and ex-clerk of the House of Representatives in this State, was of course better posted in regard to the laws he had sworn to support, than could be Mr. Jones, whose business engagements have afforded him but little time to study statutes and decisions. The democratic journals in this State, are not inclined to discuss the propriety of Smith's course in resigning under charges. It was wrong, according to their ideas, for Belknap to avail himself of the privilege, but in Smith's case it was an act of discretion! —Journal.

A thief stole the team of Mayor Fessenden, of Portland, Thursday night. The horse is black, with one hind foot white, and weighs about 1100 lbs.; the phaeton is new, built very low, (to accommodate Gen. Fessenden, who lost a leg in the war,) and contained when stolen a wolf robe and striped blanket. Officers Hobbs and Moore arrested Charles Douglas with the team, on Friday.

Carpenter's tools, furniture, etc., at auction to-day, at H. F. Wendell's, 70 State street. See advt.

South Seabrook is to have a baby show. The babies will be out in full force, and there will be a heavy contest as to whether the name of Eaton, Dow or Souther is in the ascendant.

The body of Mr. A. H. Hartmyer, the cook of the "Hattie Eaton," was taken to East Boston for burial, on Thursday. The negro seaman was buried at Kittery Point.

The entertainment by Bryant's Minstrels drew a fair audience in point of numbers on Thursday evening, notwithstanding the fact that an amateur dramatic company attracted three hundred people to Franklin Hall in aid of the Young People's Union. The programme of the Bryant combination was a little tedious in some of its elements, but the witticisms being new and most of the company well up in their specialities, there was fun enough to satisfy everybody. The "Two Off-Uns," a companion piece to the "Raw Recruits" of olden time, was especially enjoyable. Mr. T. M. Hengler was very entertaining in his new performance, "The Merry Minstrel;" his "Sweet Alpen Serenade" and medley songs were nicely given, and in his opposite roles of the "Darkey Exquisite" and "The Tramp" he exhibited wonderful versatility,—he being the originator of the entertainment. But his musical extravaganza entitled "Fun in the Kitchen," a burlesque of the famous Vokes' "Belles of the Kitchen," was more hilariously received. Adams and Lee, two excellent banjoists and guitar players, made a decided hit, and the audience wanted more but didn't get it. Goss and Fox were especially happy in their delineations, and Lew Benedict's "peilosophical remarks" were drolly delivered.

The tanks for filling the street sprinklers have been put up in place, so we may reasonably expect the sprinkling will commence before Autumn, this year. The weather may be warmer in July than it is now, but the dust cannot be more annoying to persons on the streets, and to storekeepers, than it has been during the latter part of April. Blaze away with your old go-carts.

The dramatic performance at Franklin Hall, Thursday evening, in aid of the Young People's Union, by Mrs. C. A. Cutter (formerly of this city) and members of a Cambridge, Mass., amateur dramatic club, was not so well attended as it should have been in view of the real merit of the performance and the worthiness of the cause in aid of which it was given, the receipts not largely exceeding the expenses. A comedy and a farce were pleasingly presented, the entertainment being quite as good as those offered by average travelling troupes of professionals. Probably the fact that there was a show at the Temple on the same evening had something to do with the size of the congregation.

Growing Old.

Do we notice how much more rapidly each succeeding year seems to pass away? Can we remember how, in our childhood, the term of a year appeared interminable, and we could compass into that great space almost any amount of work or play? But now we become so engrossed that holy days and holidays are alike invaded; and after all is done, how much is left unfinished, and how many schemes remain untried! It is the solemn thought connected with middle life, says the late F. W. Robertson, that life's last business is begun in earnest and it is then, midway between the cradle and the grave, that a man begins to marvel that he lets the day of youth go by so half enjoyed. It is the pensive autumn feeling, it is the sensation of half sadness that we experience when the longest day of the year is past, and every day that follows is shorter, and the light fainter, and the feeble shadows tell that nature is hastening with gigantic footsteps to its wintry grave. So does man look back upon his youth. When the first grey hairs become visible, when the unwelcome truth fastens itself upon the mind that a man is no longer going up hill, but down, and that the sun is always westerning, he looks back on things behind. When we were children we thought as children. But now there lies before us manhood, with its earnest work, and old age, and then the grave, and then home. There is a second youth for man, better and holier than the first, if he will only look up, and not look back.

—A soldier of Marshal Saxe's army being discovered in a theft, was condemned to be hanged. What he had stolen might have been worth five shillings. The Marshal meeting him as he was being led to execution, said to him, "What a miserable fool you were to risk your life for five shillings!" "General," replied the soldier, "I have risked it every day for five pence."

Republican State Convention.

A republican State convention, for the choice of ten delegates to the republican National convention, to be held at Cincinnati, June, 14, 1876, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on Wednesday, the 24th day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All republican electors, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences or previous party affiliations, who are opposed to reviving sectional issues, and desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining and enforcing all the constitutional rights of every citizen, including the full and free exercise of the right of suffrage without intimidation and without fraud; who are in favor of the continued prosecution and punishment of all official dishonesty, and of an economical administration of the Government by honest, faithful, and capable officers; who are in favor of making such reforms in government as experience may from time to time suggest; who are opposed to impairing the credit of the nation by depreciating any of its obligations, and in favor of sustaining in every way the national faith and financial honor; who hold that the common-school system is the nursery of American liberty, and should be maintained absolutely free from sectarian control; who believe that, for the promotion of these ends, the direction of the Government should continue to be confided to those who adhere to the principles of 1776, and support them as incorporated in the Constitution and the laws; and who are in favor of recognizing and strengthening the fundamental principles of National Unity in this Centennial Anniversary of the birth of the Republic, are invited to participate in the election of delegates to this convention.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 4 o'clock, which all delegates are invited to attend.

Chairman Republican State committee.

The Quality of the Blood.

Upon the quality of the blood depends, in a great measure the vigor and health of the body. If the blood is wanting in nutritious properties, the muscles are sure to be weak and flabby, the flesh deficient in quantity, the skin sallow and dry, the cheeks hollow and the eyes lustreless. To improve the quality of the blood stimulate digestion and assimilation with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Under the influence of this strength-creating cordial the body is efficiently nourished and the flesh grows, in consequence, more abundant, the muscles become more compact, the cheek is tinged with a healthful color, and the eye sparkles in brightness. The Bitters also free the blood from impurities by stimulating the kidneys and bowels to thoroughly perform their duty of carrying off the refuse of the system, which, if not entirely got rid of, poisons the vital current.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented decrease of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $35,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

Amateur Art Criticism.

A Detroit artist has for the past four or five months been throwing his whole soul into a landscape which is now on exhibition in a Woodward avenue window. It is called a fine painting by art critics, yet what are critics in number to the great public, no two of whom see or criticise alike? There was a crowd around the picture, and a boot-black took a square look at the picture and said:

"Purty good river he painted, but it runs up-hill. Wonder if that artist didn't ever go fishing?"

There was a pause, and an elderly gentleman with spectacles on remarked:

"What strikes me is that all those six cows should be switching their tails the same way and at the same time."

The crowd looked closer, and it was the general opinion that the artist should have switched over some of those tails.

"It's very nice," said a young man with a sore eye, "but look at that log house from a builder's point of view. Why, it's so far out of plumb that it will fall over and hurt some one before night, and the chimney wouldn't draw if there were forty fires below."

There was a long period of silence as each one of the crowd lined the walls with his eye. Then an old woman cautiously remarked:

"No matter about the house or the cows or the river—it's a nice picture. I got two chromos that I paid a dollar apiece for, and I don't believe they are a bit better than this."

There was a woman at her side with a large head of cabbage in a basket, and she put in:

"If I can find a nice, smooth board anywhere I'll have my husband make three or four pictures like that!"

There was another long silence, and then a sedate man, whose garments were fast going to Time's hospital for old clothes, elbowed the boys back with a great show of authority and remarked:

"You folks don't know anything about art. You'd better go and criticise a lamp-post or a street sign. There that painter has used up three yards of good factory, a whole day's time, and more'n two shillings worth of paint, and you ignoramus come around here and go to abusing his picture!"—Detroit Free Press.

— The gentlewomen who compose the New York Young Women's Christian Association are making a determined effort to secure to shop-girls the privilege of sitting when their duties do not require them to stand.

"O wad some power the gittie gie us,
To see ourselves as ithers see us."

Behold that pale, emaciated figure, with downcast eye, like some criminal about to meet her fate! See that nervous, distrustful look, as she walks along with a slow and unsteady step. The pink has left her cheeks and the cherry her lips. The once sparkling, dancing eyes are now dull and expressionless. The once warm, dimpled hands are now thin and cold. Her beauty has fled. What has wrought this wondrous change? What is that which is lurking beneath the surface of that once lovely form? Does she realize her terrible condition? Is she aware of the woeful appearance she makes? Woman, from her very nature, is subject to a catalogue of diseases from which man is entirely exempt. Many of these maladies are induced by her own carelessness, or through ignorance of the laws of her being. Again, many Female Diseases, if properly treated, might be arrested in their course, and thereby prove of short duration. They should not be left to an inexperienced physician who does not understand their nature, and is, therefore, incompetent to treat them. The importance of attending to Female Diseases in their earliest stages cannot be too strongly urged. For if neglected, they frequently lead to Consumption, Chronic Debility, and oftentimes to Insanity. In all classes of Female Diseases, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is without a rival. No medicine has ever surpassed it. In "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," of which R. V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y., is the author and publisher, is an extended treatise on WOMAN AND HER DISEASES. Under this head, the various affections to which woman is incident are carefully considered, accurately portrayed, and a restorative course of treatment suggested. Every woman, as she values her life and health, should possess a copy of this valuable book. If she be diseased, this "Adviser" will show her how she may be restored to health, and also direct her how she may ward off many maladies to which she is constantly being exposed. Let every suffering woman heed this timely advice and see herself as others see her. Price of Adviser, $1.50 (postpaid) to any address.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaints, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and at a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.

SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaint, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. It happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist, which I thought so much my case, I took it needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. She is now bed-ridden, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be indebted to Dr. Quain. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at times---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Danvers, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.50 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

FIRST ESCAPE FROM THE LIBBY.

Concluded.

I found the house of the lady with little difficulty, and was welcomed by her in a way that left me no doubt of her fidelity to the Union cause. For more than a month that noble woman concealed me, watched over my safety and at last made my escape sure, doing it—as I presume she did in behalf of others—without hope of reward, for pure love of the cause and its soldiers. The statements that I am now about to make will sound strangely, and may be doubted, but they are entirely truthful. The house of my benefactress was the headquarters of a branch organization of a loyal league, which she informed me embraced the names of several thousand in Richmond. I know it to be a fact that these men had arms concealed in various cellars and garrets in the city, and in the previous spring, at the time of the battle of Chancellorsville, when Stoneman was raiding down toward Richmond with his heavy cavalry columns, they only waited the certainty of his coming to rise, arm themselves, open the prison doors, and take possession of the city for him. And, strange as it may seem, during my sojourn at this house I was introduced in the person of one of its visitors to a man in thorough sympathy with the Union cause, who was a high official in a bureau of one of the departments of the Confederate government. At his suggestion I accompanied him one day as his orderly, riding a horse which he procured for me, on a tour of inspection of the defenses of the city with a board of examiners, including several Generals. The information which I acquired during that day's ride I reduced to writing after my escape from Richmond, making plans from memory of the most important works; and these I had the satisfaction of delivering personally to Secretary Stanton, at Washington.

After I had been a week in the house of my fast friend, the widow, I became perfectly confident of her good faith, and tried to wait patiently for my final deliverance. She had formed a plan of escape that satisfied me well, and seemed quite feasible. She designed to get me a place as a driver in one of the great forage and supply trains that often went to Northumberland county; and as her true character was not suspected, nor those of the many influential friends who came to her house, the plan seemed likely to succeed. The chief difficulty was with the passport; but that she hoped to arrange, with a little management.

One morning, the widow brought me the gratifying intelligence of the escape of Colonel Streight and his companions through the tunnel. That was an exciting time in Richmond, and I was compelled to keep close to the house for weeks. The Confederate cavalry chased the fugitives hotly over the peninsula, and many were recaptured and returned to their old hateful quarters, while others succeeded, by herculean exertions and through dreadful fatigue and exposure, in reaching the relief parties that were sent out from Fortress Monroe at the first intimation of their escape. I knew now that I must have been hunted down among the first, and I felt that I had acted wisely in not casting my lot with them. Dahlgren's raid occurred about this time, and excited the wildest apprehensions. Richmond fairly boiled with excitement, and military scrutiny became so rigid that my friends declared that I must defer all thoughts of getting away until the departure of another train. This I reluctantly, but still wisely, consented to do. But at last the long expected day came, and, furnished with a passport bearing the name of Moses Parish (a real person, who was unable to go with the train on account of sickness, and whom I was to personate), I bade farewell to my kind deliverer and walked over to the rendezvous with a bold air. The officer in command of the train scrutinized my passport and then me, and then put me through a severe catechism. I had expected this, and was well prepared for it. My story was that I was a native of Baltimore, who had enlisted in the Union army, and had deserted and found my way to Richmond after the battle of Chancellorsville. I answered all his questions promptly and consistently, and he at last told me to mount my wagon and he would "see about me."

"I don't know you," he said, "and therefore I put no confidence at all in you. If I catch you trying to get across the Potomac I'll put a bullet through you, so look out."

I had been training and disciplining myself for the dangers that I must encounter in this bold effort to escape. I had thought of all the ways by which aroused suspicion and the effort to discover might approach me, and I was therefore able to appear perfectly cool and "at home" in this situation. We left the city, a great empty train full a half-mile in length, with several companies of cavalry as escort, and wound along slowly toward the southern Potomac. There was incident enough, and excitement too, every day that I stayed with this train, to make a story of itself; but nothing happened to bring me into danger until we reached the Pamunkey. The water was high, and the whole train crossed on boats. I was leaning on the rail looking into the water when a resounding slap fell on my back and a loud voice exclaimed:

"Hallo, Porter! who'd have thought to see you here?"

I may remark here that for two weeks before I left Richmond the widow and my friends there had called me nothing but Moses Parish. The idea was continually in my head — don't recognize your own name! I turned now, slowly but deliberately, and faced my kind friend, the train master.

"That's not my name, sir," I said, "but I'm on hand for duty."

"The d—l it isn't! and the d—l you are!" he said snappishly. "Now, don't try your gammon on me, for I know you. You are Captain Porter, of the Yankee cavalry, who escaped from the Libby just before Streight and his gang."

His hand was on my shoulder; he looked me squarely in the eye. It was a critical moment for me, because I knew that he had it in his mind to put me under guard and take me back to the Libby on mere suspicion. I never flinched from his look but answered sturdily:

"You are mistaken, sir; I was never in the Yankee cavalry, or in the Libby."

"Well—who are you?"

"Moses Parish, lately from Baltimore. I enlisted—"

"There—enough of that! If you ain't Captain Porter, you are likely to be some other escaped Yankee prisoner."

He was called away just then, and the subject passed from his mind for the time. I saw him occasionally afterward, and as he did not renew his attentions to me I concluded, with a great sense of relief, that he decided not to put me under guard. He may have reasoned that I could be watched until the train returned to Richmond, and that after thus getting the benefit of my services he could report me to General Winder, and ascertain if there was anything in his suspicions.

If my suspicions were correct the lieutenant found reason afterward to repent of his decision. We reached the neighborhood of the Potomac, and watching my opportunity one dark night, when we were parking the train and everybody was busy, I detached a mule from the wagon I drove and rode him to the river as fast as I could make him go. I was so lucky as to find a negro with a boat in a few minutes, and I was safe across before there was any sign of pursuit. I jumped ashore, and in my exultation I caught up a handful of the sand and shouted, "Maryland, my Maryland!" I soon found one of our cavalry camps in the vicinity, and by the help I received there I was enabled to reach Washington in a few hours. I had not been in the city half a day before I was closeted with the Secretary of War, giving him a full account of my experiences. There is good reason to say that I gave him information that proved of very great importance to the Union cause.

MONDAY, MAY 1, 1876.

The Pleas for Delay.

William W. Belknap's counsel injured his case seriously in endeavoring to obtain from the U. S. Senate a postponement of the impeachment proceedings against him until December. Their ridiculous arguments were to the effect that owing to the ex-rebel sentiment in the House the resolutions of impeachment were hastily pressed to a passage, and this being the Presidential year justice could not be impartially secured in the heat of a season of political excitement. The Senate very properly refused to postpone the matter, and by a unanimous vote. It is exceedingly indicative of a freshness bordering on the ludicrous that counsel of eminent reputation should avail themselves of so paltry an excuse for delay. Mr. Belknap evidently fears justice and only prolongs his present limited condition of freedom by procrastination. Following logically the premises occupied by his counsel, how natural would it be to encourage perjury, embezzlement, fraud and their contingent evils, by simply having the scoundrels who infest the country unite in aid of the election of ex-rebels to Congress in order to shield those same scoundrels from prosecution when their misdeeds come to light. If a robber of the Nation's funds must escape trial during the prevalence of a political campaign, i. e. if he be exempted from punishment from crime every fourth year, the twelve months preceding Presidential year must be an excessively lively and happy time for thieves, who profiting by their freedom from fear for one year might soon amass sufficient funds to change the constitution and change the election of a President to once a year, furnishing them perpetual exemption from prosecution. If a National villain should be entitled to a delay of trial on such grounds, why not State robber, or Senate stealer, who in such a State as New Hampshire would never be brought to judgment as long as elections are held yearly. Belknap's counsel have shown the weakness of their cause by their surprising request for a postponement. There is no law for the punishment of such a crime as Senate stealing, perhaps, but eternal vigilance may keep such thieves from opportunities for a repetition of their villainy. There is a punishment for malfeasance in office of the Belknap variety and we trust it will be righteously meted out in such a measure that it will not require eternal vigilance to prevent its recurrence during the natural life-time of the late Secretary of War.

Wilkes Booth's First Attempt.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune writes: An interesting incident, which foreshadowed the tragic fate of President Lincoln, but which has never before found its way into print, is vouched for by a number of persons, still in Washington, and who were witnesses of it. On the day when Mr. Lincoln was inaugurated the second time, in 1865, and just as he had passed from the rotunda of the Capitol to the platform at the east portico, where his inaugural was to be delivered, a man who was recognized by several persons to be John Wilkes Booth, pushed hurriedly through the passage leading from the Senate Chamber to the rotunda, and in an excited and determined manner broke through the line of policemen which kept the crowd back from the procession, and made a desperate effort to reach the eastern door of the Capitol. He was discovered by a member of the Capitol Police—Mr. J. W. Westfall of New York—who on several occasions before, as well as since, has given evidence of his faithfulness and efficiency. He seized the excited stranger, and, after a severe struggle, during which Major B. B. French, then Commissioner of Public Buildings, at the suggestion of Mr. Westfall, caused the door to be closed and aid to be furnished, succeeded in forcing him back into the crowd. Booth had already been noticed by at least two persons who knew him passing rapidly from the direction of the Senate Chamber toward the rotunda, and some ideas of his determination to reach the inaugural platform may be formed from the fact that he broke away from the man who first seized him, Mr. Westfall, and but for the closing of the door would probably have accomplished his purpose, whatever it was.

These who stopped Boeth on that day, and who in all probability preserved the President's life, were not aware who the excited stranger was, but the importance of their action can hardly be overestimated. It will be remembered that at that time the great work of Mr. Lincoln's life had not been accomplished. The war was still going on. By this act of Mr. Westfall's, the President's life was probably spared for a time, at least, and he was permitted to see the dawn of peace. After the assassination of the President, and when it became known that Wilkes Booth's attempt to reach the inaugural platform had been thwarted by Mr. Westfall, the latter was promptly promoted to be a lieutenant of the Capitol police force, a position which was created for him by Hon. B. B. French, then Commissioner of Public Buildings and Grounds, and a devoted friend of Mr. Lincoln, as a mark of his appreciation of the great service which Mr. Westfall had rendered the country. This position he held until the meeting of the XLIVth Congress, since which time he has been discharged.

News and Notes.

Mr. Moulton has made a proposal for the trial of the case which it is impossible for Mr. Beecher, either in the character of an honorable man, or of a religious man, to decline, if he cares for any opinion but that of his own church. The proposal is that (1) the parties shall go to trial before the court of law in the case now pending on the single issue that Mr. Beecher committed perjury in procuring Moulton's indictment for libel, all technical objections to be waived, and all witnesses admitted, and the jury to be chosen either by ex-President Woolsey or Mr. George C. Robinson, one of Mr. Beecher's deacons; or (2) before three referees, one to be named by each party, and a third by these two; or (3) before twelve men—six selected by Mr. Thomas G. Shearman and Mr. Edward Beecher, and six by two persons named by Mr. Moulton, the majority to give the verdict. This offer cannot, we repeat, be refused with impunity.—New York Nation.

Col. Blair writes to one of his Plymouth townsmen that the story going the rounds of the newspapers, of his encounter with a door-keeper at Washington, is all a myth, as nothing of the sort ever happened.

The water registrar of Cambridge, Mass., has stolen some $10,000 of city money within three years. He has cleared out.

Hon. Charles H. Bell and family of Exeter are preparing for a visit to Europe. They expect to sail July 1st and be absent a year.

The Centennial Commission has agreed by a vote of 26 to 9, to close the exhibition building on Sundays, but to open the grounds to the public on that day. The question of allowing liquors to be sold was not decided.

"Religion and Philosophy of Sweden Borg" is the title of a neat volume of over 300 pages from the publishing house of Roberts Brothers, Boston. Price $1.25. It is edited by Theophilus Parsons. For sale at the book-stores.

A woman was lately elected, as several of her sex have been, Superintendent of Schools in Iowa, whereat her masculine competitor, one Huff, waxed huffy, and sought to prove that the lady could not, under the constitutional test of citizenship, legally hold the office. The Circuit Court sustained the irate Huff. Thereupon the legislature, which seems to have uncommon sense for such a body, and which evidently sees the victory from afar and means to be in favor with the powers that are to be, passed a bill which declares that "no person shall be deemed ineligible, by reason of sex, to any school office in the State of Iowa." Eleven women superintendents calmly say "I told you so," and Mr. Huff is left free to run for the Presidency.

The Boston Globe seems to infer that the republican State convention which meets in Bangor, Me., June 22d, is to be held for the choice of delegates to the Cincinnati convention which meets June 14th!

Hurd & Houghton, Cambridge, have issued a guide book, one of a series of four, intended especially for use during the period of the Centennial Exhibition. It is complete for the cities of New York, Washington, Philadelphia, and the Centennial; also, very full for Boston and Baltimore. The Railroad Map is unequaled. The remaining three books are published separately for the several cities of New York, Philadelphia and Washington. The books are reliable and the prices very low. They will be published in English, French, German and Spanish, and may be ordered of any bookseller.

—The story is told of an American in Paris, who, being about to leave for New York, bought a half-dozen peculiar looking pencil cases, at ninety-five cents each, for presents to friends at home. In Regent Street, London, he saw some more at only seventy cents each, and bought another half dozen, thinking that Paris pencils at that price were a bargain. In Liverpool he purchased another half-dozen of these same articles at thirty-five cents each. "Singular," he observed, somewhat surprised, "but it seems that the further one gets from Paris the cheaper articles of Parisian manufacture become. At this rate I should have done better by waiting until I reached New York." "You are about right, sir," said the shopman, who by this time had his money safe in his till. "You are about right, sir, for them pencils is all made in the States."

—The popular fashionable affectation among young ladies ravehous for social notoriety is the "Florida cough," which is regarded by those who have been abroad as a fine substitute for "Roman malaria," so fashionable a few years ago. The southern malady is supposed to be contracted sitting on the piazza of a Magnolia or Jacksonville hotel, flirting and eating oranges alternately. Those who have never been near either place suffer dreadfully from the disease.

—The Rome Sentinel says, "Some souls are equal to any emergency; a book agent who had persuaded a Rome housemaid to show him into the parlor, no sooner saw the lady of the house sauntering in with a broad knife in her hand, than he picked up his hat, and walked into a large $150 mirror."

—An old hat is regarded with contempt and aversion, but nobody can lay down an umbrella so sick and miserable but what there is some good Samaritan ready to scoop it in.

The NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE will be sent free to any address until after the PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION on the receipt of one dollar in advance.

Jottings.

The best republican weekly newspaper published in this part of New Hampshire is the NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE, published at Portsmouth by Marston & Freeman. It is an eight page paper, and its columns are devoted to politics and general news. A full report of coast news is given, with a variety of miscellaneous matter. If our people desire a live political paper they should read the GAZETTE. Sent until after the Presidential election for only one dollar.—Great Falls Journal.

Thank you, Bro. Fernald; we owe you one!

The votes thus far received at this office from the readers o this paper for President are as follows: James G. Blaine 41; Benj. H. Bristow 20; Elihu B. Washburne 1; Benj. F. Butler 1; John Hanson 1. All but three who vote for Vice President are for Blaine and Bristow, or Bristow and Blaine. We shall continue receiving votes and shall publish the result from day to day.

Charles Douglass, the man captured with the Mayor of Portland's team on Friday, was taken to Portland on Saturday afternoon by City Marshal Bridges of that city. The team was taken in charge by Mayor Fessenden's hostler, and started for home about one o'clock, the horse apparently as fresh as ever after his long drive on Friday. Douglas says that he deserted from the "Alhambra," an English mail steamer lying in Portland harbor, but the Marshal states that there is no steamer of that name in port. Douglas also claims that he had a partner who assisted him in breaking into the stable and harnessing the horse, and who rode with him until eleven o'clock Friday, and then left him. He refuses to give his partner's name, but says he belongs in Portland. From the appearance of the man and his complete silence in regard to the matter (except the admission spoken of above), he is considered to be an old hand at the game, but was lost in his calculations by his ignorance of this locality. He will be taken before the grand jury the latter part of this week.

Haverly's Minstrels with the inimitable Cool Burgess are to appear at the Temple next Friday evening.

Assistant Paymaster George A. Deering, U. S. N., is ordered to the Ajax at Port Royal.

Gunner Moses A. Lane, U. S. N., is detached from the Receiving Ship Sabine and placed on waiting orders.

The Board of Trade have a meeting at the Common Council Room this forenoon at eleven o'clock to consult with the selectmen of the towns of Rockingham county for the arrangement of a grand celebration of the coming Fourth of July in this city. The meeting will be a most interesting one and we hope will be generally attended by our public-spirited citizens.

The Presidential election occurs Tuesday, the 7th of November. Hence, any man who changes his residence after the 6th of May will lose his right to vote.

Tamworth was named for Tamworth, England, upon the river Tyne. There is no other town by that name in the United States. At the Iron Works the manufacture of iron and nails was commenced at an early date. It is claimed that anchors were manufactured there and sent to Portsmouth for sale. Also, that the first screw auger made in America was manufactured by Henry Weed of that town. It is also claimed that the first machine-made nails in the world were made in Tamworth by David Folsom, about the year 1770.

The Messrs. Hayes commence selling milk to-day at five cents per quart, delivered at the residences of customers morning and evening. See advertisements.

The naval officers at this station will receive their full pay to-day. There has been rumor that only a portion of the salaries would be paid, owing to lack of funds.

The dramatic company that Dollie Bidwell brings to this city to-day is, we think, the best which she has ever had for support. It includes Mrs. D. R. Allen, Mrs. Sol Smith, Miss Emma Reignolds, Miss Fannie Lee, and Messrs. Fred Hooker, Lin Harris, Sol Smith, Charles J. Fyffe, Leslie Edmonds and T. N. Edwards. "Josephine, or the Wife of Two," is a new drama of which Lin Harris is the author. Dollie Bidwell appears in the title role, "Josephine," Mr. Harris assuming the part of "Jean Raynal." There will be a change of programme to-morrow evening.

In June, 1603, the Speedwell and the Discoverer, the vessels of Captain Martin Pring, of Bristol, "a skillful navigator," and a man of considerable note, first entered the Piscataqua river. Pring had been sent by the Bristol Company to make explorations along the coast, and was the first European after the traditionary yellow-haired Northmen to visit New Hampshire. Sailing up the river, through the famous harbor, the safest and most commodious on the Atlantic coast, past the verdant beauties of Strawberry Bank, where the city of Portsmouth now stands, he explored the stream for several leagues. Somewhere in the vicinity of the city he landed, and, with his companions, probably trod upon the very soil of Portsmouth. The place can therefore justly claim a history of two hundred and seventy years, and boast the honor, which is hers, of being the first soil in New England which was touched by the feet of Englishmen. Eleven years afterward a cleverer man even than the Bristol navigator passed along these shores. Captain John Smith, ripe with his honors of romantic adventures, Indian battles, and successful discoveries, explored the coast from Cape Cod to the Penobscot, and drew a map on which its features were accurately delineated. He particularly examined and extolled the deep waters of the Piscataqua, and upon his return urged his efforts in favor of American colonization by publishing his map and description of New England, as the country was named by Prince Charles, afterward Charles the First, in honor of the motherland.

The youngest daughter of Mrs. Charles A. Wood, who recently died of small-pox, was on Saturday found to have a mild form of the disease.

On and after to-day trians will leave this city for Boston at 3:57, 7:15, 8:23 and 11:17 A. M., and 3:58 and 7:50 P. M. For Portland at 10:15 and 11:00 A. M., and 2:57 and 10:14 P. M. For Dover at 9:00 and 11:20 A. M., and 7:00 P. M.

Centennials.

Gen. Frank W. Miller, the Historian of New Hampshire for the Centennial Exhibition, is meeting with good success in collecting historic protraits and other articles for the N. H. collection at Philadelphia. All articles will be carefully protected, and safely returned; and persons who can aid in the exhibition, are requested to inform Gen. Miller, or Mr. J. H. Foster at his bookstore, where articles may be left. Among the articles already received (from Mr. Elwyn) are a cartridge-box, and the dress sword-belt, the gold-headed cane and an account book of 1776, together with the portrait, of Col. and Governor John Langdon.

Also, an iron and brass candle-stick nearly six feet high, holding ten candles, which can be raised or lowered at will and which was used for an entry light, by the Pickering family of Greenland, about two hundred years ago. This is a relic very novel and interesting, and belongs to Gen. Miller. Also, the old arm chair, on rollers, which belonged to Jonathan Mitchell Sewell, the eloquent and patriotic poet of the revolution, in Portsmouth, and in which he wrote his famous couplet

"No peut-up Utica contracts your powers,
But the whole boundless continent is yours."

This likewise is the property of Gen. Miller, and all the above may be seen at Mr. Fester's store.

The Historian will also send his wooden and stone printing press, the first used (by Daniel Fowle) in New Hampshire, in printing the N. H. Gazette in 1756. Also Fowle's inkstand, and types, and other articles. General Miller, not the present Commissary General of the State, and Historian, as above, but old "I'll Try," General James Miller, U. S. A., the veritable hero of Chippewa and Fort Erie, scored his first centennial on the 25th of April, that being the one hundredth anniversary of his birth. His protrait, Congressional great gold medal of honor, sword, and tomahawk, etc., will probably be included in New Hampshire's exhibition.

Also a picture of the first glassworks in America, which were set up in Temple, where Gen. Miller died, and where his interesting family still reside.

Portsmouth Grange celebrated their first tencennial last week, by taking in their 100th member.

The Portsmouth Park Trustees propose to celebrate this year by collecting one hundred $100 subscriptions for their object. Also to plant one hundred centennial trees.

Political.

The Keene Sentinel's latest figures as sent in by subscribers desiring to indicate their preferences for President and Vice President are: Blaine and Bristow, 242; Bristow and Blaine, 165; Bristow and Cragin, 4; Conkling and Hayes, 1; Conkling and Bristow, 1; Adams and Bristow, 1; Blaine and Wheeler, 1; Bristow and Curtis, 1.

The "unpleasantness" between the democratic editors of Louisville and Cincinnati appears to be swelling. Mr. Watterson's latest contribution would seem to be explicit enough to close up his side of the discussion: "The Cincinnati Enquirer has our permission to publish as many lies or truths as it pleases about us. It threatens us with private letters in its possession. Let it indulge itself copiously. It is conducted by a set of irresponsible idiots. We are equally indifferent to its threats and its vulgarity. Its capacity for lewdness is only equaled by its capacity for lying."

Leading Maryland republicans have assured Mr. Blaine that he can have their delegation, either pledged or unpledged, as he prefers.

The Colorado delegates to the National convention are for Blaine.

The Concord People, the organ of the Senate stealers, (and whose editor was the State Printer under democratic rule and in that position brought such exorbitant bills against the State that the Auditors, Messrs. John M. Hill and George E. Jenks, one democrat and one republican, refused to approve of them,) is now advising the republicans not to elect Hon. E. H. Rollins or Ex-Gov. Stearns to the U. S. Senate. The People is as exasperated at the probable election of Mr. Rollins as is the Nashua Telegraph. These two ex-State printers seem to have one feeling in common, i. e. that having gleaned all they may expect from the State treasury it is now high time to kill off the most formidable enemy that the democratic party has had in this State for twenty-one years. The former deems it good policy as tending to the restoration of democratic ascendency; the latter has convinced himself that he is honest and earnest in opposing as heretofore the will of a large majority of his party associates, who have still left in their souls some feeling of gratitude for the splendid achievements won from the very teeth of defeat by Mr. Rollins' rare sagacity, pluck and devoted leadership, and intend to show their appreciation of his services next month.

The Chicago Tribune says, editorially, that there is the strongest evidence of a combination having been effected between the Whiskey Ring and the democratic investigators at Washington, for the purpose of blackening the name of Secretary Bristow before the people. It does look like it sure, but it will not succeed.

Investigating Nitro-Glycerine.

A year or two ago a couple of prying Yonker youths sought to investigate the consequences of throwing a large stone upon some cans of nitro-glycerine which, announced by a warning placard and guarded by a substantial fence, had been stored in an open field awaiting the uses of the owner. It is needless to say that neither of the young men was ever seen afterward, having been instantly sent into fragments, like Casabianca, thus paying the most ghastly conceivable penalty for their folly. A similar punishment has just fallen on a couple of Utah youths, who, one Wednesday fired into a powder magazine, exploding seven tons of that substance at one fell shot, filling the air with large fragments of themselves, too widely diffused for recovery or identification. It would be superfluous to multiply censures or accumulate rebukes upon the reckless young marksmen after they had been, as the instant penalty of their folly, distributed in fine particles over many square miles of the adjacent territory, else we should read surviving youth a lesson from their fate, inculcating the wisdom of letting canned nitro-glycerine and stored gunpowder carefully alone. If the injury wrought in each case had been confined to the fools who invoked the calamity, perhaps there would be no special occasion for grieving over them or lamenting their sudden disintegration. The extinction of these reckless idiots makes the world a safer place to live in after their taking-off. But almost always others are involved in the ruin which they pull down on their own heads, and it is unsatisfactory to reflect that nothing is left of the perpetrators accessible to the righteous invocation of curses.—N. Y. World.

—Judge Duffy of New York city fined John Williams and Eliza Brady each $10 "for kissing openly in the public street." The judge also delivered an impressive lecture on the enormity of the offence.

Republican State Convention.

A republican State convention, for the choice of ten delegates to the republican National convention, to be held at Cincinnati, June, 14, 1876, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on Wednesday, the 24th day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All republican electors, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences or previous party affiliations, who are opposed to reviving sectional issues, and desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining and enforcing all the constitutional rights of every citizen, including the full and free exercise of the right of suffrage without intimidation and without fraud; who are in favor of the continued prosecution and punishment of all official dishonesty, and of an economical administration of the Government by honest, faithful, and capable officers; who are in favor of making such reforms in government as experience may from time to time suggest; who are opposed to impairing the credit of the nation by depreciating any of its obligations, and in favor of sustaining in every way the national faith and financial honor; who hold that the common-school system is the nursery of American liberty, and should be maintained absolutely free from sectarian control; who believe that, for the promotion of these ends, the direction of the Government should continue to be confided to those who adhere to the principles of 1776, and support them as incorporated in the Constitution and the laws; and who are in favor of recognizing and strengthening the fundamental principles of National Unity in this Centennial Anniversary of the birth of the Republic, are invited to participate in the election of delegates to this convention.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 4 o'clock, which all delegates are invited to attend.

Chairman Republican State committee.

The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is invited to the substantial and invaluable interests of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self sustaining. No other Life Company in the country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for insurance as this.

NOTICE.

Having my ware-room (which is the largest this side of Boston) full of the best of

MARBLE WORK,

I would respectfully invite the people of Portsmouth and vicinity, who have lost relatives or friends, or have occasion for the use of any kind of marble work, to call before purchasing elsewhere. My stock consists of Monuments, Headstones, Marble Posts, Marble Shelves, Pier Tops, &c., the stock which was bought and men employed to work the same, since the commencement of the present hard times. I have not sufficient room in which to place more work, and do not wish to discharge any of my hands. For the above reasons, I feel confident that no one can undersell me with the same quality of stock and work. I take occasion to call the attention of all who are repairing or building houses, to my large stock of Mantel Shelves and Pier Tops!

I also have Three LOTS, enclosed with Granite Curbs and Posts, in Harmony Grove and Sagamore Cemeteries, which I will sell at a discount.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and concerns to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to reimburse his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth.

A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

Novel Piece of Mechanism.

The Detroit Tribune says: "Mr. Andrew Gaudron is, after nearly a year of constant labor, about completing a complicated piece of mechanism designed to represent the resurrection of General Washington, and which it is his intention to exhibit at the Centennial Exhibition. The whole apparatus is enclosed in a cabinet 9 feet high, 3 1-2 feet broad, and 2 1-2 feet deep. The lower half contains the machinery, and in the upper portion the diorama is displayed. The scene is a fac-simile of the tomb of Washington. Upon one side stands an American and on the other a French soldier of the present day, while at the side and upon the recess beyond are painted allegorical figures and emblems. The machinery, which is quite complicated, is operated by a spring similar to those used in a clock. When it is set in motion a miniature cannon is fired, a bell tolled, and a curtain suspended across the face of the recess of the cabinet rises slowly, bringing to view the tomb and sentinel soldiers. The latter stand at an 'order.' In the course of a minute or so the tomb opens, a fac-simile of the father of his country arises therefrom. Simultaneously, the soldiers face toward the tomb and present arms, and Washington performs the usual military salutation. Then there descends from the clouds an American eagle, holding in its talons a staff, on one end of which is an American flag and upon the other the national ensign of France, carrying in its beak a laurel wreath with which it crowns Washington. The machinery continues to revolve, and the scene is reversed and repeated as often as is desired, each representation requiring about three minutes. The figures are made upon a scale of about three inches to the foot; the heads are carved by Mr. Julius Melchers, and the bodies are minutely correct and properly proportioned. The guns carried by the soldiers are in exact imitation of Springfield rifles, and the costume of the soldiers is patterned after the uniforms of the armies of this country and France. The dress of Washington is the same in color and style as that worn by him at the battle of Trenton."

—A startling rumor comes from Paris that long gloves reaching nearly to the elbow and requiring twenty buttons will be essential to the peace of mind of every well-dressed lady this year! Also, that without court-plaster patches no true toilet will be complete.

—Philip Phillips, the "Singing Pilgrim," has joined hands with a British evangelist named Thoburn, whom he met in India, and they are now holding meetings on the Moody and Sankey plan in Calcutta, which are limited only by the size of the auditorium.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success became almost equal to those who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden—Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks, at the time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man. Am now as good as world could make. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLASTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and know I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. S. D. LEONARD, Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to tie my shoes or walk article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a world of money, tried almost every thing, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist, and thought I would try one, just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think their merit proves a blessing to thousands who will be indebted to Dr. Quain for their cure. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully, MRS. B. T. LANE.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute solely to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.50 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

PULMOCINE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the hurrying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

AND

Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

With a Large Assortment of Display Type.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

THE PLAGUE.

A piece of intelligence which we published last week would two centuries ago have excited a greater sensation than the outbreak of a most formidable war, or even than the news of a crushing defeat. The plague, it seems clear, is once more threatening the confines of Europe. Since the beginning of March it has reached Bagdad, in which city in 1831 it destroyed 60,000 out of 150,000 people. The new outbreak, however, shows much of the old and mysterious fierceness before which medical science for many centuries recoiled in despair. There is no reason to expect that its ravages will be limited to the Provinces of Turkey in Asia. Both in Egypt and in European Turkey the conditions in which the plague breeds and spreads are still prevailing. Happily there is not the least ground for believing that the conditions for its reproduction in Western Europe any longer exist. Thus we have hardly more than a scientific interest in this distant but most deadly enemy. There is not much more chance of the invasion of England by the plague than there is of the destruction of London by an earthquake like that of Lisbon. No calamity, however, in the history of the human race has produced such a crushing effect upon the imagination as the great epidemics of the plague. In one week 7,165 persons were killed by the pestilence in London, and the entire number of deaths in the year within the bills of mortality reached the enormous total of 68,000 out of a population of half a million. Since that time no general visitation of the plague has been known in England or in the neighboring countries of Western Europe. Yet in 1712 it attacked Copenhagen; in 1720 Marseilles, where it slew more than half the inhabitants; in 1771 Moscow; in 1813 Malta; in 1816 Calabria; in 1818 Corfu; and in 1819 there was an outbreak in Silesia. These are the chief known instances of the appearance of the Plague in modern times outside the Dominions of Turkey and Egypt. It appears, therefore, that as modern life has been civilized, and, above all, has been cleansed, the power of the plague over the human organization has been steadily lessened.

The plague itself is a malignant fever analogous to typhus, with a peculiar influence over the lymphatic system. The persons subject to this sort of distemper are weakly in constitution, dwelling in the midst of damp and dirt, and generally of gross habits of living. When the true plague, stirred in its ancient 'source and seminary,' to quote Gibbon's phrase, in the Egyptian or Syrian cities, by some such accident as an unhealthy season, extends its infection, it fixes itself where a population prepared for its reception by the prevalence of the lesser diseases already mentioned is gathered together. On the whole it may be said that in no Western cities do such favoring conditions invite its visits. Though much remains to be done in our own and neighboring countries by way of sanitary improvement, what has been done, if we compare the life of our contemporaries with those of our ancestors of two centuries ago, marks a surprising advance. The worst rookery in modern London could not as a nursery for propagation of the pestilence be matched with the chief cities of the East. Moreover, the collapse of the nervous powers which is the especial characteristic of this frightful malady is favored by terror and helplessness, and an active-minded modern community, which in the worst event would energetically combat even the plague with all the resources of medical science, could no more be reduced to the despair of the Oriental when he finds himself face to face with the contagion than it could be terrified, as the people of London were in 1665, by the ominous flaming of an unexpected comet in the sky. Thus in modern England indeed, throughout Western Europe generally—neither the material nor the moral conditions exist which invite the inroads of the plague.—London Times.

RESTORING A GREAT SEA.

Mr. Spalding, an American, proposes to reverse a natural process which has been in action for thousands of years, and, in his opinion, has produced the present distribution of the human race in Europe. It is a question of turning the waters of the Black Sea into the Caspian, and filling that great inland basin to the depth which obtained at a remote period. At present the Caspian Sea, and, through kindred influences, the Sea of Aral and Lake Balkash are losing their waters, and the vast region which belongs to their system is becoming a desert. According to Mr. Spalding, this deterioration was probably the cause of the great migrations which history records. Vast multitudes came forth from the unknown east because the lands of their birth were no longer able to support them; by long wars they obtained possession of the whole of Europe, which, with its more fertile soil and less warlike population, invited conquest. The region to which the American engineer calls attention is a great basin depressed below the level of the ocean. The lowest parts are occupied by the Caspian Sea, which receives, besides smaller tributaries, the two great rivers Ural and Volga, which drain a large proportion of the central regions of the Russian empire. These rivers have for ages deposited in the Caspian the soil of the regions drained by them. The dimensions of the sea have consequently become contracted, and the bottom of what remains of it has been raised until very large areas are becoming unnavigable. By reason also of the diminution of the water space available for evaporation, the surrounding regions are becoming sterile wastes, and commerce diminishes notwithstanding the approach of civilization.

The only means of arresting this implacable action of nature is to restore to the Caspian its ancient body of water, and consequently its ancient deapth and area. This is to be done by cutting a channel which shall bring into it the waters of the neighboring Black Sea. The projector would make a great cutting, connecting the two seas upon one level. It is to be premised that the Caspian is considerably lower than the Black Sea and the Mediterranean, and, therefore, a continuous flow from the latter into the former would ensue upon a communication being made. Mr. Spalding anticipates not only a natural but a political revolution from this artificial cataract. The force of the water acquired by the plunge would effect a deep excavation, and in the end would not only fill the basin of the Caspian to the level of the Black Sea, but would form a magnificent harbor in the former, unassailable by an enemy, and certain to become the emporium of the commerce of Russia and western Asia. The author enters into calculations as to the movement of the water through such a channel, and determines that at the end of forty years from the beginning of the work the levels of the two seas would be so nearly uniform that navigation of the new channel could begin. This time could be shortened to about twenty-five years if, upon the completion of the work already described, the operation were to be repeated by connecting the Don and the Volga. The object of this latter work would be to bring the waters of the Sea of Azof to swell the volume discharging into the Caspian, the current of the Don being reversed. Mr. Spalding mentions a similar work performed in America by cutting the ridge of limestone which separated the waters of the Chicago river from those of the Illinois river. "The result was that the current of the Chicago was reversed, and it now discharges its waters, as well as those of Lake Michigan, into the Illinois, and through that via the Mississippi river into the Gulf of Mexico, instead of into the Gulf of St. Lawrence."

The Senatorship.

Now that the smoke of the recent battle in New Hampshire has lifted, it discloses to the republicans of our State another grave duty and responsiolility. The selection of a United States Senator for the full term of six years from the 4th of March next will devolve upon the legislature which will soon convene at Concord. The choice of a Senator is always important; but the election at this time derives a special significance from the great questions now before the people, and the possibly greater ones to arise as we enter upon the second century of the Republic. The final settlement of the relations to the Union of the States lately in rebellion, the protection and consolidation of the liberties of the freedmen, the currency problem, administrative reform, and the measures necessary to restore confidence and a revival of the business prosperity of the country—these are some of the momentous questions which will engage the attention of Congress for years still to come, and require for their solution the best efforts of a wise, resolute and practical statesmanship. New Hampshire has hitherto exerted a large and useful influence in the councils of the Nation, and our present representation in the Senate is altogether creditable to the State. Senator CRAGIN has served twelve years in that body with honor to himself and his constituents, and no man stands higher to-day in the respect of the country. We think, however, it is generally conceded that, having enjoyed a liberal share of public honors, he is willing and expects to retire at the close of his present term.

Among the many respectable and honored names that have been proposed as his successor, we think there is quite a general concentration of the best sentiment of the republican party upon Hon. EDWARD H. ROLLINS of Concord. We believe Mr. ROLLINS to be possessor in an eminent degree the of the great qualities required in a Senator fitted to uphold the honor and promote the best interests of New Hampshire at this important juncture. He is in the prime of life, and has a large political experience in office and out of office. He served in the lower House of Congress with usefulness and distinction during the most critical years of our national history. In industry, political fidelity, and pains-taking attention to the wants of his State and his constituents he had no superior in Congress. As chairman of our republican State committee for many years he has gained unfading laurels, and organized and fought some of the most brilliant campaigns that illustrate the history of the republican party in this country. At critical periods, and even when disappointed in his own honorable ambition for preferment, Mr. ROLLINS has stepped into the breach for the rescue of the party, at times when his splendid powers were well nigh indispensable, and by his courage, his skill, his enthusiasm and indomitable purpose, he has borne the republican flag in triumph on many a hard-fought field. These achievements have given him a National reputation as a political organizer of the first rank, and without any disparagement of the labors of other men we think it may be truly said that his services to the republican party of the State and Nation in this capacity have been beyond computation. Therefore we say he has deserved well, and should now receive a fitting proof that the republicans of New Hampshire appreciate his labors. We repeat that he is in every way fitted for the position. He has the requisite acquirements, industry, and forensic ability to qualify him for this high place in the councils of the Nation. His republicanism is of the most pronounced type, and those who don't want a downright republican Senator have no occasion to vote for him. His private character is without reproach, and the possession of high public trusts and financial responsibilities has not exposed him even to the accusation of any corruption or want of integrity.

In this connection we cannot forget that Mr. ROLLINS is a son of the old town of Somersworth, and received his early education in her public schools. His career thus far has been an honor to the town of his birth, and we doubt not that our citizens without exceptions would rejoice in his elevation to a post of distinction where his activity, energy and clear-cut republicanism will confer honor alike upon his native town and State.—Great Falls Journal.

News and Notes.

The finding of the body of S. S. Jackson in Chelsea the past week has verified a dream, or vision, of a lady residing at the West End. In regard to it she says, that on the morning of the 23d of November last she dreamed that Mr. Jackson came to her bedside and called her by name, he being well acquainted with her. She saw that his right hand was raised and asked him what he wanted. He replied, "I was murdered to-night." The lady said, "No, Mr. Jackson, you are not dead." "I am what they call dead," he replied. "I was murdered to-night." Upon rising from bed in the morning the lady told the circumstances to the members of the family with which she resided, and on the afternoon of the same day the fact that Mr. Jackson was missing was published in the Boston newspapers.

The Philadelphia Bulletin says the centennial chorus, now in training under Messrs. Thomas and Buck, is unquestionably the finest mass of local musical material ever brought together in this country.

Sylvanus Kidder, of Goffstown, 40 years old, unmarried, and living with his parents on Pattee Hill, made a desperate attempt at suicide, Saturday morning. His parents were awakened by hearing groans from his bed-chamber, and going there beheld a ghastly sight, he having cut his throat in several places, badly hacking it and causing great loss of blood. Drs. Newell and George were summoned and skillfully sewed up the wounds, but he is very weak and will undoubtedly die. The act is attributed to mental aberration.

Prof. Blake, the mind-reader, committed suicide by poison in San Francisco, on Thursday.

A Groton, Vt., woman fired four or five shots from a revolver at a man who was helping himself from her wood-pile the other evening, and he skedaddled without any wood.

President Grant is reported very ill.

Thirty persons were killed at Bingen on the Rhine, Sunday, by the explosion of the boiler of a ferry-boat.

O. A. J. Vaughan, Esq., editor of the Laconia Democrat and Police Justice of that town, died of pneumonia on Sunday.

The Chicago club has taken the lead for the base-ball championship, having lost no games thus far. The Bostons were beaten on their own grounds, Saturday, by the Hartfords. Score 3 to 2.

Heavy failures have occurred in Manchester, England.

Great preparations are being made for the grand opening of the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia on Wednesday of next week. The opening exercises will be in the open air, the space selected being the terrace south of the Art Gallery. On the forenoon of May 10th, the invited guests will be seated on an immense platform. Theodore Thomas' orchestra of 150 pieces will play National airs, after which President Grant, with Gov. Hartranft and the military will appear. After the President has passed through Memorial Hall the orchestra will play the grand march composed especially for the occasion by Richard Wagner. A hymn will be sung, as written by Whittier, to music by J. N. Payne, of Hartford, to be followed by a cantata, more music, and a few short addresses. Thereupon will follow the unfurling of flags, booming of artillery, chimes, bell-ringing, and Handel's great "Hallelujah Chorus" by 600 voices, and thus the great show will be opened.

Edwin Cook, the murderer of his son at Hyde Park, Vt., April 23, was taken to the Brattleboro Asylum on Thursday a raving maniac.

"Religion and Philosophy of Swedenborg" is the title of a neat volume of over 300 pages from the publishing house of Roberts Brothers, Boston. Price $1.25. It is edited by Theophilus Parsons. For sale at the book-stores.

The snow-drifts are ten feet deep near the Crawford House.

The Phœnix Mill at Peterboro' will stop work this week for an indefinite time, and the new mill at West Peterboro' will run but a short time longer. No sale of goods is the reason.

Robert F. Moore, Esq., for many years foreman of the Manchester repair shop, died of consumption on Friday, aged 43 years. He leaves a widow and one child. He was a brother of O. C. Moore of the Nashua Telegraph, and of J. B. Moore, Doorkeeper of the U. S. Senate.

The Grand Army Post at Manchester has made the following selections for Memorial Day; President, Major James F. Briggs; Chief Marshal, B. Frank Fogg; and orator, Rev. Paul S. Adams, of Newport. The First New Hampshire Regiment, the High School Cadets, the City Government and Fire Department will join in the services.

Visitors to New York should not fail to call at the Rossmore Hotel—one of the newest and most magnificent of the great American hotels. It has all the modern improvements, is conducted at popular prices, and is under the personal management of Chas. E. Leland, proprietor, who owns the Clarendon, of Saratoga, and is also proprietor of the Delevan, at Albany. The Rossmore is easily reached, as it is located on Broadway, but three blocks west of Grand Central Depot, and near the Elevated Railroad. It is already deservedly one of the most popular as well as most magnificent and costly of the great hotels of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Blood, of Newburyport, with a young daughter, were badly injured, Saturday evening. They got into a coach at the Eastern depot to ride to their home, when the horses started off without a driver and ran furiously down Winter street. The coach was a complete wreck. All three were severely injured, Mr. Blood being insensible for half an hour.

The decision of the Lebanon referees in the "Parker-auction riot" case is giving a judgment to Mr. Parker of $700 against the town is severely commented upon by the students, especially those indicted as participants in the riot, who say they never will pay their pro-rata of this sum, but will go to Court and stand trial, being satisfied that they will be either acquitted or the penalty modified somewhat. All, citizens included, express surprise at the finding; yet public opinion is divided as to its justice.

John McCarty, aged 45, a yard hand on the Concord Railroad, was run over by an engine near the Manchester station, on Saturday afternoon, and died before reaching home. He leaves a widow and one child.

A republican paper is soon to be started in Colebrook.

Notice.

All members of the Portsmouth Artillery Company are requested to attend a meeting at the Common Council Room, for choice of officers, this (Tuesday) evening at half-past 7 o'clock. Per Order.

Jottings.

May Day was nice and blustering—just the sort of a day for the children to array themselves in muslin, fill their lunch baskets with goodies from the pantry, pair off in couples, and—stay in-doors. The Queen of May had a pneumonic attack and a bad resumption of the "sniffles."

All is not silver that shineth brightly. The "queer" is about and one needn't be anxious for the newly issued coin. It weareth holes in pockets, whether counterfeit, or genuine. One had better stick to scrip—if one can find it to stick to.

The Board of Trade meeting this evening at the Common Council Room should be generally attended to listen to the report of the committee appointed to confer with the selectmen of neighboring towns. A delegation from Rye is expected to attend. There seems to be a general interest among our citizens for a patriotic celebration of the coming Fourth of July in a manner that shall be creditable to Old Strawberry Bank and the memories wafted down from revolutionary sires to worthy descendents.

The "season" at Rye Beach bids fair to be one of unusual brilliancy. Probably more rooms are engaged than ever before at a corresponding date, while the "transient" travel will necessarily be large. None of the hotels or private houses have changed hands, and all will be under the same management as heretofore. Several new houses are in process of construction, some of which will be completed in season for business this year. Both of the leading hotels, the Farragut and Sea View, have made extensive additions to their livery stables, and the Sea View is to be supplied with new steam water works. Both of these houses are very popular with Boston people, and several leading families have already engaged rooms. At "Little Boar's Head," which is substantially a continuation of Rye Beach, although situated in the town of North Hampton, no marked changes have taken place, and the indication of a good season are very favorable. At Straw's Point ex-Governor Straw is having a new cottage and barn built, and has erected a very large dining hall, to be used in common by the residents of the Point. Further along the coast—toward Portsmouth—at Foss' Beach and "Concord Point," new cottages have been built, and two or three of the boarding houses enlarged. A new line of omnibuses from North Hampton depot to Rye beach is talked of, and it is not improbable that such a line will be put on about July 1st. The highways are being put in better condition than ever before, and a general "brushing up" is observable everywhere.

Keene has appropriated $100 for decorating soldiers' graves. Portsmouth's city council was too mean to do so.

A committee of the House of Representatives has reported in favor of erecting a light-house at Cape Neddick.

The steamship Monongahela is ordered to this navy yard from Port Royal.

Chief Engineer Thoms Williamson, as a member of the Board of Examining Engineers, has been ordered to duty in charge of the engineer stores at the navy yard, and Chief Engineer Geo. D. Emmons has been detached from the navy yard and granted a leave of absence for three months.

The arms and equipments belonging to the defunct Portsmouth Artillery have been formally delivered to Quartermaster Cunningham of the First Regiment and stored in the arsenal.

Thirteen deaths in Greenland for the last four months.

A small boy named Eddie Downs was knocked down and run over by a team driven by Mr. Elihu Dennett, on Pleasant street, near the Millbridge, at about noon on Monday. The boy was considerably injured about the head and neck.

The adjourned meeting of the South Parish, Monday, voted (15 to 11) to appropriate $1412 for music the coming year, and to rescind the vote appropriating $400 for repairs of the iron fence, it having been concluded that $25 was enough.

A horse attached to a buggy in which were Miss Emma J. Flanders, the soprano singer, and Mrs. Freeman Burleigh, ran away near the residence of Capt. Ball at Greenland, Monday, went through the open gateway and plunged over an embankment sixteen feet high, smashing the team and throwing out the occupants, who were badly frightened but very little bruised.

The reappearance of Dollie Bidwell last evening with a strong company brought out a large attendance. Dollie was always a favorite in Portsmouth and has the best wishes of that class of average theatre-goers who for many years have so enthusiastically shown their preference for her over any of the prominent actresses and actors who have won a local reputation by frequent performances here. She is well supported, the company being especially strong in some of its characteristics. To-night she will appear in "East Lynne," a favorite drama which gives her full scope for the display of her abilities as an actress.

Sovereigns of Industry.

The New Hampshire Council of the Sovereigns of Industry held their annual session at Franklin Hall, in this city, last month, and elected the following board of officers:

President, O. H. Thayer of Keene; Vice President, Lowell Jenness, Portsmouth; Secretary, H. C. Johnson, Keene; Treasurer, T. J. Rockwood, Nashua; Lecturer, Thomas Moore, Portsmouth; Steward, Wm. Critchley, Portsmouth; Assistant Steward, Mrs. Susan R. Densmore, Nashua; Inside Guard, Joseph Simpson, Newmarket; Outside Guard, John Walsh, Portsmouth; Executive Committee, O. H. Thayer, Keene, Wm. Critchley, Portsmouth, Imla Shedd, Claremont, T. J. Rockwood, Nashua, S. S. Davis, Nashua, E. A. Howard, Keene; Committee on Laws and Supervision, T. J. Rockwood, Nashua, E. A. Howard, Keene, Thomas Moore, Portsmouth; Committee on Appeals and Grievances, Wm. Critchley, Portsmouth, Imla Shedd, Claremont, H. C. Johnson, Keene; State Agent, T. J. Rockwood, Nashua.

A correspondent of the Nashua Gazette writes that "the evening session was brief but very interesting. At the close the members of the State council were surprised by an invitation to repair to the banquet hall where they partook of a bountiful collation prepared by the members of Rockingham Council No. 7, who cannot be surpassed in hospitality. After doing ample justice to the repast, the usual toasts and responses were had, after which the tables were removed and all who wished enjoyed the social dance. I cannot close this report and feel that I have done it justice without speaking in praise of the generous and hospitable manner in which we were entertained by the members of Rockingham Council, of Portsmouth, and I must say that the occasion was one of much profit and enjoyment. Rockingham Council is composed of men and women who know how to make it a success. Their store is in a prosperous condition under the management of Mr. Wm. Critchley. The sociables are first-class, and the musical talent, both vocal and instrumental, showed the elevated character of its members, and was not one of the least attractions of the occasion."

Political.

The outrageous manner in which the democrats gerrymandered the Councillor districts in 1874 is shown by the fact that notwithstanding the republican majority in the State over all is nearly 3300, but two of the five Councillor districts elected the republican candidates. Ninety-five more votes for the democratic candidates in the third and fifth districts would have given the democracy three of the five Councillors.

The official vote in Councillor Districts Nos. 3 and 5, shows no election by the people. Mr. Parker, republican, lacks two votes, and Mr. Farr, republican, eight votes of an election. They will be elected by the legislature if the above statement proves true.

The collapse of the attempt by the democrats and the whiskey thieves of Wisconsin to injure Secretary Bristow by an exposure of alleged venality in the bark Mary Merritt case, is undoubtedly the most ridiculous failure yet made in that direction. There is absolutely nothing left of the charges against the Secretary so confidently made in the House of Representatives by Representative Cate of Wisconsin.

A Boston Herald dispatch from Washington says: It is stated by prominent California politicians that the recent republican convention in California marks the harmonizing of the independents, of whom Senator Booth is the leading representative, and the regular republican organization. The records of the independent State organization have been turned over to the republican State Committee, and the feuds that led to the independent movement are healed, for the present, at least. If this harmony continues, there is no doubt that the republicans will carry the State by a large majority at the next election.

Hon. N. G. Ordway is to be investigated, it is said. Well enough! Mr. Ordway has been a consistent opponent of the District Ring at Washington, whose members have heretofore "put up jobs on" him and failed. Those who have hoped to profit from laying crafty plans for his overthrow, have thus far come out nearer the bottom of the heap than Nehemiah has;—the democracy of Warner, for instance.

Mr. Willard, an Omaha banker, to whom Mr. Harrison of Indiana referred in making his charges against Mr. Blaine, says he has fully investigated the affairs of the Union Pacific Railroad Co., and finds there is nothing to implicate Mr. Blaine directly or indirectly.

There is a Western paper which is said to be "disgusted because Bristow is not guilty of something."

The vote of the Manchester Councillor district as returned to the Secretary of State, is as follows: Parker, republican, 7083, Burnham, democrat, 7050, scattering 37. Necessary for a choice 7086. In the Coos district, Farr, republican, has 8241; Blodgett, democrat, 8191, scattering 66. Necessary for a choice 8250.

A letter from Charleston, S. C., says: Judge Bond sentenced a large number of illicit distillers, caught in the mountains of this State the past Winter, two and four years in the penitentiary, with the usual fines.

Republican State Convention.

A republican State convention, for the choice of ten delegates to the republican National convention, to be held at Cincinnati, June, 14, 1876, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on Wednesday, the 24th day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All republican electors, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences or previous party affiliations, who are opposed to reviving sectional issues, and desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining and enforcing all the constitutional rights of every citizen, including the full and free exercise of the right of suffrage without intimidation and without fraud; who are in favor of the continued prosecution and punishment of all official disorders, and of an economical administration of the Government by honest, faithful, and capable officers; who are in favor of making such reforms in government as experience may from time to time suggest; who are opposed to impairing the credit of the nation by depreciating any of its obligations, and in favor of sustaining in every way the national faith and financial honor; who hold that the common-school system is the nursery of American liberty, and should be maintained absolutely free from sectarian control; who believe that, for the promotion of these ends, the direction of the Government should continue to be confided to those who adhere to the principles of 1776, and support them as incorporated in the Constitution and the laws; and who are in favor of recognizing and strengthening the fundamental principles of National Unity in this Centennial Anniversary of the birth of the Republic, are invited to participate in the election of delegates to this convention.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 4 o'clock, which all delegates are invited to attend.

Daniel Hall,
Chairman Republican State committee.

The Quality of the Blood.

Upon the quality of the blood depends, in a great measure the vigor and health of the body. If the blood is wanting in nutritious properties, the muscles are sure to be weak and flabby, the flesh deficient in quantity, the skin sallow and dry, the cheeks hollow and the eyes lustreless. To improve the quality of the blood stimulate digestion and assimilation with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Under the influence of this strength-creating cordial the body is efficiently nourished and the flesh grows, in consequence, more abundant, the muscles become more compact, the cheek is tinged with a healthful color, and the eye regains its brightness. The Bitters also free the blood from impurities by stimulating the kidneys and bowels to thoroughly perform their duty of carrying off the refuse of the system, which, if not entirely got rid of, poisons the vital current.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

TO MY PATIENTS!
DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,
Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious
Dental Practitioner.
DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.
I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.
If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. This such may be the result of his year of trial fairly is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.
N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

Daily Chronicle.

A New Narcotic.

During Weston's recent pedestrian exhibitions in London one of the inquisitive medical gentlemen in attendance noticed a "chewing movement of the jaws" and a brown stain on the lips of the athlete, both of which phenomena he at first attributed to the customary American "quid" of tobacco. Subsequent investigation, however, proved that the substance masticated was "coca," a plant which, though known to everybody in Peru and to a few scientific gentlemen elsewhere, has hitherto failed to find popular appreciation in Europe or the United States. And so modest is Mr. Weston about standing sponsor for this luxury—not to say necessity—of pedestrianism, that he never whispered a word touching his use of it, and displayed much vexation at the inquisitive medical gentleman aforesaid for mentioning the matter to "outsiders."

Coca—which is a totally different thing from cocoa—is a shrub growing on the high lands of the Andes, the dried leaves of which are chewed by all classes, but especially by the poor, who are reported to be thereby enabled to undergo extraordinary labor and privation of food. Like tobacco, its action varies with dose and habit, being stimulant in moderate quantity to the initiated, and narcotic in over-doses or in the novice. The symptoms of intoxication produced by it comprise heightened temperature, quickened pulse, "strong desire for active locomotion, with increased sense of strength and agility," followed by apathy and sleep, from which the patient wakes without debility or unpleasant feelings; its habitual employment in medium doses induces a sensation of calmness and apparently diminishes the wear and tear of the tissues, facilitating muscular exertion and preventing the sensation of weariness, even under insufficiency of food and sleep. The South American native mixes chalk with his coca quid, but this is simply a matter of taste and in no wise essential to the efficacy of the leaves themselves, which are masticated unadulterated by Mr. Weston and the few European experimenters who have essayed their use. Sir Robert Christholm, one of the oldest living physicians, testified to the wonderful influence of coca in his own person during a mountain-climbing expedition last summer.

The invigorating of assistance this curious drug doubtless plays some part in Mr. Weston's remarkable feats of endurance, although persons of less tenacious muscular fibre are not likely to be fitted for five hundred-mile walks solely by coca ruminating.—Exchange.

"O wad some power the gittie gie us,
To see ourself's as ithers see us."

Behold that pale, emaciated figure, with downcast eye, like some criminal about to meet her fate! See that nervous, distrustful look, as she walks along with a slow and unsteady step. The pink has left her cheeks and the cherry her lips. The once sparkling, dancing eyes are now dull and expressionless. The once warm, dimpled hands are now thin and cold. Her beauty has fled. What has wrought this wondrous change? What is that which is lurking beneath the surface of that once lovely form? Does she realize her terrible condition? Is she aware of the woeful appearance she makes? Woman, from her very nature, is subject to a catalogue of diseases from which man is entirely exempt. Many of these maladies are induced by her own carelessness, or through ignorance of the laws of her being. Again, many Female Diseases, if properly treated, might be arrested in their course, and then by prove of short duration. They should not be left to an inexperienced physician who does not understand their nature, and is, therefore, incompetent to treat them. The importance of attending to Female Diseases in their earliest stages cannot be too strongly urged. For if neglected, they frequently lead to Consumption, Chronic Debility, and oftentimes to Insanity. In all cases of Female Diseases, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is without a rival. No medicine has ever surpassed it. In "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," of which R. V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y., is the author and publisher, is an extended treatise on WOMAN AND HER DISEASES. Under this head, the various affections to which woman is liable are logically considered, accurately portrayed, and a methodical course of treatment suggested. Every woman, as she values her life and health, should possess a copy of this valuable book. If she be diseased, this "Adviser" will show her how she may be restored to health, and also direct her how she may ward off many maladies to which she is constantly being exposed. Let every suffering woman heed this timely advice and see herself as others see her. Price of Adviser, $1.50 (postpaid) to any address.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have since recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your packages of Pills, and I say they have done more wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials you said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and legs, so that I was unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have tried several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement headed Dr. Quain's Magical Pills. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from inflammation of the Bowels, Constipation, and Piles, and I want to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands as they will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.50; please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslindale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.50 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

PULMOCINE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Cordial for general prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relaxes nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the hurry-trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the cause of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

AN ASIAN MYSTERY.

The success of the Russian arms in Central Asia has laid open to the tourist and the student some of the most famous seats of Moslem civilization. Yet even Samarcand, the holy city, awakens a less lively interest than the majestic ruins of Mestorjan, which were lately explored by a party of Russian officers. The astonishing grandeur of these remains is not more noteworthy than the strange obscurity which appears to shroud their origin and history.

The ruins lie some thirty versts southeast of Lake Bugdaily, and not far from the junction of the Saumbar and Atrek rivers. The route leads through an extremely fertile plain, and in proportion as you approach Mestorjan, the more felicitous appears the epithet of "king's land," bestowed by the Tuckomans on this portion of the steppe. When we consider that wheat and maize, fitfully cultivated in rainy Summers, still yield respectively fifty and a hundred and fifty fold, it is easy to infer what harvests must have repaid a consummate system of irrigation.

Soon after leaving Lake Bugdaily some vestiges of a small fortress are encountered, and from this point a continuous line of forts seems to have extended to Mestorjan, probably designed to protect the immense aqueduct which ran behind them along a wall seven feet high and fourteen broad. In effect this canal constituted an artificial bed for the river Atrek, and besides supplying the city and its suburbs, fed a vast net-work of sluices from which every clod of earth within a circuit of sixty versts must have received its due share of moisture. The traces of an elaborate scheme of irrigation are common to most Saracenic countries, but nothing in Andalusia or the Nile valley seems to have equalled the perfection of these works in central Asia.

The city itself formed a fortress encircled, first, by a broad moat and parapet of earth, next by two concentric walls constructed of large, carefully burnt bricks, and strengthened by towers at frequent intervals. Its shape was an irregular square, whose sides varied from 2,500 to 4000 feet in length. The entire space, as well as a ring of suburbs to the distance of two versts, is strewn with the same carefully burnt bricks, the debris of former buildings whose foundation walls may in most instances still be traced.

Without the fortress, the general destruction has spared only the city gates and a part of the mosque Schir-Kabir, still accounted holy, and credited with many miracles. Within the walls are still standing two shapely minarets—each ninety feet high and twenty feet in diameter at the base—a mosque, a palace, a colossal reservoir, and numerous cisterns. The minarets, now mutilated, must have formerly attained a much greater height, to which access seems to have been secured by a spiral staircase contrived in the interior. All these buildings, which excite astonishment by their graceful lines, the beauty of their proportions, and the elegance of their facades, are wrought of a peculiar brick, close and hard as stone, adorned with mosaic work and sculptures in relief, arabesques and embossed inscriptions of unusual size and splendor, each letter being formed of tinted, flower-shaped tiles, and having a length of seven inches. Those who have seen the restorations of the Alhambra at Granada may form an idea of the brilliant effect, although not of the stupendous scale, of this Mestorjan architecture.

When we read of these interesting remains, which seem to combine artistic merit with magnitude, we are moved to ask what remarkable people should be credited with such elaborate works, and under what dynasty the superb Mestorjan flourished. Upon this point history is mute, and the local traditions are vague and unsatisfactory. According to one legend, Schir-Kabir was an Arabian, the last of a line of Saracenic monarchs in whose reign the Mongols sacked the city. The numerous inscriptions, which unluckily the Russian officers were unable to decipher or even photograph, will perhaps furnish the key to the enigma. Meanwhile until competent archæologists shall investigate its ruins, the story of Mestorjan must remain a mystery.

Who is Judge Hilton?

By one of the most remarkable testamentary operations on record, Judge Hilton has now, within a week of Mr. Stewart's death, acquired the bulk of his property, worth from ten to twenty millions, transferring to Mrs. Stewart as an equivalent the one million which was left him by the testator for taking care of the estate. In the eye of the law, therefore, we suppose, Mr. Hilton takes the property, charged with the duty of carrying out Mr. Stewart's charities, whatever they may have been. Judge Hilton's character as a public benefactor is therefore of some interest to the public; and it may be worth while to recall the fact that some years ago there was a ring in this city composed of four gentlemen named Tweed, Sweeney, Hall and Connolly; that one of these, Peter B. Sweeney, was put at the head of a body called the park commission, and that associated with him was one Judge Hilton. The new board went to work to benefit the public. They lopped off and cast away the boughs from the trees in the park where they were most necessary; they allowed quack medicine advertisements to be painted on the rocks; and, to cap the climax, the old park commission having employed a skilled zoologist by the name of Waterhouse Hawkins to restore some fossils of extinct species of animals, they dismissed Mr. Hawkins, while Judge Hilton issued an order to have the models carted away and buried, and to have the moulds and sketch models destroyed, on the ground that a naturalist might better employ his time than in wasting it over "dead animals." In fact they conducted themselves like vandals and public enemies. We sincerely trust that Judge Hilton will devote his suddenly-acquired wealth to private enterprise. Prayers against his attempting to do anything for the public with it might well be offered up in the churches.—New York Nation.

Snap The Whip.

We do not by any means doubt the sincerity of the three or four journalists in various parts of the country who insist that the explanation of Mr. Blaine is not sufficient to meet all the facts in the case that has been made up against him. Mr. Blaine seems to the mind of the average man to have met very fairly the charges that have been made or insinuated against him. To persons who only know what has been said publicly about him, or who have constructed into definite accusations the insinuations and hints that have been published concerning him, he seems to have acted a very manly part, to have done everything that could be asked in the way of refutation and denial, and to have established a perfect defense. Even our friends the unsatisfied journalists admit that to all appearances he has succeeded. They say it is "plausible and effective," and that "by those who know only the case against him as presented to the public, it will be generally accepted as complete and satisfactory," but they add with a rolling up of the eyeballs that suggests Brooklyn, and a shaking of the head that recalls the sainted Bowen and his "Bottom Facts," that "to those who think they have other information it will seem lacking in some particulars." Now we have the profoundest respect for the sincerity and earnestness of these gentlemen. We may not agree with them at all times in their own estimate of themselves as public benefactors, but we do believe, and are glad to, that they mean to be public benefactors, whether they are so or not. They doubtless think Mr. Blaine is corrupt. They have received from a railroad director there, and an inside politician yonder, confidential communications which are as full of suggestiveness as an egg of meat. They all point in one direction. Nothing is said openly; nothing charged definitely. There's a whisper; than which nothing is more captivating. There's just a suspicion; than which nothing is more powerful to start the hunt and lend excitement to the chase. And we take leave to say—not unkindly, but only by way of stating a fact—that some of our friends of the Press have so keen a scent that they need only a whisper or a hint to break into full cry. Once started, their swiftness has no limit. It is such honest speed that whether their fox doubles on them or disappears they keep right on. A little story occurs to us.

Once there was a schoolhouse on a hill. The hill sloped down to a pond, on the banks of which there were little clumps of bushes. There was one season when skunks were quite common, and were successfully hunted in the bushes at the foot of the hill. One of the schoolboys, Sammy Smart, took high ground against skunks, and devoted himself to exterminating them. He was quite honest in his hatred of them, but he thought so much and so earnestly on the subject that he used to dream about them and start in his sleep, and sometimes he would take a notion that they had got into the schoolhouse, and would insist on dropping everything to hunt them and drive them out. So it happened that the other boys got in a way of playing on his credulity and setting him to hunt his favorite game in the most absurd places. One day two or three of the older boys said to him at recess, "Sammy, you see that little bunch of bushes over there to the right of the bank? Well, they've caught skunks in every bush down there except that one, and we suspect there's one in there, if we could only just start him up."

"Do you know," said Sammy, "I've always thought that was a good place for a skunk? What let's do to get him out?"

And the other boys said, "We've been thinking of that; and our plan is for all the boys to get in a row and take hold of hands and rush down the hill together into the bush and scare him out."

The plan was agreed to. The inventors took the head of the line and Sammy the foot. Down the hill they rushed with great hallooing, but just before they reached the bush the mischievous boys at the head of the line stopped short. It was a regular game of "Snap the Whip," and Sammy was the snapper. The boy who had hold of his hand let go, and Sammy went on at the top of his speed through the bush and plump into the pond. Then all the other fellows said with great gravity, "Why, there wasn't any skunk there after all." But Sammy came up, blowing dirty water out of his mouth saying: "It would seem so to you fellows who didn't go through the bush, but I think I have other information. The bottom facts about that bush haven't come out." Just then he saw one or two fellows who seemed not to take a proper interest in skunk hunting standing by, and he added: "What's more, I believe the man who owns this land is raising skunks, and that some of you fellows are paid to take care of them."

Sammy got dry and grew up, but the moral of the transaction stayed in the school and was handed down, and it ran thus: "Always be sure when you go skunk hunting that the other fellows are not playing 'Snap the Whip.'"

There may not be any moral in this for our friends who are so swift to believe vague and indefinite charges founded upon loose and irresponsible hints and insinuations, and so slow to credit a defense which is plausible and effective to those who know only the case as presented to the public. And yet it seems to us that the gentlemen who think they have other information might profitably inquire if it is not possible after all that the big boys who have whispered this information to them are not playing the game of "Snap the Whip" with two or three newspapers for a snapper.—N. Y. Tribune.

News and Notes.

President Grant was fifty-four years old last Thursday.

Five-cent pieces cost the Government only half a cent each.

The public debt was decreased $2,784,181.49 in April.

Josiah Eastman, aged 24 years, was instantly killed, Sunday, at George Richardson's lumber mill in Carroll, while throwing on a belt. His arm was caught in the gearing, which drew him in, horribly mangling his body and stopping the machinery. He lived at Benton, and leaves a wife and child.

Mary Harris, who shot and killed Burroughs, a Treasury clerk, in Washington, some years ago, and was acquitted on the ground of insanity, still lives at the Capitol. About a quarter of her time she is incarcerated; then released till she chooses to return again, which she does quite regularly. Her face looks haggard and aimless.

On Monday, Mr. Sargent of California succeeded in getting the floor on his bill to make certain changes in the existing treaty between this country and China, so that certain restrictions may be imposed on the importations of Chinese immigrants. He made a very stirring and telling speech on the subject, showing that the Chinese never could become good citizens, that their habits were dirty and slovenly; they were careless, and thereby endangered the safety of the city from fire and other causes. He spoke severely of their proclivity for gaming, immorality, etc., and compared them to bad currency, which always drives away a better. He made a strong plea against allowing San Francisco to become an Asiatic city, which it would if the tide of immigration was not checked.

The most cruel treatment to Mrs. Belknap and her husband has come from their old friends and associates. Not one of the ladies whose husbands occupy official positions has called upon the unhappy lady, who has been a prisoner in her house through all these bright Spring days. She is anxious to leave Washington, and will do so as soon as her husband's trial terminates. It is not known where she will go. Like Cain, they are branded, and it seems there is no place to receive them. All of their revenues were suddenly cut off, and although they may have real estate they cannot realize in these times.—Washington Letter.

C. C. Smith of Littleton tore down an old building recently and found therein a can, supposed to contain whiskey. It was immediately tapped, and several gentlemen partook of its contents, which were pronounced very nice. Mr. Smith unsoldered the can and found that it contained a hand which a Summer visitor lost by a gunpowder accident several years ago, and which had been preserved in whiskey. The drinkers now believe in temperance reform.

—A teacher in a Sunday school, says the New York Evening Post, was explaining to his class of boys the meaning of "Jacob's ladder," when one of the number, more inquisitive, inquired: "If the angels had wings what was the need of a ladder for them?" This was a poser, and while he was meditating a reply and unable to answer, another boy exclaimed, "I'll bet I can tell what they used the ladder for." "Out with it, then," said the teacher. "Oh, I guess they were molting."

—Jake was heard calling across the fence to his neighbor's son, a colored youth who goes to school at the Atlanta Colored University: "Look hyar, boy, you goes ter school, don't yer?" "Yes, sir," replied the boy. "Gittin' eddykashun, ain't yer?" "Yes, sir." "Larnin' rithmetick and figgerin' on a slate, eh?" "Yes, sir." "Well, it don't take two whole days to make an hour, do it?" "Why no!" exclaimed the boy. "You was a gwine ter bring dat hatchet back in an hour, wasn't you?" "Yes, sir." "An' it's bin two days since you borrowed it. Now, what good's eddykashun gwine ter do you thick-skulled niggers, when you go to school a whole year an' den can't tell how long it takes to fotch back a hatchet?" The boy got mad and slung the hatchet over the fence and half way through an ash-barrel.

HAVING NOTICED
The statements in the city papers, that certain persons have been injured by eating preserved corned beef put up in Chicago, and feeling that if not exposed these facts will result in injury where it does not belong, and as after a thorough investigation we find that the beef complained of is in every instance beef packed in rolls and enclosed in tin foil by parties unknown to us and not at all similar to canned beef; therefore we, the undersigned, in simple justice to the public and to the reliable firm that pack the canned article, wish to state that we have for a long time sold Pressed CANNED Corned Beef and Beef Tongues packed in 2, 4, 6 and 14 lb cans, by Messrs. Libby, McNeil & Libby of Chicago, and we cheerfully recommend this brand of goods as a safe, nutritious and economical article of food.

Elwyn Park.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of Elwyn Park, held at the office of T. Salter Tredick, Esq., May 1st, Mr. Jos. H. Foster was elected one of the Trustees, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Mr. Albert L. Jones.

It was also voted that the Mayor of the city of Portsmouth should be ex-officio a member of the Board of Trustees during his term of office; and that His Honor Mayor Goodrich should be invited to act with the Trustees henceforth.

The Board of Trustees was organized as follows for the ensuing year:

Chairman, Frank W. Miller;
Treasurer, Henry M. Clark;
Secretary, T. Salter Tredick.

A new plan of the Park and the foot bridge to lead thereto from the Court House lot is being made by Mr. A. C. Hoyt, to replace the one which was lost several years ago.

Two of the one hundred subscriptions of $100 each, desired to be raised this year, have already been made by citizens favoring the bridge, toward building it,—which would not only be a beautiful and interesting feature, and a great convenience to business and pleasure travel in that direction, but it would also be the surest means of removing or abating whatever nuisance may exist in the South Pond.

Mr. George Rogers, the nurseryman, has given six fine rock maple trees for the Park, and one of the Trustees twelve large Norway spruces. The Veteran Artillery Association have voted to plant one of the hundred centennial trees on May 23d, in the Park. Mr. Joseph Peirce will also plant a "Peirce group" of trees from the estate at Greenland; and various other associations and individuals have indicated their intention of following suit in the good cause—of which we shall give a list when more fully made up.

The Trustees visited the Park lot on Tuesday, and some plan of operation will doubtless soon be announced, which will fit the grounds for use ere long.

Jottings.

The jury in the case of police officer Andrew J. Smith, charged with manslaughter in having caused the death of William Canty while conveying him to the lockup on election day, brought in a verdict of "not guilty," Tuesday afternoon, after being out forty minutes. On the first ballot eleven jurors were for acquittal, the twelfth one considering the officer not entirely blameless, though not guilty of anything more blamable than a simple assault. Frink and Hatch conducted the case for the State; Gen. Marston and Page for the defence.

The soldiers', sailors' and citizens' meeting, to take action relative to a proper observance of Memorial Day, is to be held at the Common Council room this evening at half-past 7 o'clock; all interested are invited to attend.

The Portsmouth Veteran Artillery Company on Monday evening elected George W. Towle, Captain; Wm. O. Sides, First Lieut.; Daniel J. Vaughan, Second Lieut.; Wm. H. Sise, Paymaster; George W. Marston, Clerk.

The street sprinklers commenced operation Tuesday.

There was a very good audience at the Temple on Tuesday evening, and the spectators wept with copious appreciation of the afflicting scenes, and laughed spasmodically at the eccentricities of Mrs. Vincent, but almost any other play would have drawn a larger house. "East Lynne" is rather threadbare and at the best it is a harrowing, depressing sort of drama. People go to the playhouse to be amused and we know many persons who would have been glad to see the company for old times' sake but stayed away on account of the programme. We hear some talk of a second appearance of the company, this season, and it will be well patronized if the bill is judiciously made up.

J. Brooks & Co. are wholesale agents for the famed pressed corned beef canned in Chicago, and publish a card in our advertising columns in which they recommend the article they sell as safe and nutritious.

We have received the "Centennial Collection of National Songs," a very neat and serviceable volume, which contains, in a simple and usable form, our National Songs, and also those of other prominent nations. The piano accompaniments are for parlor use, and the harmonies are for choruses on public occasions. Published by O. Ditson & Co., Boston. For sale by D. H. Montgomery. Price in paper 40 cts., in boards 50 cts.

The Nursery has no competitor and is not likely to have one, it would be so hard a matter to equal its simplicity and healthfulness. It is intended only for very little children, and their mothers and nurses understand the value of the little magazine.

Political.

Mr. Blaine made another statement in the House on Monday, refuting the Kansas Pacific Railroad story and exhibiting documentary evidence to sustain his denials.

The vote of Danbury, which is not classed by law in any councillor district, defeats Maj. Farr by the people. It is a question whether the vote can be counted legally in any district. If it is counted in the 5th district, there will be two vacancies to be filled by the legislature.

The whole number of republican delegates chosen to date is 364. The whole number of delegates in the republican National Convention will be 752, each State being represented by twice the number of its senators and representatives in Congress, and two delegates being authorized from each organized Territory and the District of Columbia. The Pennsylvania convention instructed its delegates (58) for Mr. Hartranft; the Ohio convention instructed for Mr. Hayes (44); the Montana Territory convention instructed for Mr. Blaine (2). Mr. Blaine was also indorsed by resolution for the nomination for President by the conventions of Virginia, California and Wisconsin, represented by 54 delegates. It is understood, also, that he will control a majority of the Massachusetts delegation. A show of hands among the republican State conventions thus far, therefore, has been in favor of Mr. Blaine. Mr. Conkling comes next, having received the recommendation by formal resolution of the convention of New York, and Mr. Morton follows with the indorsement of the Indiana, Arkansas and Mississippi conventions and a fair prospect of carrying nearly all of the South Carolina delegation. The conventions of Rhode Island, Texas, Vermont, Colorado, Nevada, Utah and Connecticut left their delegations to go to Cincinnati untrammelled, but it is reported that at a conference subsequently held of the Connecticut delegates, it was resolved to present the name of Marshall Jewell for President in the National convention.

Alabama will have two delegations at Cincinnati, one controlled by Spencer, and the other not. The anti-Spencer men are divided between Blaine and Bristow, while the Spencer crowd favor Morton first, and Conkling afterward. The Spencer ring represents only about ten per cent. of the Alabama republicans, but has control of the machinery.

The rapid rise in Tilden stock has had an alarming effect on the inflationists. Their organs do not hesitate to charge the entire South with selling out to the North, thus insulting the very portion of the party from which they expect the most support. They are too wild to see that they are in this way powerfully helping Gov. Tilden.

At a republican caucus held in Charleston, West Virginia, a few days since, the following vote for President expressed the sentiments of those present: First choice, —Hayes 12, Blaine 3, Morton 1; second choice,—Blaine 8, Morton 3, Bristow 3.

The Concord Monitor gives sound advice. It says: "We want a delegation which in all things will represent the wishes of the republican masses of the State. This can be secured without the least difficulty if the people attend the caucuses. It behooves them, therefore, to be on hand, as no doubt, they will be."

Compromise candidate Wheeler stock is rising.

The San Francisco Chronicle says that while "Blaine's recent services are certainly not calculated to win him democratic votes, yet if they lose him any considerable number of suffrages in his own party, the fact goes far to prove that republicans are stupidly ungrateful."

The Hartford Times' opinion on the Presidency: "As the case stands to-day, the contest is narrowed to Tilden and Thurman on the democratic side, with Tilden a little ahead. On the republican side it lies between Morton and Blaine, with Hayes peaking round the corner smiling blandly."

A canvass of the delegates to the Lenawee County (Mich.) republican convention showed their Presidential preference to be; For Bristow, 48; for Blaine, 14; scattering, 14.

The admission is beginning to be hinted more generally in the republican papers that Mr. Conkling, even if nominated, could not carry New York. The Johnstown (N. Y.) Journal says so quite positively, and while praising Conkling places Gov. Morgan far ahead of him in point of availability, and suggests also as much better candidates Mr. Bristow and William A. Wheeler.

Collector Simmons of Boston rises to a point of order that he did not promise to deliver the State of Massachusetts to Blaine at the recent convention, and then makes a remark to the effect that there are twenty-two delegates yet to be chosen.

Judge Bright, of Tennessee, who is said to be the inventor and patentee of the disease of the kidneys, seemed, up to yesterday, to have some peculiar spite against Secretary Bristow. As a member of the Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department, he ranted and raved and tore the ground like a bob-tailed war horse. After the committee adjourned, he went over to the other end, where Secretary Bristow sat, and put out his hand. The Secretary refused to shake hands with him, and told him he thought the prosecution of the case, so far as Mr. Bright was concerned, seemed to be more of a persecution than anything else. The Secretary got on his dignity, and after a while Judge Bright weakened so far that when the republican representative left he was explaining very good naturedly, though quite vociferously, that the Secretary ought not to get angry at him, because he was acting as any other democrat would do when he made up his mind to hunt down a republican. The Secretary did not admit the logic of the Judge's remarks, but very complacently sat and heard all he had to say. It is rumored that the two belligerent tongue-lashers of yesterday are good friends to-day, with the impression very vividly remaining on Judge Brigat's mind that Secretary Bristow does not intend to stand any nonsense from him or anybody else.—Washington Republican.

Mr. Blaine is now beyond question the favorite of a majority of the republicans in the United States for the office of President. He has more friends in New York than any other candidate.—Troy Whig.

The country is out of a statesman. Hon. Franklin Landers has retired from public life with a dreadfully raw place on his head. He returned to Washington recently and unbosomed himself to a sympathetic correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer. "Are you a candidate on the independent ticket?" asked the correspondent. "I am not," was the sorrowful reply. "I am not a candidate for anything. Henceforth I am only a private citizen, whose only mission in politics will be to vote the democratic ticket. No, sir; I won't run for Congress again. I never made anything out of politics, and my private business requires my attention. Gov. Hendricks wanted me to run, and the State officers gathered around me after the convention and said I must run for Congress again, but I won't. The dirty skunks! I spent my money to carry the district in the State election, and pulled them through, and when I went home I found them organized against me. No, sir; your Kerrs, McDonalds, and Hendricks can run their machine. I am done."

Republican State Convention.

A republican State convention, for the choice of ten delegates to the republican National convention, to be held at Cincinnati, June, 14, 1876, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on Wednesday, the 24th day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All republican electors, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences or previous party affiliations, who are opposed to reviving sectional issues, and desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining and enforcing all the constitutional rights of every citizen, including the full and free exercise of the right of suffrage without intimidation and without fraud; who are in favor of the continued prosecution and punishment of all official dishonesty, and of an economical administration of the Government by honest, faithful, and capable officers; who are in favor of making such reforms in government as experience may from time to time suggest; who are opposed to impairing the credit of the nation by depreciating any of its obligations, and in favor of sustaining in every way the national faith and financial honor; who hold that the common-school system is the nursery of American liberty, and should be maintained absolutely free from sectarian control; who believe that, for the promotion of these ends, the direction of the Government should continue to be confided to those who adhere to the principles of 1776, and support them as incorporated in the Constitution and the laws; and who are in favor of recognizing and strengthening the fundamental principles of National Unity in this Centennial Anniversary of the birth of the Republic, are invited to participate in the election of delegates to this convention.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 4 o'clock, which all delegates are invited to attend.

Chairman Republican State committee.

My stock consists of Monuments, Headstones, Marble Posts, Mantel Shelves, Pier Tops, &c., the stock for which was bought and men employed to work the same, since the commencement of the present hard times. Have not sufficient room in which to place more work, and do not wish to discharge any of my hands. LITTLE GIANT PILL.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

Daily Chronicle.

A Remarkable Railroad.

The London papers announce a further extension of rapid transit in that city by the completion and opening for public traffic, on April 5, of the East London Railway, which is another of those gigantic underground outer rises for which the metropolis of England is so distinguished. The most remarkable feature of this new work is the fact that a considerable portion of the line is built under water. The commerce of the world may be said to float and navigate directly over a part of the rest of the tunnel, which extends south-easterly, from the Liverpool street station of the Great Eastern Railway, passing directly under the warehouses and water basin of the London Docks, thence under the embankment, across and under the Thames river, to the New Cross station of the Southeastern Railway, thus connecting all the roads named, and also the London and Brighton and South London lines. At Shadwell and Whitechapel, magnificent stations, each four hundred and fifty feet in length, have been erected. The total cost of this new line, which is a little less than six miles in length, has been £3,200,000, or sixteen millions of dollars. Of the advantageous nature of this line to the public, the London papers say there is no doubt. That portion of the line under the Thames passes through the old Thames tunnel, built by the celebrated engineer M. I. Brunel. This work was commenced in 1824, and opened for foot passengers in 1843, but never proved of much value to the public until brought into use several years ago as a railway tunnel. The masonry comprising this remarkable work is 38 feet wide and 22 1-2 feet high, and was carried across underneath the bed of the river by means of a great shield, within which the masonry heading was erected, and the shield then pushed ahead step by step, by jack screws, the masonry being built up as fast as the shield advanced.

"O wad some power the giftie gie us,
To see ourselves as ithers see us."

Behold that pale, emaciated figure, with downcast eye, like some criminal about to meet her fate! See that nervous, distrustful look, as she walks along with a slow and unsteady step. The pink has left her cheeks and the cherry her lips. The once sparkling, dancing eyes are now dull and expressionless. The once warm, dimpled hands are now thin and cold. Her beauty has fled. What has wrought this wondrous change? What is that which is lurking beneath the surface of that once lovely form? Does she realize her terrible condition? Is she aware of the woeful appearance she makes? Woman, from her very nature, is subject to a catalogue of diseases from which man is entirely exempt. Many of those maladies are induced by her own carelessness, or through ignorance of the laws of her being. Again, many Female Diseases, if properly treated, might be arrested in their course, and thereby prove of short duration. They should not be left to an inexperienced physician who does not understand their nature, and is, therefore, incompetent to treat them. The importance of attending to Female Diseases in their earliest stages cannot be too strongly urged. For if neglected, they frequently lead to Consumption, Chronic Debility, and oftentimes to Insanity. In all classes of Female Diseases, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is without a rival. No medicine has ever surpassed it. In "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," of which R. V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y., is the author and publisher, is an extended treatise on WOMAN AND HER DISEASES. Under this head, the various affections to which woman is incident are carefully considered, accurately portrayed, and a restorative course of treatment suggested. Every woman, as she values her life and health, should possess a copy of this valuable book. If she be diseased, this "Adviser" will show her how she may be restored to health, and also direct her how she may ward off many maladies to which she is constantly being exposed. Let every suffering woman heed this timely advice and see herself as others see her. Price of Adviser, $1.50 (postpaid) to any address.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of that date their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after using one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $2 for three more packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and do truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. It had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stay much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials you stated that they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Chronicle and Gazette. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and sent for one April 1st a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pains; can stoop as well as other. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will save me much later has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and had amputations, and have to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them for many times the cost, if I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be indebted to you for them. Enclosed you will find $1.50; please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rockingham, who are taking 6, and are already much benefited. I send $1.50 for two packages.

PULMOCINE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Cordial he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

In the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relaxes nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

A WASTED LIFE.

"I have tickets for the concert to-night, Abba," said James Henley, coming into the sitting-room, where his wife was running a sewing machine with a busy whirr.

"Oh, James, how I wish I could go!"

The light died away from her husband's face in a second.

"Wish you could go, Abba! Why, of course you will go."

"I can't James. I must finish these three dresses before Sunday, and it will take every minute."

"Three dresses?"

"For Jennie, Susie and Lotta. It is Easter Sunday, you know, and all the Spring things are ready but these dresses."

"But this is only Wednesday."

"I know, James; but look at the work. There are overskirts to each, and ruffles on all the waists. Jennie's has three flounces."

"I suppose it is useless for me to repeat what I have said so often, Abba, that you are foolish in your choice of work. Little girls do not require the finery you put upon your children."

"But all the children in the congregation are well dressed, James. You cannot afford to put the sewing out, so I must do it."

"Let the children dress more simply, then. Come, Abba, stop that buzz for once and go to this concert. I think we can all survive the disgrace if the children wear some of the dresses they have, on Sunday. It is so seldom any really good music is in our reach at L——, that I hate to miss hearing it."

"Can't you go?"

"And leave you? I should not enjoy it if I knew you were stitching here. Come!"

With a heavy sigh, as if James was exacting a sacrifice, instead of giving her a pleasure, Abba left the room, and went to her own apartment to dress for the concert. While she dressed she was calculating closly the time she must save to make up for her evening of pleasure. By rising an hour earlier and retiring an hour later, she might be able to finish the dainty silks that were to excite the envy of all the mothers of L—— on Sunday. All through the evening, while her husband drank in the sweet sounds in which he delighted, Abba, with her face all polite interest, was thinking of the unfinished work.

"Was it not delightful?" James said, as they walked home in the soft Spring moonlight.

"Delightful! I am so glad I went, James. Mrs. Gordon had on her new Spring suit, and her dresses all come from New York. The trimming on her basque is quite new style, and I am sure I can put Jennie's on in the same way."

So the talk went on, and the sewing machine whirred for two hours after James slept, so that Abba might not forget how the trimming was put upon the new basque she had seen. Sunday morning shone clear and cloudless. Mrs. Henley had put the last stitch into Lotta's dress as the clock struck twelve and she awakened with a pain in her chest and a headache, but with a feeling of triumph. Her children would wear their new Spring suits, that had cost nothing but the material. Nothing! Mrs. Henley did not estimate the hours spent over the machine; the weariness, the neglect of many little duties. There had been no actual money laid out in dressmaking, so it was clear gain on material. Very pretty the children looked when they were ready for church. Jennie and Susie, twins of ten years old, were dressed alike in delicate pearl-color, trimmed with blue, and hats of the newest shape with blue ribbons. Lotta were cerise color with cerise trimming, for Lotta was a brunette of seven. The charges at starting for Sunday School were:

"Be sure you lift your overskirts when you sit down, don't lean back upon the streamers of your hats, and walk where you will not soil your light boots. Don't strain your gloves, and lift your flounces when you kneel down."

"It is such a relief that they are all dressed," said Abba, as the children started, their little parasols jauntily held; and their whole air showing their own appreciation of their new finery.

"Over-dressed, Abba!" was the reply. "Your own dresses are not more elaborate."

"It is the fashion now to cut children's dresses like ladies'. But you ought to be proud of your children, James. Everybody compliments me upon the taste with which I dress them."

"Abba!" Mr. Henley said suddenly, leading his wife to a mirror. "Look at your own face."

"Well!" she said, wondering what he could mean.

"Your cheeks are white as chalk, there is a heavy line under your eyes, and your whole air is that of a woman worked to death."

"James, what nonsense!"

"It is not nonsense. I wish it was. Five years ago you had the complexion of a child, as clear and rosy as Susie's. Your eyes then were bright and full of animation. You had young children, house to keep in order, and just half our present income. Yet you could find leisure then for a daily walk, could enjoy an occasional evening of social pleasure, or some entertainment. I had a wife then."

"James! What do you mean?"

"I mean that in the place of my happy, healthy wife, I have a sickly, overworked seamstress. Those dolls that have just gone out have none of the graces of childhood.

They are fast becoming little pieces of vanity, all absorbed in their finery. Their underclothing would do for signs in an emporium of linen, with embroidery, ruffles and tucks."

"But I do it all myself, James."

"Exactly. You are stitching your life into the garments of children who would be far happier, healthier and better in the simple clothing suited to their years."

"You are so old-fashioned, James. You would not have your children look like frights?"

"You know as well as I can tell you, that I like to seem them neat and clean, but I do not like to see them like fashion-plates at the expense of your health."

"Oh, I am well enough. I am pale today because I sat up last night. But I must dress for church, or we will be late."

The glad Easter service passed over Mrs. Henley with but little impression. To her chagrin, the little Goodwins, who had all their dresses direct from New York, had an entirely new style of overskirts, that made Jennie, Susie and Lotta look quite old-fashioned in the eyes of their mother. While the sermon was read, Mrs. Henley was trying to contrive someway of remodeling the obnoxious skirts. All the triumph of the morning in the really beautiful dresses was gone. The Goodwin girls outdressed the Henley girls.

Summer came, and the long spring days were spent in preparing a seaside wardrobe for the children, for Mr. Henley, by the advice of the physician, was going to take his wife to the ocean air. The pain in her side had become very troublesome, and there was a little hacking cough that meant wakeful nights. The pale cheeks were seldom tinged with a healthy color, and the eyes were languid and heavy. People spoke pityingly of Mrs. Henley as "quite an invalid, and her husband mourned over the alteration of his wife. He insisted upon having a physician, who advised fresh air, and exercise, and a tonic.

And Abba obediently swallowed the tonic, took a daily walk, and then made up for "lost time" by stitching far into the night. For were not the Goodwins, the Wilcoxes, and all the leading fashionables of L——going to the same hotel where Mr. Henley had taken rooms, and could Jennie, Susie and Lotta have one inch less ruffling and tucking than they possessed?

Mr. Henley protested in vain. If he sent a seamstress to help his wife, it only gave an excuse for a dress or two more to be made, and he finally gave up the attempt to bring Abba to a more reasonable ambition. He was an affectionate husband, a kind father, liberal in providing for his family, but his salary was not sufficiently large for him to rival the expenditure of the fashionable friends Abba had made. It was entirely vain to tell him that it was in his wife's favor that she could, upon smaller means dress herself and her children as well as any in L——. He obstinately maintained that his wife's health, her companionship, her interest in his pursuits, in the books he read, her music and her sweet voice in singing were far more valuable than twenty-seven flounces upon Jennie's dress, or fifty tucks in Lotta's skirt.

Still he endured as patiently as might be the loss he deplored of Abba's bright interest in what had interested both. He tried to admire the really exquisite specimens of needlework brought for his inspection. He only shrugged his shoulders when his little girls minced along with dainty, fine-lady airs, instead of bounding with the freedom of childhood. He bore the steady whirr of the sewing machine in the evening instead of the voice of music of his wife.

But when Abba's health began to give way, he exerted his authority, and found he had been silent too long. The love of dress had grown stronger, and the ambition that had taken so deplorable a path could not be put aside. Abba submitted to all of James' directions while he was beside her, and worked doubly hard when he was away.

But, the summer wardrobes completed, the dainty bathing-dresses trimmed, the Saratoga trunks packed, Abba faithfully promised James to rest during their summer sojourn at the seaside. With a sudden consciousness of growing weakness, there came to her an appreciation of her husband's love and patience that had been numbed. She began to realize that she had let her ambition for dress overshadow her love for her husband, and that she had wronged him in depriving him of the companionship he had prized so highly.

"I will rest while I am gone, and when I come back, James, I will give my evenings to you, as I did when we were first married."

This was the parting promise, never to be enacted. Only a few days' rest was allowed her, before an acute attack of lung fever prostrated her. James left his business to hurry to the seaside, a nurse was engaged, and medical skill did its utmost. But the constitution weakened by confinement and overwork, could not resist the disease, and while the summer days were in their full beauty, Mrs. Henley knew she was dying. It was a bitter thought. Life held so much that was precious; her kind, loving husband, her beautiful children, her happy home—all must be left.

"A mysterious dispensation of Providence," said Mrs. Goodwin: "such a good mother. And those children are just the age when they most need a mother's great care."

But Abba Henley, in the dread hour when she bade farewell to hope, wound her arms about her dear husband's neck, and sobbed:

"If I had only listened to you, James, I might have been a guide to our children, a companion to you for many years, and when I died have left loving memories instead of a trunk of fine clothing. I have wasted my life."

And James Henley, in his widower's weeds, with his three little girls in sombre black beside him, wonders mournfully how many of the mothers of the land are wasting their lives in the same struggle for appearances.

The Haverhill (Mass.) Gazette hoists the name of William D. Kelly of Pennsylvania for President.

The republicans carried the city election at Indianapolis on Tuesday by 4000 majority, after an exciting canvass.

The British government has released Winslow, the forger. The action will of course burst up the extradition treaty between England and the United States.

The brig Fleetwood, which arrived at Newburyport from Porto Rico, Sunday, brought in the crew of the schooner Meteor, of Gloucester, eight men and the captain. The Meteor reached Georges Bank on Monday and on Tuesday night was struck by a wave that tore out the stem, splitting the schooner open. She was a vessel more than thirty years old, but by stuffing the bows with bedding and whatever else was at hand, and pumping continually, they managed to keep her afloat till they were taken off next day by the three-masted schooner David Clarkson, of Philadelphia, with ice from the Kennebec from Washington: and thence on Thursday they were transferred to the Fleetwood, Captain Gavin, who brought them in as above.

Mr. Joseph Shean, Superintendent of the mills at Leeds, Mass., had a thrilling experience on Mill river, above the upper dam. He was in a boat teaching his eight-year-old boy to row, when he discovered that his little girl of three years, who had been sitting in the stern, had disappeared. He at once dived into the water, and snatching the child, swam to shore, although encumbered by an overcoat and rubber-boots. Arriving at the bank, he was compelled at once to drop the girl, throw off extra clothing and swim after the boat, which was drifting toward the dam. Seeing that he was not gaining on it he called to two men coming down the railroad track to save the boy. This they were able to do by the boat's drifting within reach of the shore. By this time the father, who was in the middle of the river, was taken with cramp, and would doubtless have perished but for the timely discovery of an upright stake to which he clung until rescued by the men who had secured the boat and boy.

A mob at Antioch, a town at the head of San Francisco Bay, burned the Chinese portion of the town Monday evening. The cause was the alleged corruption of the community by Chinese women. No Chinamen were hurt owing to their being warned to leave the town, which they did the day before the burning.

The insanity of Mr. George L. Fox is said to have become so violent as to require a padded cell.

As the result of a quarrel between the two Boards of the Portland City Council, that city will celebrate the Centennial Fourth of July but $350 worth.

All the papers advise James Parton to shake the dust of Massachusetts from his calf boots and plant his vine and fig-tree in a more hospitable and congenial clime. Thirty-seven States have thus far extended a beckoning hand, with Alaska and Samoa and the Sandwich Islands yet to be heard from. The poor man is now living in the State of Suspense, and feels as though he must drop somewhere pretty soon or there will not be enough of him left for the law of gravitation to take hold of. When a man enters the State of Matrimony through a side door there is no telling what may happen.—Graphic.

CABLE BREAKING.

The report of Sir W. Thompson and Mr. Bramwell on the repeated breakages of the Direct Company's cable suggests some very startling possibilities in connection with the new industry of cable-breaking, which has been so rapidly developed. That report shows that the process of severing an ocean cable in eighty or one hundred fathoms of water is very easy. A schooner of eighty or one hundred tons has only to drop overboard an anchor or grapnel to which is attached a stout Manila rope, and with a wind that will enable her to cross the track of the cable at a speed of five or six knots, the force thus applied is sufficient to sever the strongest cable witout raising it to the surface. It is evident that this could be done in such a way that only the skipper and one or two besides would be in the secret. It is also clear that a small steamer, well handled, would do the work far more effectually than a sailing vessel. In this way the cable of the Direct Company has been broken four times in six months, and as yet the dastardly scoundrels who have done the mischief have not been detected. It is believed that a "ring" of speculators on the Stock Exchange in New York, having confederates in London, are at the bottom of it. Their plan is to purchase Anglo stock when low, and on the breaking of the Direct Cable an immediate rise follows and a handsome sum is pocketed.

Let us now suppose that, emboldened by success, these speculators should resolve to operate on all the cables which connect America and Europe, what gigantic fortunes might be made by skillful manipulators who knew that at a certain date telegraphic communication between the two hemispheres would be cut off! How disastrous the confusion that would follow such a contingency in the commercial world! In many departments business would be entirely suspended. That such an achievement is quite possible recent events sufficiently prove. There are five cables of the Anglo Company within a very limited area—one between St. Pierre and Duxbury and four between Placentia, in Newfoundland, and Sydney, in Cape Breton. A smart little steamer, armed only with a grapnel and a Manila rope, could, in less than a couple of days, sever the whole of these cables, as the track of each is mapped out. The organized conspirators who have been operating on the Direct Cable may extend the range of their industry, provided they see their way to make it profitable; and it is not difficult to see how it might prove enormously lucrative. Fancy America and Europe for a week without telegraphic communication. A repairing ship might occupy more than a week in restoring communication even with one cable. This grave consideration renders it very desirable that the depredators who have been at work on the Direct Cable should be detected and punished, and that this new enterprise should, like the dynamite plot, be nipped in the bud.

Though the Anglo Company profit by these nefarious doings, no one will for a moment suppose that the honorable men who guide its operations have any connection with such villainy. Still, in addition to stock speculations, it is not impossible that a desire to crush the Direct Company and restore the monopoly may be one of the objects in view. If so, the project cannot succeed. The company which has braved and overcome so many difficulties is too plucky to be put down in that fashion; and the great commercial communities on both sides the Atlantic would not stand tamely by and see it done. The deed will inevitably recoil on the perpetrators.

All doubt has been set at rest as to the causes of these breakages, by the report of Sir W. Thompson and Mr. Bramwell. After a most careful examination of the fractured ends, which were taken up, these gentlemen declare that "these breakages were not due to any decayed or imperfect condition of the cable, and also that they were not due to the chafing of the cable against a rock, or to any influence of an abrading or of a crushing character, but that the breakages have occurred in a perfect cable, and through thoroughly sound metal and have been caused by the whole having been torn asunder under a violent tensile strain." They pronounce the cable to be in as good a condition as when first immersed in the sea and to be of a very strong description. Further, they declare that no fishing schooner, dragging her anchor, could have sufficient force to break the cable, and that even if raised by an anchor it would not be broken. But, in reply to the question whether the cable could have been broken on purpose by a sailing vessel, they say: "The fishing vessels' cables are certainly strong enough to break the electric cable if, as we are informed, they are from 7 to 9 Manila rope, as the breaking strain of 7 Manila rope is as much as fourteen tons. Thus their tackle is in itself sufficiently strong, and it seems to us clear that with wind enough to render a speed of five or six knots attainable by sail, a sailing vessel of eighty tons could, if handled for the purpose of doing so, break the cable without lifting it to the surface, and that with a steam-vessel so handled the operation would be still more easy." It is quite time that this dangerous pastime were ended and this cable-breaking "ring" brought to justice.—Cor. N. Y. World.

A Democratic Auction.

They are feeling differently about auctions just now in Connecticut. There's a red flag flying over a Senator's seat, and nobody but democrats interested in the sale. Auctioneer, bidders, and owners of the stock are all democrats, and no one belonging to the rival shop will be allowed to take part in the proceedings. The flag flies famously The sale is open and unconcealed, and no one pretends that there is anything but an auction intended. It is a simple issue of the money: nothing more nor less. There's the seat in the Senate to be filled by a democratic legislature. Mr. English, wealthy and ambitious, and now occupying it under an Executive appointment, wishes to keep it. Mr. Barnum, wealthy and ambitious likewise, and now occupying a seat in the House—occasionally—also desires it. Both are bidding for the place. The question which the legislature will decide within a few days is not which of these two men will most creditably and faithfully represent the State in the United States Senate, and it is very far from being whether either one of them is the best man the party can furnish for the place. It is simply which of these two has done and will do the more for the party; that is, in plainer language, which has paid and will pay the more money for election purposes. That is the question, and the only one which will be discussed by the democrats in the legislature and the lobbyists who labor with them; it is the only point that has been raised thus far. Even the democratic newspapers, which do not dare go into a public discussion of this question, have not the assurance to talk seriously about the claims of either of the bidders on the score of fitness or capacity.—N. Y. Tribune.

HAVING NOTICED
The statements in the city papers, that certain persons have been injured by eating pressed corned beef put up in Chicago, and feeling that if not explained these facts will result in injury where it does not belong, and as after a thorough investigation we find that the beef complained of is in every instance beef packed in rolls and enclosed in tin foil by parties unknown to us and not at all similar to canned beef: therefore we, the undersigned, in simple justice to the public and to the reliable firm that pack the canned article, wish to state that we have for a long time sold Pressed CANNED Corned Beef and Beef Tongues packed in 2, 4, 6 and 14 lb cans, by Messrs. Libby, McNeil & Libby of Chicago, and we cheerfully recommend this brand of goods as a safe, nutritious and economical article of food.

Daily Chronicle.

A democratic candidate in a Western city indulged in oratory previous to the election and lost all his chances thereby. He spoke of several of the party leaders in the vicinity as being his "tried friends," and the indignant voters construed the phrase into a reflection upon the fact that the individuals in question had not only been tried, but were also convicted.

Judge Hoar is reported to have said the other evening, that he would jump out of a three story window to make Blaine President, or out of a two story window, to make Bristow President. Suppose by and by the judge should climb in a quiet and dignified manner out of the first story window, and vote for Mr. Wheeler of New York.—Worcester Gazette.

If the people of Indianapolis were not sick of their democratic municipal government it would be strange. Among the items in the city's bill for the past year are blotters at $17.50 per hundred and other little things in proportion.

Specialties in Medicines.

We publish on our eighth page a lengthy article describing the system of the noted specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., in which he sets forth with considerable force and clearness his reasons for devoting his whole time and attention to a single department of medicine—the treatment of lingering chronic diseases. The same article also takes up the subjects of diagnosis, methods of consideration and treatment, etc., and will be found to contain many valuable hints to the invalid. Dr. Pierce is the author of a work which has already attained a large circulation—"The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser"—containing some nine hundred numerously illustrated pages, and devoted to medicine in all its branches, a work well calculated for the guidance and instruction of the people at large and which may be had for $1.50 (post-paid) by addressing the author. Dr. Pierce has now been before the general public long enough to enable the formation of a careful estimate of the efficiency of his treatment and his medicines, and the verdict, we are glad to know, has been universally favorable to both.—Toledo Blade.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and secure here permanently. I do such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth.

N. B—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make suggestions to him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Billiousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can not anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist, and thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

PULMOCINE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Cordial he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Ipecacuanha Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not know ing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Partisan Zeal.

The Salem Gazette has the following well timed remarks on Presidential matters:

The current tendency to discuss the merits of Presidential candidates in advance of their nomination, is attended with a growing disposition to infuse a mere partisan zeal into the preliminary contest. As men and newspapers warm up in admiration of their own favorites, some of them, at least, exhibit too much of a disposition to treat rival candidates as a political party is apt to treat the nominees of its opponent. This treatment of itself is almost (and may prove quite) enough to kill off both the candidates upon whom public attention is most inclined to centre. It is to be deprecated in the fact that mere personal partisanship breeds a disposition to deal unjustly. Already we see evidence of an unwillingness to believe that Mr. Blaine, in his recent explanation before the House, has not adroitly covered up some gross impropriety, by a studied, adroit, and deceptive form of language; and, upon the other hand, from republican sources favorable to Mr. Blaine, there is a disposition to prejudice Mr. Bristow in the public mind, by assuming that he is receiving a class of support in Kentucky that will tend to injure him in the view of that sentiment which was influential in carrying on the war, and which is necessary to the preservation of what the war has secured.

What the republican party needs in this emergency is the spirit of disinterested counsel. If that spirit prevails in the national convention, there will be little cause to fear an unfavorable result next fall. Men will of course have their preferences as regards candidates; but these preferences ought not to be nursed into that intense partisanship which becomes oblivious of the merits of other public men. Messrs. Bristow and Blaine are both clean men. Their public record is above and beyond reproach. There is not one particle of evidence against either of them, upon any public charge or suspicion, involving their personal integrity, that is entitled to a feather's weight in the mind of any one. Mr. Bristow, by his vigorous prosecution of the whiskey frauds regardless of personal or official favoritism, has abundantly shown that he would be a fit representative of that wholesome spirit of the times which demands the sternest integrity in the public service. Mr. Blaine has been called to act in quite another field of service, where his career has been marked by rectitude and great ability, and where he has gained an experience and knowledge of public affairs that would prove valuable in any station within the gift of the people. That spirit of treatment which was so conspicuously displayed in the State convention at Boston last week, is the real demand of the hour as regards the interests of the republican party as an instrument for subserving the public welfare. The delegates elected are obviously imbued with a similar spirit, and we trust the same feeling will pervade and control the district conventions yet to be held.

The Boston correspondent of the New York Times says of Mr. Blaine: "He has the hearty enmity of Butler, who, in a quiet but determined way, is operating against him in his own inimitable style. On politics in general there is little heard, but work is going on. There is no doubt about Gen. Butler's intentions. He is determined to make a hot fight for Congress in his old Lowell district, and his men are working there already with zeal and more caution than in past years. He has brought to his aid the Ayer strength, and has a strong force of office-holders and Ayer dependants at work for him. The feeling of the anti-Butler republicans there is for ex-Gov. Talbot, but dismayed at the outlook, and the thought of a fight with Butler, he has fled to Europe, and has given out that he doesn't want to go to Congress, and won't. But his friends say he will run if nominated, and they are exerting themselves to secure that result. In Butler's old district, the feeling now is strongly in favor of Dr. George B. Loring. He is exceedingly popular in his district, and his friends are anxious to press him if he will allow his name to be used. Gen. Cogswell is also understood to be available, but at present the feeling is strong for Loring."

Republican State Convention.

A republican State convention, for the choice of ten delegates to the republican National convention, to be held at Cincinnati, June, 14, 1876, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on Wednesday, the 24th day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All republican electors, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences or previous party affiliations, who are opposed to reviving sectional issues, and desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining and enforcing all the constitutional rights of every citizen, including the full and free exercise of the right of suffrage without intimidation and without fraud; who are in favor of the continued prosecution and punishment of all official dishonesty, and of an economical administration of the Government by honest, faithful, and capable officers; who are in favor of making such reforms in government as experience may from time to time suggest; who are opposed to impairing the credit of the nation by depreciating any of its obligations, and in favor of sustaining in every way the national faith and financial honor; who hold that the common-school system is the nursery of American liberty, and should be maintained absolutely free from sectarian control; who believe that, for the promotion of these ends, the direction of the Government should continue to be confided to those who adhere to the principles of 1776, and support them as incorporated in the Constitution and the laws; and who are in favor of recognizing and strengthening the fundamental principles of National Unity in this Centennial Anniversary of the birth of the Republic, are invited to participate in the election of delegates to this convention.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 4 o'clock, which all delegates are invited to attend.

DANIEL HALL,
Chairman Republican State committee.

A Brain-Soothing Remedy.

The wondrous organs that crowns the edifice of man is not only the seat of reflection and the home of beauty, but it is the governing centre of the nervous system. When it is overwrought, unduly excited, or affected by irregularities of those bodily organs with which it most closely sympathizes, all the nerves suffer, and the general health is impaired. The reason why Hostetter's Stomach Bitters exercise such a soothing influence upon the brain is, that they remove those digestive and bilious derangements which react injuriously upon it and that in relieving irritation or weakness of the great sympathetic nerve which connects the stomach and the brain, they beneficially affect the latter organ as well as the former. Sound digestion, calmness of mind, easy digestion and freedom from biliousness are insured by this prime regulative tonic and nervine.

PREMATURE LOSS OF THE HAIR, which is so common now now-a-days, may be entirely prevented by the use of Burnett's Cocoaine. It has been used in thousands of cases where the hair was coming out in handfuls, and has never failed to arrest its decay, and to promote a healthy and vigorous growth. Its at the same time unrivalled as a dressing for the hair. A single application will render it soft and glossy for several days.

THE COLOSSAL BRONZE STATUE OF VICTORY which stands in the Park at Lowell, before the tomb of the first soldiers that fell in the revolution, is a lasting and beautiful tribute of art. It is one of the first objects sought by strangers visiting our sister city, which indeed many visit purposely to see this elegant object of high art. It was obtained from the King of Bavaria by Dr. J. C. Ayer, to whom his majesty was especially gracious in acknowledgment of what his remedies are reputed to have done for the suffering sick. It was donated by the Doctor to the City of Lowell as a permanent and speaking emblem of the victories both of Science and Arms.—Hagerstown (Md.) Press.

Spring Weather.

No resident in New England has any right to be surprised at the local weather, for he is familiar with its freaks and caprices. Its regular character is to be irregular, its rule is to be exceptional. If the past season seems extraordinary, perhaps it is only because we have just been through it, and the next may be equally abnormal in its way. It does really appear, however, as if the winter and spring had been out of the common course on both sides of the ocean. It has been a season of great floods in Europe as well as here. The general character of the winter has been unusually mild abroad as well as at home. In Switzerland an English lady, with one of her fellow-countrymen, accomplished the ascent of Mont Blanc on the 31st of January, after having nearly succeeded on two former trials that month. The achievement was so unprecedented that it excited the wildest excitement at Chamouni, and the returning travellers were welcomed with bands of music, roar of cannon and blaze of fireworks. Their success, as the local journals remark, was due to the exceptional season, "the oldest inhabitant of the valley having never before seen a winter so favorable as the present for this perilous undertaking."

But if the winter was mild, March was bad enough to make up for it. It may be some comfort to those who have endured the discomforts of the month in New England to know that they would have been no better off in London, Paris, Geneva or Naples. The Chronicle, of Geneva, under date of March 28th, gives the following interesting summary of "weather reports" from various parts of Europe:

The unhappy people who live themselves under a perpetual cloud, but are sure that there is plenty of sunshine just beyond their horizon, have been occupied, here in Geneva, for some tedious months, in cursing this climate, and their own ill-luck that brought them here to winter. For their comfort and the improvement of their temper, we cull some passages from our private correspondence as it has just come in.

An eminent litterateur of London writes, "We all want to see you in London again; all the same, don't come now; for a more horrible pool of slush and chaos of fierce winds and murderous hail and snow you cannot imagine. Truly, Providence has seen fit to afflict our nation as to its climate; and I am almost resolved to emigrate to some sunnier land."

Perhaps you will say that that is the best that could have been expected from England. Let us cross the Channel, and, being quit of the land of fog and drizzle, seek the sunny skies of la belle France. Gay Paris is enjoying a cheerful breeze from the north. "It is horribly cold here, and the wind is very disagreeable, but the river has gone down a good deal. I am glad you are where you can keep warm."

A wail from Stuttgart! "The beautiful spring is not yet. The snow that fell last Sunday still lies in the gardens of our neighbors. Yesterday we went to call on our friends on the other side of the town, and I—— said she had not suffered more with the cold any time last winter."

From all this there is no safe refuge this side the Alps. Let us, then, get forth to das Land wo die Citronen bluh'n, nor stop short of the delicious semi-tropical beach of the Bay of Naples. From lovely Castellamare comes the report: "The bad weather you speak of seems to have been general. Here we have had very high winds, especially at night heavy showers of hail and rain and violent thunder. On Saturday last we were all excited by an unusual amount of smoke, greatly tinged with red, coming forth from Vesuvius. It was a beautiful sight, and some of the wise thought it was the forerunner of an eruption. On Sunday these symptoms continued, accompanied at intervals by low sounds like very distant artillery; but they have all passed away, and on Monday, after a storm of wind and rain during the night, we woke to find Vesuvius covered nearly to the base with snow—a most unusual thing, especially so late in the year. It was a very beautiful sight, and the white smoke rising up from the white cone had a most remarkable effect."

If there most needs be cold weather, blessed are they who stay and take it in a cold climate, where there are the necessary provisions for meeting it. Italy when it is Italy, with thermometer in a cheerful temper and every prospect pleasing, is the joy of the whole earth. But Italy, and worst of all Naples, when the mercury dwindles down in the bulb of the thermometer to keep from freezing, and the old women cower over the embers in their caldini, and the lazzaroni go livid and shuddering and squeak and gibber in the public streets, and the traveller stuffs his Times or Chronicle in the cracks of the doors and windows, and vainly blows at the soggy and expensive sticks in the fireplace (if there is a fireplace) is quite another thing.

Starting Plants Early.

A writer on gardening gives the following hints on starting tender seeds, such as tomatoes, squashes, melons, and the like: "It is desirable in transplanting not to check growth by disturbing the roots. A good way to avoid this is to scrape out turnips, fill them with good soil, and plant with two or three seeds, setting them in a warm, light place, and keeping them moist.

When the weather is suitable, place these out in the garden at the proper depth; the turnip will decay, and the plant will thrive unchecked if properly cared for. Do not use potatoes in place of turnips. Another method is to get squares of sod; say six inches wide, from good, mellow soil, turn them bottom up, and put in such seeds as squash or melon or sweet corn, and treat them in the same way, not putting out till the weather is quite warm, and then protecting against bugs. For more delicate plants, flowers, etc., make little square paper boxes out of thin writing-paper or thick newspaper, merely folding them at the corners as you would the paper in covering a book, and tacking them with a needle and thread; make them about three inches square and two deep. Fill with good soil, start the seeds and put out at the proper time boxes and all, without disturbing the roots. If you fear that the paper is too strong for the roots to penetrate, cut carefully on the bottom of the box the shape of a cross, and all will be well."

News and Notes.

Col. Samuel Webber of Manchester has been appointed by the Centennial Commission a juror in the Machinery Department. The juror will get $1,000 in gold and pay his own expenses. If there is to be another juror appointed for this State, we respectfully suggest that he be taken outside of Manchester.—Nashua Telegraph.

Fishing schooner Meteor, previously reported as having been abandoned on Georges Bank, sinking, with her stem knocked off, was towed into Gloucester, Mass., on Sunday, April 30, by schooner Wyoming. The Meteor had on board about 4000 lbs. of fish. Her crew were taken off the wreck before the Wyoming came along, and landed in New York; and on their arrival in Gloucester on the 1st of May they were greatly astonished to find that their abandoned vessel had arrived a day ahead of them.

The resignation of Darwin A. Simons, City Marshal of Manchester, has been tendered and accepted by the Mayor and Aldermen. Judge Stanley of the Circuit Court, to whom was referred the questions growing out of the removal of Albert Jackson, City Clerk, and the election of his successor, has decided that the action of the City Council was legal.

The Dover Board of Aldermen has voted to require City Marshal Wallace and his officers to immediately prosecute all violations of the prohibitory law.

Lizzie McClure, who works in the No. 1 card room of the Langdon Mills, Manchester, had her left hand caught in the compound motion of a fly-frame and badly mangled, losing the whole of her forefinger and thumb back to the wrist and also the last joint of her middle finger.

Old Uncle Ben. Greer, aged 113 years, was married about two weeks ago, in Marshall County, Iowa, to Mary Harrison, aged 57 years. Uncle Ben. was born, (according to the sale bill found among the property of his old master, James Greer, deceased,) in 1763. He was a servant in the year 1812 under General Jackson. The old man can cut and split one hundred rails a day.

The British authorities did not release Winslow on the 2d inst., but remanded him for ten days. This probably means that he will be given up according to the treaty stipulations.

Corn is in tassel in Florida.

Sophia Smith, aged seventeen, died at Moulton Hill, Lisbon, on the 2d, from the effects of corrosive sublimate which she took on Sunday. The cause of the act is unknown.

A. J. Bethell, whose burned body was recently found, in his store in New Haven, Conn., had committed suicide by shooting himself in the heart. It is supposed the pistol-shot set fire to his clothing.

In the recent fighting around Nicsic the Turks killed 1400 insurgents, themselves losing but 250 all told. In the same battles the insurgents killed 2500 Turks, losing but 400 men while doing it. Such is history.

Frank Evans, a drunken ruffian, smashed all Nathaniel Holmes' furniture and attempted to kill Holmes, April 30th. Holmes picked up a gun and successfully bored the drunken bully. Mr. Holmes was not arrested.

Samuel J. Frost, the Petersham, Mass., murderer, whose execution has been appointed to take place in a month, still preserves the undisturbed appearance that he has shown ever since his conviction. He was visited in his cell at the House of Correction in Worcester recently by two of his sisters from Dover, N. H., and the interview is described as having been a very affecting one as far as they were concerned, and they were much overcome by the thought of the impending fate of their brother. The interview mainly related to the wife of Frost, and an effort is to be made to induce Mrs. Frost with the children to visit him before the execution, though she has thus far stoutly refused to do so. During the afternoon he was visited by his counsel, Messrs. John Hopkins and George H. Ball. They informed him that they had abandoned all hope and saw no way by which they could rescue him from his impending doom. Frost thanked them kindly for what they had done. During the conversation Frost remarked that "he had not as yet shed any tears." Mr. Ball, in reply, said that it was customary for men in his unfortunate position to seek the consolation offered by religion, and that he should at once consider sending for a clergyman. In reply, Frost said he had no religious preferences, but that he was educated to attend the Congregational church. Frost has still a very bitter feeling toward his wife, and he thinks that she might have testified to facts which would have helped him in his trial last Fall.

Political.

We are much inclined to the opinion that New York's favorite son will this year be ignored, and the chances of a democratic victory will this year be staked upon some favorite who, years ago, took Horace Greeley's advice and "went West."—Syracuse Standard.

It begins to look as if the wheels of the Tilden wagon would go without much greasing.—Brooklyn Argus.

The Buffalo Express says: "It is becoming a popular axiom that the quickest and surest way to keep the democratic party out of power is to give it a partial lease on an 'off year,' in order that it may exhibit publicly its utter incompetency and narrow partisanship."

It turns out that John E. Blaine, brother of Ex-Speaker Blaine, is the man who was interested in Kansas Pacific Railroad bonds.

It must not be forgotten that the republicans, in making their nomination first, as they must, will commit a fatal error if they do not act on the theory that the democrats will nominate their best and strongest man—who must be conceded to be either Tilden or Hancock, so far as the East is concerned. The independent vote controls New York, and the best candidate—an undoubted union man and reformer—will secure that vote if his opponent does not stand for these qualities, be he republican or democrat. Now what republican can wrest New York from the democrats, and without losing elsewhere sweep the board?—Nashua Telegraph.

The hitherto uncommitted member of the Connecticut republican delegation turns out to be a Bristow man, making the delegation stand ten for Jewell and two for Bristow.

Oregon has elected a Blaine delegation to the Cincinnati convention.

Mr. Tarbox, of Massachusetts, having at last succeeded in getting an investigation ordered into the purchase of Little Rock and Fort Smith bonds by the Union Pacific Railroad, the Judiciary Committee met and appointed the following sub-committee to conduct this investigation: Messrs. Hunton, of Virginia; Ashe, of North Carolina; and Lawrence, of Ohio. It is understood that all the Government Directors of the Union Pacific Company and many of its officers, besides several persons in Boston, will be summoned. The Judiciary Committee is already overworked with investigations, but some of the members say that this inquiry will be conducted with the utmost possible despatch.

The Nashua Telegraph mentions Hon. Charles Doe and Col. Daniel Hall, of the first district, and Hon. A. F. Pike and Hon. Charles H. Burns, of the second district, for delegates at large to the Cincinnati convention.

The official canvass of the votes cast at the last election in Texas shows that for Governor, William Chambers (rep.) had 47,719 votes, and Coke (dem.) 150,581 votes, a democratic majority of 102,862.

State Senator Twitchell, of Louisiana, and his brother-in-law, were assassinated in open day on the 3d, at Coushatta, La. The murdered men were both republicans, of course, and equally of course the assassin is "unknown." The Southern democracy seem to be commencing the Presidential canvass in earnest and in good season.

Hallett Kilbourn, the recusant witness imprisoned by the House of Representatives for refusing to testify, and released by Judge Cartter, was no sooner discharged than he wrote to the Speaker saying that as he had vindicated his rights as a citizen he is now ready to show his books and answer any questions. The rebel-brigadiers tabled the note in a hurry.

Maryland has chosen a Blaine delegation to the Cincinnati convention.

A Romance of the Rebellion.

Sixteen years ago a wealthy Indianapolis gentleman had a daughter who was the pet of the household and a society belle. A young man, son of another prominent citizen, wooed the daughter, and failing to find favor in the eyes of her father, projected and carried to a successful issue an elopement. The young couple were married and located in Texas. At the outbreak of the war the young husband enlisted in a confederate regiment, and the wife, disguised in male attire, enlisted in the same regiment, and followed her husband to the field. During one of the engagements in which the regiment participated the wife was wounded by a minie bullet, and the husband, still ignorant of her disguise, helped to carry her from the field. In dressing the wound the sex of the dashing trooper was discovered and she was discharged from the regiment and came North. The husband was killed in a succeeding engagement. Her relatives never forgave the marriage, and refused to recognize the wife when she returned. The father still lives in a neighboring county, and is counted one of the wealthiest citizens, while the woman, now poor and broken in health, lives in a miserable little house in an unfrequented part of this city.—Indianapolis Herald.

—A western journalist arranges the news as follows: "On Monday, April the tenth, five hundred barrels of Cincinnati whiskey were landed on the levee at Louisville. On Wednesday, the twelfth, the Louisville Courier-Journal appeared without a line of editorial."

—At Leipzig there is a school reader printed, now in its stereotyped edition, which describes Niagara Falls in one chapter. It says of the cataract that it might be supposed that it was not navigable, but that some Indians do in their canoes venture over the fall in safety.

—"My boy," said a solemn-visaged man to a lad who had just emerged from a hair-pulling match with another boy, "do you expect to rove hereafter in a land of pure delight?" "No," said the lad, "I've busted another button off my trousers, and I expect to get licked for it."

—"Say, missus, your skirt is comin' down. It looks bad, an' if you'll jis step inside dis door way I'll pin it up for you," said a colored woman to a lady in Louisville recently. After thanking the old woman for her kindness, the lady went on her way, and soon after discovered that her pocket-book had been stolen.

—John Stone, of Mano Station, Pa., was a victim of the grand passion, although only twenty years of age. Ella Sherman, aged thirteen, declined to marry him until she was sixteen. John wrote: "Ella, darling: I can't live three years without you; I will be dead before you read this." They found him with a bullet in his brain in a lot near by, and stone dead.

Portsmouth & Dover Railroad.
A SPECIAL MEETING of the Stockholders of the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad will be held at the Common Council Room in the City Hall Building in Portsmouth, on Monday, the fifteenth day of May instant, at half-past eleven o'clock in the forenoon, for the following purposes, namely: to determine what action the stockholders will take in relation to, and pass such necessary votes as will provide for the payment of, the existing debt of the corporation, and to transact any other business that may properly come before the meeting.

WILLIAM H. HACKETT, Clerk.
Portsmouth, May 1st, 1876. M3,5,9

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.
Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever.
It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.
It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff; and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean.
By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness, and making the hair grow thick and strong.
As a dressing nothing has been found so effectual, or desirable.
Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, says of it: "I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."
Buckingham's Dye,
FOR THE WHISKERS.
This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade, to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color which will neither rub nor wash off.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Cough, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words, among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation, or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvelous cures, such as no other medicine can claim to rival. Confidence in his virtues, never equalled by any other medicine, It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well founded if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.,

—A Paris correspondent writes: A very popular, but blind Count, lives in the Champs Elysees. Being witty and musical, his society is much sought after. He left Paris three months ago, and on his return, called on a fashionable Marchioness who was preparing to go to a fancy ball. She begged to be excused, but as he had an important message to deliver, he was shown in, and being blind, he was asked to take a chair in her boudoir. Gossip ensued, and during all the time the Marchioness, assisted by her maid, executed the mysteries of her toilet. Being ready to descend to her carriage the Count stated he had been absent in London, had undergone a successful operation for cataract and could now see as well as the Marchioness. The latter shrieked and jumped into her carriage without even an au revoir to her visitor.

HAVING NOTICED
The statements in the city papers, that certain persons have been injured by eating pressed corned beef put up in Chicago, and feeling that if not explained these facts will result in injury where it does not belong, and as after a thorough investigation we find that the beef complained of is in every instance beef packed in rolls and enclosed in tin foil by parties unknown to us and not at all similar to canned beef therefore we, the undersigned, in simple justice to the public and to the reliable firm that pack the canned article, wish to state that we have for a long time sold Pressed CANNED Corned Beef and Beef Tongues packed in 2, 4, 6 and 14 lb cans, by Messrs. Libby, McNeil & Libby of Chicago, and we cheerfully recommend this brand of goods as a safe, nutritious and economical article of food.

Elwyn Park.

The improvements upon the Park are to commence forthwith. A substantial and ornamental fence, with suitable gates, is to be built along the front of the lot, on South street; a drain laid through the hollow, and an embankment built across the same, and the grounds cleared of all rubbish. The natural lay and condition of the land is such as to render little drainage or grading necessary, and there are now thirty or more shade trees of different varieties on the premises mostly standing near the walls.

The preparations for the general planting of trees in the Park, May 23d, are progressing favorably, and bid fair to render the occasion a grand success. One hundred trees of numerous varieties will be set, under direction of the Trustees, by fifty gentlemen and ladies on that day, with appropriate services, consisting of music, an address by Rev. Mr. DeNormandie, remarks by several other gentlemen, and the formal dedication of the Park to public use forever.

Various societies and numerous individuals have expressed a desire or accepted invitations to plant each one or more trees on the occasion. The Mechanic Association voted to plant a white oak; and the Board of Trade and the Grange directed their chief officers to plant one or more trees for those organizations. The different Artillery companies will also be represented, and doubtless most of the organizations of the city.

In reply to numerous inquiries, the Trustees desire us to state that they will furnish the trees in all cases if desired, and also the labor to set the same; or the parties who desire or consent to set the trees, may furnish them if they prefer, and of any sort they choose, and may assume as much of the care of planting as they see fit. Any donations of trees for this object may be reported at Mr. Foster's bookstore, where any information concerning the whole matter may be obtained.

The length of the bridge necessary across the South Pond, from the Court House to the Park, is about nine hundred feet; the distance from the shore to South street is a little more than one thousand feet. The Park lot at present comprises five acres of land.

Among other trees, there will be a Barrington tree, planted by Messrs. Aaron Young, Frank Jones, and other prominent citizens who are proud to acknowledge that town as their native place.

Jottings.

P. M. L. A. meeting this (Friday) evening. Important business.

The House Appropriations committee will cut down the number of enlisted men in the navy from 8500 to 7500, and will provide for the gradual reduction of the number of officers of the Marine Corps from 102, the present number, to 75. It is their intention to make no appropriation whatever for work at the Kittery, Charlestown and Washington navy yards.

Another excellent minstrel entertainment comes off this evening at the Temple—by Haverly's combination. Cool Burgess is with them, and his air valves are said to be in fine trim. When he "whispers" the earth listens. The California Quartet is a superior one, and the banjoist and dancers are among the best in the profession. Burgess closes the entertainment with a laughable sketch, which will keep the audience in their seats till the curtain drops. Secure seats at Preston's.

A special meeting of the Eastern railroad stockholders has been called, to be held at the Meionaon hall, in Boston, on Tuesday, May 16th, at 11 A. M., to take action under the relief act passed at the recent session of the legislature, to authorize the directors to issue the certificates of indebtedness, and to execute the mortgage in the act provided, etc.

The venerable Lewis Bruce, of this city, completed his 90th year, May 3d; and he being the oldest member of the Mechanic Association, a committee was appointed to call upon him on that day, and tender the congratulations and good wishes of the Association.

A wag suggests that among all the planting of trees, Col. Beck ought to plant a whiffletree for the Mechanic Association. Also that the numerous Artillery Company had better bury the hatchet.

We were in error in saying that the lease of Rechabite hall has been made over to the reform club by Hon. Thomas E. O. Marvin, the lessee. We hear that such transfer will not be made unless the Arsenal at the South End is granted to the Artillery for an armory.

The bill which passed the Massachusetts legislature, and which it is expected the Eastern Railroad corporation will accept at the special meeting, May 16th, provides that the nine directors are to be elected, six by the bondholders, and three by the stockholders; the trustees are to be designated by a justice of the Supreme Court, and the stockholders may regain possession of the road when the debt has been reduced to $10,000,000.

The Boston Globe says of Haverley's Minstrels: The organization is particularly strong in its musical features, having a fine orchestra and brass band, and an excellent male quartette, besides several very good solo singers. The ballads and comic songs of the first part were very well rendered, and each won an encore. The end men, Barlow and Wilson, are as funny as the law allows, and the finale, a circus scene, was a capital burlesque. The olio department introduces several novelties. Cool Burgess, "L'homme qui rit" had a warm reception and did some of his funny business in the old style, winning several recalls. The California Quartette sang "Moonlight on the Lake" very finely, George Wilson did a novel and amusing laughing song, and responded to his encore with a confidential talk to the audience. Primrose and West proved themselves excellent both in songs and dances, and a double clog. Edwin French gave an artistic banjo solo, and Milton G. Barlow showed himself one of the best delineators of the aged negro, with characteristic songs, we have ever seen.

The republican caucus of Ward Seven expressed a preference for James G. Blaine as a Presidential candidate.

An advertisement will be found in another column that will interest all New Englanders who propose to visit the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia, or the National Capital. A new route has been established by connecting the New York and New England, and the Providence, Hartford and Fiskhill with the New Jersey railroads, by a transfer steamer between Harlem river and Jersey City. By this arrangement passengers are taken directly to Philadelphia from England cities without any change of cars, avoiding all the annoyances before experienced in getting through Gotham. The line is furnished with drawing room and sleeping cars, and by reference to the time-table it will be seen that trains are run at hours that will well accommodate those who desire to economize their time. The transfer steamer "Maryland" is already running with freight and the arrangemdnts for the transfer of passenger cars will be completed by Monday next. Excursion tickets are issued and the managers of this new through line are doing everything in their power for the comfort and accomodation of the public.

Caucuses.

The republicans of Wards One, Five, Six, and Seven chose the following delegates to the State convention, Thursday evening:

Ward Six—John Knowlton, Daniel L. Randall, C. Morris Tredick, Edward J. Moulton.

Ward Seven—William R. Martin, George W. Pendexter.

An Engineer's Story

It was four years ago last winter. I was coming down with a train loaded with cattle. The weather had been bad for weeks and the snow lay deep, but was melting off fast in the warm weather that had lasted nearly a week. The ground was saturated, and I noticed that things looked shaky on the mountain. I was feeling my way along carefully, thinking the track might spring, as the bed was wet and sloppy, when just as I got around the point of this ridge, I looked up, and it seemed to me that the whole mountain above me had broken loose. For hundreds of feet wide the hillside was in motion and charging down on me. The slide started 100 yards above the track, and was coming right down on me like lightning. Rocks, trees and snowdrifts plunged down the face of the mountain with a thundering roar, and seemed bent on overwhelming us and burying us in the canon thousands of feet below. I was never so close to death before, although I have had my share of perils on the road. For a moment I was stupefied, the danger was so great and escape so hopeless, but only for a moment. I determined not to die without an effort, but clapped on all steam, while the brakes were thrown off at the same time. You can see for yourself that the grade is heavy here, and can believe that we made fast time. The engine seemed to know her danger and to gather herself for an effort. She leaped, quivering and snorting, down the grade in the maddest race I ever saw. Down came the avalanche like lightning directly upon us, throwing up clouds of flying snow and splinters and rock, and away flew the old engine like a thing of life and beauty, as she was, dragging the cars like the wind down the grade after her, abreast the slide. But it seemed doomed to be all in vain. The avalanche came faster every moment. It was almost upon us. The rocks began to bound against the cars and over them, and the train was hidden in a cloud of snow. But we were flying through the air now; the wheels seemed never to touch the rails, and just as I was giving up hope the engine rushed past that little point of land just back there where the little ravine comes down. This turned the current of the slide, so to speak, a little, and was our salvation. The engine rushed past the point just as the slide reached the track, and a big pine, uprooted in the edge of the avalanche, fell across the next car to the last one and crushed it. The track was swept away like a cobweb in a gale, the couplings of the cars broke, and the cars fell into the chasm left in the wake of the slide and were carried down to the river, a thousand yards below. What there is left of them lies there yet. The jerk made the engine and train jump the track, but she kept on her feet and we got off with a few bruises. That I account one of the greatest dangers I ever met in my twenty years of railroading.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Republican State Convention.

A republican State convention, for the choice of ten delegates to the republican National convention, to be held at Cincinnati, June, 14, 1876, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on Wednesday, the 24th day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All republican electors, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences or previous party affiliations, who are opposed to reviving sectional issues, and desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining and enforcing full constitutional rights of every citizen, including the full and free exercise of the right of suffrage without intimidation and without fraud; who are in favor of the continued prosecution and punishment of all official dishonesty, and of an economical administration of the Government by honest, faithful, and capable officers; who are in favor of making such reforms in government as experience may from time to time suggest; who are opposed to impairing the credit of the nation by depreciating any of its obligations, and in favor of sustaining in every way the national faith and financial honor; who hold that the common-school system is the nursery of American liberty, and should be maintained absolutely free from sectarian control; who believe that, for the promotion of these ends, the direction of the Government should continue to be confided to those who adhere to the principles of 1776, and support them as incorporated in the Constitution and the laws; and who are in favor of recognizing and strengthening the fundamental principles of National Unity in this Centennial Anniversary of the birth of the Republic, are invited to participate in the election of delegates to this convention.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 4 o'clock, which all delegates are invited to attend.

A Brain-Soothing Remedy.

The wondrous organs that crowns the edifice of man is not only the seat of reflection and the home of ideality, but it is the governing centre of the nervous system. When it is overwrought, unduly excited, or affected by irregularities of those bodily organs with which it most closely sympathizes, all the nerves suffer, and the general health is impaired. The reason why Hostetter's Stomach Bitters exercise such a soothing influence upon the brain is, that they remove those digestive and bilious derangements which react injuriously upon it and that in relieving irritation or weakness of the great sympathetic nerve which connects the stomach and the brain, they beneficially affect the latter organ as well as the former. Sound sleep, clearness of mind, easy digestion and freedom from biliousness are insured by this prime regulative tonic and nervine.

PREMATURE LOSS OF THE HAIR, which is so common now-a-days, may be entirely prevented by the use of Burnett's Cocoaine. It has been used in thousands of cases where the hair was coming out in handsful, and has never failed to arrest its decay, and to promote a healthy and vigorous growth. It is at the same time unrivalled as a dressing for the hair. A single application will render it soft and glossy for several days.

THE COLOSSAL BRONZE STATUE OF VICTORY which stands in the Park at Lowell, before the tomb of the first soldiers that fell in the revolution, is a lasting and beautiful tribute of art. It is one of the first objects sought by strangers visiting our sister city, which indeed many visit purposely to see this elegant object of high art. It was obtained from the King of Bavaria by Dr. J. C. Ayer, to whom his majesty was especially gracious in acknowledgment of what his remedies are reputed to have done for the suffering sick. It was donated by the Doctor to the City of Lowell as a permanent and speaking emblem of the victories both of Science and Arms.—Hagerstown (Md.) Press.

Daily Chronicle.

—A small black and tan trotted into the Central station in Worcester, Mass., recently, bearing in his mouth a business card on which was written, "Give me my license and my master will pay you." Looking cautiously around, the canine, as though with human intelligence, entered the clerk's office, and rubbed against Officer Blanding. The officer immediately filled out a license for the applicant, and gave it to the dog, and he wagged his tail vigorously in acknowledgment, and then departed.

—A man's horse balking and refusing to move, he adopted the ingenious device employed once by a naval captain—he built a small fire under the animal. As soon as the horse felt the heat he moved at once. He advanced sufficiently to bring the carriage over the flame, and there he paused, to the edification of a crowd of observing citizens, and to the great satisfaction of himself. The fire was quenched without the aid of the department.

Specialties in Medicines.

We publish on our eighth page a lengthy article describing the system of the noted specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., in which he sets forth with considerable force and clearness his reasons for devoting his whole time and attention to a single department of medicine—the treatment of lingering chronic diseases. The same article also takes up the subjects of diagnosis, methods of consideration and treatment, etc., and will be found to contain many valuable hints to the invalid. Dr. Pierce is the author of a work which has already attained a large circulation—"The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser"—containing some nine hundred numerously illustrated pages, and devoted to medicine in all its branches, a work well calculated for the guidance and instruction of the people at large and which may be had for $1.50 (post-paid) by addressing the author, Dr. Pierce has now been before the general public long enough to enable the formation of a careful estimate of the efficiency of his treatment and his medicines, and the verdict, we are glad to know, has been universally favorable to both.—Toledo Blade.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of pushing their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.

TO MY PATIENTS!
DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can sincerely recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of every week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do anything else than ask private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the fervent wish of his friend and patron,
Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to each of my patrons as my successor time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the large sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time the orders came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 5, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One small package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have taken what I received, and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight pills I felt a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. Inclosed please find $1.00 for one package, and I will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. Tell, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rockdale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

PULMOCINE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing to its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the cause of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs.

Croup.

Asthma, etc.,

—USE—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

NEW YORK LETTER.

A New Sequel to the Arabian Nights—The Monster Typographical Building of Astor Place—And the Romance of Two Printer Boys.

NEW YORK, May 1, 1876.

On the corner of Astor and Lafayette Places stood lately and for many years the spacious mansion and gardens of John Jacob Astor; his gift to his daughter, Mrs. Langdon, and since his death well known as her residence. Last summer, in passing by, I observed that it was given up to demolition; making a note in the "Vide" Correspondence of the disappearance of a social-historic landmark, but unable to enrich said note with a revelation of the new destiny of that large and conspicuous site. Business of course, but what? In the modern bibliopolic center of the country; with the Astor Library on one side, and the Mercantile Library and a row of publishers opposite another; the Cooper Union on the right, the magnificent new store of Scribner, Armstrong & Co., and the Scribner and St. Nicholas Monthlies on the left or Broadway side, and a cordon of old publishing houses around on Broadway, Ninth street and the Tract Society block; it was evident of what nature the new movement of right ought to be, but owners and builders kept their own counsel.

The dusty ruins of the Astor domicile soon disappeared, and a stately pile with a frontage of two hundred and fifty-seven feet struck its roots of granite two deep stories under ground, and lifted its massive but graceful iron frame seven stories above, towering over all the roofs both far and near, and equivalent, as a whole, to ten first-class buildings of former days. Passers by marked with admiration the solidity and beauty of the structure, which an unusual combination of iron and masonry made the more striking. The ornate iron front was so inlaid and backed in deep and handsome brickwork as at once to make a peculiarly rich and imposing facade, and a wall impregnable to fire from within or from without. All floors and walls were made on a like principle, and cemented fire proof and water proof, air tight and vermin tight. The very speaking tubes and "copy" elevators, no less than the steam, water, waste and gas pipes, were all made of heavy iron, at thousands of dollars above the ordinary cost of those conveniences, and none of these pipes were allowed to pass through the floors, but all were let in and cemented into the walls, or carried up the hoist well. Every floor was made like a cistern, so that when flooded by the ready hose on every floor, the water would all flow out down the stairs and hoist wells to the ground, without so much as dampening any floor below. The complete establishment property when some final additions are made, will have cost over half a million of dollars.

As an event sufficiently remarkable to become historic in the annals of the Art preservative of Arts a notable feature of the centennial year, I have thought the great printing house in Astor Place, which has risen almost like an exhalation in more senses than one, a matter of some pride as well as curiosity to Americans, especially of the typographical persuasion, and therefore appropriate for this prominent mention in newspaper correspondence.

The great upper flats — each of which is the equivalent of a large six-story building—stretching like an open field, are a sight to delight the eye of a printer as it runs around four hundred linear feet of lighted wall besides the dead wall, pierced with forty great windows and skylights, on 1600 square feet of glass on a single floor, and unshaded by neighboring buildings. The first flat from the sky spreads out on one level a complete book composing, stereotyping and electrotyping establishment, with places for compositors to the number of two hundred, besides the foundry men, furnaces, batteries, etc. Here are put in type some of the finest as well as largest works of the day, both in book and periodical form. As a large work, book and periodical at once, may be mentioned the City Directory, a royal octavo annual of 2000 pages and sixteen million ems of matter which have to be "completed" in three or four weeks. Among items of interest to printers might be noted the execution, for the first time, of heavy black-ground engravings and fine letter press (in philosophical works) at one and the same impression. In fact, however, printers do not believe it—until they see it.

The second broad level (or eighth from the bottom) is devoted to sheets; their drying, pressing, and binding in pamphlet form. This is tributary to the next level below, which is all bookbinding proper, in cloth, leather, etc. The two will accommodate three or four hundred hands; working up, however, in dull times like these, an average of only about two hundred reams of book paper per day, from the two great machinery flats below them. Of these, the next in order descending, is the job and railway department, with one hundred compositors' stands and I suppose fifty steam printing machines of all sorts and sizes. The enormous work of the Erie Railway is all done here; which most country printing offices would call a snug job if it did not exceed $100,000 a year—which, however, it does. That company, you see, has given up running its own printing office and opera house, with its Colonel and its regiment, its Admiral and its fleet, and many other pomps and vanities of this evil world, that expired with Jim Fisk and went out with Jay Gould.

And yet this Erie Railway business is but a snug job, compared to that of Madame Demorest, the famous lady of fashions and patterns, which is also entirely done in this and the periodical department, and amounts to a bill of more than a quarter of a million of dollars annually. It is one of the most remarkable centennial items of American enterprise and progress, and one of which few persons are aware, that this purely American institution of twenty-five years' growth, now actually supplies patterns and fashions to every civilized nation under heaven, and encroaches on the domains of semi barbarism. I am not enough acquainted with her ladyship to say whether or not Stanley carried any missionary consignment for her to the interior of Africa, but I presume he did. There will be a great demand for clothes there on the first outfit. A ton of tissue paper patterns, with the directions, etc., would seem to go a good ways. In fact, it only fills a single London order. "So light is vanity?" Nay, like the atmosphere, if it did not buoy (or rather girl) us up, its weight would crush us to the earth. These fashion parcels (I don't mean the girls) make, in number, the largest express business derived from any other single place in the world. At certain hours of the day it blockades Fourteenth street with a line of express wagons reaching from corner to corner, and obliging the ladies of the neighboring aristocratic mansions to walk half a block from their own carriages to reach their own doors. There is something for you Yankees to brag about at Philadelphia, for the French style and title and the directions in all languages, are all that is not pure American about it.

But I must hurry through the little "printing office," without any more digressions. We now come down to the fifth flat, filled throughout its unbroken area with long rows of Adams presses and their kind, for fine book and art printing. This is perhaps the most interesting establishment in the whole system, but I have left no room for it. The two levels nearest the street and above ground are divided up into large stores and offices; to which also the cellar is an appanage. Skipping all these, we still go down into the bowels of the earth; for the subterranean vaults are a most essential part of a great metropolitan printing house. Stereotype plates and engravings are costly, as if made of gold, but they stand no chance in even a moderate fire. The Astor Place vaults for the safe keeping of these treasures, cannot be matched in extent and massiveness anywhere, probably; certainly not in our hemisphere. They are entirely under the street and the crowns of their heavy arches, deeply overlaid with concrete and granite blocks, are twelve feet below the pavement; an upper range of subterranean vaults running in fact above them. They extend around nearly the whole front, or say 250 feet in length, by 15 to 20 wide, and 11 feet high; making a storage capacity equal to that of a first class city house.

The rest of this bottom level of all contains among other things vast stores of coal, an eighty-horse power engine, and six boilers of between two and three hundred horse-power, from which steam is to be laid on for the houses on Lafayette Place; a new and important economic movement long talked of and here initiated.

And here I have saved just one page for the romance of it all, without which the true story of this Aladdin's Palace for printers would not be half told.

Seventeen years ago two printer boys came to New York, one Edward Lange, from the Faderland, the other Joseph J. Little, from the interior of New York State; neither had capital or many friends, but each was possessed of great energy and integrity, and by a strange coincidence these young men were for some years located on the same street, and only two blocks apart, the first in a prominent job printing office, the latter in a book printing establishment. A few years later they commenced business for themselves in a small way, each in his own particular branch, and both were most successful. When, some five years ago, these two men met for the first time, they became mutually interested in each other's history, and finally made arrangements to unite their two business, and conduct all branches under one management, and thus began the firm of Lange, Little & Co., whose establishment we have just described. A year or two later W. Jennings Demorest became, and is now, the Company of the concern. It is said by many old printers and publishers that the success of this concern is unparalleled, and it is easy to believe this to be true, when we learn that neither of the two active members of firm are yet thirty-five years of age.

Democratic Investigations.

The attack on Gov. Morton, and the demand for an investigation of the manner in which he aided the Union cause while Governor of Indiana, during the war, were led by one Springer, who was a member of the organization called the "Sons of Liberty," one of the northern democratic societies for aiding and supporting the rebellion. Gov. Morton, in his answer to the charges against him, gave a most damaging expose of the desperate disloyalty of the Indiana democracy during the war, and the infamous conduct of the "Sons of Liberty;" and showed, conclusively and unanswerably, what everybody already knew,—that the charges against him were wholly baseless, and actuated solely by partisan malice and ex-rebel hatred. The democrats themselves were not over pleased at the spectacle of the disloyal "Sons of Liberty" attempting to smirch the brilliant and glorious war-record of Oliver P. Morton, as Governor of Indiana—and failing so disastrously; it "hurts the party." Senator Anthony's indignation stood him on his feet and made him give utterance to the first pronounced denunciation of the methods pursued by the democratic committees publicly offered on the floor of either house. He spoke with contemptuous scorn of their conduct in persistently endeavoring to blacken the reputation of honorable men, for purely partisan purposes, on the unsupported (and unsupportable) testimony of discharged employes, unsuccessful office-seekers, convicted thieves, and confessed perjurers. The universal response to his words showed how keenly the gross unfairness of these investigations has taken hold of all classes, and how great the disgrace is deemed to be which they have brought upon the country.

The fact is patent that the democrats, in their zeal to help their party by defaming republicans, have heavily overdone the investigating business. Secretary Robeson has been pursued with untiring malice; day after day, for months, we were told that he had been "caught" by the investigators; yet he still holds office unimpeached, and the chairman of the Robeson-catching committee himself says no evidence of corruption has yet been discovered against him. Yet everything is accepted as evidence by these democratic seekers after the truth, and the most absurd stories of the most worthless of men are published abroad as facts—so only the stories are calculated to harm some republican. No opportunity is given slandered republicans to defend themselves or cross-examine their accusers; the first intimation they receive of the matter usually comes in the shape of staring head-lines in democratic newspapers setting forth their "assured infamy." Employes discharged for cause, disappointed contractors, unsuccessful claim agents, indicted criminals, black-mailers, bribe-takers, defaulters, disreputable detectives, perjurers, and lunatics, have graced the stand in these democratic committee rooms, and had their testimony to republican inefficiency recorded. And this is no exaggeration. The crazy man who was allowed to testify without restraint against Gen. Meigs before Clymer's committee will not be forgotten. The fact that this inquiry was public, alone exposed the baselessness of the testimony. The regular report gave no intimation of the man's condition. But for the specials who saw and described it, nothing would have promptly reached the country to discredit it. Another case in point is that of the maniac who testified against the President; the investigators before whom that witness appeared were ready to blacken the reputation of the President on the unsupported testimony of that one unknown man, and only gave up that project when his absolute insanity was made manifest by his own evidence; and then they wanted to keep the whole affair a secret, and would have done so but for the republican members of the committee. In several notable instances, the false testimony has been allowed to go out after its falsehood has been thoroughly exposed to the secret examiners. This was the case in the attempt of Caulfield's committee to fix the improper use of public funds in suppressing election frauds, upon President Grant, and also in the circulation of the Bartley gossip regarding Secretary Bristow and his alleged purchase for $40,000. Even the whiskey ring finds willing coadjutors in the democratic investigators; witness the charge brought against Bristow by Representative Cate concerning the barque "Mary Merritt,"—brought at the instigation of the whiskey-ring's attorneys, and men whom Cate knew to be such.

The object of the innumerable investigations set on foot by the democrats was to make the country sick of the republican party,—not to remedy abuses or punish unworthy men; but the object has been made so apparent, and the means employed so blunderingly, unfairly and unscrupulously used, that the only effect so far has been to disgust the country with such democracy, and to make the democratic party sick of their representatives in Congress. Any good which the investigations might have done, if honestly and fairly conducted, has been more than nullified by the eagerness of the democrats to make political capital for their party.

Indiana.

The triumph of the republican party in the Indiana town elections is a grand one and a glorious earnest of what is to follow this fall. In nearly every important town of the State, with the exception of New Albany, the republican ticket shows handsome gains. Sweeping majorities are reported from Bloomington, Centerville, Connersville, Crawfordsville, Elkhart, Franklin, Greencastle, Kokomo, Lafayette, Laporte, Madison, Terre Haute, Warsaw, Ft. Wayne, Lebanon, Shelbyville, Wabash and Greensburg.

In Franklin a republican Mayor is elected, for the first time in six years, and in Shelbyville, the home of Governor Hendricks, the republicans have swept every ward, with magnificent gains over former years.

But in Indianapolis the triumph is most complete and glorious. The democratic council, only a week before the election, passed a gerrymandering ordinance, which they confidently believed would insure them the city. At the last election they had carried the council, and missed electing their Mayor only by a hair's breadth. They awoke Tuesday morning to find their trickery, their frauds, and their violence vain. The strong republican sentiment, was awakened, and the democrats were fairly swept from their feet. The republican popular majority reaches the astonishing height of 4,315, and out of the thirteen members of council voted for, eleven republicans are elected.

The meaning of so remarkable a victory in a Presidential year cannot be mistaken. Coupled with the evidences from New Hampshire and elsewhere of the certainty of republican success this fall, provided the party is put upon a sound platform and headed by a tried and able leader whose name will be a guarantee that the sacred principles of republicanism will not be departed from. Indiana has been looked at by the republicans as a doubtful State—has been counted by the democracy in their favor. Tuesday's glorious work shows where it will stand provided the issue is sharply drawn between republicanism and democracy.

News and Notes.

President Grant's answer to the insolent inquisition into his personal movements attempted by the rebel brigadiers, "Mind your own business," will probably disgust that set of would-be-regulators of all affairs,—personal, political, religious, official, financial and mixed,—at the North; but then Grant never could suit those fellows, and disgusted a good many of them years ago by his conduct during the time there was a war in this country. The President has given them pretty plainly to understand that a citizen of the United States, even though he may be President, has some rights with which even a delegation of rebel brigadiers has no business to meddle; and that though they may carry on their outrageous inquisitions into the private affairs of others unrebuked, they will find him as obstinate in opposing them now as he was before the headquarters of the Confederate army was established in Congress.

Leading republicans are laughing this afternoon, over an episode of this morning's convention. It appears that the Blaine men met last evening, and after looking over the field, decided that they were not strong enough to make a bold fight in the convention, and resolved as a compromise to introduce the names of Messrs. Hoar and Bullock for delegates. The Bristow men were equally doubtful as to their strength, and decided to compromise on the same delegates. When the convention opened, both factions were sly and secret, and neither would reveal the nature of their tickets, and when the time came to distribute ballots both began work with energy, each insisting to delegates "This is the right ticket." Before long it was discovered that the tickets were alike! Thus everybody was suited, and the plotting and counter-plotting was in vain.—Worcester Gazette.

The Keene Sentinel's presidential balloting stands as follows to date: Blaine and Bristow, 421; Bristow and Blaine, 238; Bristow and Wheeler, 29; Bristow and Cragin, 16; Blaine and Wheeler, 8; Bristow and Curtis, 3; Conkling and Hayes, 1; Conkling and Bristow, 1; Adams and Bristow, 1; Bristow and Hayes, 1.

A correspondent of the Wolfeboro' News hints that one of the Carroll County Commissioners who owns a coffin factory has turned an honest penny by selling to the county coffins enough to bury all the county paupers in, and that a large number of these cheerful articles of furniture are now stored in the county house at Ossipee.

The New Hampshire Governors.

The excursion yesterday in the P. M. S. S. Co's steamer Mullen Griffith, in honor of Hon. Onslow Stearns, Hon. Frederick Smyth, Hon. E. A. Straw, ex-Governors of New Hampshire, and Hon. P. C. Cheney, the present Governor of that State, with their ladies and other guests, was a very enjoyable affair. Among those on board were ex-Governor Leland Stanford, Peter Donahue, General Burchelder, Count Napoleon F. de Zaba, daughter, and Madam Powlicki, of Poland; A. N. Town, General Superintendent Central Pacific Railroad; A. P. Bacon, General Agent of the Pacific Mail Co.; E. T. Bacon, John Stuart and Edward Taylor. The steamer left Market street wharf at 11 A. M., and proceeded to Alcatraz, where the party was joined by several officers of that post; thence they proceeded to Angel Island, and were heartily received by General Wilcox and officers, and invited to the General's house, where each lady was presented with a bouquet. The steamer then proceeded out through the Golden Gate and returned by way of Saucelito. In steaming across to the city, the steamer called at Alcatraz where an inspection and review were held in honor of the guests. A bounteous collation was provided on board, embracing all the delicacies of the season. The party were profuse in their expressions of thanks to Mr. Bacon, the general agent, and other officers, for their polite attention and untiring efforts to make every moment of the excursion delightful to every guest. —San Francisco Call.

An Inaccessible Harbor.

Despatches from Washington say: "The House Naval committee has considered at several meetings the propriety of discontinuing several of the less important navy-yards, and thus effect a considerable saving to the Government, for the reason that the yards in question are inaccessible, and in some cases the work done at them costs more than at more central yards. The yards it was proposed to discontinue were those at Washington, Boston, New London, and Kittery. It was, however, decided that such a course was unexpedient, and instead of stopping work entirely and removing the machinery and supplies as proposed in previous bills, the committee concluded that it was best to make small appropriations for these yards sufficient to prevent the machinery from spoiling and to keep the supplies in order." The navy-yard at Kittery is never "inaccessible." On the contrary, there is splendid depth of water and a good channel up to the yard; water enough alongside the navy yard wharves to float the Great Eastern thirty feet clear of the bottom, though she were loaded down to her scuppers with pig-iron; and at times when every other harbor on the coast north of Chesapeake Bay has been solidly frozen over, and the ocean steamers have gotten out of Boston and New York through narrow channels cut for miles through heavy ice, Portsmouth harbor has been as easily accessible as in midsummer. Neither does work done on this yard "cost more than at more central yards," for it has been repeatedly shown that work is done here not only quite as well but actually at less cost than the same quality of work is done at any other yard in the country. These facts must be known to the naval committee; but probably they feel a certain delicacy about giving their true reason for wishing to abolish this yard—that it is in a northern State—so they pretend to believe the yard a costly one and our harbor poor.

Memorial Day.

The following committees have been appointed by the general committee having the celebration of Memorial Day in charge:

Flags for Graves—John H. Locke, William Y. Evans, Gardner M. Goodrich.

Programme, Route, etc.—W. H. Sise, E. A. Tilton, O. M. Knight, G. W. Marston, Geo. E. Hodgdon;

Flowers—E. A. Tilton, S. C. Whittier, J. R. May, J. E. Colcord, O. M. Knight, W. Y. Evans;

Literary—J. R. May, Samuel Dodge, J. W. Parsons, G. M. Goodrich, and A. F. Craig;

Finance,—A. F. Craig, J. C. Butler, Geo. W. Marston, J. H. Hutchinson;

Music,—J. C. Butler, L. V. Newell, James M. Carr;

Invitations,—J. R. May, W. H. Sise, E. A. Tilton;

Orator,—S. C. Whittier, Samuel Dodge, J. H. Locke;

E. G. Peirce, Jr. Esq., was unanimously chosen Chief Marshal and with aids will probably be mounted. A Committee was appointed to wait on Ex-Gov. Goodwin and invite him to preside at grand memorial mass meeting in the evening and to invite Albert Laighton to write an ode to be sung on that occasion. The Naval Band is engaged.

Major E. A. Tilton tendered use of his rooms for arranging flowers. and Mr. Alfred Stavers the upper Franklin Hall for same purpose, both of which will probably be used.

Aldermanic.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, the applications of J. Albert Walker for a brick sidewalk on Middle street, and of Charles H. Rollins for a brick sidewalk on Court street, were referred to the committee on streets.

The petition of the "Woman's Temperance League" for the closing of all saloons on the Sabbath was referred to the City Marshal.

The petition of Thomas Campbell and others for the acceptance of Clinton street was referred to the committee on streets.

The City Clerk was ordered to issue the usual notice for a hearing on the petition of William Hunter and others for the widening of Dennett street.

The Common Council gave notice that they non-concurred in the amendment to the Appropriation Bill, and had appointed a committee on conference. The Board joined in the committee on conference by appointing Ald. Hatch and Betton.

The petition of the Portsmouth Artillery Company for the use of the arsenal was referred to the committee on city lands and buildings.

The invitation of the Trustees of Elwyn ceremonies, and to plant a tree representation of the city, on May 23d, was accepted.

The petition of William H. Sise and others asking for an appropriation of $100 for Memorial Day was referred to the committee on conferences.

Adjourned.

Jottings.

There will be a match game of base ball at the Plains this afternoon at 2 o'clock, between the Granite State club and a picked nine.

Gen. Michael Murphy will speak on Temperance, on Saturday evening, May 13, at South Eliot Neck.

The republicans of the Fourth Ward chose Messrs. John H. Broughton and D. Webster Barnabee as delegates to the State convention, Friday evening.

Tree-planting is quite a popular business this centennial year. The State of New Hampshire pretty effectually planted one—an "Old White Oak"—on the 14th of March; but that was a National quite as much as a State affair.

Respecting the varieties of trees to be planted at the Park on arbor day, an Alderman remarked that the Board might set an Alder-tree; and a citizen yesterday suggested to a sea captain, to plant cross-trees. A correspondent thinks an aspen or weeping willow would best represent one of the political parties at this time in this city.

The old wood and stone printing press, the first used in New Hampshire, by Daniel Fowle, in 1756, has been put in complete order, and started for the Centennial. The necessary repairs were made under direction of Dr. Wm. H. Foster, the veteran printer of this city, who himself printed the first and many succeeding numbers of the Boston Transcript upon a two-pull hand-press similar to this in days long syne. The old press runs well, and will do good work yet. It bears this inscription: "The first Printing Press in New Hampshire. Owned by Thomas Draper, Boston, 1742; by Daniel Fowle, Portsmouth, 1756; afterwards by John Melcher, first State Printer of New Hampshire; now by Frank W. Miller, Portsmouth." Gen. Miller has been advised from Philadelphia to suspend the sending of historic articles until further notice.

The time has not yet arrived when the men who sought to destroy the country are willing to amnesty the Unionists. The rebel general Mills came here awhile ago to ask conundrums about the cost of that most objectionable vessel, the Kearsarge; and more recently the Indiana "Sons of Liberty" have been investigating the means employed by Gov. Morton to oppose the treasonable schemes of the southern rebels and their northern allies, the latter including the "Sons of Liberty" aforesaid. And Tammany Hall, without going quite back to the days of the war, is busily engaged in trying to punish Grant for interfering with the gigantic election-frauds in New York city by which Tammany hoped to—and on more than one occasion did—carry the State for the democracy.

Morse & Ilsley sell five shares Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co., and five shares Mechanics & Traders Bank, by auction to-day, at noon at 57 Congress street.

A special term of the Circuit Court will be held in this city on the 25d for the trial of Magoon.

The McKennon house on Gates street was sold by auction, Friday, by H. F. Wendell, Esq., to Mr. Oliver Ayers for $720.

Capt. T. E. O. Marvin read a poem at the temperance meeting at the Temple, Thursday evening, and Lieut. Charles W. Gardner made a felicitous address. Some forty members of Capt. Haddock's company of State militia marched into the hall and signed the pledge amid great applause, followed by a rousing chorus, "Hold the Fort."

We learn that the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have chosen Mr. Moses H. Tilton to perform the arduous and responsible duties of Secretary. Mr. Tilton has had a large experience with human nature and knows well the difference between proper use and abuse, a knowledge that is essential to the proper fulfilment of the duties of his office. He can be found at No. 18 Congress street.

North Hampton.

The new school building donated to the union district by John W. Hobbs is completed at a cost of a trifle over $13,000, and on the evening of the 27th it was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies. The structure is a conspicuous object for miles and miles around, on account of its height and size. The basement is 9 feet, first story 13 feet, second story 17 feet, the whole surmounted by a heavy mansard roof, above which rises a tower 15 feet high. On the first floor are the rooms for grammar and primary schools, which are furnished with elegant and costly school furniture. On the second floor is a commonious hall with anterooms, each fitted up in splendid style. The edifice has been erected in a substantial manner; the donor has not spared a dollar, but everything connected with the building is constructed with a view to durability. Time on its never tiring wings will roll on, the semi-centennial year will dawn, republics will spring into existence, kingdoms will be shattered, empires will crumble and fall, and long years after the youngest student of to-day shall have returned to mother dust, the temple of learning at the Centre will stand as a monument to the memory of North Hampton's most generous hearted son, John W. F. Hobbs.—Exeter News Letter.

Republican Caucuses

Ward Three, at the Ward Room, Saturday evening, 6th inst., at half-past seven o'clock.

Ward Two at Ward Seven Ward Room Thursday evening, May 11, at half-past seven o'clock.

—On the road to Epsom, a moustached youth on the top of a drag, evidently ambitious of being mistaken for "an officer," thus saluted a fat coachman, who was gravely driving his master and family: "Holloa, you, sir! where's your shirt collar? How dare you come to the Derby without a shirt-collar?" John growled forth without lifting his eyes from his horses, "Ow the dooce could I have a shirt-collar when your mother has not sent home my washing?"

Notice.

It don't seem as if the citizens want the Hourly to run, as they all walk instead of riding; so after Saturday I shall stop all trips but the 8:30 down on Middle street, the 12:05, 1:05 and 4:30. As Islington street don't seem to want it, I shall run on that street only the 12:05 up. About June 1st I shall try it again; by that time there may be some here from other cities who will be willing to encourage a good thing. All orders left on my slate at J. H. Thacher's will be attended to. WM. PLAISTED.

Republican State Convention.

A republican State convention, for the choice of ten delegates to the republican National convention, to be held at Cincinnati, June, 14, 1876, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on Wednesday, the 24th day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All republican electors, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences or previous party affiliations, who are opposed to reviving sectional issues, and desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining and enforcing all the constitutional rights of every citizen, including the full and free exercise of the right of suffrage without intimidation and without fraud; who are in favor of the continued prosecution and punishment of all official dishonesty, and of an economical administration of the Government by honest, faithful, and capable officers; who are in favor of making such reforms in government as experience may from time to time suggest; who are opposed to impairing the credit of the nation by depreciating any of its obligations, and in favor of sustaining in every way the national; by faith and financial honor; who hold that the common-school system is the nursery of American liberty, and should be maintained absolutely free from sectarian control; who believe that, for the promotion of these ends, the direction of the Government should continue to be confided to those who adhere to the principles of 1776, and support them as incorporated in the Constitution and the laws; and who are in favor of recognising and strengthening the fundamental principles of National Unity in this Centennial Anniversary of the birth of the Republic, are invited to participate in the election of delegates to this convention.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 4 o'clock, which all delegates are invited to attend.

A Brain-Soothing Remedy.

The wondrous organs that crowns the edifice of man is not only the seat of reflection and the home of ideality, but it is the governing centre of the nervous system. When it is overwrought, unduly excited, or affected by irregularities of those bodily organs with which it most closely sympathizes, all the nerves suffer, and the general health is impaired. The reason why Hostetter's Stomach Bitters exercise such a soothing influence upon the brain is, that they remove those digestive and bilious derangements which react injuriously upon it and that in relieving irritation or weakness of the great sympathetic nerve which connects the stomach and the brain, they beneficially affect the latter organ as well as the former. Sound sleep, clearness of mind, easy digestion and freedom from biliousness are insured by this prime regulative tonic and nervine.

OPENING OF NEW GOODS FROM NEW YORK

Daily Chronicle.

Mr. Bristow has little love for the "mud throwers." It is only a short time since he refused to shake hands with Congressman Bright, giving as a reason that he did not care to have any other than official relations with him. The correspondent of the Boston Journal gives these additional illustrations of the Secretary's disgust: "When Mr. Blaine made his recent statement, Mr. Bristow sent him a note heartily congratulating him on his triumphant defense. Again, when the enemies of Mr. Morton, recently, were trying to poach about the Treasury Department for materials of charges against him, Mr. Bristow refused to have any documents examined, unless in the presence of Mr. Morton or his friends. This is the cousity which is due between high-minded statesmen."

The Concord Monitor says: "Now while we do not advocate Mr. Bristow's nomination at this time, we recognize the probability that it may become our duty to do so even before the 14th of June."

Specialties in Medicines.

We publish on our eighth page a lengthy article describing the system of the noted specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., in which he sets forth with considerable force and clearness his reasons for devoting his whole time and attention to a single department of medicine—the treatment of lingering chronic diseases. The same article also takes up the subjects of diagnosis, methods of consideration and treatment, etc., and will be found to contain many valuable hints to the invalid. Dr. Pierce is the author of a work which has already attained a large circulation—"The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser"—containing some nine hundred numerous illustrated pages, and devoted to medicine in all its branches, a work well calculated for the guidance and instruction of the people at large and which may be had for $1.50 (post-paid) by addressing the author. Dr. Pierce has now been before the general public long enough to enable the formation of a careful estimate of the efficiency of his treatment and his medicines, and the verdict, we are glad to know, has been universally favorable to both.—Toledo Blade.

No Agents in the United States possess superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and success-ful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, pay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of a year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth, ALBION K. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to each of my patients as my limited time permits, and also to make a social call upon them at him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaints, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 2, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried so many everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can say anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.00 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD, Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded that I should suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from inflammation of the Bowels and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicines. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages. Yours respectfully, MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, a lady in Rowlesdale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages. MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

PULMOCILIN.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the cause of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Tally One for Grant.

The following message will commend itself to readers and will be highly relished, we think:

TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

I have given very attentive consideration to a resolution of the House of Representatives, passed on the third day of April, requesting the President of the United States to inform the House of Representatives whether any executive offices, acts or duties, and, if any, what, have within a specified period been performed at a distance from the seat of Government established by law, etc. I have never hesitated, and shall not hesitate, to communicate to Congress, and to either branch thereof, all the information which the Constitution makes it the duty of the President to give, or which my judgment may suggest to me, or a request from either House may indicate to me, will be useful in the discharge of the appropriate duties confided to them. I fail, however, to find in the Constitution of the United States the authority given to the House of Representatives (one branch of the Congress in which is vested the legislative power of the Goverment) to require of the Executive, an independent branch of the Government, co-ordinate with the Senate and House of Representatives, an account of his discharge of his appropriate and purely executive offices, acts and duties, either as to when, where or how performed. What the House of Representatives may require as a right in its demand upon the Executive for information is limited to what is necessary for a proper discharge of its powers of legislation or of impeachment. The inquiry in the resolution of the House as to where executive acts have, within the last seven years, been performed, at what distance from any particular spot, or for how long a period at any one time, etc., does not necessarily belong to the province of legislation. It does not profess to be asked for that object. If this information be sought through an inquiry of the President as to his executive acts in view or in aid of the power of impeachment, vested in the House, it is asked in derogation of an inherent, natural right, recognized in this country by a constitutional guarantee which protects every citizen, the President as well as the humblest in the land, from being made a witness against himself. During the time that I have had the honor to occupy the position of President of this Government it has been, and while I continue to occupy that position it will continue to be, my earnest endeavor to recognize and to respect the several trusts and duties and powers of the co-ordinate branches of the Government, not encroaching upon them nor allowing encroachments upon the proper powers of the office which the people of the United States have confided to me; but aiming to preserve in their proper relations the several powers and functions of each of the co-ordinate branches of the Government agreeably to the Constitution and in accordance with the solemn oath that I have taken to preserve, protect and defend that instrument.

In the maintenance of the rights secured by the Constitution to the Executive branch of the Government I am compelled to decline any specific or detailed answer to the request of the House for information as to "any executive offices, acts or duties, and, if any, what have been performed at a distance from the seat of the Government established by law, and for how long a period at any one time, and in what part of the United States." If, however, the House of Representatives desires to know whether during the period of upwards of seven year, during which I have held the office of President of the United States, I have been absent from the seat of the Government, and whether during that period I have performed, or neglected to perform, the duties of my office, I freely inform the House that from the time of my entrance upon my office I have been in the habit, as were all my predecessors (with the exception of one, who lived only one month after assuming the duties of his office, and one whose continued presence in Washington was necessary from the existence, at the time, of a powerful rebellion,) of absenting myself at times from the seat of the Government; and that during such absences I did not neglect or forego the obligations or the duties of my office, but continued to discharge all the executive offices, acts and duties which were required of me as President of the United States. [Applause from the republican side.] I am not aware that a failure occurred in any one instance of my exercising the functions and powers of my office in every case requiring them, or of my exercising all necessary executive acts in whatever part of the United States at the time I may have been. Fortunately the rapidity of travel and of mail communications, and the facility of almost instantaneous correspondence with officers at the seat of Government, which the telegraph affords to the President in whatsoever section of the Union he may be, enables him, in these days, to maintain as constant and almost as quick intercourse with the departments at Washington, as may be maintained while he remains in the Capital. The necessity of the performance of executive acts by the President of the United States exists and is devolved upon him, wherever he may be within the United States, during his term of office. By the Constitution of the United States, his civil powers are no more limited or capable of limitation as to the place where they shall be exercised than are those which he might be required to discharge in his capacity of Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, which latter powers it is evident that he might be called upon to exercise, possibly, even without the limits of the United States. Had the efforts of those recently in rebellion against the Government been successful in driving a late President of the United States from Washington, it is manifest that he must have discharged his functions, both civil and military, elsewhere than in the place named by law as the seat of the Government. No act of Congress can limit, suspend or confine this constitutional duty. I am not aware of the existence of any act of Congress which assumes thus to limit or restrain the exercise of the functions of the Executive. Were there such acts, I should nevertheless recognize the superior authority of the Constitution, and should exercise the powers required thereby of the President. The act to which reference is made in the resolution of the House relates to the establishment of the seat of the Government and the providing of suitable buildings and the removal thereto of the offices attached to the Government, etc. It was not understood at its date and by Gen. Washington to confine the President in the discharge of his duties and powers to actual presence at the seat of the Government. On the 30th of March, 1791, shortly after the passage of the act referred to, Gen. Washington issued an Executive proclamation having reference to the subject of this very act, from Georgetown, a place remote from Philadelphia, then the seat of the Government, where the act referred to directed that "all officers attached to the seat of Government should remain." That none of his successors have entertained the idea that their executive offices could be perfomed only at the seat of Government is evidenced by the hundreds upon hundreds of such acts performed by my predecessors in an unbroken line from Washington to Lincoln, a memorandum of the general nature and character of some of which acts is submitted herewith, and no question has been raised as to the validity of those acts or as to the right or propriety of the Executive to exercise the powers of his office in any part of the United States.

(Signed) U. S. GRANT.

Washington, May 4th, 1876.

It will be perceived that the message is dated "Washington," without the usual prefix of "Executive Mansion." Accompanying the message is a memorandum of absences of Presidents of the United States from the National Capital during each of the several Administrations, and of the public and executive acts performed during the time of such absences. This memorandum contains the following information, and much more of the same general character, only the most important of the acts recited in the memorandum being selected for mention in this abstract:

ACCOMPANYING MEMORANDUM.

President Washington was frequently absent from the Capital. He appears to have been thus absent at least 181 days during his term. In March, 1791, the seat of the Government being then at Philadelphia, he issued a proclamation, dated at Georgetown, in reference to running a boundary for the District of Columbia. He signed at Mount Vernon an official letter to the Emperor of Morocco; and from the same place issued the commission of Oliver Wolcott as Comptroller of the Treasury, and the proclamation respecting the whiskey insurrection in Pennsylvania; also the proclamation of the treaty of 1795 with Spain, and the Executive order of August 4, 1792, relative to the duties on distilled spirits, etc. When at Germantown he signed sundry commissions. He proposed to have Mr. Yenjo officially presented to him at Mount Vernon, as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from Spain, and Mr. Yenjo went there for that purpose; but the ceremony of presentation was prevented by an accidental omission of the Minister to bring his credentials.

President John Adams was absent from the Capital, during his term of four years, on various occasions, 385 days. He discharged official duties and performed the most solemn public acts at Quincy, Mass., in the same manner as when at the seat of Government. Several of them are recited, and it is also specified that on the 28th of September, 1797, he forwarded to the Secretary of State a commission for a Justice of the Supreme Court, signed in blank at Quincy, with instructions to fill in the name of John Marshall, if he would accept, and if not that of Bushrod Washington.

President Jefferson was absent from the seat of the Government during his two terms of office 796 days, or more than one-fourth of the whole official period; he signed and issued from Monticello, among a number of other things, seventy-five commissions.

President Madison was absent 637 days, and President Monroe was absent 708 days, independent of the year 1824, and two months of the year 1825, for which period no data are found. The latter transacted public business wherever he happened to be, and sometimes while travelling.

President John Quincy Adams was absent during his single term 222 days, and in his memoirs (vol. 8, page 75) speaks of his practice of leaving with his Chief Clerk blank papers, signed by him, to be used when necessary for proclamations, remission of penalties and commissions of Consuls. He speaks also of doing this same thing in regard to patents and land grants.

President Jackson was absent from the seat of the Government 502 days. Among other important acts performed by him when away from Washington was his signing at Boston the famous order for the removal of deposits from State banks. The memorandum at this point refers to President Jackson's refusal in 1833 to furnish the Senate a copy of a certain paper alleged to have been read by him to the Cabinet, and mentions that in January, 1837, he refused to allow a Committee of the House of Representatives to make a general investigation of the Executive Departments without specific charges, on the ground, amongst others, that the use of the official books and records for such purpose interfered with the discharge of the public business.

Other Presidents were absent from Washington and performed numerous official duties while absent, as follows: Van Buren, 131 days; Tyler, 163 days; Polk, 37 days; Taylor, 31 days; Fillmore, 60 days; Pierce, 57 days; Buchanan, 57 days. No mention is made of the absence of Presidents Lincoln or Johnson.

Daily Chronicle.

MONDAY, MAY 8, 1876.

The United States Senatorship.

The matter of leading interest is the nomination for the United States Senatorship. Democratic success in the contest is out of the question. The republicans have a majority of over forty votes on a joint ballot of the Legislature, and their man will be undoubtedly chosen. Among the reputed aspirants for the office are ex-Governor Onslow Stearns of Concord, but his line is not statesmanship, and his absence for six weeks in California at a time when he should be "boosting" his ambition, shows that he is not a very earnest seeker for the honor. General Marston of Exeter is also talked of, but the general loves his personal ease too much to do work for himself now, or for his constituents provided he should be elected. The same may be said of Mr. Bell of the same town; although both are very able men. Hon. Wm. E. Chandler, of Warner, and ex-Sergeant-at-Arms Ordway, with Gen. Harriman and a few others, are in the reported list of candidates, but they will not advance further at this time. The man on whom the honor of election seems to settle most surely is Hon. Edward H. Rollins of Concord. For years he has been the heart and lungs of the republican party in New Hampshire. He has been their organizer, their most-valued adviser, their victorious leader in numerous hard-won battles. To them he is a sine qua non. Without him their labors have been effete, and they feel that without him they may be so again. He has served six years in Congress; is no eloquent orator, but one of the most earnest and discreet workers. There is no blot on his Congressional escutcheon, and he stands square in moral and social respects. He will be the choice of the republicans for United States Senator; otherwise there will be party disintegration as a sure following. There is more work in him than in all the other candidates put together. His qualities, active and otherwise, even please the democrats, who, in the absence of any power to elect a man from among themselves, feel that Mr. Rollins has deservings which entitle him to honor, and a character and ability which will be creditable to the State. Mr. Rollins is secretary and treasurer of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, which proves that he must be an excellent business man. He appears to me to be about fifty-five years of age.—"Pennacook" in Boston Times.

Concerning the Senatorship we have only this to say: Our own opinion is, (and we are sure we reflect the opinion of a large majority of the republicans of this section) that the very best service the legislature can render the State and the country in this connection would be the re-election of Mr. Cragin. At the same time we suppose it is well understood that neither Mr. Cragin nor his friends will press his claims. They do not desire his re-election except as the voluntary act of the people's Representatives, based on a conviction that it is the best that under the circumstances can be done; and will yield a hearty support to any one of the worthy gentlemen who have been named for the position should the sentiment of the State seem to point in that direction.—Lebanon Free Press.

The Rochester Courier pronounces in favor of Hon. Jacob H. Ela as its first choice for Senator.

News and Notes.

Hon. George C. Peavey, the blind lawyer, aged 61 years, died suddenly at his residence at Strafford, on Friday. He became blind when a young man, but continued to practice law, and was a leading lawyer at the Strafford County Bar. He was also extensively engaged in mercantile pursuits, was an extensive farmer and leading business man in his town. He had been Bank Commissioner and State Senator.

The house and barn of widow S. E. Jacobs, situated in the centre of Amherst, was burned Friday morning. Mrs. Jacobs and two children had a narrow escape from the flames. The fire originated in the barn, and is supposed to have been incendiary. Loss $3500.

And milk has fallen in Great Falls, too, to five cents per quart.

Rev. A. C. Hardy is to deliver the Memorial address at Lebanon.

Old Abe, the famous Wisconsin war eagle which accompanied the Eighth Wisconsin Regiment during the war, started Friday night from Madison, Wisconsin, for the Centennial.

Two Indians were burned to death, and a third very dangerously, Thursday night, near Sloan, Ia., owing to their but taking fire during the night. They were of the Winnebago tribe.

John Abbott and John Bohan, of Great Falls, were pitching dressing out of a barn cellar, and fell into a dispute, during which, in self defense, Abbott smote Bohan with a manure fork, cutting Bohan's upper lip nearly off, crushing the bones of the face badly, and loosening several teeth so that they had to be extracted.

Advertising For A Husband.

Some months ago there appeared in the London Times an advertisement for a husband. The advertiser was described as a lady of fortune, and it was laid down as a sine qua non that the husband must be young. Now, among the numerous clerks in a certain great London Government office is a gentleman of demure aspect and manners, whose life is remarkably exempt from those follies and weaknesses to which most young men succumb. When, therefore, this advertisement fell under the notice of one of his colleagues he conceived the wicked design of making the demure Mr. D. a victim, and straightway taking into his confidence one or two more like unto himself, they indited a respectful letter, purporting to come to D., in which he described himself as a most eligible investment, and offered his hand to the fair advertiser. In due time there came a reply—directed to him under cover. The writer was evidently favorably impressed, and wrote for further particulars, which being highly satisfactory, she without more ado decided on a personal interview. About this time D., who, it turned out, was already engaged, was apprised as to the state of affairs, and, being a very good fellow, readily entered into the joke, but never contemplated its going so far as a visit from his would be fiance, and was, consequently, rather taken aback when an attendant showed into his room at the War Office a lady, who, on lifting her veil revealed a venerable countenance, and declared herself his would-be wife. There was nothing to be done but to explain how they had both been humbugged, and this explanation elicited a very remarkable statement from the lady. It was perfectly bona fide business on her part, as indeed are many of the marriage advertisements, more especially in France. The widow, nearly seventy years of age, of a Liverpool merchant, she proved to have excellent reasons for desiring to marry a nice young man. She was in receipt of a very handsome income, which had been settled by her second husband, on her and any husband she might have, but was then to revert to certain relatives of her said second husband. These relatives had treated her exceedingly ill, and to some misconduct on their part she attributed the death of one of her children. She was consequently actuated by a vindictive determination to keep them as long as possible out of the enjoyment of the income. Every apology was made to her, and every possible attention, including an entertainment, offered her by the conspirators and their male victim—the former explaining that they had no idea they were dealing with a person of her position. She had, of course, received any amount of offers, but unfortunately from a very different class of persons to Mr. D., and it was the fact of her ascertaining that he, beyond a doubt, held a responsible position in the public service, which had led her to seriously entertain his proposal.

The statements in the city papers, that certain persons have been injured by eating pressed corned beef put up in Chicago, and feeling that if not explained these facts will result in injury where it does not belong, and as after a thorough investigation we find that the beef complained of is in every instance beef packed in rolls and enclosed in tin foil by parties unknown to us and not at all similar to canned beef: therefore we, the undersigned, in simple justice to the public and to the reliable firm that pack the canned article, wish to state that we have for a long time sold Pressed CANNED Corned Beef and beef Tongues packed in 2, 4, 6 and 14 lb cans, by Messrs. Jottings.

The following officers were elected at the meeting of the Woman's Temperance League, Friday afternoon, at Sons of Temperance Hall; President,—Mrs. B. F. Thorndike; Vice Presits.—Mrs. James Sanborn, Mrs. John A. Goss; Rec. Sec'y.—Miss Garrie E. Randall; Cor. Sec'y—Miss Sarah Yeaton; Treas.—Mrs. John S. Treat; Ass't Treas.—Miss Mary Monroe. The League voted to plant a tree in Elwyn Park, Arbor Day.

Major M. T. Betton represented the Portsmouth lodge of Knights of Honor at the organization of the Grand Lodge, last week, at Manchester. Messrs. Joseph H. Gardiner and A. C. Hardy were chosen Representatives to the Grand Lodge at Cincinnati. Major Betton was elected Grand Treasurer.

At the Auction sale of Bank stock by Messrs. Morse & Ilsley, on Saturday, five shares of National Mechanics & Traders' Bank were sold to Mr. George Annable at $102 per share, and five shares Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Company to Mr. Jeremiah Sanborn at $103.50 per share with accrued interest.

Seven persons were baptized by Rev. John A. Goss on Sunday, at Noble's Island. The usual large crowd of spectators attended.

The republicans of Ward Three chose Messrs. Charles W. Drown, John A. Payne, Samuel Adams and John E. Colcord as delegates to the State convention, Saturday night.

The great want of the year is compact, reliable and cheap information about the Centennial Exhibition and the great seaboard cities. This want is met by Hurd & Houghton, 13 Astor Place, New York, in their new series of Riverside Centennial Guides. The press is unanimous in commendation, and although just issued, the sale is already large, and bids fair to be enormous. The books are prepared with great care and sold at very low prices. The series consists of Philadelphia and the Centennial, 72 pages; New York and How to See It, 72 pages; Washington and How to See It, 72 pages; 35 cents each in cloth; 15 cents each in paper. Boston to Washington, including all the above, 250 pages, paper, 35 cents; cloth, with fine map of the United States, $1.00. For sale by booksellers and newsdealers generally, or will be forwarded post paid, by the publishers, as above, or by Sibole & Stellwagen, general agents, No. 727 Sansom St., Philadelphia, on receipt of price.

Political.

The New York Tribune says 410 delegates have been chosen to the Cincinnati convention, as follows: For Blaine 134, Morton 90, Conkling 79, Hartranft 58, Bristow 46, Hayes 44, Jewell 10. The discrepancy shown in the totals of these votes is accounted for by the fact that quite a number are claimed for two or more candidates. There are 344 more to be chosen, and a majority of the whole will be 378.

The Detroit Post says: "When Belknap was married the marriage notice announced that 'the bride was given away by her distinguished kinsman, the Hon. George H. Pendleton of Ohio.' Pendleton is a democratic aspirant for the Presidency. He gave away Mrs. Belknap; and Belknap gave away Heister Clymer; and Heister Clymer gave away the whole democratic House. It was the most remarkable give away of modern times.

Great Falls has a candidate for delegate to the Cincinnati convention in the person of Hon. David H. Buffum, a sterling republican well known throughout the State. He has hosts of friends in his own and adjoining counties, and any candidate expecting to be chosen in opposition to him will be obliged to get around very lively from dawn to twilight to have an even chance of election.

A private letter from Illinois to the editor of the Cincinnati Commercial contains this information: "Blaine stock is again on the rise in this State. The machine politicians are generally for him; a few want Morton. The democrats are pretty rapidly settling down on old Judge Davis—an ex-republican, who would be a very formidable candidate in this State, though Bristow could beat him, and so could Blaine, I think."

The Allegan, Michigan, county convention gave a two-thirds vote for Blaine.

The New Hampshire delegation to the St. Louis convention has engaged a suit of rooms at the Lindell Hotel. They will support the candidacy of Gov. Tilden of New York, whose claims have already been endorsed by the New York, Georgia and Nebraska democratic State conventions.

A question is raised whether the vote of Danbury can be properly counted for Councilor at the late election. By the act of 1874 redistricting the State, Danbury was not assigned to any district. Last year the vote was cast for No. 3, and this year for No. 5. It is very probable that the vote will be thrown out, and the legislature give the town a place in one of the districts. In case the vote should be thrown out this year, Maj. Farr will be elected by the popular vote in his district.

We learn from an "inside" source that the opinions of some of the delegation from Vermont to the Cincinnati convention have undergone a change; that at least eight of the ten delegates are now for Benjamin H. Bristow, and that the probability is that the delegation will be unanimous for him.—Rutland Globe.

The Free Press is the title of a new eight-column weekly republican newspaper started at Great Falls. It is well printed and shows careful editing. "It seeks not to build up a new party, but to reform and purify the old one from within;—not to set up a new flag with a strange device, but to erase from our own glorious banner the corruption stains of polluted hands."

The Boston Post says Blaine is scooping up delegates by the armful.

Connecticut people in Washington predict the election of William H. Barnum as successor to Mr. English in the United States Senate.

Gov. Richard Coke, democrat, has been elected U. S. Senator from Texas.

Hon. E. H. Rollins has been summoned to Washington to testify to what he may know as treasurer of the Pacific Railroad about the "lost bonds." The Concord Monitor remarks as follows touching that $64,000 transaction: "The whole thing will prove to be a 'tempest in a teapot,' or we miss our guess. It will be found that Mr. Blaine has told the exact truth, and that some high railroad officials, not now connected with Union Pacific, have used his name to cover up sundry transactions of more concern to the stockholders of that road than to the public at large. The 'mystery' will 'pan out' poorly for the enemies of Mr. Blaine and Mr. Rollins."

The Two Collegiate Regattas.

Perhaps no race of the season is looked forward to with as much anxiety by college students and their friends, as the eight-oared contest between the two eights of Yale and Harvard Universities, which is to take place at Springfield on the 30th of June. The match was brought about shortly after the retirement of Yale from the Rowing Association of American Colleges. Harvard pluckily accepted the challenge thrown out by her adversary. The race will be four miles straight away, and both boats will carry coxswains after the fashion of the English University crews. At present the prevailing opinion is that the chances of victory are somewhat in favor of Yale. The style of stroke and Captain Cook's experience will, it is thought, prove most valuable in a long race. So Yale is somewhat of a favorite at this early day. This may change before the end of June, when the crews get at hard work, as did the opinions regarding Oxford and Cambridge in the annual meeting a couple of weeks since on the Thames. The crew in the Yale boat as at present composed consists of Edmund T. Livingston (bow), Frederick Wood, E. C. Cooke, W. W. Collin, David Hyde Kellogg, Charles N. Fowler, Julian Kennedy and Robert J. Cook (stroke). The Harvard crew will be picked from Bancroft, Le Moin, Bolan, Jacobs, Wordin, Otis, Thayer, Irving, James and H. P. Loring. Mr. Loring has been indisposed for the last two weeks, and during his absence his place was filled by Mr. Bacon.

The intercollegiate regatta takes place on Lake Saratoga on Wednesday, July 19. It is a matter of much regret that Yale withdrew from the Rowing Association of American Colleges, and will not row in the regatta of this year. Yale, however, is not the only college that will be conspicuous by its absence. Amherst, Trinity and Williams will not draw up into line on the day of the race, and in all probability Bowdoin and Brown will be unrepresented. Of the thirteen colleges which contended last year only seven in next July will enter into competition for supremacy. The colleges which remain are those which "showed up" best in 1875. Cornell won, but how closely she was pressed at the finish line by Columbia and Harvard is a matter of record. Then, too, the magnificent improvement in rowing of the Dartmouth crew, which stubbornly contested every inch with Yale and won a good place at the close, and the ever reliable crew of Wesleyan, which was also well up at the finish when the race was over, speak well for the prospects in 1876, when the first five of the thirteen crews which contended last year, will meet again in July on the waters of Lake Saratoga. Cornell, the winners of '75, will have Ostrom at his old position of stroke, with only two new men, the rest of the men being those who composed last year's crew. Columbia will have Goodwin, her old stroke and a splendid oar. Columbia will go to Saratoga with a strong crew, determined to win. Goodwin has his men out nearly every day on the Harlem and is doing earnest practice. Harvard is already at hard work preparing for the eight-oared race with Yale, and from the eight composing that crew the six will be chosen for the University regatta. Wesleyan, according to good authority, is stronger than ever, and never had so many good men in training. The prospects of a good six are excellent, and although the crew may be wholly composed of new men it must not be inferred that inexperience will characterize it, as most of the men have won favorable records in class crews. Dartmouth may do even better than last year, and if the crew of '76 is as much of an improvement on '75 as the '75 crew was over that of '74 they will prove dangerous rivals to the fastest crew on the lake. Princeton, with a splendid looking crew in '75, which held its own for the first mile with the leaders, and only for the illness of Parmly no doubt would have won a good place at the end, is now progressing favorably in training, and will send worthy men to represent the orange and black. Niccols, their old stroke, will be in the boat when the crew is selected. Hamilton, with characteristic New York pluck, will be in the race with pretty much the same crew as that of last year, but much improved by experience and hard practice. From the above facts it may be seen that the University race of '76 will be perhaps the hardest rowed University contest ever pulled on American waters. The number of competitors is reduced, but the seven crews that will row will be the best college oarsmen of the country.—N. Y. Herald.

Republican State Convention.

A republican State convention, for the choice of ten delegates to the republican National convention, to be held at Cincinnati, June, 14, 1876, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on Wednesday, the 24th day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All republican electors, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences or previous party affiliations, who are opposed to reviving sectional issues, and desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining and enforcing all the constitutional rights of every citizen, including the full and free exercise of the right of suffrage without intimidation and without fraud; who are in favor of the continued prosecution and punishment of all official dishonesty, and of an economical administration of the Government by honest, faithful, and capable officers; who are in favor of making such reforms in government as experience may from time to time suggest; who are opposed to impairing the credit of the nation by depreciating any of its obligations, and in favor of sustaining in every way the national faith and financial honor; who hold that the common-school system is the nursery of American liberty, and should be maintained absolutely free from sectarian control; who believe that, for the promotion of these ends, the direction of the Government should continue to be confided to those who adhere to the principles of 1776, and support them as incorporated in the Constitution and the laws; and who are in favor of recognizing and strengthening the fundamental principles of National Unity in this Centennial Anniversary of the birth of the Republic, are invited to participate in the election of delegates to this convention.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 4 o'clock, which all delegates are invited to attend.

PENHALLOW—DUNLAP. At Amherst, Mass., May 4, by Rev. J. L. Jenkins, Prof. David P. Penhallow and Miss Sarah A. Dunlap.

A Brain-Soothing Remedy.

The wondrous organs that crowns the edifice of man is not only the seat of reflection and the home of idealty, but it is the governing centre of the nervous system. When it is overwrought, unduly excited, or affected by irregularities of those bodily organs with which it most closely sympathizes, all the nerves suffer, and the general health is impaired. The reason why Hostetter's Stomach Bitters exercise such a soothing influence upon the brain is, that they renew those digestive and bilious derangements which react injuriously upon it and that in relieving irritation or weakness of the great sympathetic nerve which connects the stomach and the brain, they beneficially affect the latter organ as well as the former. Sound sleep, clearness of mind, easy digestion and freedom from biliousness are insured by this prime regulative tonic and nervine.

Daily Chronicle.

The Georgia republicans in State convention passed resolutions endorsing the administration of President Grant, and elected 22 delegates to the Cincinnati convention—8 for Blaine, 6 for Bristow, 5 for Morton and 3 for Conkling.

—On Thursday, in the House, Sammy Cox was making a funny speech on Indian affairs, and remarked that it "was not meet for warriors to boast of their prowess." Morrison was sitting near, and some unfortunate impulse suggested an interruption; so in a pause, he remarked: "You have no military prowess to boast of." Cox turned on Morrison instantly, and in a sarcastic way, that was very severe, replied: "My friend from Illinois says I have no military prowess to boast of. Let me say here that if I had I would not expunge it from the Congressional Directory." Morrison blushed, and tried to smile, but as the House burst into a roar of laughter, he realized his humiliation and hung his head.

Specialties in Medicines.

We publish on our eighth page a lengthy article describing the system of the noted specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., in which he sets forth with considerable force and clearness his reasons for devoting his whole time and attention to a single department of medicine—the treatment of lingering chronic diseases. The same article also takes up the subjects of diagnosis, methods of consideration and treatment, etc., and will be found to contain many valuable hints to the invalid. Dr. Pierce is the author of a work which has already attained a large circulation—"The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser"—containing some nine hundred numerously illustrated pages, and devoted to medicine in all its branches, a work well calculated for the guidance and instruction of the people at large and which may be had for $1.50 (post-paid) by addressing the author. Dr. Pierce has now been before the general public long enough to enable the formation of a careful estimate of the efficiency of his treatment and his medicines, and the verdict, we are glad to know, has been universally favorable to both.—Toledo Blade.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skilful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients. A. P. S.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to remain with his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the earnest wish of his friend and a citizen of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to each of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon returned some for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE—Dear Sir—For twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and I tried to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money could buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rockendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

PULMOCINE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Cordial he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

In the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the cause of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Hon. Levi Woodbury.

The name of Levi Woodbury stands high in the catalogue of New Hampshire's noble sons. In culture, in ability, in excellence of character, in the high official positions which he filled, he has had but few superiors in this or any age. Webster had greater oratorical talents, Hill was a shrewder politician, Atherton was a more accomplished advocate, Pierce was honored with a higher civil station, but to none of these does it seem to me was he inferior in those qualities which make the eminent scholar, the incorruptible judge, the profound statesman. He fills a niche in history which none of his contemporaries could have done with greater eclat, and his fame to-day is as bright as any enrolled in the annals of the nation.

This distinguished worthy was born in Francestown, New Hampshire, Dec. 22d, 1789. The region that gave him birth has been most prolific in the production of great men. Within a radius of thirty miles have been born Stark, the Websters, Dix, Pierce, Miller, McNiel, Atherton, Smith, and a dozen others who have won immortality in arms, literature, theology and statesmanship. Hon. Peter Woodbury, the father of the subject of this memoir, was a prominent politician of Hillsborough county and a man of scholarly attainments. He came of the best blood in the colonies, and young Woodbury was early trained in those strict Puritan habits which were then the recognized traits of the New England aristocracy. The rudiments of his education were acquired at the district school of his native village where he early distinguished himself by his unremitted application to study. Possessing an inordinate thirst for knowledge and a rare spirit of inquiry and analysis, he advanced rapidly in his studies, and at the age of sixteen he entered Dartmouth College.

Graduating in 1809, with a high reputation for talents and acquirements, he commenced the study of law. A three years course of the law schools of Litchfield, Ct., at Boston and at Exeter prepared him for the legal profession and he was admitted to the bar, locating himself in his native town. Attentive to the duties of his chosen avocation, diligent, keen, and learned, he soon obtained an extensive and reputable practice, and acquired an enviable distinction at a bar famous then as it has been since for some of the best legal lights in our country. Four years passed thus when the spirit of his dream changed.

In 1816 the political character of the State changed in favor of democracy. While yet a student, Mr. Woodbury became interested in the party struggles of the nation. A democrat by instinct and training he now plunged boldly into the arena of political strife. A brilliant career was opening before him.

Clerk of the State Senate in 1816, Judge of the Superior Court in 1817, and, Governor of the State in 1823, he discharged his varied duties in the most acceptable and popular manner. In 1819 he removed his residence to Portsmouth, and here, after his term of office as Governor expired, he resumed the practice of law. His legal erudition and forensic talents secured him clients from all parts of the State and acquired for him at once a lucrative practice. But he had talents that required a broader arena than the confines of a Circuit Court; and his countrymen knew it, and in 1825 he was sent a member to the Legislature and became Speaker of the House of Representatives. The same Legislature elected him a United States Senator, which office he filled till 1831. During his connection with the highest legislative power in the land he was regarded as the principal organ for the democracy of New England in that body. His speeches during that time are considered by critics as elegant specimens of varied learning, comprehensive reasoning, and sound logic.

The Portsmouth Mercantile Association voted at their meeting Friday evening to plant a tree in the Park on the 23d, and authorized President William H. Sise to carry out the action of the meeting. It was also voted to appropriate one hundred dollars for the purchase of new books for the library during the ensuing year.

On the expiration of his term of service in the Federal Senate, he was returned in March, 1831, by the people of the Portsmouth district to the State Senate, but resigned the office in order to accept that of the Secretary of the Navy, to which he had been appointed by Jackson on the dissolution of his first cabinet, and the retirement from the administration of the friends of Mr. Calhoun. In the discharge of the various and perplexing duties of that position he evinced superior ability, and this department soon felt the spur of his promptitude and genius. In July, 1834, Mr. Woodbury was transferred to the office of the Secretary of the Treasury, which he retained during the remainder of President Jackson's second term, and the whole of Mr. Van Buren's administration, going out on the inauguration of Harrison, March 4th, 1841. For seven years he had stood at the head of the financial affairs of the country and at a period too, which demanded the most masterly abilities to sustain. But his energy, comprehensive sagacity, and unswerving fidelity to the public interests were more than equal to the occasion. His official reports during this period are replete with important statistical information and able reasoning upon the various subjects of national policy.

In 1841, Mr. Woodbury took his place again in the United States Senate, and as a member of that body voted against the repeal of the sub-treasury act, against the bankrupt law, and against the bill to give the widow of Harrison $25,000. The next year he voted against the increase of the navy, and in favor of refunding the fine paid by Gen. Jackson at New Orleans; in 1844 in favor of the treaty annexing Texas, and in favor of the motion for ceasing the join occupation with Great Britain of the territory of Oregon. Mr. Woodbury continued in the Senate till September, 1845, when President Polk appointed him a Justice of the Supreme Court in place of Judge Story, deceased. He had already declined the office of Minister to England which had been tendered him, but he accepted this. He remained upon the bench of the Supreme Court till his death, Sept. 7th, 1857.

At the time of his decease Mr. Woodbury was regarded as a probable candidate for the presidency, and there was certainly no one in either party better fitted to fill that honorable position.

He received the degree of L. L. D. from the Wesleyan University at Middletown, Conn., and from Dartmouth College.—N. H. Patriot.

News and Notes.

The Brooklyn Board of Education say no married woman can be a teacher in the public schools of the City of Churches.

The effort of George Barnes of St. Louis to obtain from President Grant a commutation of William H. McKee's sentence has been unsuccessful, and now City Gauger McKee himself, armed with a monster petition from Missouri and Illinois, and strong letters, is on route to Washington to effect the same result.

John Gobel, of Peoria, Ill., a peaceable German, shot John Lockwood, a river "rough," with a shot-gun, literally blowing his head off. Lockwood had been engaged in an altercation with Gobel and his wife, about the ownership of some logs, and becoming enraged at the woman beat her most cruelly about the head, and Gobel resented the outrage upon his wife by killing Lockwood.

The House committee on naval affairs has agreed to abolish the office of civil engineer in the navy, and Secretary Robeson has agreed to it. It is said that the annual saving will be about $80,000.

Despatches from the West tell of terrible destruction of life and property by terrific storms Saturday afternoon. At Chicago and in the vicinity of Leavenworth, Kansas, the tornadoes were most disastrous, destroying buildings, uprooting trees and leaving only scenes of desolation wherever they struck. The losses are estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars, and the casualties to life and limb are fearfully numerous. Private despatches from Chicago state that the damage in that city will not fall short of half a million of dollars.

Mrs. Drake, wife of Abraham M. Drake, of Chichester, committed suicide, Friday night, by drowning. She had been insane for months, and escaped from the house on Friday afternoon, taking a basket and a cord. She went to a mill pond half a mile away, tied the basket, into which she put a 30 pound stone, around her neck, tied her hands, and threw herself into the water. Her age was about 43.

Political.

Among the papers sent out by Tilden, who is conducting a presidential still-hunt by flooding the South and West with documents favoring his own nomination for president, is Montgomery Blair's pronunciamento, of which the Augusta (Ga.) Sentinel received a copy accompanied by a request to publish it, even if without "full editorial approval." The receipt of the document is acknowledged, with this comment: "We can neither publish nor approve. If Mr. Tilden be nominated, the Southern people will support him just as they would support an Egyptian mummy; but they will not support him because they like Mr. Tilden or the men who control him. We do not think he stands any more chance of getting the nomination than a mud-turtle does of becoming a humming bird. If he is nominated, the prospect for his defeat is exceptionally bright." The Bucyrus (Ohio) Forum, a democratic paper to which a package of the Tilden documents was sent, says: "As he and his Tammany clique did all they could to defeat Uncle William Allen last Fall, we rather think that their efforts in Ohio will be 'wasting their sweetness on the desert air,' or words to that effect." All of which must be particularly encouraging to Sammy.

Senator Morton's friends are convinced that the republican victory in Indianapolis insures the nomination of their favorite for the Presidency. You can't convince an Indiana man that his State is not the main part of the Union.

The report sent over the country that Morton has considerable strength in Kentucky and that Bristow will not have the Kentucky delegation at Cincinnati, is false. The State Convention will be held on the 18th, and it is probable that it will be unanimous for Bristow.

The democratic papers have very little to say about the President's late communication to the House of Representatives. It hurts their feelings to have the rebel brigadiers snubbed so for their impudence.

Blaine is high in the estimation of Charles Francis.

Governor Hendrick's home is at Shelbyville, Ind., which the republicans carry this year by 98 majority, sweeping every ward. This is a gain of 120 over last year.

—There are in Amesbury, Mass., a husband and wife, the former of whom has had six wives and the latter four husbands. What chance will that couple have of admission to the Hindoo's paradise?

of the associated second mortgage bondholders, of the second mortgage trustees, and of the receivers of the road appointed by the United States courts in Indiana and Illinois. These are rather diversified interests for one lawyer to represent; but he collected handsome fees from two or more of these classes of persons. He was appointed by the first and second mortgage bondholders' association on the "purchasing committee" while acting as counsel as above stated, to purchase the road at a foreclosure sale. The statement of the "purchasing committee" claims that the committee purchased in their individual capacity, and took the title to the road as individuals, although we can not exactly see how this can be, when they were to purchase for others. The "purchasers" conveyed the road to the present corporation, receiving therefor a large number of valuable securities of the new corporation, which they proceeded to divide among themselves, and which they still retain, much to the disgust of certain interested bondholders, who do not quite understand how Gov. Tilden, the "purchaser" and attorney, could act both as principal and agent at the same time, and deal with trust funds for his own benefit. Let the bar association investigate.—Albany Law Journal.

Piper Confesses.

The Boston Globe of Monday says that Thomas W. Piper made the following confession on Sunday: in conversation with a gentleman who had been admitted to see him, Piper began talking in a different tone from that which he has been accustomed to use in his interviews with visitors, and showed plainly that something of more than ordinary weight was on his mind. He exhibited evident signs of mental anguish and by degrees prepared his visitor for a statement of the utmost gravity. At last the confession came out that instead of being the innocent cause of Mabel Young's death, by an accident, as his visitor had all along believed, he was in reality her cold-blooded murderer! The announcement filled the gentleman with horror, and he could hardly believe the evidence of his senses, but as he grew calmer he interrogated the prisoner on various points and drew from him a connected and full confession of the crime, which bears out the Government theory of the manner of its commission. But a more astounding communication was yet to come. The wretched prisoner, almost broken down with the mental ordeal he had undergone, and the decision to confess it at last, went on to state that in addition to murdering the innocent, lovely child, he had also foully butchered the humble domestic, Bridget Laudergin, more than two years ago, and had mangled and left for dead the helpless woman, Mary Tyner, whose recovery from her terrible injuries is deemed by the medical profession almost a miracle. Almost overcome with horror and surprise at the astounding stories he had heard, Piper's visitor sought to gain from him the clue to his dreadful acts,—the reason, if any existed, for the cruel butcheries he said he had perpetrated. On this point, the prisoner professed to be unable to give any answer, save that it must have been an uncontrollable impulse, an inexplicable thirst for blood and a savage delight in witnessing human suffering, which had actuated him. In this particular, his statement bore a strong resemblance to the confessions of Jesse Pomeroy, that he was possessed with a desire to take life which he could not resist and which could be ascribed to nothing short of diabolism or demoniacal possession. The gentleman next questioned him as to his reasons for so persistently and so variously lying about the matter, and was told that he did it to blind his counsel as well as the public generally, the wretched man well knowing that had the truth been in the possession of his counsel, they would have refused to proceed with his defence and would have left him to bear the punishment of his crimes. This explanation is readily reconcilable with Piper's conduct throughout, and it explains not only his own stories but the action of his counsel, Mr. Edward F. Brown, who believing fully in the accident theory, has zealously and honestly worked upon it, and has not only done his best to save the life of his client, but had impressed many people with a similar belief. The announcement of this confession by Piper, and the knowledge of his client's guilt, will, of course, absolve Mr. Brown from any further efforts in his behalf, and will lead to the abandonment of the motion for a new trial, made in the Supreme Court on Saturday. Piper's physical condition is reported pitiable in the extreme. His nerves have fairly eaten him up, as his visitor expresses it; the terrible mental suffering which he must have undergone, having reduced him almost to a skeleton, and left him is a weak and shattered condition.

The motion for a new trial for Piper was heard on Monday, when his counsel withdrew from the case on account of his confession, and the motion for a new trial was overruled. His confession was first made to E. P. Brown, Esq., junior counsel on his first trial and sole counsel on the last one.

Investigate Him.

While the bar association is on the subject of investigations into the professional transactions of its members, it might not be amiss for that body to appoint a committee to look after the relations of Governor Tilden with the Terre Haute, Alton & St. Louis Railroad. From the recently published statement of the "purchasing committee" of that road, of which Governor Tilden himself is the chief member, it would appear that he was at one time counsel of the associated first mortgage bondholders,

IS hereby given that the granting of a charter for a Railroad from the State line of Massachusetts to the State line of Maine, running through the towns of South Hampton, Kensington, Exeter, Stratham and New market, in the County of Rockingham, and the towns of Durham, Madbury, Dover, Rollinsford and Somersworth, in the County of Strafford, will be asked for at the coming session of the legislature in June. Also, a charter for a branch Railroad from Exeter to Portsmouth, running through the towns of North Hampton, Stratham and Greenland, in the County of Rockingham, will be asked for at the same time.

HAVING NOTICED
The statements in the city papers, that certain persons have been injured by eating pressed corned beef put up in Chicago, and feeling that if not explained these facts will result in injury where it does not belong, and as after a thorough investigation we find that the beef complained of is in every instance beef packed in rolls and enclosed in the foil by parties unknown to us and not at all similar to canned beef: therefore we, the undersigned, in simple justice to the public and to the reliable firm that pack the canned article, wish to state that we have for a long time sold Pressed Canned Corned Beef and Beef Tongues packed in 2, 4, 6 and 14 ℔ cans, by Messrs. Memorial Day.

The arrangements for Memorial Day are progressing very favorably, and the indications point to a fine observance. Postmaster E. G. Pierce has accepted the chief marshalship of the day, and our honored citizen, Ex-Governor Ichabod Goodwin, on Monday accepted the position of presiding officer of the memorial mass meeting to be held in the evening. Mr. Albert Laighton has also signified that he will respond to the unanimous invitation of the citizen's committee and write a poem to be read and sung on that occasion. On every hand the several sub-committees are meeting with the heartiest responses.

The Finance Committee (consisting of A. F. Craig, J. C. Butler, G. W. Marston and J. H. Hutchinson) is ready to receive cash donations to help on this patriotic observance.

The Committee on Invitations had their first meeting Monday, and prepared a list of the organizations to be invited to participate in the festivities.

The Committee on Oration are now in communication with a distinguished General with the view of securing his services as orator at the mass meeting.

Jottings.

Gunner Thomas R. Wilson is ordered to take charge of the naval magazine in addition to his present duties.

Gunner Thomas Fortune is detached from the naval magazine, and ordered to the Portsmouth, at the navy yard, Mare Island, on the 1st June next.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Portsmouth and Dover Railroad will be held here on Tuesday, the 16th inst., to take action concerning the payment of the unliquidated debt of the corporation. By the statement made to the stockholders last August, the financial condition of the road appeared thus: The construction of the road was returned at $753,160. There has been paid for capital stock, $678,560. There are notes payable, $63,000, and outstanding claims about $19,000, making the amount to be provided for, in round numbers, about $82,000. The stock was principally taken by the cities of Portsmouth and Dover, who exchanged for their subscriptions their six per cent. bonds, the city of Portsmouth holding $300,000 and Dover $225,000. The proposed action is to issue new stock, on which the Eastern Railroad guarantees the interest for the amount of deficit, but it must first be apportioned. The individual stockholders have about $152,000, and the question is, will the shareholders vote to issue the stock, which in the present rate of the money market, can be disposed of at a fair price, as can the bonds with which the cities will pay their instalments of new shares? As the floating debt has been carried by the notes of the corporation, the managers feel it is time the road should provide for it and have the accounts closed. The road of itself pays but little; but it is to the Eastern road what the Lowell and Andover is to the Boston and Maine, or the Lawrence Branch to the Boston and Lowell, a great pacificator, and in that view is worth the annual cost of running it over its receipts to the Eastern.

The U. S. Circuit Court, Judge Shepley presiding, is holding a session in this city.

Operations were begun in good earnest at Elwyn Park on Monday. Mr. George A. Perkins, with his two-horse team, to plow a trench for the new wall, was the first volunteer for work; and Mr. A. F. Craig took the first trees on the grounds, being an assortment of nine of the thirteen different varieties to be set by the Portsmouth Artillery Company. Several men are employed in the Park, setting trees, building wall, grading, etc.

The annual meeting of the Concord Railroad stockholders occurs at Concord, May 30th.

Congressman Jones has introduced a bill in the House "to establish a light-station" (more probably a fog-horn) on Whale's Back.

The Eastern Railroad time-table which went into effect last week, was again changed on Monday, the 8th. The times of arrival and closing of mails are correspondingly changed.

We, in common with this community, regret to learn that Miss Mary E. B. Miller, the talented organist at the Unitarian church, has resigned that position. She will be greatly missed from her accustomed place, which has been filled by her to such general satisfaction for so many years.—Times.

At the meeting of the House naval committee, Saturday, one of the members proposed to report a resolution to the House immediately, requiring the removal of Constructor Hanscom and all of his relations from the Navy Department. The ground of this motion was the belief in the member's mind that the Hanscoms are corrupt.

A Big Man.

A letter from Fitzhugh, the ex-rebel democratic doorkeeper of the House of Representatives, sent to a friend in Texas in December last is published. It is a most entertaining missive. Below is his description—a verbatim copy—of the jolly "soft thing" he has:

Fay [Fitzhugh's son] arrived on Saturday morning all safe I set him to work on Monday at a $2100 place & he is the most delighted fellow you ever saw. I wish you could be here with me do try & come on, the Govt furnishes me with a fine turnout & spanking pair of Horses & before & after the house sessions & recess I have exclusive use of them, my coachman comes down every morning for us, that is Fay & myself and after driving around to my breakfast take me to my office, come on & I will give you &— a good time. Congress is invited over to the Centenial on friday, we will have a big time—come back on Sunday, I may draw on you for one hundred & twenty five dollars tomorrow which you can draw back for on 1st Jan. I got your telegram telling me to draw for two hundred if needed, but tried to do without any, & may not have to draw tomorrow, but all of our members are like myself tight up on first mo & I hate to ask them. J W come on christmas for a few days & we will have a glorious time, I have more invitations to frolicks with the members & Senators than any man in Washington. I am a biger man now with the members than old Grant. I cannot put my foot on the floor of the Hall but that they make a break for me & sometimes a dozen beging at me at once for places for some friend. I scarcely ever git out of the Office to go on the floor of the House, I have under me the Folding rooms, Document Rooms, File rooms, all committee rooms, all employees in the South wing of building & entire south wing of capital. I have a Supt & assistant in each department and about a dozen book keepers besides my Office clerk, and we do things up in stile, I have a boy to take my hat & coat or I can't turn around without some one at my beck & call & when I get all my new appointments broken in I shall have a nice time. * * * I am making up a party already to come on to Texas on the adjournt, S S Cox to head it, he is the warmest friend of mine you ever saw, also the new Speaker Mr. Kerr, Fay & myself spent the evening with Mr and Mrs Kerr last eveng, I am a great favorite of hers Mrs Coxs & Mrs Senator Gordon—quite a contrast here & Austin, I can't turn for friends here. I have now fifty letters from my Southern friends all parts of the South congratulating me, thus wags the world, let a man be prosperous & every man is his friend, must close, tell— I will look out for him & if I cannot make a place myself I can get him in some of the Departments after Christmas, write soon to Your Devoted Friend

Old Time Chronicles, No. 135.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

It was about one hundred years ago, and what we are about to relate shows what inconveniences and hardships the early people had to endure. In the westerly part of Epping a family, living on the spot where Mr. Gardner Durgin now lives, needed a physician, as the woman of the house was about to be confined. The snow was deep and there was no path for a horse, if indeed one was at hand. Snow shoes were put on and another pair taken along for the use of the Doctor. He was found near what is now the Corner, but he positively refused to go over the distance, three miles, under such difficult circumstances. Pleading the urgency of the case was of no avail. The party returned and then went to Raymond, three miles the other way, for a Mrs. Prescott, of service in such cases. On snow snoes, with energy the Doctor did not possess, and on boards thrown down in some difficult places, she made her way to Epping. The sick woman was saved, but the child did not live. There were some women and some men in early times of strong minds. Otherwise the efforts to settle the towns would have failed. To them their posterity is much indebted for the prosperity that has come since.

Locusts in Spain.

The Southern provinces of Spain are threatened with a terrible visitation this year. During the last eight or nine years locusts have made their appearance in that fertile country, at first in small bodies, the vanguard of the coming multitude, and afterward increasing to such an enormous number that two years ago a train was brought to a stop in the province of La Mancha by masses of the insects piled up like driven snow upon and along the line. This year there are signs that the plague will assume even greater proportions, if the measures taken to check its progress should prove ineffectual, and in that case the harvest, which promises to be more than usually abundant, will be almost entirely lost. The difficulty in Spain, as in America, of exterminating the pest arises out of the circumstances in which it propagates its kind. No plan could be more cunningly devised to defy the destroying hand of man than that the locust follows. It makes a tubular receptacle, in which it lays its eggs, and when that is full, the ends are carefully cemented to keep the contents intact and free from damp. This tube is deposited in the earth, and the insect, instinct again leading it to the safest course, usually chooses the hardest earth, and that which is unlikely to be touched by the plow. The eggs remain in the earth from August until April, when, under the warm Spring sun, they begin to develop; and, as each envelope contains about 100 eggs, it may be easily imagined how rapid is the increase. To be successful, operations against the locust must be commenced in the first stage of development. Once let the full force of the sunshine upon them, and they spring into life, and make a paradise of fertility a howling waste of desolation. This, therefore, is the season at which the crusade of extermination should begin, and so serious is the evil that the services of the military are called in to aid in the work. On the 5th of April telegrams were published stating that the terrible invader threatened to destroy all the cereal crops of Salamanca, and on the same day it was announced that 1,000 troops sent to Badajos, in Estramadura, were not enough, and that 4,000 at least were needed. The soldiers are to be employed in digging trenches, into which the locusts are swept and buried. This appears to be the only effectual means known in Spain, and the laborious character of the remedy, together with the swift rise and spread of the plague, may well make the Spanish government and the people of the South nervous as to the success of their efforts.

—The city of Worcester, Mass., has been repairing damages caused by the recent breaking of the Lynde brook reservoir, and has completed the temporary dam. Work on the main dam now follows, but large quantities of earth have got to be removed first. In connection with this matter it is mentioned that a Worcester man is about to sue a neighbor to recover possession of his house, which, during the flood, was moved on the latter's land where it remained. The neighbor says he found it there and means to keep it. Possession is nine tenths of the law.

—The original Masonic apron worn by General Washington has been presented to the Centennial Historical Department. It was given by Bushrod Washington, the General's favorite nephew and executor, to Governor Smith, of North Carolina, and by him bequeathed to Dr. Clitherall, whose son, Dr. Clitherall, now deposits it in the above named department. It is of white satin, with appropriate emblems.

Republican State Convention.

A republican State convention, for the choice of ten delegates to the republican National convention, to be held at Cincinnati, June, 14, 1876, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on Wednesday, the 24th day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All republican electors, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences or previous party affiliations, who are opposed to reviving sectional issues, and desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining and enforcing all the constitutional rights of every citizen, including the full and free exercise of the right of suffrage without intimidation and without fraud; who are in favor of the continued prosecution and punishment of all official dishonesty, and of an economical administration of the Government by honest, faithful, and capable officers; who are in favor of making such reforms in government as experience may from time to time suggest; who are opposed to impairing the credit of the nation by depreciating any of its obligations, and in favor of sustaining in every way the national faith and financial honor; who hold that the common-school system is the nursery of American liberty, and should be maintained absolutely free from sectarian control; who believe that, for the promotion of these ends, the direction of the Government should continue to be confided to those who adhere to the principles of 1776, and support them as incorporated in the Constitution and the laws; and who are in favor of recognizing and strengthening the fundamental principles of National Unity in this Centennial Anniversary of the birth of the Republic, are invited to participate in the election of delegates to this convention.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 4 o'clock, which all delegates are invited to attend.

Centennial Greeting.

The subscribers hereby tender their sincere thanks to their friends and the public, for the confidence and generous patronage bestowed on them the past thirty-three years in their line of business. And wishing to show a just appreciation of favors received, do hereby announce that on and after MONDAY, the First of May, they will supply their customers, and all who may call on them, until further notice, a Guaranteed article of

PURE MILK

Five Cents Per Quart!

And they further announce that at the solicitation of many of their friends, they will, on and after MONDAY, the First of June, deliver to all who may favor them with their patronage, milk morning and evening (Sundays excepted) in order that families who wish an early breakfast and sweet cream for their coffee, will be enabled to do so, and at the popular price of FIVE CENTS PER QUART. And to meet the requirements of their summer trade, they have made arrangements for the purchase of a number of cows, selected especially for the quality rather than the quantity of their milk.

Please remember that there is no need of sending to the stores for milk, but have it left at your door at the extremely low price of two dimes per gallon. Do not forget that we are offering you a FRESH, RELIABLE ARTICLE EVERY DAY, and not mixed milk once or twice a week.

And in order that we may carry out this new departure, all bills will be rendered promptly on the first of each month.

MARBLE WORK,
I would respectfully invite the people of Portsmouth and vicinity, who have lost relatives or friends, or have occasion for the use of any kind of stone work, to call before purchasing elsewhere. My stock consists of Monuments, Headstones, Marble Posts, Marble Shelves, Fler Tops, &c., the stock for which was bought and men employed to work the same, since the commencement of the present hard times. I have not sufficient room in which to place more work, and do not wish to discharge any of my hands. For the above reasons, I feel confident that no one can undersell me with the same quality of stock and work. I take occasion to call the attention of all who are repairing or building houses, to my large stock of Wood Ashes.

Analysis of wood ashes made by Mr. Austin P. Nichols, from ashes taken from the hearth in our dwelling, gave the following potash results.

	No. 1.	No. 2.	Mean.
Potash,	12.55	12.64	12.59
Carb. of potash	18.38	18.55	18.48

The woods from which the ashes came were grown at Lakeside Farm, and consisted of a mixture of hickory, oak and beech. The results show the amounts of pure potash and carbonate of potash which the ashes contained, but the absolute alkali power and value as represented are best shown in the amount of crude or commercial potashes held in the ashes. One hundred pounds held 19.85 lbs. of alkaline salts soluble in water, and consequently, if we estimate the value of commercial potash at 8 cents per lb. we have a cash potash value in these ashes of $1.60 in each 100 lbs. A bushel of dry ashes weighs about 34 lbs.; this would give a potash value to each bushel of about 53 cents. The ordinary ashes, such as are collected in the country by soap-boilers, are usually not so rich in alkaline constituents. The mean potash value of these ashes, estimating upon the basis here adopted, we have found to be about 42 cents per bushel.

From these results it is clear that the farmer had better retain his ashes for farm use than to sell them at the price usually obtained from soap peddlers. Besides the potash salts, ashes contain important amounts of phosphoric acid, soluble silica, etc., which add greatly to their value as fertilizing material. It is safe to say that every bushel of true wood ashes which a farmer produces upon his hearth, is worth to him, for farm use, 40 cents in gold. It is therefore very poor husbandry to sell them for 20 cents the bushel, as many do. We value ashes so highly that all offers for them are rejected, no matter what they may be.

In the mixture of raw bone meal and ashes, recommended by us ten years ago, we get quite all the valuable constituents of plant food, and at cheaper rates than in any other mixtures. We have used this combination for many successive seasons, with most satisfactory results. We confidently expect that the German potash products will before long stop the consumption of wood ashes in the manufacture of American potashes, and this will be a happy day for our agricultural industry, if the products of our wood fires are turned in the direction of the farm.—Jour. Chemistry.

Specialties in Medicines.

We publish on our eighth page a lengthy article describing the system of the noted specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., in which he sets forth with considerable force and clearness his reasons for devoting his whole time and attention to a single department of medicine—the treatment of lingering chronic diseases. The same article also takes up the subjects of diagnosis, methods of consideration and treatment, etc., and will be found to contain many valuable hints to the invalid. Dr. Pierce is the author of a work which has already attained a large circulation—"The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser"—containing some nine hundred numerously illustrated pages, and devoted to medicine in all its branches, a work well calculated for the guidance and instruction of the people at large and which may be had for $1.50 (post-paid) by addressing the author. Dr. Pierce has now been before the general public long enough to enable the formation of a careful estimate of the efficiency of his treatment and his medicines, and the verdict, we are glad to know, has been universally favorable to both.—Toledo Blade.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the fine meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. F. STEVENS.

N. B—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to each of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. F. S.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Sciatica, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a burden, Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained their orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a box, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD, Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. It happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I read it, was impressed with what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me. I think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think the world may prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully, MRS. B. T. LANE.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

PULMOCINE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is now discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine, is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the luny, trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

CRUCIFIXION IN COLORADO.

Quite an excitement has been produced here this week by the horrible performances of the Mexican "Penitentes." The most disgusting crimes that the mind can conceive of have been perpetrated right under our very noses, and one sickens at the terrible details. I do not like to shock the readers of the Tribune, but this must be stopped, and the sooner it is talked about and put an end to the better it will be for us all. It had been announced during the week that a man was to be crucified. But few paid any attention to this, not believing it possible that such a thing could or would occur.

On Carneros Creek, fifteen miles below here, is quite an extensive settlement of Mexicans, engaged in herding and farming. The day was a bright one, and your correspondent, in company with ex-Mayor Barker, went down to have a look, hardly supposing that we should see anything extraordinary. We arrived at Mr. Royal's ranch about one o'clock, and were informed that the fun had just commenced.

After a hasty dinner we proceeded up the creek, and directly back of Mr. Royal's ranch, perhaps a mile from the house, the first thing that we came upon was a group of men that seemed in the distance to be surrounding three or four women with red shawls on. Approaching nearer we discovered them to be Penitentes. Crosses about twelve or fifteen feet high had been erected at intervals of perhaps 800 feet apart. There were four. One of them bore the legend, "Nisi Dominus frustra" (lest God be with you all is vain;) another, "Nil nisi crucl" (naught but the cross;) another, "La passion en credo" (suffering by faithh,) and still another, actually painted in blood, "Omnia ad Dei Gloriam" (all things to the glory of God.)

Perhaps some of your readers are not aware of the true meaning of the word "Penitente." A Penitente is one who is supposed to have committed some crime against society or the church, for which, although he may have escaped civil law, he is yet amenable to the church, and must undergo a self-imposed punishment. A Penitente never does penance in a community where he is known. One who belongs here, for instance, dons a black mask and suddenly appears among strangers in Comejas, Loma or some other Mexican town, while Penitentes from either of those points make their appearance at Carneros. Not one of the eighteen at Carneros belonged there, and no one had seen their faces or had the slightest idea from whence they came. These masks are simply black sacks drawn completely over the head and tied at the neck. One or two wore red masks. Whether or not it was a symbol of a different degree of crime, we failed to ascertain. Each Penitente wore simply a pair of the very thinnest kind of knit drawers. This, with the mask, was their only attire. They were formed in groups of four or five Penitentes, and six or seven attendants. The leader of each band walked before, carrying something similar to a watchman's rattle. Another attendant followed, playing a small reed flute, while the other attendants chanted in a low, monotonous voice some words in Spanish. All—both Penitentes and their attendants—carried an "azote," or scourge. These were the dried leaves of the soap-weed—common in this country—firmly braided and twisted together into a sort of club, in the widest part about four inches, and three feet long. What we took at first to be red shawls was simply blood. They were actually dripping and drenched in blood from head to foot. They had taken sharp flints and dug them into the flesh all over the body until the blood fairly spurted from their bodies. They marched slowly to the chant, always kept up, and at every step gave themselves fearful blows with these "azotes." We could hear these blows an eighth of a mile.

Every two or three minutes one would fall to the ground lifeless from loss of blood. The moment he fell an attendant would pick up his scourge and beat him with all his might on his bare body. He would again stagger to his feet and again apply the scourge as long as his strength lasted, and when he fell again the same operation was repeated as before. Occasionally they would roll their scourges, wet with blood, in the sand and fine gravel, and lash themselves with renewed vigor. When one got very weak from loss of blood the attendants held him up and kept up the march in the procession, while another beat him as they walked along. One Penitente had a log chain around each ankle, and the attendants, to vary the monotony, would drag him over the cactus plants and sharp stones by these chains. Occasionally they would jerk him almost clear from the ground, and always keep up their music. Another had his arms, from the wrist to above the elbows, bound around and around closely with rawhide thongs, in such a manner as to completely stop the circulation, and from the ankle to above the knee in the same fix. The line of march was generally from the lower cross to a log cabin, where a relay of Penitentes awaited the return of each party.

Before we reached the Carneros two had died from the effects of the scourging, and from a gentleman who left there to-day we hear that three more are not likely to recover. We were told while there, by one or two outsiders, that one was nailed to a cross up the gulch, and out of sight from where we were, but we were not permitted to go up to see him. He was dead. Nails had been driven through his hands and feet, and he was actually crucified. Last year, upon this same spot, a man was crucified also. He lived twelve hours, but was not taken down and buried for two or three days, for fear he might not be quite dead. Now this is not romance, as every word can be substantiated. Mayor Barker witnessed these performances with myself, Mr. Helphenstine and his wife, and Mrs. Royal. We were the only Americans upon the ground that day. These things took place within a mile of a well-travelled road, and in sight of two or three ranches. Not one ranchman dare interfere or object in the least to this business, as his stock and houses and barns are at their mercy.—Cor. Denver Tribune.

Piper's Confession.

The Post says that Mr. Brown, junior counsel for the condemned wretch, visited the jail on Sunday for the purpose of conferring with him regarding the motion for a new trial. During the conversation the statement made by Piper of the story of the accidental death of the child was referred to, and he was asked to repeat the statement, which he did, but his last story was so very different from the first that his counsel said: "Now, Piper, you are not telling me the truth. You have not told that story as you told it in the first place. If you have anything to tell me now that is true I will hear it, but if not, I must bid you good-bye and leave you." Piper, after some hesitation, said: "Mr. Brown, I will tell you the whole truth, I killed the little girl." "How did you do it?" inquired Mr. Brown. Piper replied: "I took the bat from the lower room before or about the commencement of the school to kill somebody. At that time I carried it up into the auditorium, but, during the session of the Sunday-school, took it from the auditorium and carried it to the belfry. After the close of the school I came down stairs and opened the doors. Then I went up again at the time that I sent away the boys who were playing in the vestibule. After the boys had gone out and I was still in the vestibule the little girl came up stairs, and I induced her to go with me into the belfry. There I struck her with the club two or three times, and she fell where the blood was found. Then I picked her up and carried the body to the place where it was discovered." In answer to the question as to whether that was all, Piper said: "No sir: I killed Bridget Landregan. He then related the manner in which he murdered Miss Bridget Landergan, in the following language: "On that night I started out with two of my brothers to go to church. After we had got a little way I told them that I did not feel very well and that I would go back. I left them and walked back alone. Afterward I went into a place where they sold opium. I got some and then went and got some whiskey. I put them together and drank them. I then went back to my house and went down stairs. I took a saw and sawed off the piece of shaft which was found afterward. After I had cut off the piece of shaft I went out, walked around some and hid the piece under the fence. Soon an alarm of fire was rung, I went to the fire, and then came back and stood with my brother at the corner of Cotting and Stoughton streets. While I was standing there saw Dr. Eddy pass along, and I also saw a woman on the other side of the street. Immediately my brother and I went into the house and I said, 'I guess I'll go to bed.' I went down into the kitchen, pretending that I was going to bed, but instead of doing that I went out the back door. I got the club and started on after the woman I had seen. I followed her along and overtook her near Glover's Corner. As there were people about there at the time, I followed her down till we got to Columbia street. Then I was so near her that she looked around and saw me. I struck her immediately; she fell down and I struck her again. While I was stooping over the body I saw a man coming, so I started up and ran away. I got over the fence and went along toward the railroad. While I was climbing up the bank at the railroad somebody called out to me and then I turned back, took a round-about way and got home. On the way home it occurred to me that I had a knife in my pocket which might be recognized in some manner, and so I threw it away."

It will be remembered that Bridget Landregan was murdered while on her way home from church on the night of the 5th of December, 1873, and that at the inquest it was stated that one of a party of negro children who were playing in the vicinity at that time, hearing the outcries of the girl ran toward the place and saw a man whom they described with exactness, rising from over her prostrate form and running swiftly away across the fields. The lad who went nearest to the woman was very positive in his statements, and his description of the man corresponded exactly with that of Piper. Instant search for the murderer was begun, and continued for some time, and several arrests were made on suspicion. First to be suspected came Thomas Cahill, the dead girl's lover. The very morning after the murder he had sailed for Eurrpe in the Marathon, and some of the circumstances seemed to point to him as the murderer. Mrs. Piper subsequently informed the officers that she saw a man whom she thought was Cahill run out of her cellar. At a later period a pair of trousers bearing the name of Thomas Cahill on the watch pocket were discovered in a vault, and a new link in the chain of circumstantial evidence against Cahill was thought to have been discovered. The trousers would not fit Cahill, being too short in the legs and too small around the waist, but it is said they fitted Piper to a nicety. However, the State Constables believed Cahill was the man, and having obtained the proper papers started for Ireland where the supposed murderer of poor Bridget Landregan had fled. He was extradited and returned to this country and locked up in Charles Street Jail for over nine months and then discharged, the evidence being insufficient to hold him longer. Some circumstances pointed quite strongly to Piper as being the murderer soon after the body of the woman was found, but he accounted for himself by saying that at the time of the murder he was a mile and a half from the scene at a fire which occurred that night, having been on his way home when he heard the alarm; that after going to the fire he went home and to bed, and never knew anything of the murder till the next day. At the conclusion of Piper's confession to being the murderer of Bridget Landregan, Brown, greatly astonished, asked Piper if that was all, when the wretch calmly said, "Oh, no! I committed the assault on Mary Tyner."

He said that on the night of July 1, 1874, he met her in LaGrange street, and, after some conversation, he invited her to a refreshment saloon, where they partook of some viands and liquors. He then accompanied her to her home on Oxford street, where he passed the night with her. Early in the morning he arose, his victim being then asleep. He looked around the room and saw that he could leave the house by going out of the window. He next saw a hammer or something that he thought looked like a hammer, and seizing it he struck the woman several blows on the head, and then left the house and hurried to the Warren Avenue Church, of which he was then sexton. Piper can only account for committing the shocking assault on the unfortunate woman by saying that he supposed it was a desire to inflict injuries for the purpose of "seeing his victims suffer." Since the assault on Mary Tyner, she has been, with the exception of a few weeks an inmate of the City Hospital and Insane Asylum at Taunton, where she is at present. She cannot remember where she was or with whom she passed that night. In fact, all past and present events are as a blank to Miss Tyner, owing to the terrible injuries which she received on that morning. When Piper ceased relating the above story he was again asked if he had anything else to confess: "Oh, yes," he replied, "there are some little things. I stole money from Jordan, Marsh & Co., and also a coat from the barber's shop of the Commonwealth Hotel." His counsel then asked him if all that was true, and he, in a calm and deliberate manner, replied that it was. This closed the interview.

News and Notes.

The Centennial opens to-day.

Rubenstein, the murderer of Sara Alexander, in New York, was found dead in his cell Tuesday morning. He was to have been hung.

William W. Belknap has been indicted by the grand jury at Washington.

There is now not one open bar in Dover. The largest temperance meeting ever held in that city was held at the City Hall, Monday night. The meeting was unanimously in favor of sustaining the city government in the rigid enforcement of the prohibitory law.

The item published in a Boston paper concerning the "large number of coffins" sold to the county of Carroll and stored at the County House at Ossipee by one of the County Commissioners, when reduced to facts amounts to just this: Mr. Jacob Manson, Superintendent of the County Farm, having a large number of aged and sick people under his charge, requested Mr. Silas Snow, the Commissioner referred to, to send down six coffins, which was done. There was no speculation about it.

The selectmen of Rochester have sold the stock owned by the town in the Nashua & Rochester Road (after receiving the April dividend) for $90 per share, making $13,500. They had previously received $1,200 in dividends, thus making, with dividends and stock sold, $14,700, or, without reckoning the interest, within three hundred dollars of what the stock originally cost the town. Thus for a comparative trifle the town of Rochester has secured a new and important railroad connection, opening a direct line to New York, via Nashua and Worcester, which has already been of great value to the business men of Rochester.

The dwelling and barn of Leonard W. Fellows, of Dorchester, were entirely destroyed by fire Sunday night, with their contents. The fire took from a defect in the chimney.

Christiana Livingstone, a Swedish woman aged about 50 years, a widow, committed suicide Monday afternoon by hanging herself on a blindhook at her house on Park street, Manchester. She has a son in Jacksonville and a daughter in Lake City, Fla., whither she was expecting to go Tuesday. Nervous excitement is supposed to have led to the act.

—Charles Glosson, a Memphis negro, sued Ella Dailey for kissing him. The prosecutor has a wife, and he stated that Ella's malice did not consist in the mere act of kissing him, which ordinarily he did not object to, but in persisting in kissing him in the presence of his wife, which had a tendency to make things unpleasant at home, and was expensive when the broken crockery and frying pans that had to be replaced were taken into the account.

—A Maryland man has sent to the New York Sun two pills which he says are a certain cure for hydrophobia. He has sent them to the right place. No one can read the Sun ten minutes without reaching the conclusion that the editor is mad—especially at Grant for not giving him an office.—Norristown Herald.

100 CENTENNIAL TREES,

of all varieties; and any citizen, Society, or Association desiring to furnish one or more trees for this purpose, may send them to the Park at any time, or report at the Bookstore of Mr. JOS. H. FOSTER, or to either of the Trustees, or to Mr. JOHN F. MARDEN, on South Street.

Or parties wishing to aid the cause, and preferring to be represented by one or more trees, rather than provide them, can do so by a donation of $5.00 (or any sum they see fit) to the Treasurer.

Citizens willing to contribute labor gratuitously toward the construction of the Park, either of men or teams, are invited to report at the grounds at any time previous to the 23d inst., to assist in setting trees, building fences and embankments, clearing the grounds, etc.

Most respectfully, for the cause,

HAVING NOTICED

The statements in the city papers, that certain persons have been injured by eating pressed corned beef put up in Chicago, and feeling that if not explained these facts will result in injury where it does not belong, and as after a thorough investigation we find that the beef complained of is in every instance beef packed in rolls and enclosed in the roll by parties unknown to us, and not at all similar to canned beef; therefore we, the undersigned, in simple justice to the public and to the reliable firm that pack the canned article, wish to state that we have for a long time sold Fremont CANNED Corned Beef and Beef Tongues packed in 2, 4, 6 and 14 ℔ cans, by Messrs. Libby, McNeil & Libby of Chicago, and we cheerfully recommend this brand of goods as a safe, nutritious and economical article of food.

Jottings.

The competition for the Portland and Eastern travel between the Eastern and Boston & Maine Railroads went into effect Monday, when the two roads began running their fast express trains between Portland and Boston on the schedule time. Both trains were advertised to leave Portland at 1:30 o'clock, the Eastern to arrive in Boston at 5:15 and the Boston & Maine at 5:20 o'clock. Both trains started on time from Portland, and the first one to arrive in Boston was the Eastern, making the run of 108 miles in three hours and thirty-four minutes, arriving at 5:04 o'clock, just eleven minutes ahead of time. Superintendent Bachelder was on the train, and the eleven minutes were gained between Lynn and Boston. The Boston & Maine made the run in three hours and thirty-nine minutes, arriving in Boston at 5:09 o'clock, five minutes behind the Eastern and eleven minutes ahead of time. As the case now stands, the Boston & Maine time is five minutes slower than the Eastern—or rather the distance run is greater—and if the former should shorten the running time, the Eastern will doubtless make it still quicker.

The Knights of Pythias have voted to plant a tree in Elwyn Park on Arbor day, and appointed Knight Charles W. Gardner to make an address on the occasion.

Schooner George H. Mills, which arrived here on Sunday from Philadelphia, reports having passed a large quantity of wrecked material between the Shoals and Cape Ann; also, picked up and brought into port a schooner's mast.

The two first, or the first two trees set in the Park, were by Mr. Joseph R. Holmes—rock maples. Nos. 3 and 4 were set by Mr. F. W. Miller, for Portsmouth Grange—Norway spruces.

Across the River.

YORK, ME., May 5.

The Cape Neddick House, so long and successfully managed by "Ma'am Freeman," and two years ago sold to Mr. Joseph T. Young, has recently been sold to Mr. Stephen E. Grant of this town. We doubt not that Mr. Grant and his estimable lady (who by the way is a most splendid cook) will bring to the old mansion the reputation it held in days of yore.

Rice's Bridge is "impassable," being repaired. Five sections are to be built new, thus making the entire bridge new within four years. The work is under charge of Mr. William P. Titcomb, assisted by Messrs. John W. Gowen and John H. Roberts—better known hereabouts as "the two Johns," from the fact that they work together so much.

A fine new house near Brave Boat Harbor in York, owned by Mr. John J. Shaw of Jamaica Plain, Mass., together with all its contents, was entirely consumed by fire on Tuesday, 2d inst. The house is said to have been furnished throughout in fine and costly style. It was unoccupied at the time, and was being cleaned for immediate occupancy. The fire originated from a defective flue. Reported insured for $2200.

The summer residence of Mr. Hartley W. Mason, at Short Sands, was broken into recently, and bedding and other articles to the value of $60 stolen therefrom. Mr. Mason offers a reward of $50 for the arrest and conviction of the thief. We have got some "old rats" here, who have made thieving their vocation in dull times for several years. They will doubtless get a dose by and by that will make them sing:

"In the prison cell I sit,
Thinking, Poultry dear, of you,
And the beauties of my home so far away
Where I stole all I could get
And oft my jacket wet
Working in the night instead of day." P.

YORK, May 8.

Officers Plaisted of York and Taylor of Portsmouth on Saturday last made an unsuccessful search for the goods stolen from Mr. Mason's residence. Three houses were searched. That public offering of $50 reward was, in the estimation of your correspondent, a decidedly wrong and unwise move on the part of Mr. Mason and his advisers, as it gave the guilty parties a good warning that somebody would hunt—and they would of course be prepared to receive "company." The goods are no doubt in York, but are probably buried or otherwise securely (for the present) secreted.

A couple who have seen their three-score years, together with ten young ladies, were baptized by Rev. Mr. Sewall, and received into the First Congregational Church as members thereof, on Sunday last. P.

Political.

If it should seem advisable and necessary, however, we trust that the convention at Cincinnati will unanimously nominate William Tecumseh Sherman, and we cannot doubt that he would respond to the voice of the country if thus unmistakably spoken. —Nashua Telegraph.

Second the motion!

Tilden has just cause to tremble, for the history of the past clearly shows that when Seymour commences to decline there is great danger threatening other candidates. —Albany Express.

Blaine and Bristow seems to be a very popular ticket in some quarters—notably in Pennsylvania and parts of this State. A good many republicans begin to believe they want both these gentlemen.—Buffalo Express.

The next President must be a man who has stood out in the sun, and who has a record of honorable public service.—Topeka Commonwealth.

Ossian Ray, Esq., of Lancaster, has been selected to preside at the coming republican State convention.

There should be nominated a candidate who, commanding the undivided support of the party, will, by the force of his own record as an honest executive officer, inspire confidence on the part of that large multitude of respectable people of all parties who will vote for the best man, independent of all party considerations. That candidate is Ben Bristow. The next strongest candidate is Blaine.—Chicago Tribune.

Gov. Hendricks has been talking with unusual freedom to a reporter of the Chicago Journal, but confined himself chiefly to remarks about the republican candidates. He thought for party reasons Bristow, as the representative of reform measures, might be the strongest candidate. Personally, he thinks Blaine is the strongest, because he represents better the impulsive spirit of the masses. He believes the contest will be aggressive on the part of the republicans, with a free raising of back issues, while the democrats will fight it out on the civil service and reform.

Senator Thurman has one chance for the St. Louis nomination, and that depends upon taking his own State into the Convention. But Ohio has a sad way of slaughtering her favorite sons, and the butcher-knives for the slaughter of Thurman are being whetted on his uncle's shin bone.—Cincinnati Commercial.

It is urged as a strong point in favor of Tilden that he never had a wife, and therefore could not, as President, be involved in unbecoming transactions by a wife's relations, as Grant has been. That's the only point made thus far in favor of Tilden. How many States would that carry?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The county conventions in Michigan seem to be equally divided between Blaine and Bristow.

The President's last message is the most popular of his Administration. The general opinion seems to be that the document gives the democratic investigators their fill of information.—N. Y. Tribune.

O. C. Moore, Esq., editor of the Nashua Telegraph, Hon. Chas. H. Burns of Wilton, and James F. Briggs, Esq., of Manchester, will probably contest with Ex-Congressman Austin F. Pike for the Congressional nomination in the second district.

—An intimate friend met James Parton a day or two after the veto of that marriage bill, and remarked with much earnestness: —"Of course you mean to get even with Gov. Rice for that veto? You're going to have your revenge?" "What would you advise me to do?" asked the illustrious biographer. "There's only one thing you can do," was the emphatic answer; "write his life.—Brooklyn Argus.

—Intoxicating music:—"Ale to the chief."

—A German has deciphered the hieroglyphic records sufficiently to prove that one of the pyramids was built 3010 years before Christ, which is 1000 years earlier than any chronological date previously established. This fixes the building of the pyramids at a period considerably before the biblical date of the deluge.

—A gentleman in this city has a pair of pantaloons which were worn by one of his ancestors a hundred years ago. They are made of home-spun cloth, except the seat, which is of thick leather. It is inferred from this that the original owner was a book agent.—Norwich Bulletin.

—An exchange asks: "What are our young men doing?" We can't answer for the rest of the country, but around here they are engaged mainly in trying to lead a nine-dollar existence on a seven-dollar salary.—Norwich Bulletin.

—"Frozen blue" is a new shade for evening silk. If trimmed with "blue blazes" the effect is very melting.

—It cost $200 to try an Indiana man who had been arrested for stealing four apples.

Republican State Convention.

A republican State convention, for the choice of ten delegates to the republican National convention, to be held at Cincinnati, June, 14, 1876, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on Wednesday, the 24th day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All republican electors, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences or previous party affiliations, who are opposed to reviving sectional issues, and desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining and enforcing all the constitutional rights of every citizen, including the full and free exercise of the right of suffrage without intimidation and without fraud; who are in favor of the continued prosecution and punishment of all official dishonesty, and of an economical administration of the Government by honest, faithful, and capable officers; who are in favor of making such reforms in government as experience may from time to time suggest; who are opposed to impairing the credit of the nation by depreciating any of its obligations, and in favor of sustaining in every way the national faith and financial honor; who hold that the common-school system is the nursery of American liberty, and should be maintained absolutely free from sectarian control; who believe that, for the promotion of those ends, the direction of the Government should continue to be confided to those who adhere to the principles of 1776, and support them as incorporated in the Constitution and the laws; and who are in favor of recognizing and strengthening the fundamental principles of National Unity in this Centennial Anniversary of the birth of the Republic, are invited to participate in the election of delegates to this convention.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday afternoon, May 23, at 4 o'clock, which all delegates are invited to attend.

A Brain-Soothing Remedy.

The wondrous organs that crowns the edifice of man is not only the seat of reflection and the home of ideality, but it is the governing centre of the nervous system. When it is overwrought, unduly excited, or affected by irregularities of those bodily organs with which it most closely sympathizes, all the nerves suffer, and the general health is impaired. The reason why Hostetter's Stomach Bitters exercise such a soothing influence upon the brain is, that they remove those digestive and bilious derangements which react injuriously upon it and that in relieving irritation or weakness of the great sympathetic nerve which connects the stomach and the brain, they beneficially affect the latter organ as well as the former. Sound sleep, clearness of mind, easy digestion and freedom from biliousness are insured by this prime regulative tonic and nervine.

Daily Chronicle.

A Lively Lighthouse.

A number of years ago, when steamboats were few and downeast coasters had all the freight and passengers they could carry, there was an old man who ran his vessel between Boston and Bangor. He was in command of a small schooner of a hundred tons, and a boy who acted as cook, steward and foremast hand. In the day time the captain would dispense with a man for a lookout, and put the wheelbarrow on instead.

They had been ten days out from Boston and had got about two-thirds of the way across from Cape Ann to Monhegan, when, night coming on and the weather looking bad, the skipper resolved to run to Portland and "get out of the wet." So placing his "man Friday" on the lookout forward, he took the wheel himself and shaped his course for Portland Lights.

After running between two and three hours the old man thought he discerned the lights a little on the weather bow. He accordingly let his vessel come up a point or two, and she headed for the light. He then began to reckon about how long it would take him to get into Portland harbor. While he was thus reckoning the time, he looked forward for the light, and to his astonishment he saw the light nearly three points on the weather bow. He chided himself for getting so careless in his steering, and put his helm down to bring his vessel head for the light. The vessel came slowly up to the wind, but the light still kept the same position. This was a poser for the captain, but still he kept jamming the helm down, in hopes to make his vessel head for the light, until at last he had his vessel into the wind and every sail shaking, and still the light was in the same position and apparently came to the wind as fast as the vessel. The captain had by this time got pretty well worked up, and letting go of the helm, he ran forward and cried out at the top of his voice to Jack asking him if he saw that light, and "what the devil was knocking it about so?" As Jack came aft the light disappeared. This was another poser for the skipper; he was certain he made Cape Elizabeth light, but no light could be seen.

By this time nearly all the passengers had been waked by the flapping of the sails and the excited tones of the captain's voice, and had gathered on deck to see what the trouble was. After learning the cause of the disturbance they all put their heads together to solve the problem of the light flying around as it did, and finally disappearing altogether; it was finally solved in this way:

Jack after being on the lookout for a couple of hours or so, concluded to light his pipe in order to pass away the time. He accordingly went below and got his pipe and went forward and sat down upon the weather end of the windlass and began to pull vigorously at his old "T. D." Soon he had a roaring fire in it, and it was this time that the captain discovered Cape Elizabeth light, as he thought. Occasionally Jack would move, and the old captain would move his helm in order to keep the vessel headed for the supposed lighthouse. When the old man found that he had been steering for Jack's pipe instead of a lighthouse, he was just about as full of expletives as a man ever was, and he got rid of a few of them in the next ten minutes. After that date Jack was never seen with his pipe in his mouth in the old captain's sight. Eventually they made the original light and got into Portland, but the old fellow never heard the last of Jack's pipe.—Camden (Me.) Herald.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can conscientiously recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and thoroughbred

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle among them. Nothing such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and your friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, since which time the sale of the Pills and their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and fully took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of recreating any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.50 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and really say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and the dose I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials so cured they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD, Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 18, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me. I send thirty it will not last. My sister has suffered from inflammation of the Bowels, pronounced incurable, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to humanity, and who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages. Yours respectfully, MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reading, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages. MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

HEZ AND HIS RIVAL.

You see we was rather rough out our way, where Hez Lane and me went, with our bit of tent and pickers, shooting-irons, and such like, meaning to make a pile of gold. We went to Washoe, and didn't get on; then we went to St. Laramie, and didn't get on there. Last we went right up into the mountains, picking our way among the stones, for Hez sez: "Look here, old hoss, let's get whar no one's been afore. If we get whar the boys are at work already, they've took the cream and we gets the skim milk. Let's you and me get the cream and let some o' the others take the skim milk."

"Good for you," I says; and we tramped on day after day till we got right up in the heart o' the mountain, where no one hadn't been afore, and it was so still and quiet as it made you quite deaf.

It was a strange, wild sort of place, like as if one o' them coons called giants, had driven a wedge into a mountain and split it, making a place for a bit of a stream to run at the bottom, and lay bare the gold we wanted to find.

"This'll do, Dab," says Hez, as we put up our bit of a tent on a pleasant green shelf in the steep valley place. "This'll do, Dab; thar's yaller gold spangling them sands and running in veins through them rocks and yaller gold in the pockets of the rock."

"Then let's call it Yaller Gulch," I says.

"Done, old hoss!" says Hez, "and Yaller Gulch it is."

We set to work next day washing in the bit of a stream, and shook hands on our luck.

"This'll do," says Hez. "We shall make a pile here. No one won't dream of hunting this out."

"Say, stranger!" says a voice as made us both jump, "Do it wash well?"

And if there warn't a long, lean, ugly, yaller-looking chap looking down at us he stood holding a mule by the bridle.
